Schenck Says Indies Should Not Be Aided

Foster Duals, Triples, Asserts U. A. Head

Financial backing should not be made available to independent producers, declared Joseph M. Schenck, United Artists head, upon arrival here from the coast. They are flooding the market with inferior product, he said, at a time when over-production already exists and are fostering double and triple billing.

Schenck declared exhibitors should quit doubles and triples for their own eventual benefit, since too much show saturates patrons and results in less frequent trips to theatres.

"One bad feature is bad enough," he said; "two bad ones is worse." "Only good pictures are making money," he declared, "but if you show a good one with a bad one, the in-

Goetz Says Indies Are In Good Shape

Independent producers with whom Consolidated Film Industries deals—Monogram, Liberty and Mascot—are in good condition, declared Ben Goetz, vice-president, on his arrival here from the coast. Their outlook will continue favorable as long as double and triple featuring continues, he said.

Goetz said he new nothing of new independent financing plans. He will remain in the east for a week or 10 days.

Revolution Film in Work from Mentone

"The World in Revolt," a full-length feature will be released by Mentone Prod. in April, according to E. M. Glucksman, president of the company. The feature, which is now being cut and edited, was written by Dr. Emil Lengyel, well known writer on politics and economics.

The musical setting will be fur-

British Quota Calls for 25 More Features

American film companies operating in Britain will be required to produce or acquire approximately 25 more British-made pictures this year than last, under the two and one-half per cent film quota increase which went into effect for distributors in Britain yesterday.

Approximately 90 features were either produced by American companies in Britain last year or by British producers for the American concerns distributing in Britain. This year's increased quota schedule will boost the number to approximately 115 pictures, it is estimated.

The British quota schedule for for-

20th to Begin Stage Production in August

Twentieth Century has formed an alliance with A. H. Woods to present a play on Broadway next season. It will be an English adaptation by Jessie Ernst of "The Red Cat," by Rudolph Lothar and Hans Adler, which will be done in August. The play will be the first of a series planned for Broadway production by the company.

Even in Egypt

Kansas City, April 1.—Stanley Schwartz, owner of the suburban Tivoli, just returned from abroad, was surprised to find that dual bills had taken hold even in Egypt. He is displaying a program of the large Metropole in Cairo showing a bill consisting of "Bondage" and "Sailor's Luck," two Fox pictures of last season, at a price scale the equivalent of 45c-55c-65c.

"And the most we can get for doubles in Kansas City is 25 cents," he complains.

Bareford and Rubin Before Review Board

Harold S. Bareford of Warners and J. Robert Rubin of M-G-M left yesterday for Washington where they will represent Code Authority at today's hearing on the film code before the National Recovery Review Board.

So far as could be learned over the week-end no sales executives or other representatives of the industry, other than the two Code Authority alternates, were going to Washington in response to the review board's "request" for their testimony in connec-

Hope Held for Definite Plan Before Selling Next Season

Renewed efforts to establish a 20-cent minimum admission for new season's product are under discussion by a number of leading distribution companies and are expected to materialize in definite proposals with the drafting of new season contract forms in advance of this year's sales meetings, it was learned Saturday.

Some current speculation centers on whether or not concerted action by distributors on including minimum admission clauses in new season contracts would be permitted under the National Industrial Recovery Act under those provisions relaxing anti-trust laws for industries under NRA codes. The industry code, itself, neither prohibits nor authorizes the inclusion of minimum admission clauses in contracts. Some viewpoints hold that concerted distributor action might be approved on the ground that the maintenance of a 20-cent minimum

Loew Head Buyer; Vogel on Operation

David M. Loew, who until now has been chief film buyer of the Greater New York end of the circuit which his father founded, is now head buyer for the entire Loew chain, thereby taking over out-of-town purchases made to date by Joe Vogel.

The latter, long a protegee of E. A. Schiller, will confine his activities to operation and will assume more of the duties handled by Schiller prior to his illness. These concern theatres out of the city. Operation of the metropolitan circuit are largely in the hands of Charles C. Moskowitz, young in years but a veteran in the Loew executive roster.

Tri-State and Gulf Conventions All Set

MEMPHIS, April 1.—The Tri-States M.P.T.O. two-day convention got under way here today and will continue through tomorrow with Ed Kuykendall, M. A. Lightman, David Palfryman and Red Kann listed among the speakers.

Insiders' Outlook

Bristol, Va., April 1.

SO Joe Schenck would rule out financing of all independents because they flooded the market with inferior product and foster double and triple features! Schenck forgets the day when he was an independent producer for First National, when Louis B. Mayer made the Anita Stewart stuff for the same company, when Norma Shearer appeared in independent pictures; when Hunt Stromberg, having left Tom Ince and pressagentry, was an independent on his own; when Harry Rapf made "School Days" on a button and part of a shoe-string for the Warners. . . .

The instances are legion, the proof substantial that many of those who walk in the high-powered and rarefied executive circle in which Schenck moves today had their beginnings among the very lowly that the U. A. president would rule off the checkerboard if he had his way. He will not, it is almost superfluous to point out. Amusing and contradictory is his attitude on double features. They're the blot on the industry's scutcheon; they should be wiped out, Schenck goes on, yet admitting his company will sell along those lines if other distributors continue to do so. The revenue has nothing at all to do with the case, naturally. . . .

Was last week's Code Authority ballot on 10 per cent cancellations made to order as a reply to those code critics who complain Campi is "producer dominated"? Snipers and those sincerely interested would like to know. Every affiliated company representative on Code Authority, together with Universal and Columbia, registered public objection to Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt's ruling that the cancellation provision of the code was retroactive to Dec. 7, at the time the ruling was announced to Code Authority, Feb. 27. . . .

Shortly thereafter it was determined by inquiries aimed at every large distribution company that, while the objections would stand, the cancellation privileges would be granted to every eligible applicant. So it was recorded in the news columns on March 10. On March 29, Code Authority put to a vote the question of accepting the Rosenblatt cancellations ruling. The result was an affirmative ballot of eight for and two against, Warner and Paramount representatives voting in the negative although indications have been noised about that both companies, by individual policy, would grant the cancellations in accordance with the ruling. . . .

Some critics of the code have persistently maintained that Code Authority is made up of only two genuine independents—W. Ray Johnston of Monogram and Nathan Yamins of Allied States, and that, in consequence, any genuine test of voting power on an important issue would result in defeat for independent interests by a vote of eight to two. The result of the cancellations vote—certainly an important issue—was exactly the reverse of the critics' forecasts. . . .

Practically every member of the protective committee tied in with Fox Metropolitan Playhouses has been writing letters to deny Warners or Walter Reade

R. H. COCHRANE, Universal vice-president, gangplanked it to Bermuda Saturday in search of sunshine. He has been suffering from a cold for weeks.

ETHEL MERMAN will reach New York tomorrow from the coast. She has just finished work in "We're Not Dressing" for Paramount.

THORNE SMITH's "Night Life of the Gods" has been bought by Universal, and an option has been taken on his "Topper."

WALLACE SMITH's "The Captain Hates the Sea" has been sold to Columbia. LEWIS MILESTONE will direct.

SAM WARSHAWSKY's "A Swell Job" will be presented at the Sutton Theatre by the Sutton Players, starting today.

MARK HANN, former sales manager for Paramount in India and China, is helping A. P. WAXMAN in handling the N. V. A. drive.

EDNA BEST is aboard the Bremen on her way to England, where she will spend a few weeks before returning to Hollywood.

EDWARD, SHELDON's and RUTH DONNELLY's "Romance for Sale" has been sold to Fox.

BOGART ROGERS' and FRANK DAZEY's story, "Twenty Hours by Air," has been bought by Paramount.

Musicians' Local Revolts

Despite an official ruling from the American Federation of Musicians that a recent poll of Local 806 in favor of local autonomy has no standing, members of the local have called a meeting tonight at 210 East 86th St. to hear a report on new by-laws. A special election of officers has been called for April 30.

Discussion Renewed On 20¢ Minimum

admission benefited the entire industry and in so doing aided it in meeting increased costs under NRA.

If concerted action is prohibited, it is said, distributors still have several avenues open to them for individual action. One, of course, is the addition of a 20-cent minimum admission clause to the standard contract form. Others include requests to individual exhibitors to maintain the designated minimum admission without embodying it in the contract, or urging all exhibitors in single territories to agree among themselves to maintain it. In situations where 10-cent admissions are just getting a foothold or where the possibilities of exhibitors agreeing among themselves to maintain the higher scale are remote several leading distributors indicate that they might elect not to sell at all to theatres which habitually charge less than the 20-cent minimum.

Rise of 10-Centers Reported

Spurring on the efforts to increase the minimum admission scale is a marked increase everywhere in the number of 10-cent admission houses, it is said. Moreover, with generally improving business conditions, many distributors feel that a 20-cent minimum would meet practically no resistance from the public. Conditions a year ago made the adoption of 20-cent minimums almost impossible and plans for adopting them failed to get beyond the discussion stage.

If the move materializes with next season's product it may result in boosting first run admissions in many situations, it is believed. First run and pre-release houses are the first to benefit from increased scales by the subsequents and if a general 20-cent minimum could be maintained, the advance runs might be enabled to boost their scales, it is pointed out.

Berkowitz, Harry Thomas, Arthur Bromberg, Nat Lefton, Floyd St. John, Edward Golden, Claude Ezell and Oscar Hanson.

The annual meeting of stockholders will start at 2:30 in the afternoon and budgeting and other committees will be named. A meeting of the board of directors will be held in the evening.

Franchise holders and New York and coast executives will discuss 1934-35 product Thursday morning and afternoon. There will be a screening of "City Limits" at 11 P. M. Friday morning and afternoon will be devoted to a discussion of executive policy by W. Ray Johnston, and talks on product by Carr and Ostrow, followed by sales and advertising talks by Golden and Finney. Unfinished business will be cleared up Saturday morning. Herbert Ebenstein will talk on group insurance Saturday afternoon and John C. Flinn will discuss the Code Authority. The annual banquet will be held Saturday night with Louis Nizer as toastmaster.

Trem Carr, vice-president in charge of the company's production, arrived from Hollywood Saturday morning.

the ordinances is understood to be ready for presentation to the City Council at a meeting shortly following the return to the city of Mayor Edward J. Kelly, who is due in tomorrow from a brief vacation.

Sentiment against the censorship ordinances was marshalled by a united front of the five newsreels here and supported by every major local newspaper. An issue was made of newsreel censorship when Mayor Kelly's police censor board recently banned showings of all newsreel shots of the Socialist rioting in Vienna. It developed later that the police censors had not seen the banned shots at the time the order was issued, and after viewing them when newsreels protested the order, found nothing objectionable in them and approved their showing.

Columbia Starting New Stock Company

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—Columbia is starting a stock company of 12 which will be kept busy throughout the year, according to the plan.

Those signed thus far are: Richard Heming, Arthur Rankin, Geneva Mitchell and Patricia Caron. William Perlberg, studio casting director, is in charge.

K. C. Returns West Film

KANSAS CITY, April 1.—"She Done Him Wrong" gets a return showing downtown Easter week at the Publix Royal. The original downtown run was at the Publix Newman more than a year ago. It is figured many downtown regulars failed to see Mae West's initial vehicle and that it should draw well, despite the fact it has had repeat runs in the neighborhoods.

London Films has been newly financed by British and African capital, Ericksen said, and Fairbanks' contribution will represent United Artists' British quota. The first will be further adventures of Don Juan, as yet untitled. It will be made entirely in Spain. Other pictures will be made in other parts of Europe, but under the London Films banner. In the meantime Fairbanks will return to this country at intervals for American pictures.

very best theatre management can be had only through personal contacts and that mechanical or robot operation can never be successful," he says.

"The real operation of a theatre requires a sensitive touch. It thrives on temperament. As a matter of fact, I would liken the operation of a theatre more or less to the work of an artist painting a picture, or any creative work for that matter.

"I do believe that much good can be derived through a central organization affiliated with group operations in various territories. I refer only to that part of theatre operation which is strictly mechanical and which lends itself to collective bargaining, etc. Everything else pertaining to the actual operation should be left to local management, or at least to groups not so big, but what they can be supervised by competent men in the field, without adding too much overhead to accomplish this purpose."

the Gulf States Theatre Owners' Ass'n. set for a start here on Tuesday will be the presence in the city of a large number of M.P.T.O.A. delegates en route to the coast. The two-day session will be closed with a banquet Wednesday night, and a street fair will be one of the attractions.

Flood of Invitations

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—Ben Berinstein is being snowed under with invitations to entertain M.P.T.O.A. conventioners. Among those he has accepted is one to have the Wampas "baby stars" appear at the annual banquet in a group.

Coast Holds "Wonder"

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—"Wonder Bar" is being held over for a third week at both Warners' Hollywood and Downtown. The film has broken house records established at both houses by "42nd Street," coming in $1,500 ahead of the latter for a similar playing time at the Downtown.

John Crawford Expands

Procedure at the scheduled hearing today, as indicated by Lowell Mason, counsel for the review board, will include a private conference with the Code Authority representatives which will be followed by a public hearing at which they will be asked to testify. Two days of hearings have already been given over by the board to testimony of critics of the code.

Awaits Acceptance Of Joint Secretary

MILWAUKEE, April 1.—Confirmation of the recommendation for joint secretary made by the clearance and zoning and grievance boards at a joint meeting here is being awaited by local members. All members were on hand for the meeting with the exception of H. J. Fitzgerald, Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc., who is vacationing in Florida and who was represented by Charles Loewenberg, director of advertising for Wisconsin Amusement. It is planned to hold all code meetings at the Hotel Schroeder here.

N. O. Raise Is Ordered

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—Order have been issued by the Regional Labor Board to the Liberty requiring it to raise operators' wages from the second run figure of $46.66 to $65, the first run scale, with back pay to January when the house signed a second run contract with the operators' union. It was contended that the house has run first run films almost from the start of the agreement.

More Gov't Men for 'C.A.'

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Additional government representatives on Code Authority are in prospect as result of Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's announcement yesterday that labor and consumer representatives would be appointed for every coded industry as soon as he had names of qualified candidates.

To Repair Fox House

KANSAS CITY, April 1.—Fox Midwest's Star at Nevada, Mo., will be closed two months for repairs, following a recent fire which destroyed the rear section of the building housing dressing rooms, storerooms and equipment, and damaged the stage and roof. Damage was estimated at $6,000. The blaze originated in an adjoining apartment house.

H. B. Franklin Back

Harold B. Franklin arrived from the coast Saturday after a 10 days' stay in Hollywood. He plans to leave for London, probably late this week, in connection with plans for bringing current London stage plays to Broadway.

"Harum" Portland Smash at $12,000

PORTLAND, April 1.—Almost two and half times the normal intake of the Paramount was registered by "David Harum" during an extended nine-day run. The take was $12,000. Average is $5,000. "Once to Every Woman" on the double bill also helped. It was the best draw of the season thus far. "Mystery of Mr. X" and "Journal of Crime" secured but $300 over the usual average of $6,000.

First run total was $30,200. Average is $23,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 22:

"MYSTERY OF MR. X" (M-G-M)
"JOURNAL OF CRIME" (Warners)

"Scandals" $4,400 Draw in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 1.—"George White's Scandals" was the only attraction in town to pass par figures last week. It reached $4,400 at the Midwest.

Spring weather apparently had something to do with the general falling off. The $4,700 take of "Death Takes a Holiday" at the Criterion was down by $300.

Total first run business was $13,400. Average is $13,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 24:

"GEORGE WHIE'S SCANDALS" (Fox)

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Upper World"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—Aimed at the masses, combining melodrama with the uppercrust craving to get back to human things and blending a heart-tingling story with action, "Upper World" fashions an entertainment with plenty of appeal.

Railroad tycoon, Warren William, engaged in putting over a big merger, finds solace in his work, and his son, Dickie Moore, until he fishes a show girl (Ginger Rogers) out of the river. With his wife (Mary Astor) busy making a social success, William finds surcease with Ginger.

Ginger's sweetie, J. Carrol Naish, seeing easy money, importunes her to shake down William. Ginger refuses. William, coming to her apartment, is met by Naish, who makes his demands and in heated argument, Naish kills Ginger and William kills Naish.

At a swank socialite party, on the eve of his consummation of the Transcontinental Railroad merger, just before sailing for Europe, reporters rush in and claim the finger prints on the gun are identical with the prints of William. The denouement, answering the question, "Can a wealthy man get away with murder?" is satisfactory, if not startling, and will satisfy patrons. William, Miss Rogers, Miss Astor and Dickie Moore are restrained and confident in sympathetic parts. Naish, menace, is especially apt and convincing. Sidney Toler, William's nemesis, is effective in carrying the nub of the plot. Andy Devine, as William's chauffeur, does a swell comedy role with Ferdinand Gottschalk giving his usual polished performance. Miss Rogers sings one song and gives it that certain something.

Production values blend lavish eye appeal with varied locales. Director Del Ruth imbues the production with feeling and fluidity.

The title has box-office draught.

"I'll Tell the World"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—"I'll Tell the World," a fluffy, fantastic comedy of the mythical kingdom type, heads right down Lee Tracy's alley and he handles it like a master.

The yarn deals with Tracy, a star reporter for a news syndicate, and a member of a royal family. While sleuthing about Europe he falls in love with Gloria Stuart, a princess in disguise, whom an archduke is determined to enthrone in her country after she has spent most of her life in America incognito.

After taking advantage of his acquaintance with Miss Stuart to scoop Roger Pryor, an opposition reporter, on the story, Tracy persuades Miss Stuart to return to her country against her wishes, only to discover that Lawrence Grant, former prime minister, has plotted to kill her as she crosses the frontier in order to place himself in power. The yarn unwinds Tracy's adventures in rescuing Miss Stuart and beating Pryor to the phone every time news breaks anent the situation.

Edward Sedgewick guided the film into the superior comedy class. The cast contributes fine support, especially Pryor, who comes through with flying colors as a "smarty" type. It is a good laugh picture.

"The Trumpet Blows"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—"The Trumpet Blows," reminiscent of "Blood and Sand," lacks the necessary punch. Manuel (George Raft) returns to Mexico, after being educated in the United States, to the ranch of his brother, Pancho Montez, alias Pancho Gomez (Adolphe Menjou), a bandit rancher. Raft falls in love with Frances Drake, a dancer.

Finding that his brother also loves her, Raft runs away and becomes a matador, walks the path of glory until he receives his first superficial wound and then loses his courage. Spurred on by Miss Drake and Menjou, he consents to fight again if Menjou will declare himself in the ring as Gomez, for whom the police are searching. Although wounded again, Raft kills the bull, with Menjou discovered in the ring by the police who, unable to identify him positively, release him, and the three—Raft, Miss Drake and Menjou—return to the latter's ranch. The ending indicates that Raft wins Miss Drake.

Raft's and Menjou's performances are somewhat nullified by the spotty story. Katherine DeMille is outstanding as a servant girl. Miss Drake shows promise. Excellent scenes in the bull ring do much to pull up the film. Stephen Roberts' direction uneven.

British Quota Calls for 25 More Features

eign distributors operating in that country increased yesterday from 15 per cent to 17½ per cent. The figure represents the per cent of total footage released by the foreign distributor in Britain which must be of British origin. The film quota law went into effect April 1, 1928, and expires March 31, 1938. The schedule of quota percentages is fixed for each year ending March 31. It began in 1928 at seven and one-half per cent, which meant that an American company releasing 50 to 60 pictures had to add to its British release schedule four or five pictures made in that country.

In 1930, the quota schedule increased to 10 per cent and remained at that figure for 1931. It increased to 12½ per cent in 1932, and to 15 per cent last year. It will remain at 17½ per cent this year and next, but in 1936 it jumps to the maximum, 20 per cent, where the schedule remains until March 31, 1938, the date on which the British Films Act expires.

The quota schedule for exhibitors in Britain changes on Sept. 30 of each year. This year the exhibitors' schedule, too, increases two and one-half per cent, which will make it 15 per cent. It began in 1928 at five per cent, but attains a maximum of 20 per cent in 1936. Applied to exhibition, the schedule means that, beginning next Sept. 30, at least 15 per cent of the footage exhibited in all theatres in Britain will have to be British-made.

Transfer of Lease Upheld in Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, April 1.—The Court of Appeals has affirmed a judgment of the Jefferson Circuit Court upholding the validity of an assignment of a lease made by the Theatre Realty Corp., involving the old St. Joseph Hospital property in Louisville.

Doctor Alexander, a wealthy citizen of Woodford County, during the early part of 1928, negotiated with Chambers and Jones, owners of the hospital property, for its purchase with the understanding that the Theatre Realty Corp., organized by Chambers, Jones and others, would take a long lease.

When the Theatre Realty Corp. began to lose money on the lease it was alleged they attempted to get a rent reduction from Doctor Alexander's executors, without success. They then sold the lease to the Mercantile Realty Co., it is alleged, for $250 and claimed they were released thereby from any further obligations.

Midwest Managers Shift

KANSAS CITY, April 1.—Managerial shift of Stanley Chambers from the Grand, Topeka, to the Uptown, Kansas City, has caused a transfer by Fox Midwest of C. C. Murray from the Palace, Wichita, to Chambers' old post. William Souttar, from Hutchinson, Kan., has replaced Murray.

Hepburn Nabs High Take In Frisco Week

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—The Golden Gate here used the Academy award to Katharine Hepburn for plenty of publicity with the showing of "Spitfire." The picture grossed $16,000, which is $3,000 over average, and went into a second week.

Another high on the street was the Orpheum, which grabbed $13,000, or $4,000 above normal, with "Love Birds" and the Mills Brothers on the stage. "Palooka" at the United Artists had $9,500, which is $1,500 over average.

Total first run business was $81,500. Average is $78,000.

"Can't Buy" Pulls Omaha Top, $5,750

OMAHA, April 1.—Aided by a Hearst campaign in the Bee-News, "You Can't Buy Everything" gave the World the week's best showing at $5,750. The May Robson picture was supported by "Sleepers East."

Duals all over town, except the Paramount which had "The Student Prince" tab on the stage along with "By Candlelight." Business was fierce despite a price slash to 40 cents in the middle of the week. Gross was about $7,000.

The Orpheum had an average week with "Hi Nellie" and "This Side of Heaven." The take was $7,250. The Brandeis was in the red, with "Mandalay" and "Bedside" getting about $4,100.

Total first run business was $24,100. Average is $25,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 22:

"MANDALAY" (F.N.)
"BEDSIDE" (F.N.)

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Unknown Blonde"

(Majestic)

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—Behind the general idea of exposing the divorce co-respondent racket herein dramatized is enough material for exploitation of "sensational" character. The picture reveals how divorces are arranged to the taste of the disgruntled husband or wife. There is nothing unusually daring or "smutty" in the film, but then again it is not a picture for children.

Some newspapers throughout the country are running a series of articles on the co-respondent divorce expose which fits right in with the film angle of it. In addition to exploitation, name value includes Edward Arnold, Dorothy Revier, Helen Jerome Eddy, John Miljan, Arletta Duncan, Barry Norton, Walter Catlett, Leila Bennett, Barbara Barondess, Esther Muir, Claude Gillingwater and Franklyn Pangborn. Hobart Henley directed.

The story concerns the marital and financial troubles of Arnold and his wife, Miss Revier, whose wanton extravagances lead her husband to take on divorce cases against his will. She frames him into a divorce so that she can marry Miljan for his money. Eventually Arnold has the pleasure of framing her so that Miljan can get a divorce.

Arnold has been making considerable headway in his new line, but sacrifices everything to save his daughter, Miss Duncan, from being tricked into a divorce by Norton's parents. He happens to be the lawyer on the case for the plaintiff, not knowing until it is too late that his daughter is to be the innocent victim.

"Finishing School"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—Aimed at matinee business, "Finishing School" is a tender, touching film with an appeal primarily feminine. It has enough curiosity-arousing values, also, to make modern boys want to know what goes on behind the doors of a fashionable girls' school.

Frances Dee, modest society bud placed in an exclusive school by her mother (Billie Burke), meets pert, worldly Ginger Rogers, her roommate. In the school Miss Dee finds good-natured hypocrisy, evasion and the spirit of "do what you want, only don't get caught." On a clandestine week-end party a waiter (Bruce Cabot) intercedes for Miss Dee when an All-American halfback tries to get fresh. A romance develops between Cabot and Miss Dee, with Cabot barred from the snob school's social functions.

The real menace is the school itself, symbolizing a crushing, heartless suppression, personalized by the matron, Beulah Bondi.

Cabot and Miss Dee are attractive screen sweethearts. Miss Rogers nearly steals the show by her wise nonchalance. John Halliday, Miss Dee's father, and Irene Franklin as a pseudo aunt are fine in small parts.

Dual direction by Wanda Tuchock and George Nicholls, Jr., mixes the brilliant with the ordinary. The film is interesting and arresting, giving the lowdown and insight to lure the inquisitive and should more than satisfy as a program release.

"All Men Are Enemies"

(Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—Beautiful sets and photography are the keynote of this production with a romantically inclined story for the ladies. Its dearth of names for the American market is shrewdly balanced by the inclusion of British players for overseas response. The newcomer, Hugh Williams, English stage star, makes his American debut in the lead. His enunciation is broad, often difficult to understand, while his emotional reactions are artistically repressed.

The story is in a placid mood and a quiet tempo. Williams, an artist, irked by business routine in London, breaks away and goes to Italy, where he falls in love with Helen Twelvetees. Separated by the war, their letters are intercepted, each losing track of the other. Thinking Miss Twelvetees has gone, Williams is inveigled into marrying Mona Barrie. Unhappy, he separates from her, goes to Italy and finds Miss Twelvetees.

With Williams uncertain as a drawing card, Miss Twelvetees is the top box-office name, staging a nice comeback. Herbert Mundin, Una O'Connor, Henry Stephenson, Halliwell Hobbes and Matt Moore give good support. George Fitzmaurice directed. The title, which has no relation to the action, may help somewhat, but the lackadaisical unfolding of the plot holds this to the program category.

have made a bid for what's left of the metropolitan circuit. The protests seem a bit too persistent. After all, it's all up to the Federal court. If someone bounces in with a very sweet deal—one that will ring pleasantly in the ears that belong to the members of that selfsame protective committee—what would you think might happen? You're right. . . .

The Educational-Fox deal has been submitted to some dry cleaning with less spot before the eyes on all sides. Why the cleaning? It goes back to that lightning-like arrangement which put the former's distribution through the latter in one week-end. The general understanding which went afloat concurrently with the setup was that Educational would make whatever shorts Fox wanted to handle. Only that didn't happen. Now, following some meetings, the inside has it Educational will be what it was slated to be originally, sans newsreel, and that this goes even for the Magic Carpet series, if next season is to have one. . . .

Written on the train window: That Harold B. Franklin has been angling with RKO, his former love, for a distribution contract. J. R. McDonough is reported to have told him, in effect: "Sure, we'll release, but we want to take a look first." Now, there you have an obstacle. . . . That "Frankie and Johnnie," Chester Erskin-produced and Consolidated-financed, may end up in McDonough's favorite company, as well. . . . That Loew's are lending serious thought to a one-theatre invasion of China. Shanghai would be the spot. Harry Moskowitz, head of the construction department and brother of Charlie, is expected to look over the ground. . . .

Bang-up conventions, that's the reputation those Tri-States boys have gathered for themselves. We look in on that and on Memphis Monday, go Pullman into New Orleans for a day at the Gulf States pow-wow and then to the coast for the M.P.T.O.A. convention, three issues of the Daily with publishing roots temporarily sunk in California soil and a more or less minute study of what happens to exhibitors in Hollywood and even in reverse. It ought to be good. . . .

Making Industrials

Joe Rothman of Caravel Studios has finished a series of sound films for industrial concerns, the latest being one for Goodrich Tire. A feature for Socony-Vacuum is in the offing.

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, April 1.—Tale from Barker L. B. WILSON's radio station WCKY, located at Covington, Ky., across the river from here, regaled the barkers at last week's meeting. MAURICE THOMPSON, studio director, acted as M.C. MURDOCK WILLIAMS, piano stylist, DIXIE DALE and the THREE MARTIN SISTERS, vocalists, provided the harmony. EDWARD T. DIXON, local member of the State Liquor Control Board, and TAY BROWN, noted football star, and coach at the University of Cincinnati, gave interesting talks.

CHARLES PALMER is the first applicant to be elected to membership under the new classification of non-active resident members, recently inaugurated.

WILLIAM DODDS, second in command at the RKO Albee, is to become party of the second part to a matrimonial contract in June, so 'tis whispered. MARGARET SCHNEIDER is the party of the first part.

KARL ROHS, operating the theatre which bears his name at Cynthiana, Ky., is another barker destined to say "I do" in the not far distant future. GERTRUDE HUMMELL, local girl, will accompany him down the aisle.

Arrangements are being made to hold a session of "night court" in the club rooms on some Saturday soon. BARKERS EDWARD T. DIXON, former law court judge, ABE LIPP and CHARLIE WEIGEL, attorneys, will participate.

GEORGE W. EDDLEMAN is the new steward of Tent No. 3. He's an old-timer at the game, having shaken 'em up for more than 30 years.

W. F. RODGERS, general sales manager of M-G-M, here from New York, was a visitor to the club rooms in company with ED BOOTH, local manager.

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, April 1.—A capacity crowd attended the club's regular luncheon meeting, with BENNY RUBIN, headliner on the RKO Palace vaudeville bill, as guest of honor.

NAT WOLF, Warner theatre zone manager, and SID DANNENBERG, in charge of publicity and exploitation, were "kings for the day." They provided the entertainment consisting of MANNY LANDERS' orchestra and several acts from the Roxy Theatre burlesque show.

BOB MENCHES, president of the Akron Exhibitors Ass'n, brought his gang from Akron for the festivities.

J. E. FONTAINE, club president, has negotiated for additional space, the four-week-old club having already outgrown its original quarters. The new space will be used for ping pong tables.

BILL WATSON and CHARLES E. DOTY of the Hippodrome will wear the regal crowns for Monday's luncheon.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, April 1.—A "big time" and many surprises are promised for the housewarming today when the doors of the club quarters will be officially thrown open on the fourth floor of the Muehlebach Hotel. The layout comprises three rooms, formerly occupied by the Rotary Club. Renovations and changes, plus installation of a bar, are being rushed. The housing committee recommended the Muehlebach after extensive investigation of all possible facilities.

membership pins and cards which were handed out by Chief Barker FRANK HENSLEY.

"Kings for the Day" PAUL LA-ROCHE and STANLEY CHAMBERS procured Dr. J. H. WIENER, former coronor's chemist, as the guest speaker at the last meeting. His subject, "Chemistry as a Policeman," the doctor related how the chemical sleuths track down puzzling elements of suicide and murder.

Weekly luncheon meetings, it has been decided, will be at the Muehlebach on Monday, serving starting promptly at 12 bells in the cafe.

Something different in the way of luncheon arrangements will be tested during April. Instead of two "kings for the day," the "kings" will be chosen from individual companies, with as many kings as there are members from that firm. Thus, April 2 is "Erpi Day," April 9 "Paramount Day," April 16 "Fox Day," April 23 "Dubinsky Day." Larger representation and bigger and better ideas are expected to result.

Chief Barker HENSLEY, First Assistant Chief Barker ARTHUR COLE, as well as other officers and the canvassmen, say the turnout at the luncheons has been very gratifying.

Recent "kings" have been FINTON JONES, GEORGE BAKER and ERWIN DODSON, LEO FINKELSTEIN and DON DAVIS, HARRY TAYLOR and BILL WAGNER.

By-laws committee has completed its work and a state charter of incorporation will be applied for at Jefferson City. The committee comprised ARTHUR COLE, chairman; IRWIN DUBINSKY, CHARLES E. SHAFER and Attorney ELLIOTT H. JONES, who advised on the legal angles.

Barker L. J. MCCARTHY, Fox Midwest district manager, called his managers to Excelsior Springs for a two-day "pep" meeting. New product and campaigns were on the agenda.

Barker RALPH C. LEBEAU, Paramount district manager, shook the dust of Film Row for a couple of days in Texas.

Members of the Women's City Club motion picture committee were hosts to BARKERS COLE, BARKER, CHAMBERS and MUCHMORE at an annual "ap-

Looking 'Em Over

"The Countess of Monte Cristo"

(Universal)

Hollywood extras, two in particular, have a little field day of their own in this story, which, of course, is too good to be true, but good enough to be entertaining. It has Fay Wray, an extra, being given the gate by her boy friend reporter when he loses his job. While on the lot made up for the part of the countess of Monte Cristo, Miss Wray, accompanied by Patsy Kelly, who acts as the maid, runs off with the studio car to a little Austrian town. She is accepted as the real countess.

Here she becomes intrigued by the suave Paul Lukas but it is Reginald Owen, a clever thief, who pulls a fast one on the hotel which subsequently benefits Miss Wray to the tune of a complete new wardrobe and quite a little money. Both fall for the heroine and when the two men meet, Lukas forces Owen to leave the country or face arrest. As a result of the threat, Owen notifies the police of the identity of Lukas. Rather than embarrass the girl, Lukas gives himself up. It turns out that there has been a large reward for his capture, Lukas having been a notorious criminal who successfully eluded the police for 10 years.

Miss Wray returns to her home and tells Page of the incident. He gets a scoop on the yarn, gets his job back on the paper and the heroine is given a nice long-term contract by the studio.

"Love Past Thirty"

(Monarch)

"Love Past Thirty" succeeds in interesting moderately in spite of the handicap of an antiquated plot and its somewhat old-fashioned air. As its central character it has a woman getting on in years who has given herself completely to the care of her widowed brother's household. This role is played passably well by Eileen Pringle.

The film picks up interest when Miss Pringle, about to lose to her pretty niece (Phyllis Barry) the sweetheart of her girlhood (Theodore von Eltz), who has come to visit the home town after 16 years, decides to kick over the traces and show the hussy and the world she is not the old maid they think her. The transformation wins back von Eltz, who comes to the realization he cannot keep up with the pace set by youth. Miss Barry also comes to her senses and makes up with her boy friend, who has been eating his heart out over the girl's romance with the older man.

There is a homey touch about the production that may help it along. The cast, furthermore, has a number of names that are pretty good box-office. The players, in addition to those mentioned, include Ben Hall, Pat O'Malley, Gaylord Pendleton, Gertrude Messinger, Mary Carr, Robert Frazer, John Marston and Virginia Sales. Vin Moore directed.

Loew's Won't Operate Poli Until Autumn

Sagal Expected to Stay Pending Change

Operation of the 18 Poli New England houses will not be taken over by Loew until the Fall, according to present plans, it was stated yesterday. Loew's has had control of the circuit since early in the season, but is planning to delay installation of Loew management until the summer is over.

Louis M. Sagal, who is operating the houses now and has been since the resignation of Harry C. Arthur about a year ago, will in all probability continue to operate the houses.

Hecht-MacArthur to Produce in the East

Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, prominent screen and stage writers, will enter production in the east and may be backed by Eastern Service Studio, it was learned yesterday.

Hecht and MacArthur will write their own stories, and cast, direct and produce them, it is said. Captain G. McL. Baynes, head of Eastern Service Studio, declined to comment on the Hecht-MacArthur plans. It is understood that the initial production will be backed by Eastern Service and made at the Astoria studio.

Warner Scale In St. Louis Stirs Up Row

Price War Threatened— MPTO Files Protest

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—What many regard as the opening of a new price war here has developed as a result of the 10c-25c-40c scale at which Warners have opened "Wonder Bar" at the Shubert-Rialto. The 25 cents applies to 6 o'clock and the 40 cents evening, with 10 cents for children.

Many neighborhood houses charge these scales for subsequent runs, it is claimed. Following a meeting of the M.P.T.O., Fred Wehrenberg wired protests to Joseph Bernhard, head of Warners' theatres, and to Gradwell Sears, southern and western sales manager for Warners.

In the first run field Fox and Loew's State charge 15 cents for children, and the adult scale is 25 cents to 2

Bondholders Favor New St. Louis Plan

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—A committee representing the holders of $848,000 in second mortgage bonds on the Ambassador, Grand Central and Missouri theatre properties has sent out letters to the holders of such bonds approving the proposed plan for the reorganization of the theatres.

The second mortgage bonds committee is headed by William T. Nardin. Under the proposed plan, second mortgage bonds would be replaced by stock in two new companies to be formed by Allen L. Snyder, Harry Koplar, et al. In all 25 per cent of the stock in the two corporations would go to the second mortgage bondholders.

These bonds were guaranteed by the city of St. Louis.

Holy Week Business Is Spotty In Some of Keys

Business was spotty in a number of key cities due to Holy Week and a tendency to hold back big pictures, but in isolated instances grosses were well over normal. Detroit was one of the latter. Montreal and Minneapolis and St. Paul also held up, but Pittsburgh and Providence went into the throes of a slump, and Washington fell off.

Praises Trade Press

Memphis, April 2.—"We need the trade papers badly and must encourage them by urging exhibitors to read them. Without the trade press it would have been impossible for us to have kept thousands of exhibitors who didn't get to Washington advised on what was going on with the code," Ed Kuykendall told the Tri-State exhibitor convention today.

"The only intelligent way to keep in touch is through constant allegiance to the trade papers, for you must remember success in local operation depends on success in national operation."

Hold Decision Legalizes 20¢ Minimum Scale

The fixing of a 20-cent minimum admission, either by contract provision or other means, was held by sales executives queried yesterday to have been given legal authorization by the ruling handed down Saturday by Judge John Knox in U. S. District Court here which upheld price fixing under the NRA code for the cleaning and dyeing industry.

It is pointed out that provisions for establishing minimum admissions are present in the film code by virtue of their inclusion in the standard license.

Call Sounded By Kuykendall To Halt Labor

Business in Union Grip, He Tells Tri-States

By RED KANN

MEMPHIS, April 2.—Declaring organized labor cannot be permitted to organize new unions where none now exist unless exhibitors want them, Ed Kuykendall threw down the gage of battle today and promised the Tri-States convention a way will be found to prevent labor from running the business. Approximately 700 I. A. T. S. E. organizers recently were let loose throughout the country to form new unions and as many more are about to go forth, he stated, adding it looked like war to him.

Kuykendall's speech was the highlight of the two-day convention, which MEMPHIS, April 2.—"Don't expect too much from the code. The best that can be said for it is that it is temporary. For years distributors' and exhibitors' troubles have been wracking the industry. Code Authority to report on the Hollywood situation.

The survey of the production, distribution and exhibition fields follows a request by President Roosevelt to all industries for a 30-hour week and increased salaries.

A report on the Hollywood studio schedules is expected within the next week or so. The committee consists of Harold S. Bareford, Charles L. O'Reilly and George J. Schaefer.

Plan Ready Monday

Complete data on plans for financing Code Authority is scheduled to be announced Monday, following approval of the budget by Campi Friday. Each city, town and hamlet will be broken down into total population and theatres for purposes of arriving at a figure for taxing industry members.

Details on the Hollywood extra situation are also expected to be made public following the next session of Campi.

Boards Start
Job in Seven
More Cities

Code boards in seven more cities—Memphis, St. Louis, New Orleans, Pittsburgh, Denver, San Francisco and Cleveland—have begun work. In some there have been disagreements over secretaries which will be settled by Code Authority.

St. Louis, April 2.—Grievance and clearance and zoning boards met here today for organization purposes.

Word has been sent out by the M. P. T. O. that exhibitors where there are no zoning schedules should get in touch with the clearance and zoning board. They also have been told that claims for 10 per cent cancellation privileges should be sent to the grievance board.

New Orleans, April 2.—Independents who registered to Bert Kern of the Happy Hour and Herbert J. Schwartz of the Maison Blanche Co. as code board members have been told by Ed Kuykendall that no action will be taken until proof of their impartiality is submitted.

Denver, April 2.—Grievance and zoning and clearance boards held a joint meeting here today. A successor to Harry Huffman, who failed to qualify as a member of the clearance and zoning board, was discussed. Huffman failed to sign the code.

Pittsburgh, April 2.—A deadlock over the appointment of a secretary developed at a week-end joint meeting of the grievance and clearance and zoning boards. The subject went over until the next meeting. No successor has been named by the Code Authority to Ben Kalmenson on the grievance board.

San Francisco, April 2.—Miss Rowena Foley, secretary of the Film Board of Trade, has been unanimously recommended for the post of joint secretary for the grievance and clearance and zoning boards. Morgan A. Walsh of Oakland, president of the I. T. O. of Northern California, was chairman of the organization meeting. Charles Muehlman, Floyd St. John and Aaron Goldberg were named on a committee to select permanent quarters, and G. C. Parsons, Cliff Work and A. M. Bowles were selected to secure furniture for the offices.

Memphis, April 2.—Dissension developed at the initial joint meeting of the code boards here at the Chisca Hotel over the naming of a secretary. The boards agreed on the nomination of Mrs. Alma Walton, who is also secretary of the M.P.T.O. of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee, but Howard Waugh protested the choice on the ground that she would be biased in favor of the organization.

Several other nominees were discussed, but the only other person figuring in the final voting was Mrs. Ethel Horne, secretary to Col. Cecil E. Vogel, Loew city manager.

A monthly budget of $500 was fixed. The boards will meet regularly on alternate Mondays in headquarters to be selected by a committee composed of M. A. Lightman, J. J. Rogers, W. E. Sipes. Ed Kuykendall was present at the organization meeting.

Cleveland, April 2.—Code boards here met for the first time today jointly at the Statler. Edwin J. Fontaine was named temporary chairman of a committee including J. D. Kalafat, Jerome M. Friedlander and Frank Drew to select quarters and report at the next meeting on Monday. Georgia Moffett, Film Board secretary, was unanimous choice for secretary. Maximum monthly operating cost of $950 was proposed.

Kansas City, April 2.—The local code boards will announce a secretary, budget and quarters late this week, following approval by Code Authority.

opened with screenings Sunday and business session all morning and afternoon today.

The M. P. T. O. A. president spoke 75 minutes during which his address ranged from the place the theatre should play in the community to block booking and the code.

"The big bad wolf is not so bad at all," he said. "The big men in New York are willing to go along and are appreciative of exhibitor problems, except where efforts are made to chisel. The code will be fair because any board member or Code Authority member who is not will be drummed out of business. It's true we exhibitors didn't have much left to give up but whatever benefits there may be in the code the exhibitors got."

Stick Together, He Urges

Kuykendall took a wallop at exhibitors who failed to organize, declaring organization workers were carrying along the drones, thereby making a lot of "dumbbells" successful despite themselves.

"The man who fails to be active in exhibitor work can be described only as a cheat," he declared. "The code might have been different if exhibitors had been organized as producers were and if petty groups interested in getting for themselves what they did not have but someone else did were not so active."

Kuykendall made the statement the Patman bill, which, he said, was "so rank you will never see it again," proved the necessity for exhibitor associations and warned theatremen faced an avalanche of trick taxes all over the nation if they failed to get together. Overbuying was an evil he attacked, dividing blame between irresponsible exhibitors and high-pressure salesmen. "It can't continue because it means constant confusion in the industry," he pointed out. He described negotiations looking to the end of free radio shows and revealed for the first time the M. P. T. O. A. membership, which he placed between 7,000 and 8,000 theatres, had contemplated banning any film star who went in for broadcasting.

Criticizes Percentages

On percentages his comment was: "The drift toward constantly increasing percentages is growing overwhelmingly. With between 30 to 35 per cent for features, more percentages for that racket known as shorts charges and five per cent for shorts, exhibitors cannot exist. I have been fighting score charges, which are a simon pure racket and hope action will develop at the Los Angeles convention." Explaining the 10 per cent cancellation privilege, he said all exhibitors should exercise it where rentals are $250 and less, regardless of what exchange men may tell them, and predicted the distributor practice of selling a block of 60 on the basis of eight specials and then pulling out specials to be sold separately will ultimately cease. His method of accomplishing this he said would be to make contracts so plain there could be no misunderstanding.

Indecent gags dragged into otherwise clean pictures were submitted to his attack. "Hollywood must learn to stop it," he said, "just as it must learn to stop taking uncalled-for pokes at childbirth." While he did not mention "State Fair" by name, Kuykendall's reference to the picture falling in the former classification was unmistakable to those present.

As a prospective piece of business for Los Angeles is a warning that if steps are not taken action will be directed at stars who continue to receive unfavorable newspaper publicity. Kuykendall intimated the M. P. T. O. A. was considering banning their pictures. Broached here for the national convention to follow up is the national organization's belief fewer pictures and longer runs were on the way. Kuykendall declared producers in New York told him this was on the way.

Sees Meet Biggest Ever

He said the Los Angeles meeting will be the biggest M. P. T. O. A. convention of all, with Will Rogers definitely set as banquet toastmaster and Marie Dressler on the program among others, adding some studios would spend as much as $10,000 to entertain the conventioners.

"Useless shorts" were condemned by resolution, as was the indelicate handling of childbirth sequences.

Fred Jack, district manager for Warners, declared his company plans more like "As the Earth Turns" if this picture clicks and urged a return to old-time exploitation methods.

Lionel H. Keene, Loew's southern district manager, came from Atlanta to attend, as did "Snake" Richardson, Universal district manager in the same city.

From New York was David Paley, theatre contact of the Hays organization, who tonight left for the Gulf States convention in New Orleans with Kuykendall.

Lightman Presides

M. A. Lightman, Tri-States president, was in the chair and in the afternoon conducted an open forum in which strong protest against high-bracket percentage pictures was registered. He concurred with Kuykendall that advances by labor would spell disaster for the industry unless checked, and tonight he was in general charge of the banquet and entertainment which closed the convention. Mississippi exhibitors, confronted by a state tax which totals 12 per cent on some admissions, enlisted support of Arkansas and Tennessee exhibitors on a proposed test case of the law, with Paleyman pledging financial support in the proposed battle, which starts with a meeting of Mississippi showmen in the next few days.

Kuykendall said tonight Jay Emanuel, Philadelphia, will be his Campi alternate temporarily.

brief address today before the Tri-States M.P.T.O. convention.

He disagreed with Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, who stated earlier that the code should not be criticized before trial, pointing out that criticism before trial seemed to him proper in order to make it work smoothly once the code becomes operative.

"There have been pot shots taken at the personnel of Campi on the ground that producers are in control, but remember that in all other codes major vested interests dominate their code authorities. If you happen to subscribe to the argument that producers dominate Campi, your beef should be directed at the NRA and its concept and not at your own business."

audience is, and whether any stations charge admissions.

Officials of the NRA today pointed out that while the film and legitimate theatre code authorities have spoken of radio studio audiences in round numbers, there is no accurate information available. Before negotiations with the other two code authorities on the controversy over free radio performances, the radio code authority wants to find out definitely whether any stations charge admissions, it having been reported that WLS in Chicago is charging $1 for its "Barn Dances." If this is the case, it is declared, it has a definite bearing on the charge that the studios are competing unfairly with theatres.

cense agreement. Several distribution companies are now discussing plans for a 20-cent minimum admission clause in new season contracts, as disclosed yesterday in MOTION PICTURE DAILY. The plans are regarded as having been given considerable impetus by the Federal court decision. Fixing of the 20-cent minimum, it is expected, may be defended by increased production and operating costs under the code.

Warners to Release Full Schedule of 60

KANSAS CITY, April 2.—Warners will release its full schedule of 60 features the current season, S. Charles Einfeld, advertising and publicity director, revealed here today enroute to the coast. Beginning June 1, the company will release 24, the balance for the season, at the rate of 6 per month.

Costs Raised 20% by Code, Carr Asserts

Production costs under the film code have been increased 20 per cent per picture without any corresponding increase in receipts having materialized yet, Trem Carr, Monogram production head, said yesterday.

Producers, he declared, look for no increase in revenue to offset code costs until business conditions throughout the country are generally stabilized. Carr reported appreciable increases in employment in Hollywood have resulted from the code, but said that in some instances this has reduced the earnings of other employee classifications by reducing their former working schedule to comply with the maximum hour provisions of the code.

"These employee classifications and producers," Carr said, "are about the only ones in Hollywood who have not received any benefits from the code up to now."

Carr said that increased production costs under the code have placed a real burden on the smaller independent producers, as the rate of cost increase per picture is proportionately higher for the producer making only a small number of pictures.

Carr is here to attend Monogram's annual sales meeting, which opens tomorrow at Atlantic City.

Monogram Heads Off For Atlantic City

Monogram executives and franchise holders gathered here yesterday in advance of the company's annual sales meeting, opening tomorrow at Atlantic City. The entire delegation leaves today for the meeting place.

W. Ray Johnston, president; Trem Carr, vice-president in charge of production; Lou Ostrow, executive producer, and Edward Golden, sales manager, head the delegation which leaves for Atlantic City today. Franchise holders in the convention group include Claude Ezell, William G. Underwood, Nat Lefton, Barney Rosenthal, Nat Steinberg, Jack Berkowitz, B. H. Mills, Arthur Bromberg, Howard Stubbins, Floyd St. John, Irving Mandel, J. T. Sheffield, Robert F. Withers, J. S. Jossey and Herman Rifkin. Norton Ritchey, Monogram export manager, and Harry Thomas, president of First Division, are also in the convention group.

United, Canada, Has $1 Per Share Profit

MONTREAL, April 2.—The financial statement of United Amusement Corp. operating 21 theatres in Montreal and vicinity, shows the company has maintained a sound position. Net profit at Dec. 31 stood at $74,675, equivalent to $1 for each common share, after depreciation, bond interest and other charges.

Assets totalled $5,166,509 and working capital $179,270. The previous report gave assets at $5,297,744, with working capital at $87,510. United Amusement is closely associated with Famous Players Canadian Corp.

49 Chicago Indies Join Against Favoritism

CHICAGO, April 2.—Calling for the privilege of running the same release simultaneously with competitors provided like admission is charged and determined a place should be created for dime houses where conditions warrant, 49 local exhibitors, representing 77 theatres, met at the Stevens today and formed the Independent Theatre Owners Ass'n. Roy Alexander, Melrose Park Theatre, presided. R. Christenson, La Salle, and Henry Barbas, Lorraine, were co-chairmen.

The group represents 75 per cent former Allied members, who withdrew from the organization charging it failed to stand up for the small independents. Joe Pastor has been sent to Washington to speak for them before the National Recovery Review Board.

Oriental, $22,000; "The Lost Patrol," Palace, $17,000; "Sleepers East," State-Lake, $13,000.

Detroit had an exceptionally good week.

Washington grosses fell off slightly. Takes were as follows: "Gallant Lady," Columbia, $5,500; "Jimmy, the Gent," Earle, $15,000; "No More Women," Fox, $19,000; "Once to Every Woman," Metropolitan, $6,000; "Eskimo Wife Traders," Palace, $9,000; "The Love Birds," Rialto, $9,000; "It Happened One Night," RKO-Keith's, $5,500.

Twin Cities grosses failed to show any bad effects from Holy Week. "Bolero" ran away with top honors at the Minnesota in Minneapolis with $8,500.

Pittsburgh took it on the chin, five of its six first runs slumping.

"I've Got Your Number," with a stage show, ran away with top honors in Denver. The $13,000 take topped normal by $3,500 at the Orpheum.

"The Lineup" was the only attraction in Providence to reach first base. It took $7,500, up by $500, at the RKO Albee, helped by Billy Rose's "Crazy Quilt Revue."

Business was slow in Indianapolis. "David Harum" was still good for an average $2,500 in its fourth week at the Apollo. "Journal of a Crime" was taken out of the Circle at the end of five days to make way for "Wonder Bar."

from a month's visit at the Paramount studios.

The actual shorts schedule has not been set yet and awaits further conferences here between Diamond and Emanuel Cohen, Paramount production head. Three series produced in the east are assured of being continued, however, Diamond said. They are Paramount Headliners, Paramount Pictorials and Screen Souvenirs.

Diamond explained that while he has not made any new season deals with outside shorts producers, Paramount will be in the market for any good subject that is marketable. He ascribed the forthcoming production curtailment to code regulations limiting short subject sales in proportion to the number of features offered.

Review Board Goes On Erratic Course

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Continuing the erratic course which has marked its proceedings throughout, the National Recovery Review Board today postponed its examination of the labor clauses of the code and will go into that phase tomorrow. No reason was given for the delay after the session set for 3 o'clock this afternoon had been postponed to 4 o'clock and then entirely called off.

A number of oil men waiting to be heard were not reached. Harold S. Bareford, representing Code Authority, and here for conferences on when its testimony will be sought was also kept waiting, although Lowell Mason, counsel for the board, said he expected to confer with him tonight.

Due to the death of his sister, Miss Jane Rubin, Sunday night at the Doctors' Hospital, J. Robert Rubin called off his trip to Washington to attend the hearing of the National Recovery Review Board.

Rubin and his family yesterday accompanied the body to Syracuse where the funeral will be held tomorrow morning.

Argue Quittner Motion

A motion for leave to appeal the Joseph Quittner monopoly suit against major producer-distributors "as a pauper" was argued yesterday in U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here. Arthur Butler Graham represented Quittner, a former Middletown, N. Y., exhibitor, and Gabriel Hess of the M.P.P.D.A., and Bruce Bromley, of Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, appeared for the defendant companies. The court reserved decision.

The Ambassador, only house with stage shows, has a 15c-25c-35c-55c, depending upon what time the patron enters. Many subsequent run and neighborhood houses have scales of 25c-30c-35c.

Some of the neighborhoods are threatening to cut to 10 cents.

The committee has recommended that the Skouras brothers and Turley be released from the old guarantee and that their offer to buy the stock in the new companies over a period of 15 years at the face value of the old second mortgage bonds be accepted. This purchase price would be at the rate of one per cent a year for 10 years, beginning in two years.

It is expected that both the first and second mortgage bondholders will accept the proposed reorganization plans, and reach an agreement with Fanchon & Marco for operation of the houses.

ITOA Attacks NRA In Appeals Brief

filiated with Local 306, I.A.T.S.E., allegedly dismissed in violation of the NRA.

One of the grounds on which reversal is sought is that "the National Industrial Recovery Act is unconstitutional, as being in excess of the power of Congress to enact, as being a delegation of legislative powers, as providing excessive punishment."

The brief asserts "there is not one statement of fact" in the action brought by Local 306 to support its charges that the defendants were seeking "to bring about the disintegration and destruction" of the local. The I.T.O.A. "unequivocally denies" boycotting the local.

ITOA Refused Code Places, It Declares

Several members of the I. T. O. A. have been offered places on the local clearance and zoning board and have turned them down, the organization stated yesterday. The unit said it will not sign the code because of differences with Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt.

Harry Brandt, Milton C. Weisman and Charles E. Lewis leave today for Washington to attend the hearing of the National Recovery Review Board.

Stanley-Erpi Suit May End Outside Court

Delay Anti-Trust Trial Over Replacements

WILMINGTON, April 3.—An amicable settlement of the anti-trust suit brought by Stanley Co. of America, Duovac Radio and General Talking Pictures against Erpi, Western Electric and A. T. & T. is in progress, it was reported unofficially here today when lawyers for both sides appeared in U. S. District Court and asked that trial of the suit, which was scheduled to start Wednesday, be continued until next fall.

None of the local counsel would confirm the report that a settlement was in progress.

Plaintiffs in the action charge that Erpi and affiliated companies named in the suit violated the Clayton and Sherman anti-trust laws in their enforcement of restrictive clauses on

Columbia Half-Year Profit Is $404,562

Columbia during the half year ended Dec. 30, 1933, continued to show the improvement indicated in its statement for the year which ended July 1, 1933, according to figures released yesterday. The company reports a net profit of $404,562.93 for the second half of last year after all charges. This is equal to approximately $2.25 per share on the common and compares with $4.10 on earnings of $740,240.97 for the preceding 12-month period.

Consolidated balance sheet showed total assets for the half year of $6,911,664.47, against which there were total liabilities of $1,485,286.66. Earned surplus amounted to $2,363,610.01. Cash aggregated $653,423.93.

Franklin and Selwyn Set to Sail Friday

Harold Franklin sails Friday on the Berengaria for London, where he will spend four weeks on a pleasure and business trip. He says he has several things in mind and when he returns will have something definite to announce as to his future plans.

Accompanying Franklin will be Arch Selwyn and Jed Harris.

"The time is ripe for individualism in pictures," Franklin states. "By

R. A. Rowland See Angle of Goes to Radio Labor Fight As a Producer In Louisiana

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—Richard A. Rowland today signed a contract to become an associate producer for Radio. He will leave for New York the end of the week to look over suitable stories and plays and will return here to produce.

Production Gains; 42 Films in Work

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—Production last week continued on the incline over the preceding week, which was considered a heavy week for action and above the normal average of 40 features in work. The past week registered 42 features and 12 shorts in work as compared to 41 and 10 for the preceding week.

At the beginning of this week stu-

No Radical Suggestions Coming, Is Feeling In Washington

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Findings of the National Recovery Review Board on complaints of monopoly, unfair practices and oppression of small businesses under the code will be in the hands of President Roosevelt by April 15, in compliance with a request for speedy action made by him prior to his departure from Washington last week, it was learned tonight.

With the sole exception of William C. Elliott of the I.A.T.S.E., who will appear next Monday to refute testimony on the labor provisions submitted today by Murray Harston of New York on behalf of the Independent M. P. Operators' Union, the questioning of witnesses was completed today.

Back Wages Ordered For 14 RKO Workers

The NRA Regional Labor Board yesterday ordered RKO to grant back pay to 14 employees of the RKO Albee, Brooklyn, who had filed charges that they were working 52 hours per week instead of the 40 hours prescribed by the code, although paid on the latter basis. The back pay order was for the 12 hours per week difference from Jan. 1 to the present.

The board reserved decision on charges brought against Madison Square Garden by Theatre and Amusement Employees' Union, Local 118, over the alleged discharge of ushers for union activities. Both the Garden and Local 118 were given 24 hours in which to file affidavits in connection with the charges.

New Sign Men's Pact Is Likely This Week

Action on a new contract with New York Sign Writers' Union, Local 230, calling for a wage increase of $1.50 per hour and a seven-hour day, four-day week, may take place the end of this week, it was learned yesterday. The old contract with the sign writers expired Sunday. The union is conducting its negotiations this year with contractors for lobby sign work, instead of with theatre operators directly as formerly.

Monogram Men Set for Atlantic City Sessions

ATLANTIC CITY, April 3.—Approximately 50 Monogram franchise holders and executives arrived here today for the opening of Monogram's fourth annual sales convention at the Ambassador Hotel on Wednesday.

W. Ray Johnston

The annual meeting of Monogram stockholders to elect directors and the annual meeting of the new board of directors to elect officers of the company will be held Wednesday night in conjunction with the sales gathering. The re-election of W. Ray Johnston as president of the company is regarded as certain.

Mayor Harry Bachrach is scheduled to open the business sessions of Paramount Decides

To Stay in Germany

Paramount will not withdraw from Germany as long as trade conditions there continue in their present status, it was indicated yesterday as a result of conferences on the company's future policy there which have been under way between John W. Hicks, president of Paramount International, and Adolph Zukor, Paramount head.

It is understood, however, that the possibility of the company's withdrawing from Germany may again be considered in the event restrictions on American film companies result in making business operations there more difficult than they now are.

Hicks recently returned from a European trip and has just completed his report to Zukor on conditions in Germany.

Warner Executives West

Jack L. Warner, vice-president in charge of production; Gradwell Sears, southern and western sales manager, and A. W. Smith, eastern and Canadian sales manager of Warners, leave today for the coast to begin conferences on the new season's lineup. They will also look over the remainder of the current season list and set the summer release schedule.

Dissolve Color Pictures

Dissolution of Color Pictures, Inc., was voted by stockholders yesterday at a meeting at the offices of the company, 15 Broad St. The firm had been inactive since it was founded in February, 1929, to produce pictures in color using the Technicolor process. William Travers Jerome headed the firm until his death recently.

Review Board Findings Set For Apr. 15

counsel, announced that the Code Authority would content itself with the filing of a statement on the standard contract, and, possibly, a brief answering the points raised by complainants. Tomorrow the case against the code will be summed up by Mason and Abram F. Myers, general counsel for Allied.

No radical recommendations will be made by the board in its report to the President, it was indicated tonight. In considering the testimony taken during the hearings, members of the board will also delve into the proceedings before the Recovery Administration during negotiation of the code, and will not lose sight of the fact that during the hearings just closed only one side of the picture has been presented.

In all probability, it was indicated, the report will merely point out that there are provisions in the code which undoubtedly should be amended, and may cite instances of this nature, but the making of such changes will be left to Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, to whom the Board expects the President naturally will turn for advice.

Industry Practices Attacked

Attacks on block booking, labor provisions, protection and patents marked the hearing today, as members of the Board, impressed by the fact that 13,000 independents had so many charges against a few majors, became more insistent in their questions as to why, comprising the bulk of the industry, the independents have never attempted to force modification of the methods of the "Big Eight."

Appearing for the purpose of attacking the labor provisions, Harston was interrupted almost before he got well into his argument by W. O. Thompson, a member of the Board, who declared he did not think anyone should be heard unless appropriate notice had been sent to all interests involved. Harston's testimony was stopped, but he later was permitted to continue when it was learned that Elliott would come to Washington next week to answer.

Declaring that the code as written is perfectly satisfactory, Harston charged the affiliated unions with having interpreted its provisions in a way never intended. He declared that the hearings during the negotiation of the code indicated clearly what was intended.

As a result of the "perversion" of code provisions, he asserted, contracts made by his union August 21 with New York exhibitors were thrown out by the Regional Labor Board on the contention of the affiliated union that the code prohibited changes in personnel except by mutual consent. The result of this decision, he said, was to make effective the affiliated union's demand for two men in a booth. Exhibitors have held the Board's decision to be unconstitutional and have indicated their willingness to go to court, and the matter has not been settled, he said. Fifty cases are pending in New York courts, he added.

Harston offered new provisions which he would have incorporated in the code for the purposes of clarification, he explained. Under these amendments to Section 6, the August 23 date would be eliminated and the phrase "the date of the effective date of this revised code" substituted, which would eliminate a chief basis of controversy.

Offers Another Provision

In addition, he would have a new Sub-Section B providing that the boards set up under the section "shall determine solely the prevailing wage scale and compute the maximum number of working hours for such employees, per individual," thus eliminating a contention that the cost of booth operation be used in arriving at prevailing wages.

Explaining that he appeared at the request of the I.T.O.A., Governor Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota, declared films were affected by a public interest and "a practice which in one sense may be oppressive to the industry may in another sense also affect the opportunity of the public to see pictures which they should have an opportunity to see."

Referring to protection, Governor Olson declared that uptown houses in Minneapolis, formerly running 60 days after the downtown theatres, now were 120 days behind.

"The situation, as I view it, is this," he explained. "If the Code Authority, which is entirely dominated by the producing interests, carries on in the same manner in their public capacity as they have as representatives of private industry, ultimately they will compel the outlying theatres to show a film after it is shown downtown at the downtown prices. The obvious tendency has been to bring all the trade downtown. It is not a good thing to compel this by law."

Calls Complaints Useless

Complaints to Administrator Johnson, the Governor said, were ineffective. Independent exhibitors should have adequate representation on the Code Authority, he held, as well as the public.

"Do you believe a man who represents the government in this case should be taken from the ranks of the 'Big Eight'?" he was asked by Board member J. F. Sinclair.

"You are asking me to make a comment concerning a member of my profession," he replied, referring to the fact that both he and Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt are lawyers. "I would prefer, if I were dealing with a tribunal, that he be someone other than a representative of the industry. It is not a matter of integrity, but of viewpoint."

Steffes Testifies

Governor Olson was followed by W. A. Steffes, president of Allied of the Northwest, who discussed the Minneapolis Film Board of Trade, which, he said, was originally formed "to create good will, but turned out to be a form of kangaroo court where the producers' representatives could gather and all agree among themselves on various trade practices and then go out and enforce these practices against the independent theatres."

Asked what effect the code has had, Steffes said the local boards had not yet begun to function, adding: "I think under the code they have the right to tell us we must wait 10 years for pictures and charge $11.60 admission."

"What would you suggest as a substitute for block booking if it were eliminated?" Sinclair asked.

"I think the theatre owner should have the right to select features from every company in the business," Steffes said.

Later he said he did not think producers had any right to be in the theatre business.

Replying to a question as to why some of the big companies are in receivership, Steffes said: "Towns are greatly over-seated. If they had stayed out of the theatre business they would not be in the hands of receivers today."

Alfred Weiss, for six years vice-president and general manager for Samuel Goldwyn, discussed the troubles of independents. Goldwyn made money as an independent producer, he said, until sound came along and then found himself unable to sell his product because he used independent equipment and the "Big Eight" demanded the use of licensed equipment.

Sees Sound Monopoly

Attacking what he termed the patent monopoly of the telephone company through its subsidiaries, Weiss testified he went into the manufacture of sound equipment, selling it for from $4,500 to $6,500 against W. E.'s charge of $22,000. In six months he secured sales of $600,000 he said, and had an offer of $750,000 for 49 per cent of his company which he accepted. He was then served with papers in a suit for infringement, he said, and exhibitors were scared off and refused to complete their contracts. The offer for his company was withdrawn and he was forced out of business, he added. The suit never was pressed, he asserted.

The attack on the alleged patent monopoly was continued "as a fundamental matter vitally affecting the American people," it was said by Robert Robbins, sound device manufacturer, whose company, now bankrupt, will be reorganized "if the Administration perpetuates the National Recovery movement."

Robbins declared that Erpi's contract with the major producers permits the telephone company to "own directly or indirectly six or eight of the major producers." He urged that public utilities be divorced from private enterprise. He also urged the enactment of the communications bill pending in Congress and the placing of films under a communications commission.

Complaints to Be Listed As They Come In

Complaints will be listed and heard by grievance boards in the order of filing. All exhibitors making protests will be checked for qualification by boards, which will have a duplicate file of unqualified assents on hand. No one not signing the code will be qualified to protest.

A number of complaints already filed with Campi in New York will be forwarded to secretaries upon appointment.

Three forms for filing complaints were sent to all board members yesterday. They are divided into white, blue and pink classifications. About 350 forms are now in the mail and approximately 30,000 will go out shortly.

The white form is for complaints dealing with Article VI, Part 2, Section 1, Paragraphs (a) or (b) or (c) or (d). The blue form is exclusively for complaints under Article VI, Part 2, Section 4. The local board does not make a determination of complaints filed under this section: it either dismisses the complaint or certifies the complaint for determination by Code Authority. The pink form is for protests under Article VI, Part 2, and deals with non-theatricals, refusal of fair adjustment, designation of percentage dates, reduced admissions, theatre transfers and premature advertising.

A continuous checkup on exhibitors requesting 10 per cent cancellations will be kept by Code Authority through exchanges throughout the country. Whenever concessions are about to be made by distributors, branch managers will notify secretaries of the boards and they in turn will first request exhibitors who did not sign the code to contribute toward its upkeep before the cancellation is granted.

PITTSBURGH, April 3.—A second meeting of the code boards has been set for next Tuesday afternoon, at which time a report is expected from the committee on headquarters. Aaron S. Jaffe, Samuel Horvitz, Joseph Moore and James Alexander are in charge of this.

James Balmer, general manager for the Harris Amusement Co., will represent Senator Frank J. Harris on the grievance board until the latter recovers.

At the first code meeting, Robert Klingensmith, staff editor here and representative of the Box-Office, was agreed upon for the permanent secretary.

Approval of Robert Klingensmith as secretary for the Pittsburgh boards is expected at the Campi session Friday. His nomination is unanimous and procedure of Code Authority is to name appointees who meet with unqualified approval.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—Mona O'Rourke, secretary to Harry S. McLeod of the St. Charles, today was unanimously nominated local board secretary. Offices will be in the Canal Bank building.

with the Gulf States Theatres Ass'n, who were informed of the plan at the opening of the two-day convention of the organization here today, ventured the opinion wages would rise to uncontrollable heights if the examining board sprang into being, in view of the anticipated tendency the board would approve few new applicants and therefore send up the ante on those now licensed. The impression prevails the ultimate consequence might be that many exhibitors would be compelled to pull out. It is claimed that while at first the law would operate only in cities of over 5,000, later an amendment could be added which would eventually eliminate theatres which refused to "pay off."

Worried by Tax Threat

Fear was expressed as well over the impending state admission tax, which was described as "a hold-up," fostered by politicians seeking to land more jobs for their constituents and political supporters. This note of warning was struck by Miles Pratt, president of the St. Charles Theatre Co., who told the assembled exhibitors it was only through organization that legislation such as this could be overcome. It was determined to wage part of the fight through trailers which will be furnished all houses and which exhibitors will be urged to run until the forthcoming legislative session has terminated. Gulf States members will also prepare a list of votes controlled by their families, together with the amount of capital invested in their businesses, as compelling arguments for use in dissuading admission tax proponents from their contemplated course.

Indicative of how the NRA has increased theatre operation in this territory were facts presented by Harry McLeod of the St. Charles, who told the conventioners his operating overhead has increased $300 weekly, with employees increased from 14 to 31, and that supplies and film rentals have correspondingly increased. Other theatre men corroborated this statement. Increased admissions were discussed as the way out, but the idea was discarded, as many exhibitors told of earlier resistance to price increases which had compelled them to return to former levels.

Other Speakers

D. C. Hickson, division operating manager for Erpi with offices in Washington, told of the coming of third dimension sound reproduction, predicting greater advances within the next decade.

Kuykendall was also a speaker, repeating his Memphis speech. Delegates and visitors to the M. P. T. O. A. convention on the coast, arriving from Memphis, were met at the train by a delegation of local exchange and theatre men, who included Howard McCoy, Fred Jack, William Richardson, Lou Connor, Leo Schenaydre, John Winberry, C. J. Briant, Harold Wilkes and Gaston Dureau.

Gulf States was organized January 21 with 66 members. It has now on its rolls 100 and embraces Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. Mississippi delegates reported practically all houses had absorbed the admission tax.

Tonight a banquet was held at the Hotel Roosevelt, with a floor show under the direction of Rodney Toups, manager of Loew's State. Tomorrow a section of South Liberty St. will be roped off for the film fair, in which all exchanges will participate.

McLeod was elected president.

Other officers named were: Vice-presidents, A. Higginbotham, J. A. Barcellona and Charles Lauve; directors, E. J. Myrick, A. H. Yoemans, Rodney Toups, Philip A. Sliman and Joseph Alsina; legislative committee, Myrick, Higginbotham; secretary-treasurer, Sliman; assistant secretary, Jack Duffy.

Business Gaining, Kann Says in N. O.

Kann, editor of MOTION PICTURE DAILY. He declared that a national analysis of theatre grosses shows an increase of 12 or 15 percent this year over the same period in 1933.

"This does not at all indicate your battles are over," he said, "but it does indicate definitely conditions are on the upturn. I don't know whether it is the NRA, the PWA, the CWA or other government agencies which have done it, and opinion differs on that score. They have contributed, naturally, but regardless of the reason, it is an indisputable fact that grosses are better."

Kann also stressed the value of exhibitor organization. He expressed no preference on national affiliations, but did assert that the way for showmen to avoid initial taxation municipally and throughout the states was to present as solid an organization front as possible. He then repeated the warning he gave before the Tri-State convention in Memphis that exhibitors should not expect too much from the code. He pointed out that the document may be rewritten in part before a satisfying formula can be evolved.

In introducing Kann, Harry McLeod, Gulf States president, said: "Perhaps the speaker you are about to hear has a clearer and more intimate contact with producers, distributors and exhibitors than any man in America. This man is the industry's greatest editor."

Elkhart Hearing Set

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The National Labor Board on Friday will hold a hearing in the Elkhart, Ind., controversy involving an appeal of Theatrical Service Employees' Local 19110 charging the Elkhart Amusement Co. with refusal to abide by a decision of the Indianapolis labor board ordering reinstatement of employees discharged for union activity.

Madge Evans Plans Trip

HOLLYWOOD, April 3. — Madge Evans, accompanied by her mother, will leave for New York Thursday for a vacation. After two weeks on Broadway, Mrs. Evans will leave for a three months' visit to England.

Hammett to Reliance

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—Reliance has signed Dashiell Hammett, author of detective stories, to write an original for United Artists' release.

dios reported 29 features in preparation, which promises continued prosperity for the next two weeks, as these are scheduled to start within that time. In addition to this, the short subject producers report a total of 14 subjects in the final stages of preparation and 21 in the cutting rooms as compared to an extraordinary number of 44 in the same stage of production last week.

Paramount continues to hold the lead with nine features in work, four preparing and three in the cutting rooms; Fox follows with five, five and five; M-G-M has five, one and nine; Universal, five, zero and two; Warner-First National, four, one and 10; Radio, two, seven and three; United Artists, two, one and one, while the independent studios reported a total of seven in work, eight preparing and six cutting.

Among the short subject makers M-G-M leads the field with five working, three preparing and five cutting; Roach has one, three and four; Columbia, one, zero and zero; Universal, zero, one and one; Radio, zero, three and three, while the independents register a total of five, four and eight.

Lindsey to Hear Unions

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—Judge Ben Lindsey will review complaints of alleged code violations by studios presented by the four unions which figured in the studio strike.

leases for replacement of equipment. Exhibitors, it is charged, are required by their leases to obtain repair and replacement parts exclusively from Erpi.

Preliminary injunction decrees were issued against the defendant companies by Judge John P. Nields here last July, under which Erpi was restrained from enforcing or attempting to enforce provisions by which certain producers were obligated to distribute only to exhibitors supplied with Erpi reproducing apparatus and sound records. In the present suit the plaintiffs seek to broaden the scope of the injunction.

Erpi counsel here could not be reached yesterday for comment on the reported move to settle the anti-trust suit out of court.

Chicago Now Awaits Cancellation Order

CHICAGO, April 3.—Action on the 10 per cent cancellation clause remains in status quo as far as exhibitors and exchanges here are concerned. Plenty of requests for cancellation have been recorded with various exchanges, but so far all have been denied on the ground that the exchanges are not ready to take any action pending instruction from the home offices.

End of Lent, Election Hit K.C. Houses

KANSAS CITY, April 3.—Holy Week and a riotous city election, plus the fact two attractions were in a third stanza, socked first runs, not a theatre showing a winning week. High take of $9,000, which was $3,000 below par, was scored by "Massacre" with a stage revue featuring George Dewey Washington. The third week's gross of "David Harum," at the Uptown, was $3,000, as compared with $7,300 and $6,000 for the first and second weeks, respectively. "Catherine the Great" was anemic with $6,100 at the Midland.

Total for the week was $24,900. Average is $34,800.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 29:

"MASSACRE" (F.N.)
MAINSTREET—(3,049), 25c-40c-60c, 7 days, plus Saturday late show. Stage: "Cotton Club Revue," with George Dewey Washington, Mills Blue Rhythm Band, Lucky Millinder, Nicodemus, 4 Flash Devils, Alma Smith, Josie Oliver. Gross: $9,000. (Average, for combination shows, $12,000)

"BEGGARS IN ERMINE" (Monogram)
"THE NINTH GUEST" (Col.)
NEWMAN—(1,800), 25c, 7 days, plus Saturday midnight show. Gross: $4,800. (Average, $6,000)

Week Ending March 30:

"CATHERINE THE GREAT" (U.A.)
MIDLAND—(4,000), 25c, 7 days, plus Saturday midnight show. Gross: $6,100. (Average, $10,000)

"ELYSIA" (Master Arts)
ROYAL—(810), 25c, 7 days, 3rd week. Gross: $2,000. (Average, $3,000)

"DAVID HARUM" (Fox)
UPTOWN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 9 days, 3rd week. Gross: $3,000. (Average, for 9 days, $3,800)

"Four Frightened" Fair in Portland

PORTLAND, April 3.—Heavy rains added to the general dullness of Holy Week with the result that only three houses reached average. Best comparative draw of the trio was "Four Frightened People" with $3,000 at Hamrick's Music Box.

The other two at par were duals, "Three on a Honeymoon" and "Ninth Guest," with $5,000 at the Paramount, and "Blood Money" and "Woman's Man" with $2,000 at Pantages.

Total first run business was $20,400. Average is $21,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 30:

"NO MORE WOMEN" (Para.)
"THE POOR RICH" (Univ.)
BROADWAY—(1,912), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,700. (Average, $6,000)

"FOUR FRIGHTENED PEOPLE" (Para.)
HAMRICK'S MUSIC BOX—(2,000), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,000. (Average, $3,000)

"THREE ON A HONEYMOON" (Fox)
"NINTH GUEST" (Col.)
PARAMOUNT—(3,008), 25c-35c-40c, 8 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $5,000)

"BLOOD MONEY" (U.A.)
"WOMAN'S MAN" (Monogram)
PANTAGES—(1,700), 15c-25c, 7 days. Gross: $2,000. (Average, $2,000)

"GOOD DAME" (Para.)
UNITED ARTISTS—(945), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,700. (Average, $5,000)

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—Paramount this week renewed options on Mae West and Directors Alexander Hall and Leo McCarey.

Monogram Men Set for Atlantic City Sessions

"Wonder Bar" Hit Around Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, April 3.—"Wonder Bar" is something of a sensation in this territory. In some spots it has trebled averages.

At the Capitol, Steubenville, it opened Easter Sunday to $1,060. Recent average business for a week at this house has been a little over $1,000. The day before it went into the Memorial, McKeesport, and took $1,200 for the day. This is considered good for three days on some attractions.

In some other places it has rolled up "42nd Street" and "Gold Diggers" grosses. This is surprising, because the Stanley gross here was not sensational.

DAYTON, April 3.—"Wonder Bar," set in at the Victory, 1,400-seat independent house, for a two-week run, opened Saturday to standout business, necessitating opening the house an hour earlier than usual and extending the closing time for an hour. The picture played to practically 10,000 people Saturday and Sunday, establishing a local record for a two-day attendance.

"One Night" Breaks Seattle Run Record

SEATTLE, April 3.—All records for long film runs here have been shattered by "It Happened One Night" at the Liberty. The Columbia opus is in its sixth week at the 1,800-seat house, setting a new long run mark for pictures in a theatre seating more than 1,000.

The former record was held by "Be Mine Tonight," which played five weeks at Jensen-Von Herberg's Roxy. For houses seating less than 1,000 the record of eight weeks at Hamrick's Blue Mouse set by "The Jazz Singer" still stands. The present run of "It Happened One Night" is marked by a price advance of 10 cents, bringing the top to 35 cents.

Wehrenberg to Head St. Louis Delegates

ST. LOUIS, April 3.—Fred Wehrenberg will head the delegation from this territory to the M. P. T. O. A. convention in Los Angeles. Others who will make the trip are: Mrs. Ella Lau, Luxemburg, Mo.; W. A. Collins, Elvina, Mo.; J. B. Lueken, St. Louis; Bob Cluster, Salem, Ill., and Theodore Coleman, Mount Carmel, Ill. Others are expected to join before the start.

Schwalm's Mother Ill

when the franchise holders, home office and studio executives confer on the new season schedule. Franchise holders on the program for the opening session will discuss sales and distribution problems of a general nature and offer solutions.

Discussions on executive, production, sales and advertising policies are scheduled for Thursday and Friday sessions. On Saturday the conventioners will participate in an open forum on the film code at which John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority, will preside. The annual meeting closes Saturday night with a banquet at the Ambassador at which Louis Nizer, secretary of the New York Film Board, will act as toastmaster.

Missouri Sales Tax Short of Estimates

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 3.—Receipts from the one-half of one per cent sales tax which went into effect in Missouri January 15 on theatre admissions, advertising, utility and other services has failed to reach the optimistic expectations of its sponsors.

Instead of retiring any indebtedness, the state ended the first quarter of 1934 nearly $2,500,000 in the red. The sales tax to date, on returns for the last two weeks in January, has produced about $165,000. When the sales tax was passed, estimates as to the revenue it would bring ranged as high as $7,000,000 a year. On the basis of the initial returns, it is indicated collections would be in excess of $330,000 for a full month and that the total for the year would reach about $4,000,000.

Report Circuit Move To End K.C. War

KANSAS CITY, April 3.—It is reported here that New York circuit executives controlling downtown first runs are mapping a plan to present to subsequent to end the local price war. The circuits are understood to be willing to put into effect price increases and end duals provided subsequent make similar concessions. It is reliably stated this will develop within the next two weeks, with failure likely to result in double bills at Loew's Midland. Jay Means, I. T. O. head, claims no knowledge of the plan.

"Catherine the Great" demonstrated its continued drawing powers by piling up $33,500 at the Rivoli last week.

This is quite a feat. It topped the Paramount's $23,000 with "Come On Marines" and Will Mahoney and came pretty close to the Capitol's $37,815 on "The Show-Off," held a second week, with Jimmy Durante, Polly Moran and Lou Holtz on the stage.

"George White's Scandals," switched from the Music Hall to the Palace, was good for $14,482. "Bottoms Up" at the Music Hall took a mild $63,121.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 26:

"CATHERINE, THE GREAT" (U. A.)
RIVOLI—(2,200), 35c-99c, 7 days. Gross: $33,500.

Week Ending March 27:

"HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD" (U. A.)
ASTOR—(1,012), 55c-$2.20, 2nd week, 7 days. Gross: $23,500.

Week Ending March 28:

"BOTTOMS UP" (Fox)
RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL—(5,945), 35c-$1.65, 7 days. Stage show. Gross: $63,121.

Week Ending March 29:

"THE SHOW-OFF" (M-G-M)
CAPITOL—(4,700), 35c-$1.65, 2nd week, 7 days. Stage: Jimmy Durante, Polly Moran, Lou Holtz and others. Gross: $37,815.

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (Fox)
PALACE—(2,500), 25c-75c, 7 days. Stage show. Gross: $14,482.

"COME ON, MARINES" (Para.)
PARAMOUNT—(3,700), 35c-99c, 7 days. Stage: Will Mahoney, Grace Hayes and others. Gross: $23,000.

"HOLD THAT GIRL" (Fox)
ROXY—(6,200), 25c-65c, 7 days. Stage show. Gross: $17,400.

"WONDER BAR" (F. N.)—1 day
"JIMMY, THE GENT" (Warners)
6 days

STRAND—(2,000), 35c-$1.10, 7 days. Gross: $20,845.

Week Ending March 30:

"ONCE TO EVERY WOMAN" (Col.)

Week Ending April 2:

"EVER SINCE EVE" (Fox)
MAYFAIR—(2,300), 35c-85c, 7 days. Gross: $7,200.

"Harum" 4th Week Indianapolis Draw

INDIANAPOLIS, April 3.—"David Harum" withstood the shock of the Holy Week slump here despite the fact that it was in its fourth week. The gross at the Apollo was $2,500, equal to a first week average.

Total first run business was $19,700. Average is $16,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 31:

"DAVID HARUM" (Fox)
APOLLO—(1,100), 20c-40c, 4th week, 7 days. Gross: $2,500. (Average, $2,500)

"JOURNAL OF CRIME" (F.N.)

Short Subjects"Bride of Samoa"

(DuWorld)

Although the South Seas have long been a popular subject for the cameraman, they never seem to lose their lure. "Bride of Samoa" proves this fact anew. Produced by Central Film Co., it depicts a Samoan wedding and the preparations leading up to it, with no details spared. The famous Siva-Siva dance of the natives is caught by the camera in all its movements, and there are plenty of eye-filling scenes of the Samoan ladies disporting themselves with slight covering. Thoroughly entertaining. Running time, 26 mins.

"Camping Out"

(Disney-U. A.)

This is Mickey Mouse No. 21 and the laughs clock right up with the best of the series. Mickey, Minnie, Horace Horsecollar and Clarabelle Cow are camping out in the woods when a playful young mosquito bites Mickey on the nose, then gets stuck in a chocolate cake, but escapes and backs off and spears Horace from behind while he is sitting in a hammock. The young mosquito reports back to the swarm in a swamp, and the developments after that are uproarious. Running time, 7 minutes.

"The Gold Ghost"

(Educational)

Plenty of gags. A preview audience seemed to think it was great. Buster Keaton leaves his father's palatial home when his girl turns him down as a mollycoddle and motors west until his gas runs out in a Nevada ghost town. Warren Hymer drops in by plane—accidentally. He is an escaping gunman. They pull a lot of funny stunts by themselves until a gold rush repopulates the town. Among the arrivals are the girl and her father. Dorothy Dix, Joe Young, William Worthington, Lloyd Ingraham and Leo Willis also are in the cast. Running time, 21 mins.

"Hotel Anchovy"

(Educational)

The Three Ritz Brothers furnish the comedy. They have been engaged by Doris Hill to act as manager, bellhop and clerk so guests will not leave while the hotel is being sold. It has some fine scenes as well as some riotous comedy. Very good. Running time, 18½ mins.

"Born to Die"

(Educational)

One of the "Battle for Life" series with the subjects all curious types of marine life. The shots are made under water. The microscopic shots show the development of fish eggs, the protection by an octopus of its eggs, and other interesting scenes. Running time, 6 2/3 mins.

"Paramount Pictorial"

(Paramount 3-7)

One of the more interesting of the series, showing some of the queer fish of the sea, followed by a demonstration of the effect of liquid air on various objects, and winding up with a screen interview with Lanny Ross, radio star. Running time, 10 mins.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW*"Whirlpool"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—Here is a father and daughter story that is well knit and restrained for general appeal.

Just married to Lila Lee, Jack Holt, a circus guy, accidentally kills a man in a carnival brawl and gets 20 years. In order to save his wife, a prospective mother, humiliation, Holt forges a letter from the warden to Miss Lee, stating that he had died trying to escape.

Out of jail, Holt and a circus pal, Allen Jenkins, attain "big shot" status. Miss Lee is now happily married to a judge. Her daughter, Jean Arthur, a reporter, loves Donald Cook. She is assigned to report Holt's underworld connections and discovers the father-daughter relationship. Holt realizes that his testimony will ruin his wife's happiness and front page his daughter's plight. Confronted with his prison record by Lawyer John Miljan, Holt kills him, burns the evidence and then kills himself, leaving Miss Lee, Miss Arthur and Cook happy.

Clean and human scenes between father and daughter are finely repressed for emotional effects. Jenkins' comedy is neatly spotted.

Roy William Neill's direction balances well for dramatic values, and the story by Howard Emmett Rogers is well developed by Dorothy Howells and Ethel Hill. Where they like Holt and melodrama, this will satisfy.

"I Hate Women"

(Goldsmith)

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—A fast, sensibly produced action drama of newspaperdom and romance possessing values essential to neighborhood and secondary houses. Aimed to please ordinary folk, its assets are hokum and realism nicely combined. Its logical story is given unique twists and creates and holds attention, while its dramatic and comedy values, with menace and semi-mystery, offer contrast. It is acted by a good cast. Wallace Ford, June Clyde, "Fuzzy" Knight and Bradley Page stand out. Alexander Carr and Eleanor Hunt contribute catchy bits.

"Scoop" (Ford), a woman hater, bumps into the greatest story of his career and love simultaneously. A noted financier is murdered. The police search for Anne (Miss Clyde), shielded by "Scoop." Keeping the girl hidden as comedy and romance interweave, the newspaper man unravels the circumstantial evidence, outwits the villain, a rival reporter (Page), obtains the dying killer's confession and finds he loves one woman, though hating women.

Realistic newspaper sequences, an aquatic night club dance number and waterfront scenes give color to the film. The picture has been well directed by Aubrey Scotto and should do nicely in subsequents.

"When Strangers Meet"

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—All this picture can boast is a big name cast. The story and acting are mediocre. Direction by William Christy Cabanne is weak and photography is not of the best.

Heading the cast is Richard Cromwell, who is supported by Arline Judge, Vera Gordon, Lucien Littlefield, Arthur Hoyt, Sarah Padden, Ray Walker, Hale Hamilton, Bryant Washburn and several others. Miss Judge seems out of place and lacking in expression. Cromwell also appears stilted and miscast.

The story is laid in the courtyard of a six-family, "U"-shaped house, of which Cromwell's father is owner. Cromwell, a radio engineer, is in love with Miss Judge, but his father objects because her dad is a habitual drunkard. Cromwell gets an offer to go to Des Moines, but turns it down. He is afraid to leave his mother alone with his tyrannical parent. The father gets a new tenant, falls in love with her despite a husband in the case and neglects his own wife. When the new tenant's husband surprises Cromwell's father as the latter is making advances, the tenants are killed. Cromwell's father plants the gun on Littlefield, who is drunk, and for a time manages to cover up. However, Cromwell's mother has seen the murder and at the last moment betrays her unfaithful mate.

Cromwell and Miss Judge are now free to go to Des Moines and settle down, with a job for the boy already provided.

"Lazy River," Monday's preview at the Mayfair, was reviewed from Hollywood by wire on March 2.

"Gambling Lady," last night's preview at the Strand, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on Feb. 16.

Short Subjects"North of Zero"

(Educational)

A fair comedy with Charles Judels in another of his characterizations. He is cast as an owner of a saloon in a Canadian outpost. He's a slick gambler in love with his Mexican dancer. For a time he is on the verge of losing her to a vaudevillian, out to clean up Judels. But the actor's wife objects to her husband's dealings with the hot tamale and Judels ultimately comes out the winner. Tom Patricola is in a small role and does not get a chance to exhibit his wares. Running time, 19 mins.

"Bedlam of Beards"

(Radio)

Clark and McCullough have grabbed the current kidnapping excitement as the basis of a fast-moving comedy of beards. The kidnapped man is bearded. The comedians, proprietors of a barber shop, see his picture and decide to disguise McCullough as the kidnapped man so Clark can collect the reward. About the same time the kidnapper has the same idea. The three meet in the kidnapped man's house, and during the course of the excitement the kidnapped man himself walks in. Plenty of laughs. Running time, 18 mins.

Pathe Review No. 4

(Radio)

This is made up of four subjects. In the first Dr. Sigmund Spaeth talks and plays on a piano to illustrate varying blends of rhythm, melody and harmony. He defines music as the "organization of sound toward beauty." Very interesting. The second number shows the 4,000 lenses in a fly's eye and how it sees. The third is a song by Carson Robison and his buckaroos. Mildly entertaining. The last is slow motion photography designed to show rhythm. Running time, 10 1/2 mins.

"Girl Trouble"

(Astor)

"Girl Trouble," a William Steiner production, is a comedy only mildly funny. Jack Perrin, a ranchman, runs into trouble when his pal, an ugly brute, sends one of the former's pictures to a matrimonial bureau to snare a bride. Jack's sweetheart refuses to believe he is on the level and the other woman is dissuaded from forcing him to marry her only when the fellow who shares the ownership of the ranch with him picks her up. There's plenty of action but little of it that is genuinely comical. Running time, 30 mins.

"Kings Up"

(Universal)

In this Oswald cartoon, Oswald is a troubadour who enters the Queen's castle for the purpose of entertaining her, but his songs in front of the throne are interrupted by the efforts of the Duke to force his attentions on her. After a duel, won by Oswald, the Queen takes him in marriage. All the dialogue is sung. Very good. Running time, 7 1/3 mins.

Insiders' Outlook

San Antonio, April 4

As the revolving wheels of the Sunset Limited churn their way further west, there comes to mind the cautious, but unmistakably defined, attitude which greeted Dave Chatkin's recent landslide of words on long-distance circuit operation, New York style. It was both funny and somewhat tragic.

The reaction in one quarter was deprecating, a sort of "Well, it's not as bad as that" reply. In another, of all the amazing answers, came the admission that all Chatkin had to say was correct and, therefore, there could be no answer. Now Lee Goldberg, once a Warner zone manager, gets off what apparently has been on his chest. It's plenty.

CONCEDING, as was done, that swivel chair operation of large numbers of theatres from New York is a fallacy, the natural question which follows is: "Why, then, keep it up?" The answer, essentially, is that this is the picture business.

The whole theory of producer participation in exhibition is interesting, as is also its current method of practice. Having been terribly mangled in the days that followed the big deflation, one might imagine the producers and distributors, who are also exhibitors, would have determined to change their ideas. That, however, is not the case.

Paramount, of course, has dropped many houses. The company has angled for, and obtained, write-downs on the properties it wants to keep and, in great measure, has succeeded in wringing the water from 1929 valuations. RKO has walked away from the Orpheum circuit, stepped lightly with other of its houses and is revamping as many deals as it can successfully maneuver. Loew's has remained virtually intact, except in Cleveland. Warners, not only have held to their circuit, but have added houses and, very soon now, may be found in the dead center of two, perhaps three, deals which would make it the Number 1 circuit of them all.

THE conclusion to be drawn from this is merely that these major companies, despite the several catastrophes which have been scrawled over the history book of the industry in the last couple of years, will stick to their spots even if it kills.

The effects are several. Just as long as any industry institution makes and shows its own pictures over a circuit large enough to guarantee a profit, there can be no real stimulus in production. While bad pictures are not bad because the producer sets out to make them so, a premium automatically is placed on different product through the playing time the paralleling theatre circuit commands and grants.

Endeavoring to strike a balance with one end of the seesaw marked "Production" and the other "Theatres" has been a dubious procedure in lean years because it has been difficult to determine which factor should predominate. As the theory and practice are constituted largely today, producers own and operate theatres to sweeten the revenue of their distributing companies. It follows the distributor makes money and plenty of it, but in the process the theatres are losing plenty, too. In other words, the producer-exhibitor is neither a simon-pure producer, nor is he a simon-pure exhibitor. He is a double-headed something, constantly torn between two objectives with no clear-cut decision veering him in one given direction.

AS long as it is to be the way it now is, will the question of producers in exhibition remain unsettled and a paramount issue? There is a clear-cut policy to be outlined and some day it will have to be reached if any permanent equilibrium in this industry is to be struck. Perhaps the answer is in local autonomy and local partners—the real thing, not a pseudo something which purports to be what it actually is not. Many of the more observant in the business feel this is the way out.

Moray on the Coast

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—Norman Moray, Vitaphone sales manager, is here contracting local exhibitors on types of shorts desired next season. He leaves next week for the east following a short conference with Jack L. Warner, Gradwell Sears and A. W. Smith, who are en route from New York.

Moray gets back at the home office around May 1.

Beecher Set at M-G-M

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—It's practically set for Milton Beecher, originally of the M-G-M home office, to become Howard Strickling's assistant at the studio. Beecher is here from New York and has been conferring with Strickling, but official sanction from Howard Dietz is being awaited.

Allied to Move Soon

Allied of New Jersey will move its headquarters some time next month, probably to the Lincoln Hotel. The unit needs more space now that Sidney Samuelson has taken on the duties of president of the national organization in addition to the local association.

Major Sales Heads Meet

Major company sales executives met at the M.P.P.D.A. offices yesterday to discuss distribution problems presented by legislation in southern states.

Bareford Puts Majors' Case Before Board

business manager of the International M. P. Operators' Union, who declared that the code as it now stands will put his organization out of business. Under the code, he told the board, the A. F. of L. is set up as "dictator" and their wage scales are to prevail. In this respect, he contended, the code is in violation of those provisions of the Recovery Act assuring to employees the right to collective bargaining through representatives of their own choosing.

Bareford's statement on behalf of the Code Authority was read into the record by Mason, who explained that it had been promised at a conference called to determine whether the members of the Authority were to be questioned. He explained that he had also asked for a copy of the master contract, which had not been furnished. The statement in full was as follows:

Find Best Customers

"It is the business of the distributors of motion picture film, whether large or small, to find the best customers possible for their product and to receive or contract for the best film rentals, and in the accomplishment of that purpose it is immaterial whether that customer is a customer operating one theatre or 500 theatres. It is, of course, obvious that a company distributing motion pictures and also operating theatres, will prefer its own theatres to those of competing exhibitors, but beyond that point and in dealing with theatres operated independently of the distributing company, the distributor will invariably, for its own selfish interests, license its product to the exhibitor who can pay the best film rental. The credit risk and integrity of the individual exhibitor is always a factor, as well as the representation that pictures are given in first run theatres, which representation affects the manner in which the public receives the picture not only for the first run but all subsequent runs in the territory. That is to say, a theatre that will properly publicize and present a picture, definitely adds to the public good will of the picture.

"Producers spend hundreds of thousands of dollars in the production of individual pictures which are leased to exhibitors for minute fractions of their cost. It must be obvious that this tremendous investment can be prejudiced, injured or destroyed by the manner in which it is handled.

Question of Competition

"It would be foolish to suppose that a distributor would give a better price and better terms for its product to a competing distributor who was interested in the operation of theatres than to an exhibitor who was not a distributor. Competition in no industry is keener than the competition between producers and distributors of motion pictures. Distributors sell their product to circuits of theatres as well as to individual theatres regardless of whether or not circuits are connected with producers of motion pictures. The same general form of contract is used for all customers. In dealing with large circuits, however, the regular form of contract used by distributors necessarily requires some elaboration to apply the terms thereof to a large number of theatres differently situated, each theatre having a definite problem and usually a definite film rental.

"A large circuit of theatres will pay as high if not higher rental for pictures than individual theatres. Were it not for the high film rentals paid by circuits, the money would not be forthcoming to the producer, and the producer could not assume the risk of investing large sums in production."

In summing up for the complainants, Brandt asserted none of the points agreed upon by the "Big Eight" and independents during code negotiations were contained in the agreement, which, he charged, "was handed to us with a take-it-or-leave-it attitude," adding: "I think if Will Hays had the writing of the code to do he would have at least soft-pedaled some of the clauses so as not to have aroused this great wave of protest."

Criticizes Code Choices

Brandt said that an estimate would indicate that the 350 houses in the New York I. T. O. A. represented an investment of more than $150,000,000. He criticized Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt's connection prior to his entering the NRA, as well as Charles L. O'Reilly's membership on the Code Authority as an independent and the selection of John C. Flinn as secretary of the Authority when his past experience had been with majors.

Brandt attacked the cancellation clause as worthless and charged that the majors, in order to get their product into countries having quotas, were taking foreign pictures, which, he said, they did not show in their own houses but forced upon independents. He also charged they were forcing westerns upon independents.

"We ask that an impartial administrator be put in charge of the code," he said. "We contend the present code is unconstitutional in a great many things."

Myers, pointing out that most controversies are between sellers and buyers of films, declared there are seven sellers and three buyers on the authority, further pointing out that two producing companies are rated as non-affiliated although connected with the Hays group, which gives the "Big Eight," he said, an opportunity to pack the local boards.

Sees Producers in Control

"The code," he said, "has as fine and clear an arbitration setup as you have ever seen but only for the determining of differences between producers. When the difference is between their group and ours, then they must control the tribunal and they not only have complete and utter control of this court of appeals but there is vested in the Code Authority the power to appoint each individual member of each local board that has to hear these questions in the first instance. There never was a more glaring example of a packed court."

It was declared by Myers that the grievance boards are "impotent to grant relief" but are a powerful weapon of punishment for price-cutting and other offences and can easily put an exhibitor out of business.

vice-president and general manager, said yesterday.

The advance Chicago meeting will be held April 21 and 22 at the Edgewater Beach Hotel. In addition to Schaefer, Neil Agnew, J. J. Unger, Stanley Waite and G. B. J. Frawley of the home office, the Chicago meeting will be attended by District Managers M. S. Kusell, New York; P. A. Bloch, Philadelphia; J. E. Fontaine, Cleveland; William Erbb, Boston; Oscar Morgan, Atlanta; Jack Dugger, Dallas; Charles Reagan, Chicago; R. C. LiBeau, Kansas City; Hugh Braly, Denver; M. H. Lewis, Los Angeles; Ben Blotcky, Minneapolis, and M. A. Milligan, Toronto.

Paramount's district, branch and sales managers, studio and home office executives will attend the annual sales meeting in Los Angeles, where the new season's program of between 60 and 65 features, and new sales policies will be set.

Rule Cleaners Are Subject to 2 Codes

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt has ruled that theatre cleaners, whether employed directly by theatre operators or by cleaning contractors, are subject to the labor provisions of the film and legitimate theatre codes and cannot be worked more than 40 hours per week, Nathan Straus, Jr., state director of the National Emergency Council, was advised by wire yesterday.

The ruling was sought as a result of charges brought against American Maintenance Corp., a cleaning contractor, by Theatre and Amusement Employees Union, Local 118, citing instances of theatre cleaners being worked 50 to 80 hours per week. The film and legitimate codes prescribe a 40-hour maximum week. Straus followed up the charges with a personal investigation and made his own report to the NRA compliance board at Washington. The American Maintenance Corp., asserting that its workers were not on the theatres' payrolls, contended that they were not subject to amusement industry codes.

Kansas City Union Asks a Vaude Probe

KANSAS CITY, April 4.—The stage hands' union has filed a protest with the I.A.T.S.E. in Washington with a request that Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt be requested to investigate vaudeville showings at the Liberty and Ed Dubinsky's refusal to employ stage hands.

The union alleges a code violation. Musicians are making the same claim.

Defer P.-P. Hearing

A review of Referee Henry K. Davis's ruling disallowing bankruptcy claims of $2,000,000 filed against Paramount Publix by General Talking Pictures and De Forest, and a claim of undetermined amount filed by American Tri-Ergon, which was scheduled for yesterday in U. S. District Court here, was postponed to April 18.

Authority to Act Soon on Secretaries

With code boards having met in practically every key city, Code Authority has before it a number of nominations for secretarial posts which are expected to be approved tomorrow.

Already recommended for secretaries are Emma Abplanalp, Chicago; Love B. Harrell, Atlanta; Regina Molseed, Omaha; Georgia Moffett, Cleveland; Mrs. Alma Walton, Memphis; Regina Foley, San Francisco; Mona O'Rourke, New Orleans; Robert Klingensmith, Pittsburgh; Ruth Doyle, Portland.

In Los Angeles, Lola Adams Gentry has been suggested unanimously for the job as first choice and Minnie Koppel is second. The former is secretary of the film board there and the latter secretary of the I.T.O. June Metcalf, originally agreed upon in Kansas City, has met with some opposition and appointment for this territory may be held up as a result.

While the New York boards' situation will not be announced until Friday and no meeting is scheduled for the first informal conference, talk locally pivots around three names for the New York secretarial title. One is Louis Nizer, currently executive secretary of the film board, whose experience with arbitration and other film cases dates back to the time when Louis Phillips, now with Paramount, was secretary.

Another suggestion is Tom Murray of the A. H. Schwartz-Century circuit. Murray for many years was manager of the Paramount Brooklyn exchange and served on the local arbitration board prior to joining the Schwartz outfit.

Arthur Abeles, now an independent exhibitor, for some time was associated with Warners and before entering exhibition on his own was general manager of the Schwartz-Century circuit.

Many of the names submitted are currently secretaries of film boards in the territories from which they have been nominated.

KANSAS CITY, April 4.—Code boards here expect to be in operation within a week. Advice on details is now being awaited from Campi.

The boards are not unanimous on the choice of a secretary and have asked Campi to make the choice. Quarters in the Davidson building have been chosen tentatively.

A. F. Baker, unaffiliated first run zoning member, has wired Campi asking clarification of the zoning rules involving premiums.

DETROIT, April 4.—At the first code board meeting here, E. S. Kinney, assistant general manager of Allied of Michigan, was unanimously recommended for the secretaryship, and Edgar E. Kirchner and Nat Levy were appointed a committee to select permanent quarters and furniture. They will report back at the second meeting next Monday. Audrey Littell, secretary of the Film Board, was the other candidate for the secretaryship, but members felt that a man should be appointed to the job.

Canada Tax Office Open; Mails Forms

OTTAWA, April 4.—A sensation has developed with the discovery that the Canadian Government has maintained a special office in Ottawa, with a staff of employees, for the purpose of collecting a royalty tax on rentals of pictures imported from the United States, Great Britain and other foreign countries although the Department of National Revenue decided one year ago not to impose the levy.

The office personnel has done nothing during the past year but send out periodical notices to the Canadian film distributors to file returns on bookings of foreign films. These notifications have been ignored by the exchanges because of the department's decision to forego the tax in spite of the urgent need for more revenue. It had been the intention to collect 12½ per cent. on gross revenue derived from Canadian bookings of foreign films. This was in line with a recommendation made at the Imperial Economic Conference in Ottawa in 1932 that a direct levy should be charged against rentals of pictures with the exception of those from British studios, thus adding to British preference.

HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW*"Sisters Under the Skin"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—This is adult entertainment of more interest to married folk in their forties than to youth, which really is the menace. It is a fine production with a substantial, serious quality.

The story has Frank Morgan, a millionaire, pretty tired at 49 of his wife's (Doris Lloyd's) social merry-go-round. He wants to play the piano, put on old clothes, go away in an old car, roam the auto camps and know the things he missed in his youth, while his wife likes society. Intrigued by an actress at one of his wife's parties, he traipses with her to Paris, where a young composer (Joseph Schildkraut), who tried to teach Morgan to play the piano, falls madly in love with the actress. The conflict between Morgan and Schildkraut, between actress and wife, between youth and autumn years, presents a neat domestic marital drama, with Morgan deciding in favor of his wife.

The general appeal of the picture is to those of ripened years. The film is well produced and photographed and handled with taste and discrimination by Director David Burton. Story and adaptation are Jo Swerling's. Morgan gives a splendid performance, Schildkraut is fiery, and Miss Lloyd is aristocratic. Elissa Landi is also in the cast.

A report on "Motion Pictures in Education in the United States: Their Educational Influence and Instructional Use" has been compiled by him for submission to the congress.

Price War Disturbs Theatres Near K. C.

KANSAS CITY, April 4.—Kansas City's price war and double billing is coming in for wholesale condemnation by exhibitors in the territory outside the city, letters to the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Ass'n. indicate. In response to a bulletin recently sent out by the association, exhibitors declare that the deplorable situation in Kansas City is having a bad effect throughout the territory.

Small town exhibitors so far have been able to resist the temptation to adopt practices which are rampant here, but it is feared that before long patrons will demand the low prices for first runs and double bills which they see advertised in Kansas City dailies.

Letters to the K. M. T. A. office here endorse the association's plan for concerted action in opposition to guarantee and percentage terms demanded by distributors. This and numerous other problems confronting exhibitors will be discussed at the association's forthcoming convention, to be held on a date before July 1.

Chains Wrong 99%, Is View Of Goldberg

By LEE L. GOLDBERG

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 4.—Dave Chatkin's article, recently published in MOTION PICTURE DAILY, pointing out the failure of circuit theatre operation from New York, must have won the plaudits of every one familiar with the subject.

Reflecting upon my recent experience, while acting as zone manager for a certain theatre chain, I echo Dave's sentiments. In fact, I can supply further evidence of the damage wrought upon this industry by misguided theatre executives, swiveling before their desks in New York.

My base of operation was over 1,000 miles from New York. There were 14 theatres, located in towns of population ranging from 5,000 to 25,000. They were "store shows" by comparison with some of the "de luxe" houses operated by the circuit in metropolitan centers. These theatres, of which I had been an active part owner, were profitable for many years previous. With all due modesty, I had enjoyed a reputation as a capable picture executive—my experience starting in 1906 and embracing active service as managing head of large theatres in key points and smaller towns as well as exchange manager, exploitation man and what-not.

Confidence in Him

The original general manager of the organization had confidence in me, and so did the men then in charge of the film buying. As a result, I was given carte blanche to operate my zone as though it were a separate unit apart from the entire body. Not because of my peculiar ability, but rather due to the wisdom of decentralized operation, our circuit in the first few months ranked close to the top. On the balance sheet, our houses stood out in bold relief in black, while "the de luxers" continued, consistently, to be reflected in glowing red.

One of the first constructive ideas we were successful in planting was to get the local papers in all our towns to publish a two-page series of announcements, welcoming our new organization, in which all the leading merchants and organizations joined. Included was a pledge, signed by all the theatre employees, to the patrons, assuring them of improved entertainment and physical service. I planned this with the thought of disabusing the local public of entertaining any thoughts about the usual changes in management brought about by chain operation. Our managers were permitted to continue as members of luncheon clubs and were otherwise encouraged to do everything possible to retain the good will of the local community.

Was Hindered, He Says

Soon, though, I found the accounting department in the home office was placing all kinds of obstacles in the way of retaining the good will of the local people. For example, an insurance agent, who had been helpful in reducing our tax assessments, had his policies cancelled without any reasonable notice. In another town, the

Who Goldberg Is

LEE L. GOLDBERG, author of this latest blast on long-distance theatre operation from New York, was one of the first men to write picture publicity, starting as press agent at the Hopkins, Louisville, in 1906. At the same time, he was press agent for the Fontaine Ferry Park which played big-time Keith vaudeville. He continued both posts until 1913 when he became manager of the National, also in Louisville. This was one of the first of the big houses to play combination of vaudeville and pictures. When the house was merged with the Mary Anderson and Strand by Keith, he took on the added duties of handling all of these theatres.

In 1916, Goldberg resigned to become a First National (original) franchise-holder for Kentucky and Tennessee with Colonel Fred Levy, a life-long friend. This association continued in the operation of theatres and exchanges in Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee. Upon sale of the chief theatre interests to Warners in March, 1931, he was appointed Kentucky zone manager by Dan Michalove, remaining until November, 1933. Now reunited with Colonel Levy in operation of theatres and exchanges.

banker who had been most influential in getting our Sunday shows to go unmolested, lost our accounts in favor of another bank, which had been definitely lined up with the anti-Sunday element. If a manager bought 50 cents' worth of hardware from a local dealer, we were severely criticized for not getting it through a wholesale firm down East. The saving would be about seven cents, several times consumed by the necessary carrying charges.

Then One Day—

Even with all this interference from the accounting department, we were operating somewhat successfully until suddenly a man, never before connected with active theatre operation, was named general manager. Instead of trying to gain the confidence and friendship of his subordinates, he immediately set about to present the accepted picture of a hard-boiled executive—a frozen countenance, an austere manner and every word of speech displaying ego and an utter lack of understanding of the problems of the men in the field.

Gaining an audience with him to discuss an important matter of operation was just impossible. The only time the writer did speak directly with him was when I was called on the carpet because I had ignored the orders of a certain young relative of the company heads (one of the many relatives) who had bawled me out unmercifully because I had passed for payment a newspaper bill aggregating a few dollars when the compositor had spelled O'Brien as O'Bryan. (Just imagine, with our newspaper rate so ridiculously low—15 cents per inch). I tried to show this inexperienced theatre official where the same paper had given us immeasurable space of reading notices, free of charge, and, therefore, it did not become us to penalize them for this slight typographical error. In vain, I related facts to prove that these small-town newspaper publishers were not a bunch of illiterates, as he intimated, and that even great papers, like The New York Times, with their splendid facilities, occasionally permitted errors to creep in. However, he remained so domineering and adamant and, while I risked losing my job rather than penalize the papers, I had to find some other means of appeasing his wrath. From that point on, though, I realized I was marked as a "no man."

Made Things Tough

Shortly after, this official issued orders forbidding the approval of payments for managers' memberships to luncheon clubs, amounting from $10 to $25; eliminating small pledges to local charities and setting up rules making it well nigh impossible to tie in with local organizations on benefit performances, which, heretofore, had proved profitable and helpful. An advertising budget of just $50 per week was arbitrarily set up for each house. Out of this allowance had to come expenditures for items contracted for through the home office. With four to five changes of program a week and in towns where out-of-town advertising was advisable the manager's lot was, indeed, most difficult. At the same time, he had to accept long and unnecessary telegrams—collect, of course—extolling the virtues of pictures he would not have booked for some time to come.

Any number of innumerable obstacles, placed in the paths of the local managers, could be cited. However, the most harmful handicap was the constant interference by a certain young man (a nephew of one of the company heads) who was suddenly given the lofty position of film buyer. Although he had never been in any of the towns in our group, this novice deemed it unnecessary for him to consult with the zone manager regarding the class of film or the manner of film purchases for our circuit. He also disregarded entirely the previous and proven policies of certain theatres. His initial move was to buy more service for one theatre than could possibly be consumed by two theatres for that period.

Ignored Public Demand

The fact that western pictures were especially desirable for Saturday bookings in our towns was entirely ignored by this wisacre. In fact, he obligated certain theatres to play the most pronounced sort of sex pictures on the day that the theatre heretofore had been catering to children. In one important town we almost suffered from a picture famine because this smart executive had agreed to give 42 days' protection to another chain-owned theatre in a town near by, which had previously enjoyed no protection. The film booked for our zone, not being apprised of the agreed protection until the eleventh hour, had a merry time keeping open two theatres using eight new features each week. In another instance, he agreed to give protection over another of our towns which was finally overcome when it was found the protection to other chain had in mind was for a town of the same name in a different state.

During the early part of this season, most of our theatres could not be definitely booked within two weeks of play dates simply because this film buyer was so busy jumping about the country attending football games that he did not have time to complete film deals. To such a person was entrusted the rather large order of completing the film buying for about 200 widely scattered theatres in the Middle West. On one occasion, the general manager wired me to meet this film buyer in Chicago so that I could sit in on a deal with a district manager, whose confidence I enjoyed. After waiting anxiously from early in the morning until late that afternoon, I was casually informed by our man that the district manager was out of town. Aside from spending two nights on the Pullmans on this wild goose chase, I enjoyed (?) a similar experience at St. Louis also in this same season.

During this period when salary-cutting was in order, some of our theatre employees earning salaries of less than $10 per week were included in the cuts. Imagine the good time the opposition had of making capital of the fact and, especially, when they worked one week without pay. Just about this time I was successful in getting one of our landlords to give us a cut of about 15 per cent in rent after various home office representatives had been turned down. This saving was more than wiped out when the aforementioned film buyer succeeded in inducing the general manager, in spite of my fervent protests, to replace a competent booker with an inexperienced one and at an increase of double the other booker's salary.

Theatres Never Visited

In almost three years, no one of practical theatre experience or authority (not counting traveling auditors) ever visited our theatres. Naturally, then our home office executives could not be expected to begin to understand our particular or peculiar problems. In one case I shall never forget, we lost about $30,000 in extra revenue simply because the proposition got lost in the home office. Not infrequently, too, the payment of local taxes and licenses was overlooked and yet, if our contact man dared to send in an advance reminder, he was rebuked.

Dave Chatkin, in his article, stated: "Decisions of major importance are made in New York, and, conservatively speaking, 70 per cent of these decisions are incorrect."

To which I would add:

"Dave, you are entirely too conservative—about 99 per cent would be a truer estimate."

It would really be a splendid and liberal education for these so-called "swivel-chair" New York theatre executives if they would be forced to be on the scene and actually operate the theatres whose policies they have been so unsuccessfully trying to dictate from their palatial offices in New York. The experience would probably be fraught with many casualties.

Globe to Drop Duals

With opening of "The Unknown Blonde" April 16, the Globe will drop its present policy of twin features and go first run at increased admissions. The Majestic picture goes in for an indefinite run and three exploitation men will be put on to handle it.

Profits More Than Doubled—Johnston

with the company's fourth annual sales convention in session here.

Johnston, in making his annual report to the stockholders, said that he would recommend placing the stock on a dividend basis at one of the later sessions of the convention. He also stated that Monogram's gross billings for the year just closed exceeded those of the previous 12 months by $577,021.

Since the company's last convention, Johnston's report disclosed, foreign offices handling Monogram product exclusively have been opened in London, Paris, Prague, Buenos Aires and in Australia. His report cited as an example of the increasing prestige of the company throughout this country, the fact that 15 Monogram managers and district managers have been appointed to local code boards by Code Authority.

Trem Carr, vice-president in charge of production, reported to the stockholders that Monogram's current program would be completed by June 1, slightly ahead of schedule. Of the 20 dramas on the current program, 15 have been completed, he reported, and six of eight scheduled westerns have been finished.

The stockholders' meeting was preceded by the opening session of the convention, at which brief addresses were made by company executives and franchise holders. Carr diverted from a general talk on production to compliment Edward Golden, sales manager, and Ed Finney, advertising and publicity manager, on their activities of the past year, paying tribute to Golden, in particular, for his work in connection with the drafting of the industry's NRA code at Washington last summer and fall. Golden followed with an address in which he cited numerous examples of the growth and increasing prestige of the company.

Other speakers included Harry Thomas, president of First Division and distributor for Monogram in eastern cities; Irving Mandel, Jack Berkowitz, Arthur Bromberg, Nat Lefton, Floyd St. John, Harry Bergson, J. S. Jossey, Howard Stubbins, Herman Rifkin, William G. Underwood, J. P. Sheffield, Sam Flax and Barney Rosenthal. Daniel Brier, assistant general counsel of Atlantic City, represented Mayor Harry Bachrach, who was unable to attend, and welcomed the delegates. Johnston presided at the opening session.

Others here for the convention are: Lou Ostrow, executive producer; Madeleine S. White, secretary to Johnston; John S. Harrington, manager of print and accessory department, and Mrs. Harrington; Winifred Godde, secretary to Finney; J. P. Friedhoff, treasurer; Norton Ritchey, vice-president for foreign distribution; Mrs. Nellie Witting, secretary to Ritchey; Mr. and Mrs. Murray Rosenbluh, of New York; Al Blofson, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Mills, Albany; Jake Flax, Washington; James Alexander, Pittsburgh; Sam Seplovwin and J. L. Saxe, Detroit; Nat Steinberg, St. Louis; Robert Withers, Kansas City; Sol. Davis, Oklahoma City; Claude Ezell, Dallas.

Officers were elected as follows: Johnston, president; Carr, vice-president; J. P. Friedhoff, treasurer; who will speak the following day on "What's the Matter with Production from the Point of View of an Exhibitor." Louis B. Mayer's name has been added to the Wednesday program. His subject will be: "What's the Matter with Exhibition from the Point of View of the Producer." At this same session Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, past president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will talk on "The Public's Attitude Toward Motion Pictures," and Joseph I. Breen, of the Producers' Ass'n. will discuss "Self Regulation in Advertising Motion Pictures."

On Wednesday afternoon the delegates will be taken in busses to the Warner studios and that same evening there will be a party at the Universal plant, with trips through the Fox and RKO studios set for Thursday afternoon. There may also be a studio party that night.

Two speakers added for the Thursday program are: W. L. Ainsworth of Fond du Lac, Wis., "What the Code Means to the Country Town Exhibitor" and Morgan A. Walsh of San Francisco, "What the Code Means to the Metropolitan Exhibitor."

Three Pullmans Leave

Three Pullmans leave New York, two over the Pennsylvania, which leave at 10:30 o'clock tonight, and one over the New York Central from Grand Central station, leaving at 7:45 o'clock.

The New York Central car goes via Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland and Toledo and reaches Chicago at 3:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Leaving New York on this car will be: R. Sobelson of Bangor, Pa.; Edward G. Levy and party of New Haven, and William G. Benton of Saratoga Springs. Between 15 and 20 more delegates will be picked up at Buffalo, Cleveland and Toledo.

On the Pennsylvania cars out of New York will be: Fred Baehler of MOTION PICTURE DAILY, J. J. Cohen of RKO, W. P. (Pat) Garyn of United Newsreel, Helen O'Toole of the New York M.P.T.O.A. office, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roth of Morristown, N. J. At Philadelphia the following will board these cars: George P. Aarons, Lou Berman, M. E. Comerford, Lewen Pizor and Ralph Wilkins. At Harrisburg, Pittsburgh and Fort Wayne more delegates will board these cars. Two cars with the Baltimore and Washington delegations are to be added at Pittsburgh.

Cars Out of Chicago

Out of Chicago there will be 10 cars over the Rock Island. All the eastern and midwestern delegates converging on Chicago will be entertained by Jack Miller at the Chicago Exhibitors' Ass'n. offices during the stop-over. The special out of Chicago will be known as the M.P.T.O.A. Golden State Ltd.—Hollywood Special. It is scheduled to leave Chicago at 8:45 P. M. The Memphis special car will be picked up at Tucumcari, New Mexico, at 1:15 A. M., Sunday. Two cars out of New Orleans will be added at El Paso at 8:30 A. M. Sunday and there will be a six-hour stop-over there to permit the delegates to cross the border to Juarez and to attend a Wild West show to be put on by local exhibitors. The 17-car special out of El Paso will reach Los Angeles over the Southern Pacific at 7:40 A. M. Monday.

Mississippians Face Daily Report on Tax

MEMPHIS, April 4.—Mississippi exhibitors here earlier in the week for the Tri-States convention, who complained bitterly over the state admission tax, are compelled to make daily reports to state officials. Violations or avoidance of the tax may be punishable up to $1,000 in cash, the full amount of the defaulted tax and 15 years in prison.

The law, first passed as a two-year temporary measure, is now permanent and is described as discriminatory by Mississippi showmen in that it is a straight two per cent sales tax on industries other than the theatre industry, which meets the impost by a tax on each ticket beginning at five cents and up thereafter. Many of these exhibitors declare the levy is driving them out of business.

The Mississippi legislature adjourned Wednesday not to meet again for the next two years.

Erpi Silent About Compromise in Suit

Erpi and the company's legal representatives here declined to comment yesterday on reports from Wilmington, Del., that efforts would be made toward an amicable settlement of the anti-trust suit brought against the company and its affiliates, Western Electric and A. T. & T., by the Stanley Co. of America, Duovac Radio and General Talking Pictures over the alleged enforcement of restrictive clauses in connection with replacement of sound equipment parts.

Completely unconfirmed, the reports of an attempt at settlement of the suit persist, particularly in Wilmington, where trial of the action was to have started yesterday in U. S. District Court there. Counsel for both sides sought and were granted a postponement of trial to next October.

Morris to Baltimore

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Walter M. Morris, manager of Warners' Metropolitan, has gone to Baltimore to take over management of the Stanley, which Warners reopen Friday. Nelson Smith is temporarily in charge of the Metropolitan.

KANSAS CITY, April 4.—Emporia and Clay Center, Kan., voted for Sunday shows in yesterday's elections. The Emporia majority was heavy.

Purely Personal

B. S. MOSS, LOUIS NIZER, HARRY B. D. BUCKLEY, DAVID LOEW, EUGENE PICKER, JOSEPH VERGESSLICH, JOE BRANDT, HAL HODE, LOUIS BLUMENTHAL, WILLIAM FRANKEL, HENRY CHIDNOFF, BEN SHEERMAN, JACK STEINMAN and ARNOLD VAN LEER were M. P. Club lunchers yesterday.

KATHARINE BROWN, eastern story editor for Radio, leaves for the coast today to confer with B. B. KAHANE and PANDRO S. BERMAN at the studios.

P. F. MASUCCI, for the past eight years with Heywood-Wakefield, is now associated with International Seat Corp.

MORT BLUMENSTOCK arrives this morning from New Orleans by plane. He rushed home when he heard his mother was ill.

HERSCHEL STUART leaves next week for Dallas to be with his family on his daughter, Faith's, second birthday, April 22.

CHARLES BEAHAN, scenario writer, has arrived from the coast and is at the Warwick.

HARRY SAUBER's original, "Window Panes," has been purchased by Warners.

GLORIA SWANSON reaches town this morning. She will be here about two weeks.

SIDNEY SAMUELSON returned yesterday after a three-week southern cruise.

ROBERT SMELTZER, with Warners in Washington, was in New York yesterday on a short visit.

BEN ATWELL is back after several weeks in Washington exploiting Columbia pictures.

JOE LEE, local Fox exchange manager, will shortly undergo a throat operation.

DONALD NOVIS yesterday attended an RKO showing of his short "Everybody Likes Music."

ETHEL MERMAN is back in town from the coast.

HOWARD S. CULLMAN returns from Albany tomorrow.

TEN CENTS

Expect Action On Phila.-N. Y. Boards Today

Full Campi Membership To Settle Problem

Showdown on setting up personnel of the New York and Philadelphia clearance and zoning and grievance boards is expected today when Campi meets with Harold S. Bareford as chairman. Several attempts by the committee on selections to name the boards have proven fruitless and the matter now goes to Code Authority for action.

During the last two days the committee on nominations has been wrangling over various names suggested by independents for boards in both the Quaker City and New York. In Philadelphia, Warners are understood to be the main objectors to certain of the personnel submitted. Locally,

F-P Canadian Net Gains by $104,885

TORONTO, April 5.—Net profit gain of $104,885 over the previous year is shown in the annual report of Famous Players Canadian Corp. for the year ending Dec. 31, although net earnings from theatre operations were lower.

The increase was due largely to profits on marketable securities, discount on bonds redeemed, lower U. S. money exchange, reduced interest charges and profit from subsidiaries.

Net tangible assets are listed at COLUMBUS, April 5.—The I.T.O. of Ohio has gone on record as opposed to the new tax bill pending in the Senate, which is designed to repeal the present admission tax and put a five cents per foot tax on all film submitted by distributors for censorship.

St. Louis MPTO in Fight on Sale Tax

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—The M.P.T.O. has declared itself as opposed to a city sales tax as a means of helping the city to raise additional revenue.

A nominal sales tax was suggested at a recent conference between Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann and various business interests. After the gather-

Theatre Deal In St. Louis Up to Court

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—What the chances are for a reorganization of the St. Louis Amusement Co. and the transfer of the Ambassador, Grand Central and Missouri Theatres to F. & M. Operation will be known here tomorrow at a hearing to be given by U. S. District Judge Charles B. Davis.

Warners put up a vigorous fight at the first hearing on March 30, and after listening to the arguments for some time the court broadly hinted that unless the rival factions got together it would reject the reorganization plans and let the properties go through foreclosure.

The bondholders' protective committee favoring the F. & M. deal asked the court at the March 30 hearing to notify the owners of all bonds that unless they deposited them within 20 days they would not be allowed to participate in the reorganization plan. The request was taken under advisement by Judge Davis.

Warners joined with attorneys for holders of about $200,000 worth of bonds in opposing the plan.

Monogram to Make 20 for 1934-35 List

ATLANTIC CITY, April 5.—Monogram will make 20 features, four of which will be specials, and will release eight John Wayne westerns to be produced by Lone Star Productions during the new season, the company's franchise holders decided today at Monogram's fourth annual sales convention.

Coincident with the setting of the new schedule, the franchise holders voted a second 50 per cent increase in the production budget. The first 50 per cent increase was approved by the franchise holders during a meeting at Cleveland three months ago. The budget increases apply to 16 features. Separate budgets are to be set for the four specials.

Discussions of story material and players for next season's schedule occupied most of today's sessions, but agreements on the complete program

Eastern Poster Men Leave for St. Louis

Poster service renters from the east left yesterday afternoon for St. Louis to attend the second annual convention of the National Protective Poster Ass'n, which gets under way at the Coronada hotel tomorrow. The meeting will last two days.

The renters are prepared to get out their own posters, stills and other advertising accessories, but the plan must be approved at the convention before production starts.

Officers for the new year will be elected and Simon Libros, president, is expected to continue in that post.

Cohn In, Holds Meet On Production Plans

Upon his arrival from the coast yesterday Harry Cohn, president of Columbia, conferred with his brother Jack, Nate Spingold and Joseph Seidelman on production matters.

Seidelman returned late Wednesday night on the Berengaria from a three-month tour of Europe, while Jack Cohn flew in for a short stay.

Disagreements Indicated Among Members Upon Film Code Report

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Dissolution of Clarence Darrow's National Recovery Review Board within a few weeks is confidently expected here.

Asked by the President to submit its film report by April 15 and torn from the very day of its establishment by dissension among its members, the board is seen as giving little or no promise of concrete benefit to the interests which have claimed they suffered oppression because of the provisions of various codes.

The report to be submitted next week on the film code will not be unanimous, it was indicated tonight. Indications are that Chairman Darrow, supported by W. O. Thompson

Chicago Awaiting MPTOA Delegation

CHICAGO, April 5.—Chicago is all set to receive the advance guard of M.P.T.O.A. delegates this afternoon. First of the New York, New England, Albany, Buffalo and northern Ohio contingent are due to arrive at 3:15 o'clock. The remainder of the New York group and the Baltimore and Washington delegations are due in before 7 o'clock.

Wisconsin and Illinois men and others from points farther west will filter in all day. Jack Miller is holding open house at the Chicago Exhibitors' Ass'n quarters. They will pull out for El Paso, where the New Orleans cars will be added, at 8:45 o'clock tonight.

Disney to Continue At U. A.—Lichtman

"Walt Disney will continue to release his shorts with United Artists as long as he and we are in business," Al Lichtman stated yesterday, confirming MOTION PICTURE DAILY's exclusive story of March 24 that the producer and distributor had signed another contract.

Lichtman stated U. A. will release as many shorts as Disney makes, and while the producer's schedule for next season has not yet been set, it will probably call for 13 "Mickey Mouses" and 13 "Silly Symphonies."

The Pay-Off

Bowie, Ariz., April 5.

UNFAIR is it for producers, getting wind of another producer's pet idea, to beat the original to the market with the same idea, slightly altered. So thought Tri-State exhibitors in Memphis the other day.

The theory is correct, but where the Tri-State men failed to tread was on ground substantial enough to kill off the practice. Cycles, long a part of the business in the past and long to be in the future, it is to be feared, are apt to turn vicious. Every one knows it, recognizes the futility of it, but does nothing because there appears little that can be done.

DISTURBING to that convention as well was the situation on shorts. Well might it be. The complaints on this score were their over-abundance and their quality, or rather, their lack of quality. Both counts carry plenty of weight.

The situation is deplorable and has been for many years. Even experienced film men express their amazement over the numbers to which annual output from all sources reaches. Roughly, the total is between 1,200 and 1,500 releases, not reels. Why that number has about as much sense to it as some other well-routined practices in the business.

Many never return their negative costs; most of them are made with what's left of the feature organization or what the feature organization refuses to use.

BECAUSE many producers view them as a necessary adjunct in rounding out the complete service plan on which their sales departments insist, the spectacle is one of shorts ground out, sans new ideas and care, to meet a consuming market.

We say consuming market since the majors will not sell their features unless the shorts go along. Exactly how much absorption there actually would be if exhibitors were not compelled to subscribe to a system which makes them take 'em, like it or not, would be a vastly different story.

DEMONSTRATING that the will provides the way is the clean-up job in advertising which was started and virtually finished in a couple of months. April 1 was the final date set by Jeff McCarthy, properly empowered by the Hays organization, to handle this problem and this is the mark he struck. With the exception of some independent interests beyond the pale of Hays' authority, advertising has been fumigated with results that can bring only good to the business.

The same process applied to Hollywood, so that it will stick would seem to be the logical follow-up. Nobody can convince us it can be done in advertising and not in the product itself. There are elements peculiar to Hollywood and its far-removed seat of operation which admittedly make such a plan more difficult to execute, but not insurmountably so.

and Samuel P. Henry, will recommend broad changes in the code, in which event John F. Sinclair and W. W. Neal will refuse to sign and may submit a minority report. The sixth member of the board, Fred P. Mann, was not present during the hearings.

Members of the board who accepted their appointments in the belief that they had been offered an opportunity for constructive work for the betterment of conditions of small enterprises in codified industries are said to have been discouraged by the refusal of Chairman Darrow to consider the establishment of a technical staff which could advise upon the many involved trade practices which have been the subject of complaint.

These members realize that the hearings were productive only of charges of monopoly and unfair practices, supported by little or no proof and for the most part unanswered by those against whom the charges were directed. This was particularly true of the film case, where a brief statement of general character represented the only material offered by those who were the "defendants" in the unique proceedings of the board.

See Need of Amendment

Expressing informally the opinion that undoubtedly there are provisions in many of the codes which should be amended, members of the board indicated their awareness of the fact that practically every point brought before them had been the subject of repeated discussion during negotiation of the codes. Because of this fact, they were represented as being unwilling to give their approval to any reports which would recommend wide revision unless some step were taken to provide impartial technical information on the matters involved.

In creating the Darrow board there was made available for expenses the sum of $50,000, which is sufficient to support the board for only a few weeks. The request of the President before leaving for his trip to Florida that the board make its report by April 15 is taken as an indication that it is considered but a temporary body and no additional funds will be provided.

It is expected that, as a result of the board's experience, recommendations will be made to the President for the establishment of a permanent appellate body to review codes upon complaint, which will operate independently of the National Recovery Administration, but not ignore that organization, as the Darrow board has done. Such a board would be supported by an adequate staff of men sufficiently acquainted with the various industries to pass intelligently upon the technical questions which would be raised.

Lease Theatre Site

Brandt Theatres Corp. has leased a store at 1985 Broadway and two buildings at 123 and 125 West 67th St. for construction of a 600-seat theatre. The lease is for 15 years on a percentage rental basis.

New Group to Open Two K.C. Theatres

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—The Rewot Corp. has been formed here to operate the Pantages and the next-door 12th Street, a smaller house. M. W. Reinke is president and S. Bernard Joffe, recently resigned as manager of the Fox Uptown, vice-president. Other officers were not revealed.

Barring delays, the Pantages, dark for two years, will be relighted April 13 on a policy of first run pictures with stage presentations, while the 12th Street, formerly devoted to burlesque and now closed for changes, will open later in April as a subsequent run. Present plans are to maintain an all-time scale of 25 cents at the Pantages, with probably 15 cents at the smaller theatre.

The Pantages will be renamed the Tower, derived from the tower on the theatre building. The 12th Street will be known as the Downtown. The first run, with 2,200 seats, and the other, with a capacity of 1,040, will add a total of 3,240 seats to what is already considered an over-seated condition downtown.

While deals are not fully consummated, it is understood the Rewot Corp. is taking a 10-year lease on a percentage arrangement, with the understanding the company will relinquish operation if it proves unsuccessful. The Pantages building and ground, and part of the other property, have been involved in complicated litigation since Alexander Pantages, for whom the house was built, let it go back when he withdrew from Kansas City about four years ago.

Tentative plans of Loew do not call for taking over operation of the houses until some time in November, but this can be changed at a moment's notice, since control of the circuit lies with Loew. Louis M. Sagal will continue to operate the houses until the fall and the policy under Loew management will be determined when the operation is taken over.

Clubs Approve "Earth"

The Warner home office yesterday received letters of commendation for "As the Earth Turns" from three officers of the Indiana Indorsers of Photoplays, a state clubwomen's organization. Similar indorsements of the picture have been received from groups in other states, it was said. The communications received yesterday were signed by Mrs. W. F. Holmes, Mrs. T. W. Demmerly and Mrs. Carl R. Day of Indianapolis.

West Is Picking Up

SALT LAKE CITY, April 5.—John Rue, branch manager for Universal, has just returned from a tour of Idaho with reports of a business pick-up everywhere. Similar reports are coming in from the southern and western counties of Utah, where the total of business firms in operation has jumped from 1,081 to 1,242 in the past year.

ing the Mayor said he regarded one-half a cent on each dollar of sales a nominal tax. He made clear it was merely a suggestion. But film men are taking no chances, so have gone on record as absolutely against the plan. The present state sales tax, plus the Federal tax on the higher admissions rates, is all of such tax impositions the industry hereabouts feels it can stand at this time.

Report Delaware Tax

WILMINGTON, April 5.—A bill introduced recently to require theatres to pay a tax of 10 cents per 100 feet of film, or fraction thereof, has been reported favorably in the House at Dover. It was introduced by Representative George P. Elliott of this city.

Has 25th Anniversary

CLARION, Ia., April 5.—W. F. Smith, owner of the Colonial, is celebrating his 25th anniversary at that spot. This is held to be something of a record in the film business. Allied has taken notice of the occasion by sending a letter of congratulation through Lester F. Martin, secretary-treasurer, and Smith has lined up a program for the month that includes a number of the current hits.

Regular quarterly dividend of $1.62½ on the $6.50 preferred stock has been declared by Loew's, payable May 15 to stock of record April 28.

Loew's has disapproved many of the names recommended for the clearance and zoning boards. It is said C. C. Moskowitz is the main dissenter.

The main local clearance and zoning board tentatively set up consists of Robert Wolff, RKO; Leo Abrams, Universal; David Loew, Loew's; Harry Shiffman, Edward Rugoff and Lee Ochs. The three advisory committees are still unsettled, although numerous suggestions are down for the Manhattan, Brooklyn and New Jersey setups.

The grievance board, tentatively figured, comprises Roy Haines, Milt Kusell, John O'Connor and William Landau.

Although free radio shows, vaudeville, budget and financing and the Hollywood extra situation are scheduled to be discussed today, Campi will first dispose of the Philadelphia and New York boards' situation. These are the last two boards and it is understood that definite setups will be agreed upon.

Charge Control by Majors

Independents in refusing to make certain changes suggested to them declare the majors are trying to dominate the two boards in question. Another heated discussion is expected at today's meeting with the unaffiliates planning to stand pat and ready to call on Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt to hand down an official ultimatum on the recommendations.

For the past several days the committee handling the local clearance and zoning has been discussing the following names for posts on advisory committees: William Scully, Herman Gluckman, George Skouras, Joseph Seider, Sam Rinzler, A. H. Schwartz, Joe Lee, Harry Buxbaum, Edward Schnitzer, Don Jacobs, Leon Rosenblatt, Harry Hecht, M. Sussman, Sam Runheimer, Moe Striemer, Jack Bellman, Nate Blumberg, Jack Steinman, William Yost and Lawrence Bolognino.

In several of the local exchanges branch managers have already been tipped off as to the men desired for posts by the committee. The managers also have been informed that some of the independents after the jobs will not be given them, but the majority of those named will be on the advisory committee.

and prospective stars were not reached. Friday's session will resume discussion of the program with expectations that the complete story and player announcement will be ready by the end of the day.

Predicting a more impressive story and player lineup next season than in any of Monogram's previous years, Trem Carr, vice-president in charge of production, said: "The franchise holders have received such unusual support on our past production that we have again decided to take another step forward in negative cost and to reach out for bigger star name values, bigger writers and, all in all, bigger time production values. We will continue to use unit supervisors on production, but all production will be directly under our executive producer."

W. Ray Johnston, Monogram head, who presided at the day's sessions, stated that directors had voted a six per cent dividend on the company's stock, payable May 1.

A fourth anniversary dinner was staged by the conventioners at the Ambassador Hotel tonight, with Johnston as the guest of honor. Johnston will outline executive policies tomorrow, while Carr and Lou Ostrow, executive producer, will make known production plans; Edward Golden, sales manager, will discuss sales policies, and Monogram's advertising and publicity plans will be outlined by Ed Finney.

Wehrenberg Mops Up On Week of Revivals

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—Fred Wehrenberg, owner of the Cinderella, Melba, Michigan and Virginia theatres, exploded the Holy Week bad business myth with a big bang and in a way that was surprising even to himself.

At all four of the houses on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday he ran Mae West in a revival of "Night After Night." At two of the houses the accompanying attraction was another revival, "The Big Broadcast," and in the other two houses, the Melba and Virginia, the second feature was still another revival, "Horse Feathers."

On Tuesday and Wednesday the four houses played to more business than on the same nights in the previous three weeks.

Looking 'Em Over

"A Modern Hero"

(Warners)

Richard Barthelmess in a human story which should appeal generally. Here he is seen as a peasant boy out of his class, as he is tersely described by Veree Teasdale, who goes through the gamut from small time circus horseback performer to a financially powerful automobile manufacturer only to lose his own son, money and friends and return to his mother, bereft of the power he so much craved.

As his mother's partner in a circus act, Barthelmess despises the sawdust trail and ultimately leaves Marjorie Rambeau to enter the bicycle business as a partner of Hobart Cavanaugh. He has an affair with Jean Muir, but she refuses to marry him despite a coming blessed event. She marries Theodore Newton, a local boy, because she knows she would never be happy with Barthelmess.

Having lost his first love, Barthelmess sets out to conquer the business world. He ties up with Arthur Hohl, marries his daughter and becomes extremely powerful in business. His married life is not so eventful. Barthelmess prefers to spend most of his time with his son, William Janney, now attending college, rather than with his wife. The hero meets Miss Teasdale at a party and she entices him until he is robbed of his entire fortune by the conniving Richard Tucker. On top of that he loses his son, who is killed in an accident, and when he returns home with the body Miss Muir further adds to his misery.

Disowned by his so-called friends, scorned by his first love, there is nothing left for him to do but confess to his mother and return to her side.

"Broken Shoes"

(Amkino)

Unalloyed Soviet propaganda. Popular entertainment it can hardly be considered, chiefly because it is too depressing. It must not be denied that the film possesses power, simplicity of theme and treatment and a certain emotional quality, but the squalor of its tale, without the relieving touch of artistry and subtlety to make it palatable to the general run of filmgoers, offers an unsurmountable obstacle to the picture's success. The photography, furthermore, while tremendously graphic, is rather harsh.

The story is so simple that an American audience would have no difficulty following it, even without the English titles with which the film is generously provided. The picture is an attack on Fascism. Its locale is Nazi Germany, to judge by the swastika worn by some of the characters. To make their point, the producers, Majrabpomfilm, have gone into considerable detail to show the cruel treatment of striking dock workers by Fascist authorities.

Untouched by the frightful poverty of the dock workers, the officials do not hesitate in calling out the police with orders to shoot. In the hope of aiding their fathers' cause the children of the strikers organize and march with the men. In a clash with the police children and strikers are shot down without discrimination.

The cast plays with that extraordinary realism typical of Russian performers. Margarita Barskaya directed.

"City Limits"

(Monogram)

The humorous vein in which "City Limits" is told sets it down as an entertaining film. To Ray Walker as a smart-alecky reporter and to Frank Craven as a railroad president on a diet of pills goes most of the credit for keeping the production going.

Walker is assigned to get the low-down on a railroad merger. To gain entry to the home of Craven, who refuses to make any public statement, he poses as the family doctor's assistant. The railroad prexy, who learns of Walker's identity through his daughter, never lets on that he knows the truth.

When Craven goes on a trip on his private car, Walker refuses to be shaken off. The railroad head falls from the train by accident and is taken care of by a couple of hoboes. His sudden disappearance gives a rival railroad an opportunity to beat down the stock of Craven's company and then seize control by having it sold out. Walker (by this time he has fallen hard for the prexy's daughter, Sally Blane) is put to a real test to locate Craven. He does so, and rushes him back just in time to save the situation. In the end Walker is in possession of the story—and the gal.

Among the other players are Claude Gillingwater, James Burke and James Conlin. William Nigh handled the direction.

Studios to Give One Big MPTOA Party

LOS ANGELES, April 5.—Members of the M. P. Producers' Ass'n, after conferences with Ben Berinstein, in charge of arrangements for entertaining the M.P.T.O.A., have decided to unite in staging one big party at the M-G-M studio Wednesday night. All secondary artists are being called upon to participate in the program. Stars are being reserved for the Thursday night banquet at the Ambassador. Universal is the only studio putting on a party of its own for the visitors. Tuesday night is the time.

All studios are being thrown open to conventioners. The Hays office is doing all in its power to give the fellows something to write home about, sparing neither time nor expense.

Variety Club Chatter

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, April 5.—The biggest crowd to attend a Monday noonday luncheon to date was on hand. MARK (Big Bad) WOLF and HARRY (Gold Standard) SILVER were the Kings for a Day. Both of these barkers hail from Hamilton, a suburb, and put off what they termed "Hamilton Day." Several acts from radio station WCKY, Covington, Ky., including CHIEF NATCHEZ, a full-blooded Indian, playing the Palace Theatre, Hamilton, at the time, furnished the major portion of the entertainment. M. O. BURNS, a prominent Hamilton attorney, and national executive head of the Eagles Lodge, made an address. CALVIN FURMAN and DICK FARR, ping pong players of note, staged an exhibition.

Among last week's visitors to the local tent were: L. J. ENGLE, of the mother club; W. G. BISHOP, Detroit, Tent No. 5; CHARLES BARON, Buffalo, Tent No. 7; H. C. BISSELL, J. S. JOSEY, Mr. and Mrs. ALBERT LEFTON and others from Cleveland.

MANNY (Hi Toots) SHURE and JOE (Silent) GOETZ are the next Kings for a Day, and promise to have something well worth while on their program. Following these, the Kings for April are: ARTHUR FRUDENFELD and WILLIAM HILLIAR; MAURICE WHITE and MERRELL SCHWARZ; PAUL KRIEGER and JOHN HENNEGAN; NELSON TROWBRIDGE and HAROLD ECKARD; NAYLOR STONE and MAX KATZ.

The method of electing applicants to membership has been changed to conform to the practice of the national club, and will go into effect at once.

JOE KOLLING, secretary, is doing a publicity job for the local Union Gas and Electric Co.

A. J. ("Happy") MEININGER, in charge of the RKO Capitol for several months, moves over to the RKO Grand, where he exchanges posts with ERVIN BOCK.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—An elaborate session of the club was sponsored by L. J. MCCARTHY and his Fox theatres organization the night of April 2 at the Muehlebach. Since the quarters were not quite ready, the scheduled housewarming was postponed.

Headquarters committee completes its function with occupancy of the rooms. These men put in considerable time choosing and preparing the quarters: I. DUBINSKY, chairman; HARRY TAYLOR, L. E. POPE and BOB WITHERS.

In addition, the house committee furnished yeoman service. This group, which is a standing committee, consists of PECK BAKER, chairman; DICK BICHELE, IRWIN DUBINSKY, JOE MANFRE, ED SHANBERG and BOB WITHERS.

HERBERT V. JONES had the honor of acting as guide to Citizen HERBERT HOOVER of Palo Alto, Cal., on his trip through the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery of Art, which he expressed a desire to see during his last week's visit. BARKER JONES is a trustee of the gallery. Also trustee of the local Fox theatres division.

With GEORGE BAKER and ERWIN DODSON as "kings for the day," the club voted its last noon meeting the

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Stolen Sweets"

(Chesterfield)

HOLLYWOOD, April 5.—A fairly entertaining picture, but long and weak in plot material. It is the simple story of a rich girl, Sally Blane, who resents the motivations of her family in trying to marry her to Jameson Thomas after she has met and fallen in love with Charles Starrett.

She finds that with Starrett she is at ease and can enjoy life, but with Thomas she would have to dwell within her social strata and lose all sense of pleasure.

The difference between the two bidders for the heroine's hand is Starrett, an insurance peddler, cannot place her in luxurious settings, while Thomas can furnish the requisites demanded by Claude King, the girl's father. King tries and succeeds in killing off the romance with Starrett several times when it gets to the point of ending in marriage, but eventually he loses out.

Supporting the players listed are Ethel Griffes, Phillips Smalley, Johnny Harron and Polly Ann Young. Richard Thorpe directed.

"You're Telling Me," last night's preview at the Paramount, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on March 22.

"Constant Nymph," last night's preview at the Roxy, was reviewed by cable from London on Jan. 24.

most enjoyable and elaborate to date. Everything was great, especially the entertainment. JACKIE MERKLE, a six-year-old, displayed amazing psychic powers in reading the minds of the barkers. The five Manila Boys from Station WHB demonstrated the art of band music as played in the South Seas.

The Public Service Co. furnished two buses to transport barkers to and from the hotel. AL WOOD, ad manager of the utility, in a short talk expressed his appreciation for the co-operation downtown theatres are giving his firm to exploit use of the weekly car pass.

Chief Barker FRANK HENSLEY announced SAM ABEND was convalescing from an appendicitis operation at Menorah hospital. The club sent flowers.

ARTHUR COLE is mourning the loss of his nifty maroon Dodge sedan, thefted.

St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—HOMER HARMON has transferred his publicity activities from Loew's State to the Shubert Rialto where his old boss, DINTY MOORE, is now in charge.

JOE FELD's son won the Navy heavyweight championship of the San Diego Post.

Mr. and Mrs. MILLER of the newly organized Indiana chapter were visitors over the week-end.

SILVERT SETRON's wife has returned to Buffalo for a visit with her parents.

JOHNNY CAPOREL off to Springfield, Ill., for a short vacation.

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, April 5.—About 150 Variety Club members and guests met at luncheon in the club rooms in the Statler Hotel. CHARLES DOTY and BILL WATSON were kings for the day. Entertainment was furnished by members of the RKO Palace vaudevillians.

SAM DEUTSCH, prominent local jeweler, entertained at the luncheon 60 guests in honor of his birthday. His guests included a long list of popular attorneys and city officials.

GEORGE ROBERTS, Fox district manager, and I. J. SCHMERTZ are in charge of next Monday's luncheon.

The following week there will be four kings instead of the customary two, when M. B. HORWITZ, JOHN KALAFAT, ED BANG (News sport editor) and BEN SCHWARTZ will have charge of the luncheon. Arrangements have been made to have the entire Cleveland baseball team as guests of honor. Also as honor guest, there will be FRANK BUCK, scheduled to appear in person at the RKO Palace with his picture, "Wild Cargo."

"The Big Bad Wolf"

(Disney-U.A.)

Walt Disney again rings the bell with his sequel to the "Three Little Pigs." It has infectious rhythm, pastel shadings done in Technicolor second to none, and cartoon work alone in its class.

Exhibitors who played the original porcine picture can bill the follow-up above the feature. Those who didn't exhibit "Three Little Pigs," and they are few in this category, have an opportunity of cashing in on another short which is heading straight for the Academy award next year.

In this number the big bad wolf comes back to annoy the pig trio, but his main quest is Little Red Riding Hood. Grandma is also in the story and for a time in danger of her life, but it takes the pig of the brick house to come to the rescue and send the wolf off into the woods again. Running time, 9½ mins.

It's great, it's colossal, it's Disney's best.

THIS junket, like anywhere the probing goes beneath surface markings, has demonstrated a point of view which New York first and Hollywood second might well listen to, for it represents a completely accurate and cross-sectional slant of the men who represent the major companies in wide stretches of the nation.

Branch managers, whose names remain secret because it is their jobs this writer must protect, told him the reaction to "smoker" jokes added to otherwise clean pictures is definite, clear-cut and emphatically resented.

These men do their talking to the customers, meaning the exhibitors, and the exhibitors get it from theirs, meaning the public. Their opinion, to this watchtower, is authoritative enough and impressive enough an indication of what the South, at least, thinks to persuade the top-rung occupants, East and West, to pause and listen.

Mary Pickford Gets $30,000 in Detroit

DETROIT, April 5.—Mary Pickford, appearing at the Michigan this week, had the town by the ears, grossing better than $30,000, almost double the recent take at that theatre. To accommodate the crowds the theatre opened at 8:30 A. M., starting last Monday, with the star giving her first show two hours later. She gave five shows a day.

"The Mystery of Mr. X," personally selected by Miss Pickford, was the picture on the program. Despite exceptional business at this house, grosses at other theatres held up well, the Fox with "This Man Is Mine," the Downtown with the second week of "George White's Scandals" and the United Artists with "Riptide."

TEN CENTS

Budget Is Set At $2,500,000 By Monogram

$250,000 Above Outlay for Past Season

ATLANTIC CITY, April 6.—A 1934-35 production budget of $2,500,000 was set today by Monogram franchise holders at their fourth annual sales convention, which closes here tomorrow.

The new budget is an increase of $250,000 over that voted for last year's program, although it provides for the same number of pictures, and brings the cost per picture of the 20 scheduled for 1934-35 to an average of more than $100,000 each. The budget increase is the third successive one to be voted by the company's franchise holders in their four years of production and distribution activities. It

Warners Set 45 of Next Year Program

ALBUQUERQUE, April 6.—Forty-five of next year's schedule of 60 features are definitely set, stated Jack L. Warner, production head of Warners, on his way west here tonight. Plans are also being lined up rapidly for the shorts schedule, which will comprise 300 reels, including some three-reelers, as currently, and 12 two-reel Technicolor subjects.

Warner refused to comment on the possibility of a royalty payment plan for talent, saying he knew nothing

400 Delegates Expected For MPTOA Meet

By RED KANN

LOS ANGELES, April 6.—As the special cars began to converge on Los Angeles a tally made late today by Ben Berinstein, president of the I. T. O. A. of Southern California, indicated 400 theatremen will foregather here beginning Monday for the 12th annual convention of the M. P. T. O. A. Admitting he was going slightly nuts trying to handle all details piling on and over his desk, Berinstein now has practically completed arrangements, which start with a directors' meeting Monday afternoon and terminate with a banquet at the Ambassador Thursday evening.

Personnel of New York and Philadelphia clearance and zoning and grievance boards was completed and approved by Campi yesterday after a lengthy session which started at 10 A. Indies Here Oppose Advisory Board Idea

Local independent groups are not in favor of a main board and three advisory groups for setting up the clearance and zoning schedules for Greater New York. The unaffiliated men take the attitude that whatever work done by the groups supplementing the main board will not be final and subject to approval of the main board.

The contention of independents is that plans set up by advisory groups are subject to change by the main board and will cause a lot of confusion with exhibitors. The opinion prevails that three main boards, each to work out the zoning and clearance problems for the three sales territories, are satisfactory because whatever schedules are set up and unanimously agreed upon would be final and not subject to alteration.

Ask Partial Payment on Para. Enterprises

An application for $110,126 as partial allowances for receivership and bankruptcy administration expenses of Publix Enterprises, bankrupt holding company for 320 Paramount theatres in 28 states, was filed yesterday with Referee Henry K. Davis by Irving Trust Co. and its counsel, Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts.

The allowances cover services and expenses for the period of the Publix Enterprises receivership, which ran from Jan. 26, 1933, to Feb. 20, and for the period of the company's bankruptcy, from Feb. 20 up to March 31, 1934. Publix Enterprises has not yet been discharged from bankruptcy, hence additional allowances may be applied for later by both the trustee and its counsel for the period from March 31 to the termination of the bankruptcy. Irving Trust was both receiver and trustee in bankruptcy for Publix Enterprises. It asks as its allowance now $35,000, and notes that

Trendle and Para. Close Detroit Deal

An agreement by which George Trendle becomes a permanent operating partner for eight Paramount Detroit theatres has been completed between Trendle and the Paramount Publix trustees, it was learned yesterday.

Trendle is now operating the Paramount Detroit theatres under a 10-month, temporary contract with the Paramount trustees which expires on Aug. 4. Under the permanent agreement just completed a new corporation, to be known as Detroit Theatre Operating Corp., will be set up and Trendle will acquire one-half of its common stock for $50,000, to be paid to the Paramount Publix trustees. Trendle will receive 51 per cent of the class A stock and 49 per cent of the B stock. Control of the A stock carries with it the right to elect the president, general manager, assistant general manager, secretary and assistant secretary of the new corporation. The B stock is given the right to elect a vice-president, treasurer and assistant treasurer. The Paramount trustees reserve the right to assign all or part of the stock in the new corporation held by them to Balaban & Katz of Chicago, the former operators of the Publix Detroit houses.

The deal is for the Michigan, Fisher, Riviera, Annex, Birmingham, Ramona, East Town and State. Already approved by the Paramount Publix trustees, the deal awaits only the sanction of the U. S. District Court and this will be sought at a hearing before Referee Henry K. Davis April 16.

John Balaban, former Publix home office executive, now associated with B. & K., engaged in spirited competitive bidding with Trendle last summer for the operating management of the Paramount Detroit theatres with the result that, while a permanent deal was deferred by the Paramount Publix trustees,

Ralph Block Named Writers' Guild Head

HOLLYWOOD, April 6.—Ralph Block was named president of the Screen Writers' Guild last night. Other officers elected were: Wells Root, vice-president; Tristram Tupper, secretary; Ernest Pascal, treasurer. Named to the directorate were: Block, Oliver H. P. Garrett, Rupert Hughes, Frances Marion, Wilfred McDonald, Brian Marlow, Seton I. Miller, Dudley Nichols, Pascal, Root, Arthur Ripley, Raymond Schrock, Courtenay Terrett, Tupper. Total receipts for the year of $28,317.70 were reported, with expenditures of $23,611.66. Among expenditures were listed $5,850 for code fighting, $3,050 for attorneys' fees and $4,400 for wages and office expenses.

"Bottoms Up" Stay Is Denied in Court

Fox has won its fight in the New York Supreme Court against an injunction to prevent use of the title "Bottoms Up." John Hickey had applied for the stay on the ground that it infringed on the title of a tab show.

In denying the application the court said: "The undoubted and extreme hardship which would result to defendant were such an injunction granted is an argument which has not been overcome by proof of injury to plaintiff as a result of the defendant's acts, nor by other evidence sufficient to justify giving the relief here sought. The financial responsibility of the defendant is not disputed."

Court Is Considering St. Louis Petitions

ST. LOUIS, April 6.—Federal Judge Charles B. Davis today took under advisement whether he will permit two intervening petitions in the original receivership involving the Ambassador, Grand Central and Missouri here. The bondholders' protective committee sponsoring the Snyder-Koplar reorganization plan will file briefs in support of its opposition to the petitions in the next few days.

Warners are backing the fight against the plan.

ERICH POMMER, Fox associate producer abroad, will arrive in New York April 10 on the Ile de France.

GLORIA SWANSON started her New York vacation with an attack of the flu.

Blumberg Tours Canada

TORONTO, April 6.—Nate Blumberg is here from New York on a tour of RKO theatres in Canada. Today he attended a directors meeting of RKO Canada Ltd. at the Royal Bank building. He expects to return to his headquarters next Tuesday.

The meeting of directors was routine and had to do with theatre operation. J. J. Fitzgibbons, director of theatre operations for Famous Players, also attended the meeting.

Biggest in Can. to Films

TORONTO, April 6.—The Imperial here, Canada's largest theatre, becomes a picture house April 13, with "Wonder Bar" the first attraction. Famous Players are transferring Canadian first runs from the Uptown to the Imperial and are taking out stage units and concert orchestra at the former. Vaudeville continues at the Shea here and Loew's in Montreal.

boards since the meeting of the committee Thursday. On the grievance board Harry Thomas replaced Roy Haines and J. Louis Geller of the T. O. C. C. replaced William Landau. On the main clearance and zoning board Lee Ochs was taken off for Lawrence Bolognino of Consolidated Amusements. Ochs was strenuously objected to by Loew's. C. C. Moskowitz also was replaced on this board by David Loew. This was not unexpected, MOTION PICTURE DAILY having previously reported Moskowitz would not be on the board.

With the exception of Adolph J. Rettig, all members of the three advisory committees were named yesterday in these columns as being up for the posts.

The Philadelphia clearance and zoning board underwent many changes since the first tentative setup. Percy Bloch replaces Robert Lynch, Lou Linker is on instead of Floyd Hopkins, Charles Segal displaces Herbert J. Elliott and Milton Rogasner was decided upon instead of David Barist or Frank Hervey.

Replacements Made

Due to Charles W. Koener being transferred from Albany to Boston by RKO, Joseph Shure of RKO replaces him as first run affiliated exhibitor on the Albany clearance and zoning board.

T. B. Noble of Westland Theatres has been appointed to replace H. E. Huffman on the Denver clearance and zoning board as first run unaffiliated exhibitor. Huffman did not qualify because he did not sign the code.

Major Leslie E. Thompson was named permanent alternate for M. H. Aylesworth, and the next Campi session will be held next Friday with Charles L. O'Reilly as chairman.

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt stated last night that he will take no action on the vaudeville actor labor report at this time.

Also taken up and passed on was the budget on financing, the Hollywood extra situation, secretaries for clearance and zoning and grievance boards and free radio shows. Results of Campi's discussions on these subjects will be announced next week.

Attending yesterday's session were Harold S. Bareford, alternate for H. M. Warner; Rosenblatt, S. R. Kent, George J. Schaefer, O'Reilly, Nathan Yamins, J. Robert Rubin, alternate for N. M. Schenck; Thompson, alternate for Aylesworth; Abe Montague, alternate for R. H. Cochrane; Jay Emanuel, alternate for Ed Kuykendall, and Edward Golden, alternate for W. Ray Johnston.

and research division sufficiently familiar with the matter to take up the work.

Postponement of the report will result in the salary figures becoming available at a time when Congress is not in session. Publication at this time would have made the material available to the Darrow review board, which has just concluded hearings on complaints against the film code. Members of the board have expressed interest in the salary angle, but have made no investigation of the matter in view of the expected release of the Recovery Administration figures.

Boards Will Get K. C. Price Battle

KANSAS CITY, April 6.—The local price war will be laid in the laps of code boards, it has been decided by circuits and independents. At the station tonight Sam Dembow, Jr., on the westbound Santa Fe Chief, discussed the situation with Leland Hazard, counsel for the I. T. O.; Arthur Cole of Paramount, George Baker, manager of the Publix Newman, which Dembow put on a double bill, two-bit policy several weeks ago, in an attempt to force the issue.

It is understood that the circuits and independents agreed not to renew efforts at voluntary agreement, but to seek a solution through the code, since several previous attempts at conciliation and agreement have failed. It has been pointed out that a decision by code boards would have a greater chance for success, since it would be enforceable.

In the meantime double bills and price cutting are spreading, independents say, and the situation is serious. Circuits describe it as highly destructive.

Lafayette Gets Censors

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—Under the rules of a new censorship board set up at Lafayette, La., it is obligatory for exhibitors to submit films to the board before offering them to the public. Penalties for non-submission run from $25 to $200, or imprisonment not exceeding 30 days.

Budget Is Set At $2,500,000 By Monogram

results in a budget two and one-half times greater than that approved for the first year of Monogram's existence.

Trem Carr, vice-president in charge of production, who advocated the $2,500,000 budget for next season, said today it would enable the studio to employ an additional 200 people in various technical capacities, fulfilling a primary objective of the NRA and the code.

18 of Total Set

Eighteen of Monogram's feature schedule of 20 for next season were set today. They are: "Redhead," a novel by Vera Brown; "Girl of My Dreams," a college story; "The Big Top," a circus story; "We're in the Army Now," from the play, "Ten Minute Eggs," by Tay Garnett and N. Brewster Morse; "The Fashion Parade," which will feature a tie-up with 200 newspapers nationally; "Sinners in Sing Sing," from Harry Stephen Keeler's Crime Club prize novel, "Sing Sing Nights"; "Plunder," an original by Albert J. Meserow and Elynore Dalkhart; "The Healer," a novel by Robert Herrick; "Million Dollar Baby," by Joseph Santley; "Dancing Feet," an original by Tristram Tupper, who will also do "Country Club"; "Honeymoon Limited," by Vida Hurst; "Ice Carnival," by George Waggner, who wrote "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi"; "Hotel Register," by Tristram Tupper; "Tomorrow's Youth," by Harry Sauber; "Woman Against Woman," by Frederick and Fanny Hatton; "The Mystery Man," by Albert Payson Terhune, for which Bela Lugosi is being sought for the starring role, and "A Successful Failure," based on Michael Kane's story, "Your Uncle William," due to appear soon in the Saturday Evening Post.

Two Others Planned

In addition to these 18, Monogram will produce two outstanding pictures, the stories for which are under option. W. Ray Johnston, president, said that the type of material and directorial talent for these will convince exhibitors that Monogram is headed "toward the big time."

Monogram will also release eight John Wayne westerns, to be produced by All Star Productions. Lionel Atwill has been signed for three pictures and negotiations are under way for other star names for the new season's line-up, Johnston said. No outside producers will contribute to the schedule, it was stated. Monogram's own unit producers will continue working directly under the supervision of Carr, as formerly.

Johnston, Carr, Lou Ostrow, executive producer; Edward Golden, sales manager, and Ed Finney, advertising and publicity manager, will address Saturday morning's session. In the afternoon an open forum on the code, presided over by John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority, will be held, and the convention will wind up at night with the annual banquet, at which Louis Nizer will be toastmaster.

Irving Trust Receiver Bill Is $110,126

it has received $827 as a previous allowance. The law firm asks an allowance of $75,000 for professional services, plus $125 for expenses.

Equity receivers for Paramount Publix recently filed an application for allowances aggregating $291,000, which subsequently was reduced to approximately $220,000 by Referee Davis. This allowance was opposed by several groups of Paramount creditors and a ruling on their objections by Judge John Woolsey of the U. S. District Court here is now being awaited. The Paramount application was for the three months' period of the company's equity receivership, from January to March of 1933, and embraced none of the bankruptcy costs.

Sets April 17 Hearing

Referee Davis yesterday set April 17 for a hearing on the Publix Enterprises application for allowances.

The intermediate report of Irving Trust Co. as trustee in bankruptcy for Publix Enterprises was filed in conjunction with the applications for allowances, and detailed the work and accomplishments of the trustee to date. Its services were described as entirely "related to the preservation of the bankrupt's assets by corporate reorganization and rehabilitation; the disposition of claims against the bankrupt estate and the sale, as trustee, of the rights, title and interest of Publix Enterprises' assets and properties."

The assets consisted of stock in 76 subsidiary companies and accounts receivable from them, the report states. "The only value of the estate," the report says, "was as a going concern, and our efforts were directed toward maintaining it as such."

The report ascribes the financial difficulties of Publix Enterprises to the "excessive rentals" paid on theatre leases, and declares that the most difficult task of the reorganization process was the readjustment of theatre leases. "The result," it states, "is that the deadwood has been eliminated and the theatres which have been retained have been placed on a basis where expectation of earnings now is reasonable and possible."

Circuits Reorganized

Among the principal Publix Enterprises' circuits singled out by the report as having been reorganized and rehabilitated are Southern Enterprises of Texas, operating 20 houses in Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma, now under the management of Karl Hoblitzelle; the A. H. Blank Circuit, operating 75 houses in Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois, now under the management of A. H. Blank; the Virginia-Tennessee Theatres, Publix Virginia and Publix Newport News, operating eight houses in Virginia and Tennessee; Associated Amusements of Florida, a realty holding company; Augusta Enterprises, operating three houses in Georgia; Publix Salt Lake, operating seven houses in Utah and Idaho, and Tennessee Enterprises, operating seven in Tennessee.

The report reveals that 54 claims, aggregating $16,555,283, were filed against Publix Enterprises, and that this amount was ultimately reduced to a total of $5,133,214, which were "presumably provable," according to the report. The reductions were obtained through compromises, amendments, releases, agreements and the expunging of claims by the referee in bankruptcy after hearings.

Irving Trust reports that several claims and minor negotiations are still pending and, until they have been disposed of, the Publix Enterprises estate cannot be closed or the final discharge from bankruptcy achieved.

Para. Palm Beach Rent Claim Shaved

$85,249 filed by Anderson Theatrical Enterprises for the Rivera, Anderson, Ind., will also undergo an appreciable reduction, it was indicated. Counsel for the claimant admitted that the claim for future rent was "not provable." The past rent represented in the claim amounts to only $9,500. Hearings on this portion of the claim were postponed to May 11.

Jersey Assembly to Act Upon Billboards

had the present law enacted in 1930 is fighting the new measures, Assembly 316 and Senate 98.

The billboard interests declare they have the support of Loew's and RKO for the measure, but Warners are reported opposed. The basis of the opposition is said to be that Warners would have to pay a higher rate under the bill for a special form of advertising on rubbish cans in Camden, N. J.

Despite contentions that the measure would result in a higher tax, and, presumably, in higher advertising rates, the billboard interests contend the opposite is true. The tax on three-sheet boards under the bill would be 50 cents, while under the present three-cent per square foot tax it aggregates 84 cents. A lower scale of fees is required also for the advertising concerns, based on number or signs in operation.

Federal Labor Board Hears Elkhart Case

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The discharge of nine ushers by the Elkhart (Ind.) Amusement Co. because they organized a union today received the attention of the National Labor Board, to which the company appealed a decision of the Indianapolis regional board ordering reinstatement of the ushers, cessation of picketing by Theatre Service Employees' Union, Local 19110, and application of wages of 25 cents an hour, as prescribed in the code, instead of the former rate of 35 cents.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Theatre goers in New York tonight were handed questionnaires as they entered the houses. These were designed by the Consumers' Advisory Board of the National Recovery Administration to secure the reaction of the public on the question of ticket speculators.

MPTOA Men Weigh Likely Meet Topics

By FRED BAEHLER

CHICAGO, April 6.—On board the M.P.T.O.A. special enroute to Chicago the opportunity to discuss their problems with producers themselves, score charges, percentages and what steps are to be taken by the M.P.T.O.A. against stars who receive unfavorable publicity or who participate in radio broadcasts were the principal pre-convention topics of discussion among delegates today, and are what they feel will probably be among the main issues of debate in Los Angeles next week.

There is the feeling, however, that there is too much stress on the fact Hollywood is to be the scene of action, that the delegates must guard against being awed by the "big show" that will be put on for their benefit and that the Hollywood atmosphere should not be allowed to influence to such an extent that the main purpose of the confab will be lost. Then again there is the fear that a snag will be hit by the delegates when and if the subject of dealing with those stars who broadcast comes up at the open forum Wednesday morning. The exhibitors will be checkmated by their own arguments, it is felt.

Call Publicity Vital

As one delegate, name withheld by request, argued: "Picture stars thrive on publicity. They need publicity to keep their names before the public, and where can you find a better medium than radio these days to publicize these stars? It is true that many people may stay away from a theatre to attend a free radio broadcast or may stay home to listen to one when they might otherwise attend a theatre; but the number of these is infinitesimal in comparison to those who do attend the theatres. Then there is the monetary question that must be considered, because after all how are you going to ask a star to forego earning an extra thousand or so by making an appearance before a mike? If you do this, who is going to make up to them for the money lost? The exhibitor? I don't think so."

The Golden State Limited, the M.P.T.O.A. special bound for the coast, pulled out of here tonight with the Chicago delegation headed by Jack Miller and including Walter Immerman, Tippy Harrison, Harry Nelson, Grant Schaefer and Sidney and Phil Tague. Other Chicagoans who have left for the convention are George Gollos and Ann and Emily Remijas, daughters of the owner of the Galic. Another on his way is Sidney Lust, Washington exhibitor.

Word was received as the train pulled out that Ludwig Sussman, Abe Tague and Lester Retchin, neighborhood exhibitors who left yesterday by auto, were stranded in the Missouri flood waters and were making preparations to pick up the special at Kansas City.

Looming as one highlight from the exhibitor if not production angle is the planned discussion on labor provisions of the code by Jack Miller, Chicago fire-eater.

the I. T. O. A. of Southern California. The fly in the ointment is, of course, Fox West Coast. While Charles Skouras stated in New York recently he had ordered his managers to cut triples, local exhibitor opinion merely smiles and says the story is vastly different. Ben Berinstein, president, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY today he could clean out triples in one week if F. W. C. played along. On doubles and their possible elimination he declared: "This will come up later from a different angle."

Code enforcement was also discussed by the I. T. O. A. and members were asked to conform. About 15 complaints already are awaiting board action. The toss-up on the secretaryship is between Lola Gentry, Film Board secretary, and Minnie Kopple, I. T. O. A. secretary. Both were unanimously recommended to Code Authority, which in turn asked the boards to determine their choice. With Howard Stubbins attending the Monogram convention in Atlantic City and J. J. Milstein, M-G-M, in Good Samaritan Hospital with bad tonsils selections are compelled to wait.

Studios' and Distributors' Share to Be Half; No Details Yet

Exactly $360,000 is the figure officially set for financing the code for the film industry the first year, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned from an authoritative source Saturday. Of this figure, $180,000 will be derived from distribution and production, while the other half will come from a tax on exhibition. Definite plans for securing the necessary money from both sources have not yet been completed.

Now that the machinery for clearance and zoning and grievance boards has been completed, Campi committees will devote the entire week to promulgating a fair plan to tax theatres, exchanges and studios for raising the $360,000. Quick action on the budget and all other problems is now assured, it was stated Saturday.

Secretaries for the Buffalo, Atlanta, Chicago, Omaha, San Francisco, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Pittsburgh, Kansas City and Detroit boards will be named today and they will immediately assume duties.

Company executives will decide the latter question during the week. "Scandals" Is Detroit Wow; Gets $22,500

DETROIT, April 8.—"George White's Scandals," going $7,500 over average with a nice $22,500 at the Fox, and "Palooka," netting $1,200 more than average with $11,200 in its second week at the United Artists, were the best bets here last week. "Spitfire," moved from the Fox to the Downtown, gave that house $8,300, slightly under par, but the best gross scored there in weeks.

Total for the week, which was started off with a blizzard, was $70,100, against $79,600 the previous seven days and an average of $75,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 29:

"SPITFIRE" (Radio)
DOWNTOWN—(2,750), 15c-40c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $8,300. (Average, $10,000)

"JOURNAL OF A CRIME" (F. N.)
FISHER—(2,975), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,600. (Average, $10,000)

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (Fox)
FOX—(5,100), 15c-50c, 7 days, stage: Ross MacLean, Karre LeBaron, Ruth Pryor. Gross: $22,500. (Average, $15,000)

"DARK HAZARD" (Warners)
MICHIGAN—(4,100), 15c-50c, 7 days. Stage: Don Zelaya, Chic Kennedy, Darling Twins, Jack Kay, Gilda Gray. Gross: $16,400. (Average, $20,000)

"PALOOKA" (U. A.)
UNITED ARTISTS—(2,070), 25c-50c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $11,200. (Average, $10,000)

"WINE, WOMEN & SONG" (Chadwick)
"COUNTESS OF MONTE CRISTO" (Univ.)
STATE—(3,000), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $6,100. (Average, $10,000.)

Seattle Paramount Boosts Its Scales

SEATTLE, April 8.—Prices at the Paramount will be boosted five cents next week. For the last eight weeks the house has been operating on a combined first run and vaudeville policy at 20 and 30 cents.

Manager Harry Woodin has prepared trailers and newspaper announcements explaining that the increased tariff is a result of orders from producing companies which insist upon a minimum first run division of 25 cents. It is understood that suburban and neighborhood houses here are complaining about the present 20-cent admission for the elaborate shows that the Paramount has been presenting.

Slash St. Louis Prices

ST. LOUIS, April 8.—The St. Louis Theatre, having eliminated its stage shows, has also slashed its admission scale. Under the new schedule the rate to 6 P. M. will be 25 cents and 40 cents at night. This restores the rates that prevailed for several weeks after F. & M. took over this house last fall.

Neth Houses Cut Scales

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—Prices at the Neth neighborhood houses, including the State, Cameo, Clinton and Eastern, have been reduced from 28 to 20 cents, including 10 per cent state tax. No change in policy is contemplated.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"No Ransom"

HOLLYWOOD, April 8.—Based on Damon Runyon's story, "The Big Mitten," played by a well balanced cast, "No Ransom" is a clean, humorous bill of entertainment with a novel, harmless gangster twist.

A millionaire neglected by his family becomes morose and wants to commit suicide but can't pick up the courage. He hires a gangster to do the job for $30,000. The gangster, after meeting other members of the family, becomes deeply infatuated with the daughter and immediately grows soft on the job for which he was employed. He tries to induce a philosopher who has caused all the family unrest to leave, but, failing, devises means of kidnapping the old man, secluding him in a health building environment to give him time to think it all over. This does the trick with happy results. Unique situations and clever dialogue sustain interest throughout. Robert McWade as the old man, Jack La Rue as the gangster and Leila Hyams as the daughter capture top acting honors with able assistance from Phillips Holmes, Hedda Hopper, Vince Barnett, Eddie Nugent, Carl Miller, Irving Bacon, Christian Rub, Garry Owen, Fritz Ridgeway and Mary Foy. Fred Newmeyer directed from story, continuity and dialog by Al De Mond.

Looking 'Em Over

"Wheels of Destiny"

(Universal)

Thrills aplenty for the youngsters, who get all sorts of action from Ken Maynard in the leading role. There's plenty of gun play, romance, comedy and Indian warfare to keep the juveniles on edge.

With the gold rush of '49 as the setting, Maynard comes to the rescue of a friend of his and helps him ward off the culprits, led by Philo McCullough, who are after a map leading to a rich gold vein and which is in the possession of Dorothy Dix's brother.

The attempts of the outlaws to thwart the wagon drive from the mid-west to the coast meet with no success when Maynard takes the unofficial part of the leader. As for McCullough, he meets the fate of all the bad men—death. The romance between Maynard and Miss Dix ends as you would have it, satisfying the story writers and moviegoers.

"The Crosby Case"

(Universal)

An average mystery film. The formula commonly used in building up pictures that seek to solve the question of "Who killed Cock Robin?" is adhered to more closely than ordinarily. There is the usual parade of suspects and the usual barking up the wrong tree that marks these mystery films for most of their footage.

A doctor engaged in unlawful practice is killed. Every person who has had anything whatever to do with the fellow is dragged into the plot and practically everyone is made to look guilty, with the exception of the doorman of the building where the man had his office. Their questioning is done with some show of humor, for which Warren Hymer, as a taxi driver, and William Collier, Sr., as a numbskull detective, are chiefly responsible. The guilty one is J. Farrell MacDonald. His motive had been to keep the doctor from exposing him when the medico discovered the former was blackmailing some of the wealthy patients.

Among the players are also Wynne Gibson, "Skeets" Gallagher, Edward Van Sloan, John Wray, Onslow Stevens, Barbara Weeks and Alan Dinehart. Edwin L. Marin directed.

Ask Missouri Censorship

ST. LOUIS, April 8.—The Civic Union which has been stressing censorship plans to present a state censorship measure at the next session of the Missouri General Assembly. The leaders of this movement have also been endeavoring to interest members of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen in their restriction plans.

Disagree on Labor Order

PORTLAND, April 8.—Officials of the M. P. Operators' Union declare they have received an order from the Regional Labor Board at Seattle advising that nine operators discharged by Pantages Theatre be returned to work. John Stille and H. Martin, Pantages manager, says they have received no copy of the order.

"Spitfire" Is Fair in Dull Frisco Week

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—Holy Week put a big dent in box office grosses last week, but none of the houses were too far down. Most of them expected lower figures, and were prepared for the dip.

"Spitfire" at the Golden Gate held up nicely in its second week, grabbing $10,500. Another good one was the Orpheum, with "Two Alone" and Mills Brothers for a gross of $9,000.

Total first run business was $65,000. Average is $72,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 27:

"SPITFIRE" (Radio)

West Philadelphia To Get Stage Shows

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—The State Stanley-Warner key neighborhood theatres in West Philadelphia are taking a flier in stage entertainment, opening on Saturday with the first of a series of tab musical comedies and revues. Opening attraction is "Sweet and Low Down" with Arthur and Morton Havel, the Honey Boys, Audrey Gibson and a Chester Hale ballet. John McConnell, former director of the Mastbaum orchestra, will direct the State orchestra.

Scheduled to follow are tab versions of the "Scandals," "Vanities," etc. The house has been featuring only one day of vaudeville—Saturday—each week.

"Wonder Bar" Gets Big Portland Start

PORTLAND, April 8.—"Wonder Bar" got off to one of the heaviest starts registered here in a long time. The opening day take at the Broadway was $2,500, with extra shows.

"Riptide" out-grossed every M-G-M picture so far this year with $1,500 on the first day at United Artists.

Kinsky to Davenport

DES MOINES, April 8.—Joseph Kinsky has been transferred to Davenport, Iowa, to become city manager for Tri-State Theatres Corp., which operates the Capitol and Garden.

"Riptide" Off To Big Start On the Coast

LOS ANGELES, April 8.—"Riptide" started off sensationally at Loew's State. The $28,500 gross was more than double the normal takings for the house.

"House of Rothschild" got off to a flying start at Grauman's Chinese with $8,500 on two days.

In spite of this rush the Paramount had a big week with "Melody in Spring" on the screen and Duke Ellington and his band on the stage. The gross was $22,115, above par by $4,115.

"Catherine the Great" fell off to $7,500 in its second week at the United Artists.

Total first run business was $90,815. Average is $95,450.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 4:

"HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD" (U. A.) CHINESE—(2,500), 50c-$1.65, 2 days. Sid Grauman prologue. Gross: $8,500. (Average, $14,000.)

"THE GHOST TRAIN" (Gaumont-British) FILMARTE—(800), 40c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $2,100. (Average, $2,650.)

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M) LOEW'S STATE—(2,413), 30c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $28,500. (Average, $14,000.)

"MELODY IN SPRING" (Para.) PARAMOUNT—(3,595), 30c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Duke Ellington and his orchestra. F. & M. revue. Gross: $22,115. (Average, $13,000.)

"LITTLE WOMEN" (Radio) RKO—(2,700), 25c-40c, 2nd week, 7 days. Gross: $6,100. (Average, $8,000.)

"CATHERINE THE GREAT" (U. A.) UNITED ARTISTS—(2,100), 30c-55c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $7,500. (Average, $12,870.)

"WONDER BAR" (F. N.) WARNER BROS. (DOWNTOWN)—(3,400), 25c-55c, 7 days, 3rd week. Gross: $8,000. (Average, $12,000.)

"Were Free" Only Draw in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 8.—There was a general slump in first run business here last week. "If I Were Free" was the only feature to stand up to average. It brought the Capitol $2,500.

"The Cat and the Fiddle" grossed only $3,500 for the Criterion, that figure being $1,500 below average. This town seems to be "fed up" on musicals. "Gambling Lady" was $500 below, grossing $3,500 for the Midwest. "Hold That Girl" and "Three on a Honeymoon" brought average business to the Liberty.

Total first run business was $11,600. Average is $13,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 31:

"IF I WERE FREE" (Radio) CAPITOL—(1,200), 10c-20c-26c-36c-41c, 7 days. Gross: $2,500. (Average, $2,500.)

"CAT AND THE FIDDLE" (M-G-M) CRITERION—(1,700), 10c-20c-26c-36c-41c-56c, 7 days. Gross: $3,500. (Average, $5,000.)

"HOLD THAT GIRL" (Fox) LIBERTY—(1,500), 10c-15c-26c-36c, 4 days. Gross: $1,200. (Average week, $2,000.)

"THREE ON A HONEYMOON" (Fox) LIBERTY—(1,500), 10c-15c-26c-36c, 3 days. Gross: $900. (Average week, $2,000.)

"One Night" Gets a Sixth Seattle Week

SEATTLE, April 8.—Holy Week and the lack of any outstanding attractions resulted in poor business generally among all the first runs. The only exception was "It Happened One Night," which had a good fifth week at the Liberty, and was being held over for another seven days. The take was about $1,000 over the normal $4,000.

"Jimmy, the Gent" lasted only five days of the second week's run, and "Nana" in its second week at the Music Box was below par.

Total first run business was $26,250. Average is $31,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 30:

"JIMMY THE GENT" (Warners) BLUE MOUSE—(950), 25c-35c-50c, 5 days, 2nd week. Gross: $2,750. (Average, 1st week, $4,000.)

"BOLERO" (Para.) FIFTH AVENUE—(2,450), 25c-40c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $7,000.)

"IT HAPPENED ONE NIGHT" (Col.) LIBERTY—(1,800), 15c-25c-35c, 7 days, 5th week. Gross: $5,000. (Average, 1st week, $4,000.)

"NANA" (U. A.) MUSIC BOX—(950), 25c-35c-50c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $3,000. (Average, $4,000.)

"FOUR FRIGHTENED PEOPLE" (Para.) "I LIKE IT THAT WAY" (Univ.) ORPHEUM—(2,500), 25c-35c-50c, 8 days. Gross: $5,500. (Average, 7 days, $6,000.)

"GOOD DAME" (Para.) PARAMOUNT—(3,050), 20c-30c, 7 days. Vaudeville headed by Jean & Fritz Hubert. Jules Buano's band. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $6,000.)

"Holiday," "Hold Girl" Omaha Lead

OMAHA, April 8.—Despite the Holy Week threat, excellent spring weather aided in keeping grosses at a fairly normal level with two houses hitting par for the week. At the Paramount, "Death Takes a Holiday," plus "Hold That Girl" brought a nice $7,500. Another twin bill at the Orpheum, "Love Birds" and "I Was A Spy," was good for $7,250.

"Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and "Massacre" at the Brandeis, were weak at $4,250. Another dual, at the World, was in the red at $3,750.

Total first run business was $22,750. Average is $24,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 28: "DEATH TAKES A HOLIDAY" (Para.) "HOLD THAT GIRL" (Fox) PARAMOUNT—(2,900), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,500. (Average, $7,500.)

Week Ending March 29: "LOVE BIRDS" (Univ.) "I WAS A SPY" (Fox) ORPHEUM—(3,000), 25c-35c, 7 days. Gross: $7,250. (Average, $7,250.)

"SWEETHEART OF SIGMA CHI" (Monogram) "MASSACRE" (F. N.) BRANDEIS—(1,500), 25c-35c, 7 days. Gross: $4,250. (Average, $4,750.)

"IN THE MONEY" (Chesterfield) "THE SIN OF NORA MORAN" (Majestic) WORLD—(2,200), 25c-35c, 7 days. Gross: $3,750. (Average, $5,000.)

Harris to Cleveland

St. Louis, April 8.—Milton Harris, formerly with Fox here, has gone to Cleveland to take over publicity for Loew's in that city.

"Riptide" $17,000 Wow in Providence

PROVIDENCE, April 8.—"Riptide" stirred up plenty of excitement over the Easter week-end and it has been keeping it up since at Loew's State with the California Ramblers on the stage. The $17,000 gross was $5,000 over average.

"Spitfire" and "Keep 'Em Rolling" were also a wow at the RKO Albee, where the gross reached $10,000, up by $3,000. "Jimmy, the Gent" fared well at Fay's with $7,300.

Total first run business was $46,500. Average business, $40,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 5:

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M) LOEW'S STATE—(3,800), 15c-40c, 7 days. California Ramblers on stage. Gross: $17,000. (Average, $12,000.)

"ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN" (U. A.) "THE LAST ROUND UP" (Para.) PARAMOUNT—(2,300), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,500. (Average, $6,500.)

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (Fox) MAJESTIC—(2,400), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,500. (Average, $7,000.)

"JIMMY, THE GENT" (Warners) FAYS—(1,600), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,300. (Average, $7,000.)

"SPITFIRE" (Radio) "KEEP 'EM ROLLING" (Radio) RKO ALBEE—(2,300), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $10,000. (Average, $7,000.)

"HORSE PLAY" (Univ.) "JAWS OF DEATH" (Sol Lesser) RKO VICTORY—(1,600), 10c-25c, 4 days. Gross: $1,200. (Average, $1,000.)

"Riptide" $18,000 Smash in Buffalo

BUFFALO, April 8.—"Riptide" ran away with top honors here last week, helped by a vaudeville bill. The gross at the Buffalo was $18,000, over normal by $3,000.

"Wonder Bar" was also a hit. It reached $9,200 at the Hippodrome. This is over normal by $1,200. The weather was fine throughout the week, only one day of rain marring business.

Total first run business was $46,600. Normal is $43,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 6:

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M) BUFFALO—(3,500), 30c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Gypsy Nina, William & Joe Mandel, Paul Gerrits, Eight Commodores, Rosemary Deering. Gross: $18,000. (Average, $15,000.)

"JIMMY, THE GENT" (Warners) "LONE COWBOY" (Paramount) CENTURY—(3,000), 25c, 7 days. Gross: $6,400. (Average, $6,000.)

"LOOKING FOR TROUBLE" (U. A.) "HI, NELLIE" (Warners) GREAT LAKES—(3,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,000. (Average, $8,000.)

"WONDER BAR" (Warners) HIPPODROME—(2,100), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $9,200. (Average, $8,000.)

"LOVE BIRDS" (Univ.) "MADAME SPY" (Univ.) LAFAYETTE—(3,300), 25c, 7 days. Gross: $6,000. (Average, $6,500.)

Jersey Town Has Film

FAIRLAWN, N. J., April 8.—"The Story of Fairlawn," a community film, is being shown at school houses in the city and surrounding villages. The film has been a month in the making. Leading citizens take the major roles. The picture, in addition to its historical worth, has a plot.

A feature and a comedy are being shown along with the film. No competition for local theatres, because there are none. The local children's Christmas fund will get the proceeds.

"Lost Patrol" Strong Draw, Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—Though the expected Holy Week slump was felt by several theatres, business as a whole held up very well.

Outstanding entry of the week was "The Lost Patrol," which grossed $9,000 at the Stanton. The film drew rave notices and topped average by a nice amount. "George White's Scandals" got a good 8,500 for a first week at the Locust. "Palooka" started with $7,500 at the Aldine, while "Long Lost Father" and "Three on a Honeymoon" beat the average at the Earle and Fox, respectively.

The Walnut, losing ground in its box-office struggle with its independent film and stage shows, got $4,000 with "Social Register" and is expected to close this week.

Total first run business was $82,700. Average is $80,900.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 29:

"PALOOKA" (U. A.) ALDINE—(1,300), 40c-55c-65c, 6 days. Gross: $7,500. (Average, $7,000.)

"THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE" (M-G-M) ARCADIA—(600), 25c-40c-50c, 6 days, 2nd run. Gross: $2,200. (Average, $2,400.)

"AS THE EARTH TURNS" (Warners) BOYD—(2,400), 40c-55c-65c, 3 days, 2nd week. Gross: $4,000. (Average, 6 days, $12,000.)

"LONG LOST FATHER" (Radio) EARLE—(2,000), 40c-55c-65c, 6 days. Stage: Count Berni Vici's "Spices of 1934." Gross: $14,000. (Average, $12,000.)

"THREE ON A HONEYMOON" (Fox) FOX—(3,000), 30c-40c-60c, 6 days. Stage: Lew Parker & Co.; Ernest McChesney and Margaret Ware, Harold Clyde Wright Ensemble. Gross: $14,500. (Average, $12,000.)

Shows Back in Buffalo

BUFFALO, April 8.—Stage shows returned to the Great Lakes, at least temporarily, on April 6 with "A Century of Progress Revue," featuring Faith Bacon, fan dancer. "Greenwich Village Follies" is scheduled to follow. Double features will be dropped, the first picture under the new policy being Kay Francis in "The House on 56th St." The Great Lakes had vaudeville for several weeks last fall. The Lafayette and Shea's Century will continue the twin feature policy in the downtown area.

Iowa Allied Moves

DES MOINES, April 8.—Headquarters of the Allied Theatre Owners of Iowa and Nebraska have been established at Hotel Fort Des Moines with Lester F. Martin of Nevada, executive secretary, in charge.

B. & K. Gets Apollo In Fast Loop Moves

CHICAGO, April 8.—The latest move in the Loop theatre checkerboard situation finds B. & K. putting a king on the Apollo theatre. B. & K., which is doing hops, skips and jumps with Jones, Linick & Schaefer in what is obviously a battle for Loop control, has acquired a five-year lease on the Apollo and will immediately transform the ancient spot in typical B. & K. style. B. & K. only recently took a lease on the Garrick, which J. L. & S. countered by acquiring the Majestic. Further moves from both sources are being watched with keen interest.

Officials of B. & K. are discreetly withholding announcement as to the policy planned for the Apollo, just as they are non-committal about plans for the Garrick.

Survey Is Started On Sound Recording

HOLLYWOOD, April 8.—The Academy Research Council's subcommittee on economies in sound recording, consisting of E. H. Hansen, chairman; Lawrence Aicholtz, Gerald Best and Wesley C. Miller, has started a survey of studio sound department practice in slating and cuing scenes on the set, and the methods of marking sound film for subsequent sound recording and laboratory developing and printing processes.

This investigation is the first step in the study of economies in recording which was recently authorized by the Research Council.

Radio Puts Five in Work

HOLLYWOOD, April 8.—Radio comes out of the several-week lull this week with five pictures going into production.

Pictures going into work are "Life of Virgie Winters," featuring Ann Harding and John Boles; "Sour Grapes," with Diana Wynyard and Clive Brook; "Family Man" starring Richard Dix; "Murder on the Blackboard," co-starring Edna May Oliver and Jimmy Gleason, and "Down To Their Last Yacht."

"Pigs" Back to the Roxy

"Three Little Pigs" will be reissued by the Roxy starting Friday. This will mark the third time the theatre has booked the short.

Higbey Quits Warners

Palfreyman and M. E. Comerford, who is also here, represent the vanguard of the main body which piles in Monday morning. The day will be turned over to registration and the only business will be a private session of the directors where the elections will be held.

KANSAS CITY, April 8.—A. F. Baker, Kansas City, Kan., placed on the credentials and rules committee for the M.P.T.O.A. convention, says he has no intention of attending. Baker is president of the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Ass'n, which has no national affiliation.

ITO Against Parts Of Patman Measure

establish Federal censorship and regulation of the industry.

Exhibitors were divided when a vote was taken. Many agreed with the report of a committee which, advising with counsel, favored compulsory elimination of block booking, but found Federal supervision as provided in the Patman bill fraught with dangers. The committee also reported that under the measure the distributors would have the right to choose their accounts, which they have anyway.

When the Brookhart bill, along lines similar to the proposals now before Congress, was being debated, the local organization actively campaigned for its passage.

Another matter demanding the independents' attention was cut-rate Sunday matinees. As a result of the organization's protest, the Fox Gladstone has discontinued the practice, but the Fox Vista has refused to boost its 10-cent price until 5 P.M. to its normal 15-cent scale. Jay Means, I. T. O. president, is preparing to file a complaint with the grievance board, on the ground of unfair competition. One or two independents who had maintained a similar cut-rate schedule for their only matinee of the week recently discontinued it.

The resignation of W. D. Fulton, a leading independent, was accepted after a committee attempted to persuade him to reconsider. Fulton, formerly vice-president of the organization, has clashed with officers over matters of policy.

Swanson for "Barbary"

HOLLYWOOD, April 8.—Gloria Swanson has closed a deal with Samuel Goldwyn to appear in "Barbary Coast," co-starring with Gary Cooper. This will be made before she does "Three Weeks" for M-G-M.

Campi's Cost Plan Is Sent To Rosenblatt

Approval Is Looked for Before Next Friday

Campi's plan of assessing exhibitors $180,000 of the $360,000 set as the required figure for Code Authority's expense during the first year of operation was sent to Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt yesterday for approval. The budget and the plan are expected to be approved before Friday when Rosenblatt returns to

Labor Problems Go To Industry Boards

All labor problems arising within the industry and to which the public is a part will be turned over to industrial relations boards in New York and regional branches in Hollywood and other cities. The complaints which will come before this board will be confined to labor only. Previously, the NRA has had regional labor compliance boards handling these problems, which now are turned over to

Non-Signers Barred From Board Actions

Exhibitors not signing the code will not be permitted to file protests before local clearance and zoning boards. Theatre owners already have been advised that unless they sign the code no grievance board will recognize complaints filed by them.

Members of Allied and other independent organizations who have not signed the code, in order to file objections to clearance and zoning boards, will have to interest exhibitors who are signers to take up their issue with local boards.

Loew's Complain on K. C. Subsequent Ads

KANSAS CITY, April 9.—Local first runs are complaining that subsequents are advertising attractions prior to or currently with their first run, in violation of the code. One of the chief objectors is Loew's Midland, which has sent evidence to its home office to form a basis of complaint with Code Authority.

Daily, Flown to Coast, Meets MPTOA Men on Date of Issue

Los Angeles, April 9.—Today's Motion Picture Daily, published in New York and flown west, greeted M.P.T.O.A. conventioners as they swarmed off the special train and piled into eight buses chartered by Ben Berinstein, chairman of convention arrangements, to transport them to the Ambassador. On every seat a copy of the Daily reposed. This service elicited widespread comment and commendation. Other copies were rushed by fast messenger to film row and every important Hollywood studio.

This service supplemented efforts by the Quigley Publications to keep the traveling showmen informed on what was transpiring in national film affairs. The Quigley Publications was the only trade paper group to have a reporter on the special train all the way from New York to Los Angeles. Daily wire news service out of New York kept the delegates up to the minute, and special copies of Motion Picture Daily and Motion Picture Herald were distributed while the journey was underway.

Elliott Fails To Appear for Review Board

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Explaining that he was detained in Canada on important matters, William Elliott, head of the I.A.T.S.E., today informed the National Recovery Review Board of his inability to appear.

Present in the board room for the purpose of offering additional testimony was Murray Harston of New York, representing the Independent M. P. Operators' union, whose charges on April 3 influenced the board to ask Elliott to appear.

Asking the board for permission to continue his testimony in order that he might return home, Harston was told

"U" Sales Up $1,800,000, Says Laemmle

An advance in Universal's domestic sales contracts of $1,800,000 for the 1933-34 selling season over those for the preceding season was reported by Carl Laemmle, Universal president, in a current letter to stockholders of the company, made public yesterday.

Billings to both domestic and foreign exhibitors for pictures completed since Sept. 1, 1933, increased $2,000,000 over those for the corresponding period of the year preceding, the report said.

Hiram S. Brown, former RKO president, is understood to be angling for a post on the Universal directorate through preferred stock controlled by a downtown financial group rumored to be Fuller & Co.

Under the Universal setup preferred stockholders get the right to elect two directors if the company passes six consecutive dividends on the preferred. This has happened, thereby leading to the Brown situation, with

Primed for Fight Upon Labor Provisions In the Code

By RED KANN

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—Priming itself for a fight on labor provisions of the code and clearing the decks by a quick election of officers this afternoon, the executive committee of the M.P.T.O.A. returned Ed Kuykendall to the presidency, as predicted in the MOTION PICTURE DAILY this morning.

Planned, as well, is a quite orderly convention with little or none of the verbal explosions identified with conventions of yesteryear. This is the strategy behind the naming of seven convention committees which will meet from 5:30 to 7:30 every evening and listen to complaints from any and all M.P.T.O.A. sources, and, by attempting to settle them in caucus, keep fireworks from the convention floor.

Quittner Is Given Appeal Privileges

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday granted the motion of Joseph Quittner, former Middletown, N. Y., exhibitor, to appeal his anti-trust suit against Paramount, the M. P. P. D. A. and member companies as a pauper. The court, however, denied the same motion by the Middletown Combined Building Corp., a Quittner-owned realty company, on the ground that a corporation was not a citizen.

The Federal court's decision overrules an earlier one by the U. S. District Court here and gives the complainant the right to appeal the case without printing the voluminous record of testimony taken in the trial of the case in District Court last year, where the suit was dismissed. Hearing of the appeal probably will not take place until next fall, according to Graham & Reynolds, Quittner's attorneys.

Monarch Heads West For Theatre Deals

Executives of Monarch Theatres left for the middle west last night on a number of deals which would increase the circuit by five or six houses. Negotiations for a group of mid-west theatres have been under way for the past month and are expected to be closed on this trip.

Arliss Arrives in Town

George Arliss got into town yesterday on his way to England for his annual vacation. Today the star observes his 66th birthday. He will spend a week in New York. On Saturday at 7 P. Turnbull Funeral to Be Held Tomorrow

NEW HOPE, Pa., April 9.—Hector Turnbull, scenario writer and former supervisor of production for Jesse L. Lasky, will be buried here Wednesday following funeral services in the Thompson Memorial Presbyterian Church. The former dramatic critic of the New York Tribune died Sunday in his 46th year at his home near here after an illness of several years. Turnbull's wife, a sister of Lasky, died in 1932. Surviving are a daughter, five sisters and a brother.

Turnbull gave up dramatic criticism in 1915 to do scenarios for Lasky Productions. He is best known as the author of "The Cheat." When Lasky left Paramount to produce for Fox, Turnbull went along as his production head.

committee, replacing Lewen Pizor of Pennsylvania, who is seriously ill in Philadelphia. Other changes in committees are possible, although chairmen, aside from Michael, probably will remain unchanged.

M. E. Comerford of Pennsylvania was reelected first vice-president; W. S. Butterfield of Michigan was made second vice-president, replacing Joseph Denniston of that state; M. A. Lightman was made third vice-president, replacing Walter Vincent of New York, who was reelected treasurer; Ben Berinstein of California got the fourth vice-presidency, succeeding Love B. Harrell of Georgia, and A. Julian Brylawski of Washington, D. C., was reelected fifth vice-president.

Fred S. Meyer of Wisconsin was reelected secretary, Edward G. Levey of Connecticut was reelected general counsel, and Fred Wehrenberg of Missouri was renamed chairman of the board.

Berinstein Unit Will Join

The fact that Berinstein is now a vice-president leads to reports that his unit, the I.T.O. of Southern California, will join the M.P.T.O.A., but Meyer says Berinstein is merely an individual member of the national organization. It would prove no surprise if Berinstein's unit should become affiliated. Personnel of the executive committee will be named Thursday. According to the M.P.T.O.A. constitution, the country is divided into six zones with each electing one representative to the committee. They must be unaffiliated exhibitors. Affiliated circuits get one, making seven. The president and secretary make the total of nine.

New York and New England, constituting one zone, already have named Michael.

The board of directors will be named Thursday. Each unit, of which the M.P.T.O.A. asserts it has 27, is entitled to one director. Many of them have already been selected.

The M.P.T.O.A. Drops In

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—Sol Gordon of East Texas Theatres is here with Mrs. Gordon from Beaumont. There's a story in it all. Dave Palfreyman, who made the trip via Memphis and New Orleans where he looked in on both the Tri-States and Gulf States conventions, stayed over one extra day in the latter town, circumstances being what they were, and boarded the Sunset Limited on Wednesday night when his original schedule was Tuesday night.

At the station in San Antonio, Dave rubbed his eyes, shook his head and thought he was seeing things, those circumstances back in N'Orleans again being what they were. He thought he saw Gordon and actually did. The Texas circuit operator had been visiting his son at Austin and caught the Sunset at San Antonio when Palfreyman, who was aboard, knew he had passed through the city the day before.

Charlie Einfeld is mixed on his knowledge of railroading in the West. He stuck up Warner banners and cards in Sante Fe stations from San Berdoo into L.A., also in Pasadena and other spots a couple of hours out. All O.K., except the specials came in over the Southern Pacific which doesn't touch San Berdoo. Charlie, however, insists all trains did.

That was quite a party which headed west from New York on Wednesday and pulled in here on The Chief Saturday night. In it were Jack Warner, flanked by his two sales chiefs, Grad Sears and Andy Smith; Sam Dembow of Paramount, George Dembow, a brother and an executive of National Screen, and Herman Robbins, prexy of N.S.S.

The two Dembows and Robbins are comfortably ensconced in one of those Ambassador bungalows, out on the grounds and surrounded by birds, those persistent California flowers, et al.

Morgan Walsh, who is president of Independent Theatre Owners of Northern California as well as general manager of Midland Theatres, Inc., is here with a case of Irish whiskey. With him is George Mann, president of Midland, and Walsh's business associate. All they had to do was hop down from San Francisco. No distance at all in this land of motor highways.

Grad Sears, true to that tradition that he answers all telephone calls, did just that at 3:15 A.M. Saturday and created near havoc in a certain editor's orderly existence thereby. That not being enough, he repeated the same stunt at 7:15 Sunday morning.

The Ambassador Hotel sent a man into Arizona to meet the specials. He checked in all those who are now stopping at the hostelry and eliminated all concerns over baggage.

The front of the Southern Pacific Station was the busiest place in town about 7:40 A.M. Monday morning when the Pullman cavalcade rolled in. Berinstein had busses meet the gang. Lola Gentry was there to meet Alma Walton, old-time associates in the Film Board secretariat. A MOTION PICTURE DAILY staff photographer was busy directing this and that one into groups in the hunt for the little birdie.

Lots of the usual East vs. West misunderstanding over the convention program. General accusations have been flying in all directions at once. It's all pretty well straightened out now and the blood pressure is gradually subsiding.

Mike Comerford stands in danger of being charged with exclusiveness. The mob is at the Ambassador. He's at the Beverly-Wilshire.

Mrs. Meyer and Daughter Delphine, who with Stan, manager of the Alhambra in Milwaukee, constitute the family of Wisconsin M.P.T.O. President Fred S. Meyer, arrived from Phoenix late Thursday. Delphine's been there for her health. Stan stayed at home.

Ben Berinstein, chairman of the convention arrangements, is plotting a vacation after all this M.P.T.O.A. business is over. He's on the ragged edge of something or other.

Coast Confab May Result in Better Films

the organization had determined on Hollywood for the convention was another indication that producers are a dominant factor, Meyer, who did the talking to newspaper men, said: "If coming to Hollywood to mingle with producers and players in an effort to impress them and bring about better pictures with less dirt is to be characterized as mingling with producers, then we are doing exactly that."

S. P. Station Busy Spot

The Southern Pacific station was the busiest place in town this morning as the 10-car M.P.T.O.A. special unloaded its human freight. Practically every exchangeman here and earlier arrivals over the week-end were on deck to visit the delegates to the clicking of cameras and the fast-moving Universal Newsreel cameraman, who, of all the newsreels, was the only one on the job. Eight special buses conveyed a group of 150 to the Ambassador, where considerable activity resulted until all the visitors had been assigned to rooms and baggage delivered.

No scheduled events were on tap, the afternoon being devoted to registration and granting an opportunity to those never here before to see what southern California looked like. For a convention so far removed from New York this 14th annual M.P.T.O.A. conclave has an unusual representation from ranking executives in New York. Here, among others, are Gradwell Sears, A. W. Smith, Warners; James R. Grainger, Universal, and Sam Dembow, Paramount.

The meeting actually gets going Tuesday, with Ed Kuykendall presiding. It will be called to order by Ben Berinstein, chairman of the convention committee, who will deliver the opening address. Addresses of welcome by Frank L. Shaw, mayor of Los Angeles, and Col. Carlos Huntington, representing Governor Rolph, will be responded to by M. A. Lightman on behalf of the M.P.T.O.A. Then will follow the presentation of reports by the president, secretary and convention committee.

Blumenthal Loses Suit in Stock Deal

Philadelphia Circuit Court of Appeals. Without comment, the court affirmed the decision of the lower tribunal, which reversed a finding of the Federal District Court of Eastern Pennsylvania that Blumenthal was entitled to $151,575.

In carrying the case to the highest court, Blumenthal explained today the action arose from an agreement with Greenfield to divide funds received by them for services in disposing of the Fox stock to General Theatres, Blumenthal contending he was entitled to more than half of the $500,000 received as commission on the deal, which, he asserted, was for "$15,000,000 and other considerations." It was also maintained Greenfield received another $250,000 from General Theatres and was believed to "have received still other sums" which had never been admitted.

The trial court interpreted the agreement as not requiring the division of the $250,000, but held that a lump sum of $300,000 received from Fox should have been split.

The decision was reversed by the circuit court upon Greenfield's representations that it was indirectly a gift from Fox when the latter was worried about his option to participate in the underwriting of his stocks by General Theatres, and Greenfield purchased his interest to reduce Fox's commitment.

New Orleans Censor Board to Be Set Up

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—As a result of the campaign against objectionable films, suggestive billboards and immoral literature launched several weeks ago by Bishop Jeanmard at Lafayette, La., the City Council has adopted an ordinance setting up a board of censors for all amusements, billboards, books, magazines and other publications.

Very Rev. A. F. Canon Isenberg, rector of St. John's Cathedral of Lafayette, led the movement to purify the city. Protestant churches cooperated as did the Parent-Teachers' Ass'n., Knights of Columbus, Catholic Daughters, St. Vincent de Paul Society, the Cathedral Ladies' organization, and the sodalities.

Again Seek Transfer Of Canada Censoring

TORONTO, April 9.—Once more a plea has been raised for the placing of censorship under the control of educational authorities so that screen entertainment for youthful minds will be guided by those who have contact with minors.

During the convention of the Ontario Educational Ass'n., the provincial government was asked to transfer the censor board from the jurisdiction of the provincial treasurer to the Department of Education.

Fox to Team 3 Stars

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—Fox plans to put Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers and Warner Baxter in one film, "One More Spring," which will be placed in production by Winfield Sheehan upon his return from abroad in July.

M-G-M Policy Not Fixed on Combines

No policy has been set up for next season on selling or not selling booking combines, Felix Feist, general sales manager of M-G-M, stated yesterday. The sales policy of the company will be discussed at the annual sales meet, date of which has not yet been set.

Considerable secrecy shrouds the company's interest in a new three-color process for cartoons. Fred Quimby, short subject sales head, stated yesterday there is nothing to say at this time. M-G-M, however, will distribute next season eight FitzPatrick Traveltalks in three-color Technicolor process.

Hal Roach is due in New York in three weeks for conferences with Quimby and Feist on his 1934-35 lineup.

FitzPatrick Plans An Annual Feature

James A. FitzPatrick, shorts subject producer, plans to supplement his annual featurettes by one feature a year, with production concentrated in the East. FitzPatrick is now mapping out his initial feature, but will not divulge the nature of the story until work is started around Sept. 1. He will direct as well as produce all features. Distribution will be handled by his own office in New York.

Having completed the first of a series of 10 Musical Romances, FitzPatrick shortly begins work on his second, which will be on the life of Ethelbert Nevin, American composer, whose compositions include "The Rosary," "Mighty Lak' a Rose," "Narcissus" and "A Day in Venice."

New House for Houston

HOUSTON, April 9.—A new suburban theatre seating 1,000 will be erected in one of the better residence sections of Houston at a cost of $100,000, by I. B. Adelman, of Ft. Worth. Work will begin immediately, and the opening has been set for August 1. The theatre, with an arcade entrance, will extend through a block. Subsequent run pictures and popular prices will be the policy.

Dewey Bloom to Marry

TORONTO, April 9.—Following his marriage in the near future, Dewey Bloom, manager of the British Division, Regal Films Limited, Toronto, will sail for England for a combination honeymoon and business trip.

"U" Picks Columbo Yarn

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—Russ Columbo, after months of idleness at Universal pending choice of a story deemed suitable for him, is at last to be starred in a film written by John Meehan, Jr., called "Tonight's the Night."

Blank in Hastings House

HASTINGS, Neb., April 9.—A. H. Blank's Tri-State Theatre Co. has taken over the Rivoli, according to an announcement by Evert R. Cummings, district manager. Eddie Forrester, formerly with Publix at Grand Island, has been named manager.

Boosts Milwaukee

Los Angeles, April 9.—Fred S. Meyer, head of the Wisconsin delegation to the M.P.T.-O.A. convention, pulled in here determined to get the next annual convention for Milwaukee. He and all his men were busy talking up the idea from the time they got on the special train at Chicago, and they intend to keep the subject warm while here.

Eight British Films Approved in Canada

TORONTO, April 9.—Eight of the 41 features recommended currently by the Canadian Council on Child Welfare for juvenile and family patronage are the product of British studios. This list, the first to be published in 1934 by the Government-subsidized organization, contains more British releases than any previous compilation.

Next in order is Columbia with seven features, while Paramount and Fox have six each, with M-G-M down for five and Universal four.

The approved British productions include "Facing the Music," "Falling for You," "I Was a Spy," "Sorrentino and Son," "Southern Maid," "You Made Me Love You," "Catherine the Great" and "The Life of H. R. H. Prince of Wales."

Among the recommended U. S. features are "Little Women," "Berkeley Square," "Christopher Bean," "Dancing Lady," "Doctor Bull," "Counselor-at-Law," "Carolina," "Lady for a Day," "Mr. Skitch," "One Man's Journey," "Let's Fall in Love," "Master of Men," "His Double Life," "Six of a Kind," "S. O. S. Iceberg," "The Poor Rich," "Sons of the Desert," "Should Ladies Behave?," "Son of a Sailor," "Tillie and Gus" and "You Can't Buy Everything."

Seattle Burlesque Stays

SEATTLE, April 9.—Burlesque shows, banned last week by the City Council under penalty of revocation of theatre licenses, have been given a new lease of life. A delegation of performers from the State, Rialto and Palm theatres, backed by James Bradford of the local NRA office, appeared before the council license committee and obtained permission to continue. They showed that about 75 persons depend for employment on burlesque.

Fox Exchange Shifts

J. E. Scott has been promoted from salesman in the Fox St. Louis branch to manager of the company's Omaha office, succeeding Tom Burke, resigned.

Harry J. Bailey, Montreal manager, has been shifted to charge of the Toronto exchange and Edward English is the new pilot at Quebec.

Poster Meeting Ends

St. Louis, April 9.—Following a two-day session at the Coronado, members of the National Poster Service Ass'n. left for their respective territories. Individual members refused to discuss developments of the sessions. Simon Libros of Philadelphia presided.

Coast Production Holds Normal Pace

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—Production for the week ending April 7 continues to be normal with a total of 41 features and 14 shorts in work as compared to 42 and 12 for the preceding week. In addition, the studios report a total of 25 features and 10 shorts in final stages of preparation and 46 features and 19 shorts in the cutting rooms.

Paramount continues to lead the field with seven features working, four preparing and seven editing. Radio has seven, one and three; M-G-M, five, two and eight; Fox, five, four and four; Warners, three, two and nine; Columbia, three, three and four; Universal, two, four and five; United Artists, one, zero and two, while the independent studios report a total of eight, five and four.

In the short subject division M-G-M reports four working, two preparing and five editing; Roach, two, zero and two; Universal, one, one and one; Columbia, one, one and two; Radio, one, zero and two, with the independent studios registering five, six and seven.

Skouras Insists FWC Triple Bills Ending

Maintaining he ordered elimination of triple features in FWC houses, Charles Skouras yesterday stated that the triple-bill policy is being done away with. Answering charges on the coast that he had not given orders to that effect, Skouras stated he was against the practice and that it will not be tolerated in FWC houses.

Skouras plans to leave for the coast in 10 days, but may be held up on reorganization plans for FWC.

Barthelmess Winds Up Warner Contract

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—Richard Barthelmess has completed a 13-year association with Warners. "The Old Doll's House" was the final picture on his contract.

The actor will leave immediately on a three months' vacation in Europe, having made an agreement to give the studio first consideration when he makes a new deal. Meanwhile, Warners are sitting tight and making no overtures until the results of his two last pictures are checked.

Sunday Films Win, Lose

OMAHA, April 9.—Sunday films won at the polls today in Fairbury, Neb., by 113 votes, and in West Lincoln, Neb., where there is no theatre, by 33 votes. The Sunday issue lost at Stromsburg, Neb., by 86 votes.

Columbia Ups Shorts List

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—Columbia enters into a schedule of producing a minimum of two shorts a week for the new season, raising the present quota from 60 to 104 yearly. Jules White is supervising.

Ben Rosenberg on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—Ben Rosenberg, who arrived on the M.P.T.O.A. special from New York, plans to remain for a few weeks after the convention.

"Never mind the key to the City...give me 'RIPTIDE.'" (Norma Shearer, Bob Montgomery in the sensation of 1934!)

"Sure, I think your climate's great, but give me road-show hits like 'VIVA VILLA!'" (Wallace Beery stars! It's another "Big Parade"!)

"I like your swimming pools, Hollywood, but 'MEN IN WHITE' is so good for my Box-Office." (Clark Gable, Myrna Loy in a honey!)

"Never mind the speeches, Mister, give us pictures like 'TARZAN AND HIS MATE.'" (Johnny Weissmuller in a Big Show!)

"Okay, Hollywood, you throw some swell parties—but I'm looking forward to 'HOLLYWOOD PARTY' on my screen!" (M-G-M's rousing musical comedy hit!)

"The meeting is adjourned so we can all go over and see Joan Crawford in 'Sadie McKee.'" (Good-bye "Dancing Lady" records!)

LEO MARCHES ON!

New York for the next Campi session.

In authority quarters it is stated the plan of taxation is simple, theatres being assessed by type of run, seating capacity and population of towns.

From other sources it has been learned that producers and distributors have not yet completed details of raising $180,000, their share of the code expense. Whether the operation will cost the amount fixed was open to question yesterday when Campi quarters said the cost would not run as high as $360,000 and other sources maintained it would amount to much more.

Because all secretaries unanimously recommended by local boards and approved by Campi had not wired in acceptance yesterday, Code Authority held up announcement of the names. In one case a secretary was informed she would have to accept a smaller salary than she is now getting as a Film Board secretary. Her confirmation is still pending.

All secretaries have been informed they cannot hold two jobs.

Joe Brodie Is Injured

BALTIMORE, April 9.—Joe Brodie, proprietor of the Brodie, was badly shaken up in an automobile accident recently when the car which he was driving and a taxi cab collided. Brodie was cut on the head.

Erpi to Aid, But Not Make Pictures Here

Erpi will encourage and further production at Eastern Service Studios but will not undertake any production activity of its own, John E. Otterson, president, said yesterday on his return from a trip to the coast.

Financing of outside producers working at Eastern Service Studios, up to a reasonable portion of production costs, will be continued and new policies will be inaugurated to assist production at the Astoria studio, Otterson indicated. He said the purpose of his coast trip was to look over Hollywood studios and current production.

Joe Levy and Wife Hurt

DES MOINES, April 9.—Joe Levy, Columbia exchange manager here, is recovering from chest and leg injuries, and his wife is suffering from a fractured arm and foot and face cuts as a result of an automobile collision at Ottumwa, Ia. T. C. Whitney, driver of the other car, was killed.

Louis Marcus Returns

SALT LAKE CITY, April 9.—Fully recovered from a major operation, Mayor Louis Marcus is back on his dual jobs as head of his theatre circuit and of the city government.

"U" Convention Set For N. Y., June 5-7

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—Universal's sales convention has been set for New York, June 5-7, by James R. Grainger, now here discussing the new season's program with the Laemmles.

Johnston Declares First Div. to Stay

franchise holders to re-elect Harry Thomas, First Division president, to the Monogram directorate this year, presaged a split in the distribution tie-up between the two companies, was made yesterday by W. Ray Johnston, Monogram president.

"The report is entirely erroneous and without foundation," Johnston's statement said. "First Division owns the New York City, eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and Delaware franchise on Monogram, and the franchise is a permanent franchise which cannot be broken except by mutual consent. These two territories involve the biggest territories and to indicate that the permanent affiliation is just about to be dissolved is unfair to both interests and creates confusion in the minds of exhibitors in those territories."

latest report filed, were $1,707,569.11, exclusive of cash on hand, while for the period from April 23 to August 19 the company's gross income was $1,214,274.09. Disbursements were $1,698,374.68 and $1,211,103.92 for the respective periods.

The totals are for Rocky Mountain and subsidiaries, including the large Midland chain, altogether comprising some 200 theatres. Office receipts are included. The trustee lists individual figures for only 12 theatres, which as yet remain to be transferred to new corporations under the reorganization of the parent company. For the four months ending Dec. 30, the 12 houses showed receipts of $179,090.54 and disbursements of $137,384.09, an excess of $41,706.45.

Moore to See "Cheer"

Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey and his staff will be at the world premiere of "Stand Up and Cheer!" at the Music Hall on Thursday, April 19, as a tribute to Nick Foran, Jerseyite, who makes his debut in pictures in the Fox production. Arrangements have been made by the crooner's dad, Col. Arthur F. Foran, chairman of the New Jersey Highway Commission and former comptroller of the Port of New York.

Elliott Fails To Appear for Review Board

by W. O. Thompson, presiding, that the board did not consider it proper to hear one side of the argument in the absence of representatives of the other side, and announced that Elliott would be given a period of 48 hours to appear, and failing his appearance the matter would be closed.

Writing Film Report

The writing of the board's report on the film code has already been started with the assistance of Charles Edward Russell, nationally known Socialist author, with a view to getting it to the President shortly after his return at the end of the week. The report will contain specific recommendations for revision, it was disclosed today by Chairman Clarence W. Darrow. These recommendations will center around the restrictions imposed upon independent exhibitors by the producer distributors, including such matters as protection, datings and percentages. What position the board will take with respect to block booking was not revealed. Members of the board today evinced their desire that a unanimous report be submitted and indicated that disagreements which have sprung up between the various members will be ironed out behind closed doors before the report is completed.

May Not Be Made Public

The report, it was said, will not be made public by the board unless the President indicating his desire that it be released by Darrow. While Chairman Darrow declared that the report will go deeply into the provisions of the code which have disturbed the industry, other members are less enthusiastic, having an eye to the possible reaction which might follow any radical recommendations not supported by proper factual material, and are understood to urge that any report made confine itself to pointing out the apparent need for thorough, impartial study of various provisions.

Federal Probe Is Begun in Chicago

pages of testimony were taken under the direction of William F. Dinnen. Private hearings are being held at the hotel, with others at the commission's headquarters being arranged.

Representatives of the commission are known to have called on several exchanges and are reported to be inquiring particularly into the setup which brought elimination of double features here. The active interest being taken by the government in the matter is attributed to the recent appearance of Joe Pastor before the Darrow committee in Washington.

The new organization claims the present releasing system is fraught with discrimination and favoritism which will put its members out of business. It also wants dime admissions where conditions warrant. Its leaders are suspected of favoring double features, but refuse to comment on the subject.

Labor Problem Put Up to Coast Board

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—Elimination of divergent viewpoints over adjudication of labor disputes under the code and the elimination of Judge Ben Lindsey, who has been the pivotal and sore point in negotiations, are seen in a wire received by George Creel, California NRA director, from Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt, which gave information of a new setup here.

Pat Casey, labor contact for major producers, and Ed Smith, have been named as the new labor committee to be supplemented shortly by additional impartial members. Rosenblatt's wire, in part, said:

"The Code Authority is providing funds for permanent headquarters and also for pay of staff personnel and necessary expenses. Kindly turn over all labor complaints presently existing in respect to studio labor to the committee for their action and determination."

"This move is in keeping with the policy of the NRA for handling labor complaints within a codified industry under supervision of such industry."

Lindsey, as labor compliance authority for studios, has never been recognized by the industry here and has threatened to hold meetings to clear disputes despite producers' refusal of recognition.

Following receipt of this news Dick Lestrangle, third member of the original studio labor board appointed by Rosenblatt, called a meeting today of all union leaders and other labor factions to present their complaints and decide on drastic action protesting Lindsey's removal. Because of the small turnout no definite resolution was adopted. It is Lestrangle's opinion that as long as Casey is labor contact man for the producers no individual would dare present his complaints without jeopardizing his business. If necessary protests will be carried directly to President Roosevelt, it is said.

Labor Problems Go To Industry Boards

members of the industry in keeping with the NRA's plan to make each industry self-controlled and self-contained.

All other work of the compliance boards is being shifted to grievance boards of Campi. Personnel of the labor or industrial relations boards will be set up by Campi, possibly Friday, when Code Authority meets again.

The main board of the industrial units will be in New York and all its work will be subject to review by Code Authority and the administrator. The grievance boards, in taking over the work of compliance boards, add duties of keeping in line exhibitors who put on lotteries, advance advertising in conflict with first runs and distribute two-for-one tickets.

Loew Shifts K. C. Start

KANSAS CITY, April 9.—Beginning April 20, Loew's Midland will advance its weekly opening from Saturday to Friday, bringing it in line with the Newman and Mainstreet.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Tarzan and His Mate"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—Seldom has such a combination of box-office values been blended into one film, achieving super entertainment for the masses which still like primary things done well.

The romance between Johnny Weismuller and Maureen O'Sullivan contrasts with jungle adventures, wild animal battles, melodrama in the quest for ivory and spectacular circus thrills.

Adventures and combats with elephants, monkeys, panthers, crocodiles, lions and a rhinoceros tumble over one another in rapid succession.

The kids will get a big sock from the ride of Tarzan on the tail of a crocodile under water, a bareback ride on a rhinoceros, a hand to hand combat with a lion, and his swinging from tree to tree like an acrobat. Monkeys furnish comedy and the feminine appeal includes Miss O'Sullivan in gorgeous gowns listening to civilized music drenched in perfume taken from London to the jungle.

A breath-taken sequence reveals Tarzan and Miss O'Sullivan, two primitive kids, swimming under water.

Cast and production values are excellent. Cedric Gibbons, former art director, has done a fine job in his first directorial effort.

Altogether "Tarzan" should do a smash business in any type houses here or abroad. For exploitation it is a press agent's paradise; for showmen it is a money certainty.

"Viva Villa," which had its world premiere at the Criterion last night, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on March 27.

"I Believed in You," last night's opener at the Mayfair, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on Feb. 10.

Loew's Complain on K. C. Subsequent Ads

nection is whether first runs in Kansas City, Kan., separated by only a state line from Kansas City, Mo., may advertise future bookings ahead of their first run in the larger city.

It is claimed that the first runs in Kansas City, Kan., are in the clear, but Kansas City, Mo., theatres contend that since the Kansas theatres are subsequent to those in Missouri, any prior advertising across the state line is a code violation.

Grievance Board in Washington Gathers

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The local grievance board held its first regular meeting today, with Herman Blum presiding. Headquarters were discussed. A meeting of the clearance board which was to have been held tomorrow has been cancelled, with no date having been set for the next sitting.

Ohio ITO Meets in Cincy

CINCINNATI, April 9.—The problem of percentage and preferred playing time was discussed today at a regional meeting of the I. T. O. of Ohio at the Netherland Plaza under the leadership of P. J. Wood, business manager. It was pointed out that under the proposed three per cent general sales tax exhibitors would not only be compelled to pay on gross admissions but also on film rentals, sound equipment and advertising, thereby increasing the tax to approximately four per cent. The exhibitors were told that under the present government setup they more than ever needed organization to obtain recognition.

Sherman Denies Any Local 306 Payment

Harry Sherman, president of Local 306, yesterday denied testimony given last week before the Senate Labor Committee in Washington that he had "paid a fee" of $7,500 to Salvatore Spitali, an intermediary in the Lindbergh kidnapping case.

The testimony was given by Nathaniel Doragoff, member of Local 306, who said that Sherman "inadvertently admitted" making the payments in conversations with union members. He also charged that Sherman refused to explain disbursements of $900,000 in union funds. Replying to the charges, Sherman said that Doragoff's testimony was given "at the instigation of Sam Kaplan," deposed head of Local 306.

"Kaplan has associated himself through his company, the Sam Kaplan Mfg. & Supply Co., with the exhibitors whom Local 306 has been fighting since I became president," Sherman's statement declares. "These exhibitors feel that with Kaplan again in control of Local 306, they will be able to accomplish their purposes and they are working hand in hand with Sam Kaplan to embarrass me in my fight against them."

"No dollar has ever been spent by the officers of Local 306 during my administration for any dishonest purpose," the statement continued. "Every dollar received or spent by the officers has duly and properly been accounted for before the local."

Resolutions Approved

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt yesterday approved two resolutions adopted recently by Code Authority. One has to do with his interpretation of the 10 per cent cancellation clause, retroactive to Dec. 7, and the other concerns "race nights," "bank nights," reduced admissions and other devices reducing admissions.

Distributors Find K. C. Duals a Help

KANSAS CITY, April 9.—Distributors are finding a boon in the dual bill policy at the Publix Newman and the reopening of two first runs. Formerly with four first runs using the pick of the product, the companies had found an excess on their hands which they released to subsequents without the customary first run.

Columbia and Universal, with no affiliated outlets, are the chief beneficiaries among the majors, while Monogram, Majestic and other independents are getting a real break. The Newman, which normally played only Paramount and Warners, is giving considerable time to other product. Fox, which heretofore has been limited to its affiliated Uptown, is now finding a place on the Newman's double bills.

M-G-M is breaking a long established custom in selling some of its pictures away from Loew's Midland to the Newman, which is currently showing "Sons of the Desert" on a double bill. A few from M-G-M also are to be first run at the Tower, scheduled for reopening this week.

Independents are profiting by the reverting of the Publix Royal to a first run policy. This house is going in for "exploitation" pictures.

Tri-States Is Split In Three Divisions

DES MOINES, April 9.—Division of the Tri-State Theatres Corp. into three districts has been announced here by G. Ralph Branton, general manager. Stanley Brown, who has been supervisor of the four Tri-State theatres here, has been named supervisor for the district to include Des Moines, Waterloo and Ottumwa. The other division managers previously announced are E. R. Cummings, for western Iowa and Nebraska, and Joe Kinsky for eastern Iowa and western Illinois.

Extra Change Confirmed

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—Confirming the action of Campi recently, Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt has notified the extra standing committee of B. B. Kahane's resignation and appointment of Fred Schuessler, casting director, to the committee.

The regular meeting of the extras' code committee, scheduled for tonight, to consider nominees for 1,500 eligibles and reclassification has been carried over until tomorrow night.

ITOA Directors to Meet

The board of directors of the I. T. O. A. meets today at President Harry Brandt's office to discuss appointments on the local clearance and zoning and grievance boards and also the hearings before the National Recovery Review Board in Washington. A general meeting of the members is slated for tomorrow at the Astor.

The unit is not being represented at the M. P. T. O. A. convention which opens today on the coast.

Review Board To Urge Code Be Rewritten

Would Lighten Alleged Theatre Restrictions

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The code will be rewritten to relieve alleged restrictions imposed upon independent exhibitors by producers, including protection, preferred playing time and percentages if the National Recovery Review Board has its way.

Writing of the report of the board on the film code has already been started with the assistance of Charles Edward Russell, nationally known Socialist author, with a view to getting it to the President shortly after his return at the end of the week.

The report will contain specific recommendations for revision, it was disclosed today by Chairman Clarence W. Darrow.

What position the board will take with respect to block booking not revealed. Members of the board today evidenced their desire that a unanimous

The Universal corporate structure provides that if six consecutive dividends on its preferred stock are passed, holders of preferred may elect two directors to the board. Those dividends have been passed and Brown now looms in the picture through a down-

Theatre Labor Pacts In Code Face Tussle

Repetition of their open hostility to the theatre labor provisions of the code will be registered with considerable emphasis at the M.P.T.O.A. convention which launches its first business session at the Ambassador this morning.

Many exhibitor leaders declare they cannot live under its terms and the foothold extended new unions which they allege the code makes possible.

Skouras Insists That Triples Were Killed

NEW YORK, April 9.—Charles Skouras today insisted he had ordered Fox West Coast managers to discontinue triple bills in Southern California more than two weeks ago. This is in rebuttal to the statement made in Los Angeles by Ben Berinstein of the I.T. O.A. that he could clean up the situation in a week if FWC conformed.

Skouras plans to leave for the coast in 10 days, although reorganization plans, long in the throes of conferences here, may delay him.

Base Assessments On Runs, Seats and Town

NEW YORK, April 9.—Confirming today's report in MOTION PICTURE DAILY that the cost of financing the code would be $360,000, Campi tonight sent a plan for assessing exhibitors $180,000 to Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt for his approval. This is expected by Friday, when Campi meets again with Charles L. O'Reilly as chairman. The plan will tax exhibitors according to the classification of the run of their theatres, seating capacities and population of their cities and towns.

Because some secretaries had not confirmed their acceptance, Campi is holding the announcement of the list until all those unanimously recommended accept. In one situation a Film Board secretary is mulling over the reduced salary. All are being advised again that they cannot hold two jobs.

Fireworks Out—All "Beefs" Will Clear Via Committees

By RED KANN

Committed to a three-day conclave which will air complaints and personal "beefs" in the privacy of committee and not on the convention floor itself, the M. P. T. O. A. yesterday began to clear the decks for action this morning at the Ambassador by disposing of the election of its new official slate and returning Ed Kuykendall of Mississippi to office. MOTION PICTURE DAILY, in its regular New York edition which arrived here yesterday morning by fast plane and was distributed in the eight busses which conveyed the delegates to the hotel, predicted this.

Indication that the convention was destined to be orderly and quiet is seen in the strategy which created seven committees to hear individual complaints and decision of those committees to meet between 5:30 and 7 P. M. daily in private session for this purpose. Yesterday, Jules H. Michael of Buffalo was named chairman of the committee on grievances, replacing Lewen Pizor, president of the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania who is seriously ill in Philadelphia.

report be submitted and indicated that disagreements which have sprung up between the various members will be ironed out behind closed doors before the report is completed.

The report, it was said, will not be made public by the board unless the President indicated his desire that it be released by Darrow.

While Chairman Darrow declared that the report will go deep into the provisions of the code which have rocked the industry, other members are less enthusiastic, having an eye to the possible reaction which might follow any radical recommendations not supported by proper, factual material and are understood to urge that any report made confine itself to pointing out the apparent need for thorough impartial study of various provisions.

Educational Gets Set

Studio Labor
Protests on Lindsey Move

Following receipt of word empowering Pat Casey and Ed Smith to hear and adjudicate studio labor complaints, which automatically removed Judge Ben Lindsey from that power, Dick L'Estrange, third party of the original studio labor board appointed by Division Administrator Sol Rosenblatt, called a meeting yesterday of all union leaders and other labor factions to present their complaints and decide on some other more drastic action in protest of Judge Lindsey's removal of authority to adjudicate complaints.

Because of a small turn-out at the meeting presided over by L'Estrange, no definite resolution was decided upon. It is the opinion of L'Estrange that as long as Casey is the labor contact man for the producers, no individual complainant would "dare" present his beefs before that committee if they cared to remain in the business. If necessary, the protest will be carried direct to President Roosevelt, it is said.

Labor Problems Turned Over to New Boards

New York, April 9.—All labor problems within the industry will be turned over to the Industrial Relations Boards here and to regional branches in Hollywood and other cities. The grievance boards will assume the work of the NRA Regional Labor Compliance Boards, and all grievances other than labor will be heard by the code boards. Separate set-ups for relations boards will be made by Campi Friday. The main board will be here, and all work is subject to review by Campi and the division administrator.

In a letter to stockholders, Laemmle points out Universal's condition is improving. He states domestic contracts covering the current selling season are $1,800,000 ahead of the 1931-1932 season while foreign and domestic billings on pictures completed since Sept. 1, 1933 are ahead of the corresponding period of the preceding year by $2,000,000.

The development will reach its fruition when the stockholders of Universal meet in annual meeting in Wilmington on April 19.

Detroit's Plan
To Hike Scales
Starts Apr. 15

DETROIT, April 9.—Plans are now under way to put the Allied-sponsored price raise plan into effect in all Detroit theatres April 15. H. M. Richey, general manager of Allied, reports that approximately 140 of the 163 theatres in the city have signed the agreement and that he expects to have the other signatures so that plan may become effective on the 15th.

All the first-runs have signed the agreement. Their part in the plan will be to raise their prices from 11 A. M. to 1 P. M. to 35 cents, making the opening to 6 P. M. price 35 cents continuously instead of charging 20 and 25 cents from 11 A. M. to 1 P. M. and 35 cents until 6 P. M.

Subsequents raise their prices from five and 10 cents and all protection and clearing and zoning will be based on prices charged, practically in the same manner as is now in use in Chicago.

Following a meeting attended by more than 100 exhibitors, Richey sent a letter to the various exchanges here asking them to use the new plan in the release of their pictures and to enforce provisions of their contracts for higher admission prices. Exchange managers generally favor the plan, believing that higher prices will bring better prices for film, but most of them would not agree to the plan until they had submitted it to their home offices for approval, which they expect to get in most cases.

leaders of the new group at the Stevens Hotel.

Approximately 100 pages of testimony recorded on complaints were recited from the floor with operatives working under the direction of William F. Dinnen, holding private hearings at the hotel and arranging for others at F.T.C. headquarters.

F.T.C. representatives are known to have called on several exchanges and are reported inquiring into the unusual setup which brought about the elimination of double features. Active Government interest is attributed to the recent Washington visit of Joe Pastor to register complaints with the Darrow committee. The new group claims present releasing system-fraught with discrimination and favoritism which will put them out of business. It also wants dime admissions where conditions warrant. Leaders are suspected of favoring double features but they refuse to amplify this angle.

ator, second vice-president replacing Joseph Denniston of the same state; M. A. Lightman, of Memphis, and a past president, third vice-president replacing Walter Vincent of the Wilmer and Vincent circuit, New York, who was re-elected national treasurer. Ben Berinstein, fourth vice-president succeeding Love B. Harrell of Georgia and A. Julian Brylawski, president of the M. P. T. O. of the District of Columbia, fifth vice-president. Fred S. Meyer, president of the M. P. T. O. of Wisconsin was returned to the secretaryship while Edgar G. Levy of the M. P. T. O. of Connecticut was re-elected general counsel and Fred Wehrenberg, president of the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois was re-elected chairman of the board.

Rumors About Berinstein

The fact that Berinstein, who is president of the Independent Theatre Owners of Southern California, was named to a vice-presidency led to reports late yesterday that his unit, so far unaffiliated, was heading toward an M. P. T. O. tie-in. It was explained by Meyer, spokesman with the press, however that Berinstein individually belonged to the national exhibitor organization and his appointment did not necessarily bind his unit to affiliation. If the I. T. O. joins, on the other hand, certainly the step will come as no surprise.

The slate was elected yesterday by the board of directors following an earlier meeting of the executive committee which, as usual, determines the nominations for various M. P. T. O. A. posts. Personnel of the new executive committee will be named Thursday, although the inside is its members are now set for their posts. Under the M. P. T. O. A. constitution and by-laws, the nation divides itself into six zones. Each zone elects one member; affiliated theatres, as a group, are privileged to name one. These seven, plus the president and the secretary, comprise the board of nine.

How They Elect

New York and New England, grouped as one zone, already have designated Michael of Buffalo as its executive committee member. This zone embraces New York City, Albany, Buffalo, Boston, and New Haven.

The Eastern zone is made up of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, Cincinnati and Cleveland.

The South embraces Charlotte, Atlanta, Memphis, Oklahoma City, New Orleans and Dallas.

The Mid-Western area is comprised of Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and Denver.

The Central: Chicago, Detroit, Indianapolis and St. Louis.

The West: Salt Lake, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

of directors involves a local autonomy idea. Each unit, of which the M. P. T. O. A. says it now has 27, appoints its own director. The number, of course, varies as the national organization takes on or drops state units.

Meyer, in reply to an exhibitor criticism which he refused to dub by name but which apparently applies to Allied, rival exhibitor organization, had this to say last night:

“If coming to Hollywood to mingle with producers and players in an effort to impress the need for better pictures with less dirt is to be construed as ‘mingling’ with the producers, then that is exactly what we are doing.”

There was considerable excitement around the Southern Pacific station in Los Angeles yesterday morning at 10:30 when the 10 car M. P. T. O. A. special traveling as a second section of the Golden State Limited pulled in. Exchangemen from Film Row turned out en masse, as did earlier exhibitor arrivals who journeyed in on their own. To the tune of cameras clicking and the grinding of a Universal Newsreel crew, the only one which turned out incidentally, the excitement ran high. Berinstein, who is handling convention arrangements, had eight special busses on hand to carry the delegates to their Ambassador quarters.

Aside from meetings of the executive committee which led into the meeting of the board which, in turn, led to the election, there were no scheduled events on the tapis yesterday or last night. The visitors, many of them in Southern California for the first time, were free to dabble in sight-seeing, botany, biology, geography, or what ever fancy dictated.

This, incidentally, is a rather unique convention for the M. P. T. O. A. Its 14th and its first in Los Angeles in nine years, there are present a rather formidable array of ranking executives from New York. Among them are Gradwell Sears and A. W. Smith, Jr., sales manager of Warners; James R. Grainger, general sales manager of Universal; Sam Dembow, a ranking executive at Paramount; Ralph D. Poucher, an officer of Consolidated Film Industries, Inc.; Herman Robbins, president of National Screen Service, Inc., as well as George Dembow, an executive of that trailer company.

Officially registered yesterday were: W. L. and Mrs. Ainsworth, Garrick Theater, Fon-du-Lac, Wis.; A. Alperstein, Melrose, Los Angeles; Robert Anderson, Rex, Taber, Canada; Samuel and Mrs. Ackerman, East Side, Detroit;

The Feed Bag

What to eat and where? Hollywood has countless restaurants, hotel supper clubs, night clubs, beer parlors, drive-in lunch stands.

For the poor, defenseless exhibitor in a land where he is apt to do much wandering what's on the right is a short, but certain, path to where to dine, wine and dance.

Dine, Dancing Guide to Aid The Visitors

If the inclination is to dance, as well as eat, these hotel supper rooms and clubs are strictly the McCoy:

The Cocoanut Grove in the Ambassador. A favorite rendezvous for stage and screen celebrities. Music by Ted Fio Rito's band.

The Biltmore Bowl, a novel creation in hotel supper room atmosphere, recently inaugurated by Baron Long at the Biltmore. Constructed on the order of a bowl, there's plenty of room to dance to the music of Harold Robert's University band.

The Gold Room at the Beverly-Willshire. Another swanky night spot where celebrities gather and where one may rub shoulders with the intelligentsia as well as Lupe Velez.

The Blossom Room in the Roosevelt, just opposite Grauman's Chinese. Another bright spot made famous by such band leaders as Paul Whiteman, Abe Lyman, George Olsen and Ben Bernie.

The Cotton Club in Culver City. A carbon copy of any first-class Harlem night spot, featuring Duke Ellington's band and a program of Creole entertainment.

Club Ballyhoo offers an attractive floor show as well as good food and dancing.

La Boheme. Bohemian atmosphere wherein to dance, dine or be entertained by a floor show.

Merely Dining

Good, all-around food is available in various restaurants in the vicinity of Vine and Hollywood, the center of the Hollywood colony. Here are to be found the Brown Derby, Al Levy's Tavern, Sardi's, The Russian Eagle, Perry's Brass Rail, and “Uncle Carl” Laemmle's Coco Tree Restaurants. Open early and close early—the following morning. Also Armstrong-Schroeder.

If it's a yen for special foods, here are bets hard to beat:

Chicken Dinners—Fernecroft, Willards.

Chinese—In Chinatown: Paris Inn, Toohi Gar Lows and Grandview Gardens. In Hollywood: Tommy Gubbins.

French—Victor Hugo, swank and expensive; Maison Gaston, Paris Inn, The French House.

Hungarian—The Gypsy Camp, Mrs. Weiss' Hungarian Restaurant.

Italian—Lucca's, Red Devil Inn.

Jewish—Sadie Katz, The Gotham, Ray's Delicatessen.

Mexican—Any place on Olvera St.

Sea Food—Bernstein's, Marine Cafe, Hollywood Brown Derby.

Steaks and Chops—Pacific Dining Car, Musso-Frank, Eatons.

How to get to the above:

Ask hotel clerks, any native who appreciates good food or call MOTION PICTURE DAILY, GRanite 2145.

The M. P. T. O. A. Drops In

Fred Baehler, representing QUIGLEY PUBLICATIONS, was the only newspaper man on the M. P. T. O. A. special in its trek across the country.

What he saw and what he heard, but not necessarily all on either or both counts, follows:

By FRED BAEHLER

The M. P. T. O. A. Golden State Limited-Hollywood Special left the LaSalle St. station, some 15 minutes late to the anguished cries of mothers, children and friends as the delegates pursued the rattler up the track after storming the lone open liquor store in Chicago for supplies to fortify themselves for the arid ride through Kansas.

It also pulled into the Southern Pacific station in Los Angeles yesterday amid similar cries, this time brought on by the reluctance of many of the delegates to leave the train that had been their home for the past two days and some nights.

Never in the history of past conventions or in the history of the Rock Island, according to those who should know, has there been a special train to equal this one. Never had any of the delegates enjoyed themselves so much on board a train and never has there ever been such a spirit of fun, such a spirit of informality among such a large group of people thrown together on such a short notice.

The fun started as soon as Chicago was left behind and Friday morning's MOTION PICTURE DAILY had been read. That issue was the first of many surprises sprung on the passengers. Rushed by air express to Chicago to make the train, everyone had his copy in time to learn what had happened the day before in the industry. Few, if any, of the delegates turned in before dawn.

Saturday brought Kansas City and the Memphis special cars carrying President Ed Kuykendall and his party. After the reunion on the station platform, the fun started all over again. Quartets, sextettes and even octettes were springing up in every car, and in practically every compartment.

The observation car was taken over by the women while the men stormed the bar in the buffet car. Here they were more than ably served by "Steward" Fred S. Meyer. As master of ceremonies he staged everything from a variety show to a bull-fight.

Jaurez and its historic jail proved to be the most interesting visit of all the stops on the trip. The party disembarked at El Paso to be met by John Paxton, the El Paso Boys Silver Cornet Band, and paraded up the main street to the amazement of the natives who failed to understand so much activity so early in the morning.

Kuykendall was presented with a genuine Mexican serape. Even after his arrival here, he still doesn't know what to use it for. The border was then crossed in busses and private cars for a two hour visit. Many and varied were the spoils that the voyagers

As they poured off the MPTOA special, three hours behind schedule because of a stopover of that duration at El Paso. It was a trip, everyone aboard united in declaring yesterday.

Fred S. Meyer, president of the Wisconsin M. P. T. O. A. and national secretary; William J. Heineman, district manager for Universal, and Eddie Cook, the latter's assistant.

Chicago and New York smile. Included are Pat Garyn of United Newsreel; Walter Immerman of Balaban and Katz, his wife and mother; Jack Miller, president Exhibitors Ass'n of Chicago, and Harvey Day of Educational.

brought back, including a special set of real bull horns for that night's bull-fight.

The fun continued far into the night, even into a dining car on the main street of Phoenix as the last stand before the tired crew of travellers turned in for a few minutes' sleep before pulling into Los Angeles.

Not much doing between New York and Chicago, so Pat Garyn and Harvey Day spent most of their time going between first and last cars, saying they needed the exercise.

Jerry Cohen had to compromise on a rummy game due to the lack of bridge players on the New York cars.

Ludwig Sussman, Abe Tague and Lester Retchin, all of Chicago, hoped to beat the regular convention vanguard by getting a six o'clock in the morning start Thursday, driving to the coast.

Sidney Lust, Washington exhibitor, pulled into Windy City early Friday to renew acquaintances before boarding the special.

Sam Dembow, Herman Robbins, Andy Smith and Grad Sears also looked Chicago over on their way west.

Ann and Emily Remijas, daughters of John Remijas, mid-west exhibitor, were among those on the special out of Chicago.

Fred Meyer denied the report that he turned down three offers to take a permanent position as steward on the Rock Island line.

Ben Rosenberg has been given the honorary title of M. P. T. O. A. florist for the duration of the convention. All women are requested to order their orchids from him. He regrets that carnations were the only available flowers on the train.

Who was the delegate that was always going to the observation car for a "manicure"?

Ross and Mrs. Baldwin of the Milwaukee delegation spent all of Saturday afternoon riding the locomotives.

M. A. Lightman won the undisputed bridge championship of the special. His winnings for the entire trip amounted to some 30 cents. He claims the practice was invaluable, however.

"Sonny" Kuykendall was by far the most popular man on the train. Despite the fact that he preferred his dad to anyone else, he was always in the company of one of the more attractive members.

Harvey Day is speechless. Lost his voice trying to sing bass in the Garyn-Day-Cohen-Willard quartet, when he should have stuck to tenor. That's his story.

Jack Miller couldn't see anything so very funny in the name Meyer printed on his compartment door. It was "Office-Tom Maloy."

WELCOME TO HOLLYWOOD!

There's a warm and merry greeting waiting for M.P.T.O.A.

CONVENTION HIGHLIGHTS!

"Never mind the key to the City...give me 'RIPTIDE.'" (Norma Shearer, Bob Montgomery in the sensation of 1934!)

"Sure, I think your climate's great, but give me road-show hits like 'VIVA VILLA!'" (Wallace Beery stars! It's another "Big Parade"!)

"I like your swimming pools, Hollywood, but 'MEN IN WHITE' is so good for my Box-Office." (Clark Gable, Myrna Loy in a honey!)

"Never mind the speeches, Mister, give us pictures like 'TARZAN AND HIS MATE.'" (Johnny Weissmuller in a Big Show!)

"Okay, Hollywood, you throw some swell parties—but I'm looking forward to 'HOLLYWOOD PARTY' on my screen!" (M-G-M-s rousing musical comedy hit!)

"The meeting is adjourned so we can all go over and see Joan Crawford in 'Sadie McKee.'" (Good-bye "Dancing Lady" records!)

LEO MARCHES ON!

Boston Gay; Grosses Soar, Roxy Leader

BOSTON, April 9.—The old maestro, Roxy and His Gang, playing at the Metropolitan as the first way station in his tour of de luxe theatres throughout the East and Middle West highlighted a grand week for theatres in Bean Town. On the celluloid end of the program was "Melody in Spring," but Roxy was the draw to the tune of $35,000 as compared with the house's normal take of $28,000.

Business in and out of the theatre industry was good here. Where records were not broken, the activity reminded of the dim and misty days of '29. Thus it was, all first runs had a real seven days to wax joyful over. For instance:

"I Like It That Way" at the Boston did $19,500. Normal is $16,000.

La Hepburn's "Spitfire" at Keith's shot the receipts to $22,000. The house ordinarily comes out with $16,000.

Norma Shearer gave Roxy a close call for first honors. Her "Riptide" ended at $22,000 at the Loew's State, an uppage of 6,000 iron men.

Total first run business was $119,000.

Average for all reporting theatres is $94,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 5:

"I LIKE IT THAT WAY" (Univ.)
BOSTON—(2900), 25c-50c, 7 days.
On stage, Clark and McCullough musical comedy. Gross: $19,500. (Average $16,000).

"GAMBLING LADY" (Warners)
"COME ON, MARINES" (Para.)
FENWAY—(1800), 30c-50c, 7 days.
Gross: $10,000. (Average $9,000).

"SPITFIRE" (Radio)
KEITH'S—(3500), 30c-50c, 7 days.
Gross: $22,000. (Average $16,000).

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S STATE—(3700), 35c-50c, 7 days.
Vaude. Gross: $22,000. (Average $16,000).

"MELODY IN SPRING" (Para.)
METROPOLITAN—(4350), 30c-65c, 7 days.
Roxy in person and his gang. Gross: $35,000. (Average $28,000).

"GAMBLING LADY" (Warners)
"COME ON, MARINES" (Para.)
PARAMOUNT—(1800), 30c-50c, 7 days.
Gross: $10,500. (Average $9,000).

Providence Goes Limit on Shearer

PROVIDENCE, April 9.—The Thalberg family—Norma, the star, and Irving, the producer—copped all box-office honors here last week with "Riptide."

The Shearer fans turned loose in hordes sufficient to send the take at Loew's State from $12,000 average to $17,000. Aside from Katharine Hepburn's "Spitfire" which, of all things, went into a double-header with "Keep 'Em Rolling" at the Albee, there was nothing much left for other first runs to cash in on. The Albee, however, did clamber $3,000 above routine to a $10,000 take.

Estimated takings for week ending April 5:

"RIPTIDE" (MGM)
LOEW'S STATE—(3,800) 15c-40c. 7

Shearer, Arliss, Jolson Wham Cleveland's Grosses

CLEVELAND, April 9.—The honors currently go three ways here.

"Wonder Bar" broke all opening day records since 1929 at the big 3,800 seat Hippodrome and captured $20,000 on its first week. Phenomenal in view of an average $15,000 for that house. It is now in its second week.

Then there was the drawing card dubbed Norma Shearer. "Riptide" was very big at the State. Take was $15,000. Normal is $10,000.

"The House of Rothschild" proved no slouch, either. Darryl Zanuck's major effort for 20th Century in its first year had a big opening, did consistent business, is holding for a second week at the Ohio and may go a third. Its $6,100 at this 1,500 seat house is very much O. K.

Weather was fair and Easter Week proved a breath of something closely akin to prosperity to practically all downtown stands.

Total first run gross hit $70,200. Average take is $44,500.

Capra's Film Does $11,500 In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, April 9.—Repeating its box-office success in other cities, "It Happened One Night," co-starring Gable and Colbert, proved the leader among attractions here last week. Where the Stanley averages $9,000, it went to $11,500 with Frank Capra's picture.

Landing above the average line were "Scandals" at the Fulton with $1,200 to the good; "Nana" at the Penn which went above normalcy by $1,000 and "I Believed in You" at the Pitt by $800. It was Joe Laurie on the stage, and not the picture, which was responsible in the latter case.

Total take at six first runs was $52,400. Average is $47,500. Estimated takings for the week ending April 7:

"LOVE BIRDS" (Univ.)
"COUNTESS OF MONTE CRISTO" (Univ.)

DAVIS—(1,700), 25c-35c, 6 days.
Gross: $2,400. (Average $2,500).
"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (Fox)
FULTON—(1,750), 15c-40c, 6 days.
Gross: $5,200. (Average $4,000).

"NANA" (U. A.)
PENN—(3,300), 25c-75c, 6 days.
Stage: "Greenwich Village Follies" with Yorke and King. Gross: $22,000 (Average, $21,000).

"I BELIEVED IN YOU" (Fox)
PITT—(1,600), 15c-40c, 6 days.
Stage: Joe Laurie, Jr.'s "Memory Lane Revue." Gross: $6,800. (Average, $6,000).

"IT HAPPENED ONE NIGHT" (Col.)
STANLEY—(3,600), 25c-50c, 6 days.
Gross: $11,500. (Average $9,000).

"HAROLD TEEN" (Warners)
WARNER—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days.
Gross: $4,500. (Average $5,000).

Enter N. O. Field

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—G. A. Coates, formerly with the Saenger circuit, and W. A. Harrison have leased the Gentilly, a suburban house, for a number of years. Subsequent runs will be the policy.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 6:

"LOVE BIRDS" (Univ.)
ALLEN—(3,300), 25c-35c, 7 days.
Stage: "Let's Go Places." Gross: $5,000. (Average $5,000).

"WONDER BAR" (Warners)
WARNER'S HIPPODROME—(3,800), 30c-35c-44c, 7 days.
Gross: $20,000. (Average $15,000).

"I'VE GOT YOUR NUMBER" (Warners)
"COUGAR" (Master Art)
"LOOKING FOR A SILVER LINING" (Warners)

WARNER'S LAKE—(800), 30c-40c, 7 days.
Gross: $1800. (Average $2,500).

"THIS MAN IS MINE" (Radio)
RKO PALACE—(3,100), 30c-40c, 60c-75c, 7 days.
Stage: "Connie's Hot Chocolates." Gross: $18,000. (Average, $18,000).

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S STATE—(3,400), 30c-35c-44c, 7 days.
Gross: $15,000. (Average $10,000).

"COME ON MARINES" (Para.)
"THE LAST ROUND UP" (Para.)
LOEW'S STILLMAN—(1,900), 25c-35c, 7 days.
Gross: $4,300. (Average $4,000).

"HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD" (U. A.)
OHIO—(1,500), 50c-75c, 75c-1.00-1.50, 7 days.
Gross: $6,100.

"WonderBar" Washington's Top; All O. K.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—In a week that marked the best Washington has seen in months, "Wonder Bar," Warner musical, led all others. Playing the Earle, the picture went to a swell $25,000, aided by five extra de luxe performances.

The first extended spell of spring weather which brought visitors here by the thousands for Easter did its work and did it very well. While all houses combined to a first-rate money performance, "George White's Scandals" with Thurston on the stage slipped under expectations.

Estimated receipts, exclusive of tax, for the week ending April 4:

"DAVID HARUM" (Fox)
COLUMBIA—(1,232), 25c-40c, 7 days (return engagement). Gross: $5,000.

"WONDER BAR" (F. N.)
EARLE—(2,323), 25c-66c, 7 days, and one midnight show. Stage show included Charles Melson. Gross: $25,000.

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (Fox)
FOX—(3,434), 25c-66c, 7 days.
Stage show with Thurston. Gross: $20,000.

"NO GREATER GLORY" (Col.)
METROPOLITAN—(1,600), 25c-40c, 6 days.
Gross: $5,000.

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M)
PALACE—(2,363), 25c-40c, 7 days.
Gross: $17,000.

"COUNTESS OF MONTE CRISTO" (Univ.)
RIALTO—(1,800), 25c-50c, 7 days.
Gross: $5,000.

"WILD CARGO" (Radio)
RKO KEITH'S—(1,800), 25c-50c, 7 days.
Gross: $5,000.

After Star Honors

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—Maxie Rosenbloom, perhaps taking a leaf from the book of experience which has been Max Baer's, says he will retire from the squared ring next year and enter pictures, presumably via the Hollywood route. The light-heavyweight champion is now here.

Quaker City's Draws Penner And Shearer

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—Joe Penner's radio popularity hit the deck with a wallop here and gave the Earle where he headed the stage show a $40,000 week, or exactly $2,000 ahead of Eddie Cantor in "Roman Scandals." That's wow business. "Harold Teen" happened to be on the screen.

The general total of all houses in the Quaker City first-run battery was considerably above average last week. The stanza got going with a stormy Saturday which developed a few groans, but thereafter, Old Sol smiled and so did the cashiers.

"Riptide" had no apologies to make at the Boyd where it sent a normal take of $12,000 to $22,000 in six days, which is all that Philadelphians are allowed in any given week for their entertainment.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 5:

"THIS SIDE OF HEAVEN" (MGM)
ARCADIA—(600), 25c-40c-50c, 2nd run, 5 days.
Gross: $1,600. (Average, $2,400).

"PALOOKA" (U. A.)
ALDINE—(1,300), 40c-55c-65c, 2nd week, 6 days.
Gross: $4,000. (Average, $7,000).

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M)
BOYD—(2,400), 40c-55c-65c, 6 days.
Gross: $22,000. (Average, $12,000).

"HAROLD TEEN" (F. N.)
EARLE—(2,000), 40c-55c-65c, 6 days.
Stage show with Joe Penner, Willie West and McGinity, Keller Sisters and Lynch, Matison Rhythms. Gross: $40,000. (Average, $12,000).

"BOTTOMS UP" (Fox)
FOX—(3,000), 30c-40c-60c, 6 days.
Stage show with Phil Spitalny and his Queens of Melody. Gross: $18,500. (Average, $12,000).

"MAN OF TWO WORLDS" (Radio)
KARLTON—(1,000), 30c-40c-50c, 6 days.
Gross: $2,900. (Average, $3,500).

"DAVID HARUM" (Fox)
KEITH'S—(2,000), 25c-35c-40c, 2nd run, 6 days.
Stage show with Harold Woods and His Royal Crest Orchestra. Gross: $7,000. (Average, $7,000).

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (Fox)
LOCUST—(1,400), 30c-40c-60c, 2nd week, 6 days.
Gross: $6,500. (Average, $7,000).

"GAMBLING LADY" (Warners)

Gross: $10,000. (Average, $12,000).

"COME ON, MARINES" (Para)
STANTON—(1,700), 30c-40c-55c, 6 days.
Gross: $6,000. (Average, $7,000).

"Riptide" Once More; Oklahoma City's Top

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 9.—"Riptide," duplicating its box-office performance in other key cities, increased the gross at the Criterion last week by almost 50 per cent. The Shearer film drew in $7,350 where normal take is on the books at $5,000.

Although the weather was inclement, first runs here, in toto, piled up bigger grosses than they have seen in some time. Total first run garnerings were $17,700.

Average bulk gross is $13,500. Estimated takings for week ending April 7:

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M)
CRITERION—(1,700), 10c-20c-26c-36c-41c-56c, 7 days.
Gross: $7,350. (Average $5,000).

"WONDER BAR" (F.N.)
MIDWEST—(1,500), 10c-26c-36c-56c, 7 days.

"One Night" Gets $5,000, Seattle Top

SEATTLE, March 27.—"Nana" at Hamrick's Music Box and "It Happened One Night" at the Liberty are the attractions for about $750 and the latter gross of $4,000.

"Spitfire" Is Detroit Wow; Gets $27,500

DETROIT, March 26.—"Spitfire," aided by "The Greenwich Village Folies" on the stage, had a nice $27,500 that had average of $1,250 per month.

"One Night" Sets Record For Capitol

WASHINGTON, March 28.—In going into its fifth week, "It Happened One Night" set a new run record here. A take of $7500 better the "Little Women" record on the fourth week that was the only other picture to play RKO-Keith's for four weeks.

The Metropolitan's box-office is holding up under the reduced scales inaugurated March 9.

The combination of a good mystery picture, "The Mystery of Mr. X," and Sid Gary's "Broadway Round-Up" on the stage gave Loew's Fox top honors for the week with $22,000.

Sophie Tucker, billed as the "last of the red hot mamas," headlined the Earle bill, with "Let's Fall in Love" as the screen attraction, trailed along at $19,500.

"I Like It That Way" failed to click in spite of an extra heavy campaign. The Columbia and Palace, respectively, with a return engagement of "Carolina" and a first run "David Harum," held their own.

Total first run business was $77,500. Estimated takings, exclusive of tax, for the week ending March 22:

"CAROLINA" (Fox) 35c-40c, 7 days
COLUMBIA—(1,232), 35c-40c, 7 days

Hollywood Ho!

By MILTON WATT

So this is Hollywood—the brilliant splash on the California coast, where day and night merge, converge, intermingle and coincide and where fancy is the dictator of fashion. It's a clubby, chummy township, which if transposed into music would take on the semblance of the popular and lilting tune, "Let's Do As the Birdies Do."

You can let down your hair, eat crackers in bed and vary your diversions without causing a ripple on the Hollywood riviera. Business and pleasure blend into an intoxicating whole and contribute to the unique customs and playfulness of the money-eyed metropolis. But the things that really count and are recounted numerous times over in the hot news columns are summed up in the joyful antics of Lupe Velez' Chihuahua canines, playfully but painstakingly polishing a heaping butter dish in the middle of the executive table in the M-G-M commissary. Those are the things which break into the usual routine of Hollywood, where the laying of cornerstones is as big a business as the laying of bricks.

The hat business is very bad in the film town. The inhabitants just don't wear them—except when they go to the beach or to the opera. The beach on account of the sea gulls and the opera because built on a social foundation. Birds (the noisy kind) and berets are synonymous.

Out here the days are getting longer and tennis shorts shorter. Everyone plays tennis and the women in particular wear assorted colored shorties. The men doff their shirts for the sport, thereby detracting the women and causing them to lose a love set.

Santa Monica Boulevard is the little Tia Juana of Hollywood. Five thousand beer gardens—more or less—located between the streets Vine and Fairfax hang up the S.R.O. sign nightly. These are the daily bread for numerous former studio musicians. They hire a cat and let the customers feed it, according to rumor. Local damsels spend nights in beer parlors and days with a masseuse, again according to report.

Business men work together harmoniously and unanimously in Hollywood. Here's a sample. Drive-in stands are an institution. They annex the luncheon trade. Film fans have learned to spot such favorites as Crawford, Gable, Gaynor and the Governor eating here.

You drive in and the girl comes out with a tray and water. You order a malted milk and Wiener Schnitzel and the girl proceeds to slop the malt over the side of your car. Later you discover half of your sandwich blending with your bib and tucker and the rest ground into your car rug. The waitress immediately presents the names of an auto wash and a cleaning establishment and you're caught with your pantaloons at half mast. Of course you must tip the helpful waitress for her service—with accent on the vice.

Welcome, Stranger

By VICTOR M. SHAPIRO

WHAT is an exhibitor? Who is he? What does he look like? What's in his think tank? Is he animal, vegetable or mineral?

Is the exhibitor a highbrow, a Babbit, nuisance, excrescence, a necessary evil, the heavy, or just the comedy relief in this gigantic gargantuan panoramic cyclorama (whew!) known as the motion picture industry?

If anyone in Hollywood has been talking to themselves, and some do, asking these volcanic questions about these exhibitors, the answer has arrived with the wife and kiddies, from all points East and North, and maybe a couple from the South.

For the first time in nine years, this rara-avis, genus exhibitor, carnivorous, herbivorous and omnivorous all in one, with habitat, key cities, sticks, tanks and whistle stops, is here to meet Hollywood, face to face, argument for argument, and sprocket hole for sound track.

HOLLYWOOD, mitt the exhibitor! Exhibitor, shake with Hollywood and remember boys and girls, marquee and razzberry rules, no socking in clinches. You're both members of the same club and it's all a percentage deal.

Let's put on a Victor record, or an aria from Ramsaye's History of Films. The exhibitor is of three species, independent, circuit-guild or chain-gang. The mob disporting here are independents and have they got a Declaration!

The exhibitor, also elevated in conversation as theatre owner, also called other delightful euphemisms, is the retailer of the film business. His previous condition may have been a college professor, a circus guy, or just a tailor, before he became retailer, but now he's a civic figure, and does he figure, and does he civic through the warp and woof of his town?

He's a believer. He's got to be.

He belongs to the Rotarians, Kiwanis, knitting clubs, Masons, Knights of Columbus, K. K. K., not forgetting Heagles, Helks and Howls.

HE IS the guy New York refers to as selling resistance. He's in between block-booking and individual selling, percentage deals and flat rentals, wild-cattin' and spot-booking. Who couldn't resist those?

He's also cracking between grievance, clearance and zoning boards. Will Hays, Mrs. August Belmont have him down. Abram Myer and Sol Rosenblatt tear each at one cheek, but in opposite directions. Canon Chase gives him the only laugh he gets.

He's got pains with Labor and aches from taxes.

With him, business is always lousy, so he buys another Cadillac and takes an extra trip to Miami. Hollywood does not resent the Cadillac.

He is frank, blunt and hard bitten. His first words, "It's too much." His last words, ditto.

He can tell Hollywood the stars that pull, draw or keep 'em away. He'll tell you if you ask him, or he'll tell you if you don't. So keep quiet and you'll find out.

HE'LL tell you Hollywood or New York don't sell pictures to the public. He, the exhibitor, sells the public. So they gotta sell him first. Between him and his public are women's clubs, censor boards, Better Films Committees, reformers and also the gravy. He get's 'em all.

Meet the exhibitor, he's a gay fellow, and you think you got troubles.

Exhibitors may have envisioned Hollywood as a composite of Frankenstein, Dracula and the Big Bad Schmeerkase, before they got here, but having met Hollywood with its open arms and open air, it goes without saying that before exhibitors say toodle-oo, they'll fight to the finish if Hollywood secedes from the Union, or if any one suggests that, as a remote possibility.

Dining places include Levys, Sardis, the Brown Derby, but the Cafe de Paris at Fox's Westwood studio takes a back seat to none of them. Stars' pets are prominent at the various dinner tables and they join vociferously in the conversation. It is old stuff to find yourself dining nonchalantly next to a monkey or a marmoset.

Open-air-drive-in-markets fleck the local landscape. Store clerks spend most of their time doing record sprints after over-ripe avocados and zucchinis that in some obscure manner seem to be continually rolling into the street en masse. Miniature auto races on every corner at 10 centavos a spin add to the Hollywood crazy quilt.

The scene may be at once revealing, disillusioning, enlivening and weird, but even in Hollywood there comes a quiet moment just before dusk when work ceases—except when on a picture—and the local inhabitants go home to rest, etc.

This is the hour for tea. Will you have Scotch or Rye?

Town Talk!

By JEANETTE MEEHAN

Hollywood has had more than its share of descriptions dumped on its doorstep to be adapted by the Winchells, McIntyres, and plus. Among the more trenchant of these is Virginia Wood's, who says, "Hollywood is a place of lost souls, and heels."

After a week in Arrowhead chopping wood to regain that "he-man" condition, George Brent returned to Hollywood only to have Warners star him in a picture called, "House Wife."

Last year M-G-M made a very successful animal picture titled, "Tarzan, the Ape Man." Shortly thereafter Hollywood seemed to come to the conclusion that what the business needed was more animal pictures. Followed a cycle which has not yet seen its President Hoover (synonym for Waterloo). Current pictures of this type include Radio's "Wild Cargo"; Fox's recently released "Devil Tiger"; M-G-M's "Tarzan and His Mate"; and Mascot's serial, "Lost Jungle."

The other evening a famous actor and his lady friend were guests at a very elegant Hollywood party. Next day the actor wrote to his host, "Dear —. Last evening the young lady with me lost a very beautiful diamond bracelet. If found she would appreciate its immediate return."

Which provoked this, "Dear —. Have found your friend's very beautiful bracelet (diamond), and will be glad to return it if the lady will return my very dependable watch (gold)."

An actress (a newcomer) was showing an interviewer about her house. They ended in what the actress termed, "her pride and joy." The walls of the room were filled with pictures n' pictures n' pictures of herself in polo clothes. Two mallets were leaned against the wall in a corner. Polo balls were neatly lined up in a glass cabinet. "How nice," stated the interviewer, "have you any pictures of yourself in action?"

"Oh," replied the actress, "I like the atmosphere of the game about the house, but I don't really play polo."

Paramount would like Mae West's consent to retitling her current picture, "It Ain't No Sin." Studio would like to call it "St. Louis Woman."

Harpo Marx calls unborn rabbits "ingrown hairs."

On another marquee: COOKS TOUR with GIRL WITHOUT A ROOM.

This last was a mistake. "Cooks Tour" should have been, "CROOKS Tour." It's an M-G-M short.

Major studio, suffering the throes of that contemplation-period that prefaces an epic, wired its casting director, then in New York, to charter a plane, hire cameramen, fly to Montana and test students of an Indian school there for parts in the Big Picture. Casting director got as far as Chicago and halted long enough to wire officials of the state where the school was situated.

Return wire from Montana read: Sorry. School Has Been Closed For Past Ten Years.

"We're Not Dressing"

(Paramount)

Burns and Allen's comedy, Bing Crosby's romantic crooning to Carole Lombard, together with specialties by Ethel Merman and Leon Errol give certain box-office flavor and name value to 'We're Not Dressing,' but the entertainment jells only in spots.

The story intermingles some strange people in some queer situations. Even a bear plays her part in some laughable and some mawkish antics.

Yarn has tried and true values with Miss Lombard as socialite owner of a yacht, on which Crosby is just a sailor with Carole expressing her love by verbal lashings of Bing. Because of Errol's rocky knees, the ship grounds on an island with Bing taking command and applying the 'no work—no eat' dictum which brings Lombard to terms.

Burns and Allen's clever lunacies as two explorers researching, top the picture's audience responsiveness.

Crosby's warbling and romantic mood appeals. Miss Lombard doesn't get much chance to display gowns. Miss Merman evidences real possibilities. Errol does his little bit well.

Gordon and Revel's songs have distinctive quality with "May I" a possible successor to "Dream Walking." Songs, however, seem to suffer by spotting.

Roach Renews Chase's Deal; Studio Closing

Having completed the last of his series of eight for the 1933-34 program, Charlie Chase has been retained by Hal Roach for a new series, the number to be determined. Simultaneously with this "The Our Gang" troupe finished their last picture yesterday, making it possible for the studio to close for a possible four week shut-down before embarking on the new season's schedule.

Roach is scheduled to leave for New York the latter part of this month to confer with M-G-M's home office executives on next season's product.

3 Houses In Deal

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., April 9.—

Three local theatres were involved in realty deals over the week-end. The Galax was leased to Galax Theatres, Inc., with Frank Merritt, president and will continue as a picture house after remodelling and installation of new equipment.

The Pantages, closed for several years, was leased to Birmingham Theatres Co. while the Trianon passed out of the "grind" class to become a chain dress shop.

Sheehan Going Abroad

Winfield Sheehan plans a European vacation beginning July 1 and returning here the latter part of August, to begin work on "One More Spring", slated as one of the big Fox specials for the new season's program.

Switch Marshall, King

A switch in directorial assignments places George Marshall at the helm of "She Learned About Sailors" at Fox. The picture, featuring Alice Faye and Nick Foran, goes into production next week. Louis King, formerly slated to direct, will be given another picture.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

Norman Taurog's direction, usually admirable and inspired, is not quite that here.

Production is program caliber.

"Wild Gold"

(Fox)

"Wild Gold" has a new story angle, dealing with a 1934 California gold rush and the resurrection of a small mining town. Treated lightly, it borders at times on burlesque with the audience amused over the comedy situations and failing to appreciate the forced dramatic situations. John Boles, Claire Trevor, Harry Green and Monroe Owsley give good performances in the top spots, while George Marshall's direction suffers at times from spotty continuity, yet comedy situations atone for this shortcoming.

Story centers on Boles, a mining engineer, who builds dams between drinks. He meets Miss Trevor in a cabaret and, after a series of many amusing situations, finally becomes regenerated into the ways of accomplishing something worthwhile and settles down before the final clinch with Miss Trevor, but not until she has rid herself of a wastrel husband. Intermingling throughout the story are plenty of unusual situations and action to keep the yarn moving until the climax of the dam breaking, sweeping out the town, as well as the husband. This leaves Boles and Trevor free to start life anew and all ends well according to screen formula.

'Where Sinners Meet'

(Radio)

Light comedy, given a satirical twist, is the essence of "Where Sinners Meet." Adapted from a popular British stage play, it moves to the tune of witty dialogue, smart acting and tricky situations. As the show has but one locale, dialogue predominates in telling the story. Yet while action is minimum, J. Walter Ruben's directing technique continually manages to focus interest on both the story and players.

Here's the plot in brief. Clive Brook, living on Dover Road, romantic highway for London elopers bound for continental Gretna Greens, sets himself up as an anti-Cupid. Gently waylaying Reginald Owen and Diana Wynyard, he ingratiatingly forces them to live with him. There they learn everyday married life is a vastly different panorama than their romantic mental meanderings have painted. Zest is added to the situation when Brook uncovers another pair of eloping lovers, Billie Burke (Owen's wife) and Alan Mowbray. Under the spell of Brook's practical experience demonstrations, husband and wife are reunited, Mowbray is delighted to escape the thralldom of wedlock. And in the end Brook succumbs to Hymen's arrows as he takes the Dover Road with Diana Wynyard.

Brook is outstanding in his role, Diana Wynyard and Billie Burke are just as their fans like them to be. But Owen's performance steals the show. In minor roles, Mowbray and Gilbert Emery are pleasing. H. W. Haneman has done a fine job in adapting the story and Ruben's direction preserves the full flavor of British humor.

Trying A Comeback

Gwen Lee is trying a screen comeback and has been pencilled in for one of the featured spots in Chesterfield's "City Park."

Sally Blane and Henry B. Walthall are being co-starred with Hale Hamilton, Edmund Breese, Johnny Harron and Matty Kemp in the supporting cast.

1 Victory, 2 Defeats

OMAHA, April 9.—Referendum to ban Sunday shows was defeated in two Nebraska towns here today and victorious in one. Fairbury won by 113 votes; West Lincoln where there is no theatre by 33 votes while Strombery lost by 86.

Muni in "Border Town"

Warners have assigned Paul Muni the top spot in "Border Town," a novel by Carroll Graham, co-author of "Queer People." Graham has also been signed to work on the adaptation. The picture will go into production the latter part of the month.

Columbia Shorts Up

Columbia announces an increased budget on short subjects, which calls for the filming of two a week, amounting to close to 100 a year.

The studio has been producing 60 two-reelers a year on past programs. Jules White is supervising production of all shorts.

Landfield Heads Overseas

Sidney Lanfield left for New York last night en route to London, where he will direct "Sons O' Guns" for British and Dominion.

The director recently completed work on "The Last Gentleman", starring George Arliss for 20th Century.

Alice Juergens Named

CINCINNATI, O., April 9.—Campi has approved appointment of Alice M. Juergens, secretary for the Cincinnati Film Board of Trade, as joint secretary for the grievance and clearance zoning boards.

Hayes In "Vanessa"

Helen Hayes' first starring picture for M-G-M following her return from New York on June 1, will be "Vanessa," Hugh Walpole's current best seller. Walter Wanger will produce and William K. Howard will direct.

Production on Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows," originally scheduled as her first, has been set up, and will probably be her second picture following "Vanessa."

Lanny Ross to Star

Paramount will boost Lanny Ross to stardom in his next picture. The opus will be an original now being prepared by Henry Myers titled "Mississippi," a story of the show-boat days.

Forget the Convention

NEW YORK, April 9.—The I.T.O.A. did not send a convention representative to Los Angeles because the matter slipped by last week when the unit became absorbed in the National Recovery Review Board hearings in Washington.

On M.P.T.O.A. List, But He's Curious Why

KANSAS CITY, April 9.—A. F. Baker, Kansas City, Kan., exhibitor, is mystified by the appearance of his name on the M. P. T. O. A. convention credentials and rules committee. Baker is president of the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Ass'n., which has no national affiliation. The organization which the present group superseded was an M. P. T. O. A. unit.

Baker is not attending the convention. Neither is any other exhibitor from Kansas and Western Missouri, so far as is known.

After Star Honors

CHICAGO, April 9.—In recognition of 18 years of loyal service Walter Hyland, booker at the Universal exchange here, is being honored by having the week of May 6-12 designated as "Walter Hyland Week." It is one of the few instances in which such distinction has been accorded a booker.

Laughton Big Gross Man In Twin Cities

MINNEAPOLIS, April 9.—Box-office honors currently are all in the lap of Charles Laughton. The English actor, surrounded by that bevy of English, not Hollywood, beauties in "Henry VIII" played day and date at the World theatres here and across the river in St. Paul, did $1,500 above average to a $3,500 take at the former and $1,000 over the normal mark to a gross of $3,000 in the latter. That's business in houses that dip under 500 in seating capacity.

Top money went to "Melody in Spring" with $8,000 at the Minnesota, although this figure skimmed over the routine by a mere $500. As a matter of fact, grosses during the week just closed were good on all counts.

Minneapolis' five first runs, usually grossing around $22,000, totaled $25,000 and St. Paul's five which generally get $16,000 went to $19,500 or so.

Estimated takings:

Minneapolis

Week Ending April 5:

"FRONTIER MARSHAL" (Fox)

Gross: $1,200 (Average $1,000.)

NRA In Hollywood

Peculiar are the workings of the NRA—at times.

At one of the major studios, an information clerk got a $29 a month cut and shorter working hours. A stage watchman, getting the same salary at the same studio received a $5 a week jump and a suite of six rooms. He still doesn't know what he's supposed to do with the suite because it's unoccupied.

The janitor of today is the yacht owner of tomorrow.

Hepburn Chief Draw In Omaha; Just Fair

OMAHA, April 9.—Katharine Hepburn's "Spitfire" was the only attraction to go over par in Omaha last week and at that failed to create any excitement. Spotted in the Brandeis, the picture went to $5,000, thereby topping average by a measly $250.

The week got going with a snowstorm on Good Friday, thus combining an accepted, poor show day with a setback in the weather. Openings consequently were hurt all over town, but most houses rallied the latter part of the week to final returns which were merely so-so.

The four first runs average $25,250 in bulk. Last week they did $24,000 flat.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending April 4

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M)

"3 ON A HONEYMOON" (Fox)
PARAMOUNT—(2,000), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days.
Gross: $7,500. (Average $7,500.)

Week Ending April 5

"SPITFIRE" (Radio)

BRANDEIS—(1,500), 25c-35c, 7 days.
Gross: $5,000. (Average 4,750.)

"JIMMY THE GENT" (Warners)
ORPHEUM—(3,000), 25c-35c-50c, 7 days.
Stage: Fanchon and Marco's "The Kings Scandals" unit. Gross: $7,250. (Average $8,000.)

"PALOOKA" (U. A.)

"ORIENT EXPRESS" (Fox)

WORLD—(2,200), 25c-35c, 7 days.
Gross: $4,250. (Average $5,000.)

B. & K. and J. L. & S. Scramble Still On

CHICAGO, April 9.—Latest move in the loop theatre checkerboard situation finds B. & K. putting a king on the Apollo. B. & K., who are doing hops, skips and jumps with Jones, Linick & Schaefer in what is obviously a determined battle for loop control have acquired a five year lease on the Apollo and will immediately transform the ancient rialto spot in typical B. & K. grandeur. The circuit only recently took a lease on the Garrick which J. L. & S. countered by acquiring the Majestic. Further moves from both sources are being watched with keen interest.

Officials of Balaban & Katz, the latter name belonging to the Sam which Hollywood knows, are discreetly withholding announcement as to policy planned for the Apollo, just as they are noncommittal about plans for the Garrick.

Moore Replaces Wolf

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—Gar Moore is now press agent at the Orpheum, succeeding H. Wolf, resigned.

Shearer And "Riptide" Is Buffalo's Ace

BUFFALO, April 9.—The fact that Norma Shearer was off local screens for about a year, plus word which got around, as it always does, that "Riptide" was something resulted in native sons turning out $18,000 worth to see Norma at the Buffalo. At $3,000 ahead of the house average, there were no complaints.

Despite gentle zephyrs of spring which hit the city along Lake Erie's shores, Buffalonians continued to remain faithful to their celluloid favorites. Five first runs, in toto, rolled up $46,600 when $43,500 is regarded as an acceptable bulk gross.

Jimmy Cagney in "Jimmy, the Gent", was combined with "The Lone Cowboy" at the Century where the gate ended at $6,400. Normal $6,000. At the Hippodrome, "Wonder Bar" went $1,200 above the $8,000 which that theatre marks down as routine. Elsewhere, not much went on.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 6:

"RIPTIDE" (MGM)

BUFFALO—(3,500), 30c-55c, 7 days.
Stage: Gypsy Nina, Walter "Dare" Wahl, Paul Gerrits, Eight Commodores, Rosemary Deering. Gross: $18,000 (Average $15,000.)

Judge Shock Proof, But "Elysia" Loses

CHICAGO, April 9.—Judicial dignity here, it seems, is not readily shocked at nudism. At least Judge David in Superior Court so indicated in a hearing on "Elysia" on which, with evident reluctance, he was forced to deny a writ of mandamus to Master Art Products after Mayor Kelly and Police Commission Allman had put thumbs down on the picture.

Judge David didn't see anything immoral or indecent in "Elysia," but in the course of the trial he took occasion to put Mae West in "I'm No Angel" on the spot. Mae's "C'm up 'n' see me sometime" is repulsive, the judge opined and the courtroom scene where Mae says "How'm I doin', judge?" was pronounced disgusting.

Studios Give Way to Jungle at Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—"Wild Cargo," advertised as a "world premiere" but not, grabbed top money here at the Golden Gate with $16,700, which is $3,700 over average. A wild animal lobby display helped the gross.

Ted Lewis, in person, with "Countess of Monte Cristo" helped the Orpheum to click at $13,000, or $4,000 over normal. Other high ones were the Fox with "Social Register" at $13,000, which is $4,000 up; "Nana" at $11,500 at the United Artists at $3,500 over top, and "George White's Scandals" at the Warfield, grabbing $19,000 for normal business.

It was a most satisfactory week and was rather expected following the lull of Holy Week.

Total first run business was $87,200. Average is $76,000.

Estimated takings:

Weekly Attendance Set at 70 Million

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—Seventy millions, of which 11 are children under 14, attended pictures every week, it was declared by speakers before a meeting of the Better Films Council here. Guy C. Brown, local manager for RKO, represented producers and distributors.

Better and cleaner pictures were urged.

Equipped in 12 Hours

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—One of the fastest sound equipment installations on record was made at the Orpheum here when an old set was ripped out and RCA "High Fidelity" sound installed in 12 hours. Vic Meyers, manager of the house, drafted a crew to turn the trick after engineers told him they couldn't do it under five days.

Code Responsible, Hold Sales Executives

NEW YORK, April 10.—Higher rentals for next season's product loom inevitably in the eyes of sales executives queried here today.

In support of their contention, several pointed to increased negative costs under labor provisions of the code, together with separate and distinct code provisions resulting in increased distribution overhead, such as the 10 per cent cancellation privilege which distributors view as costly.

Some sales representatives declared their companies could not meet operating costs with distribution overhead unchanged from the pre-code era, and ask what may be expected under the NRA. Expectation is that any general

Secret Parley Links FWC; Is Denied

NEW YORK, April 10.—A conference he had with Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt over the weekend had nothing to do with FWC, George Skouras stated here today. He added that the meeting was purely social, but from another source it was learned that he was getting the low-down on his work as a member of the advisory committee of the clearance and zoning board for Brooklyn. It was believed that he was acting for Charles Skouras on complaints against FWC on alleged code violations.

Skouras also denied this.

Trying to Curb Bad Publicity—Johnston

The studio publicity committee of the Ass'n of M. P. Producers is making every effort to reduce the flow of adverse publicity out of Hollywood and stands willing to be corrected and aided by showmen in the field. John Leroy Johnston, chairman, told the M. P. T. O. A. convention yesterday.

Questionnaire Out After Statistical Facts

NEW YORK, April 10.—Campi has sent 200 letters to circuit and exhibitor organization heads asking three questions in regard to a survey now being made relative to the President's request for increased wages and shorter working hours.

Question one asks if there are as many persons employed in the same houses as in 1929. Number two inquires into the wage scale paid to employes in theatres at the present time and asks if salaries are in excess or less than the standard of wage scale paid for the same kind of service in 1929.

Chicago Exchanges Enmeshed in Probe

CHICAGO, April 10.—Local exchanges today were called upon by William Dinnen of the Federal Trade Commission, to surrender to his office copies of certain film contracts with circuits plus copies of correspondence relating to protection agreements.

Exchange and circuit heads are expected to be subpoenaed shortly in this probe, which has been fostered by a new independent group of theatre owners here. The investigation may develop serious aspects.

Kuykendall Foresees Day and Envisions Better Times Resulting—Hits Score Charges, Percentages, Film Dirt

By RED KANN

Scoring "master minds" for their attempts to operate theatres en masse by control from New York, Ed Kuykendall, re-elected president of the M. P. T. O. A., yesterday predicted the "day will soon be here when production and exhibition will be separated entirely," the resultant divorce between these two major arms of the industry will improve quality of pictures and enable exhibitors to make "much constructive progress."

This was the peak point of a lengthy annual address delivered before the opening business session of the exhibitor organization in the auditorium of the Ambassador Theatre. Kuykendall's accounting of his stewardship was the highlight of the day.

Radio Will Have About 50 On List

NEW YORK, April 10.—Returning today from a five week trip during which time he toured the South and the coast, Jules Levy, general sales manager, stated Radio plans to make about 50 features next season. He conferred with the home office executives this afternoon regarding the sales convention which he expects to take place about the middle part of next June with the city not definitely set as yet.

Paramount Held Not Ready As Yet for Reorganization

NEW YORK, April 10.—Reorganization of Paramount-Publix at this time would jeopardize the favorable financial position achieved by the company's operating subsidiaries in recent months was the belief of a spokesman for the bankruptcy administration of Paramount voiced today. He further declared the company would require protection of trusteeship until all large claims filed against it can be settled.

He said without that protection creditors with claims of more than $200,000,000 against Paramount, still unsettled, could attempt to realize on any and all assets of the company.

It will require six months to settle

Reading from a prepared text from which he did not digress to avoid being "misquoted," the M. P. T. O. A. president reviewed his organization's year, attacked the persistence of major distributors in exacting score charges, their insistence upon film deals for percentages in the brackets which were described as too high for the average exhibitor to survive, praised the code and its future, although conceding the M. P. T. O. A. did not get all it was after, struck at unwarranted dirt in pictures and concluded with a plea for the burial of petty differences.

In substance, Kuykendall traversed ground covered only a few days ago at a semi-annual meeting of the M. P. T. O. A. of Arkansas, Tennessee and Mississippi in Memphis and at the annual convention of the Gulf States Theatre Owners' Ass'n in New Orleans the following day.

The second principal address was the annual report of National Secretary Fred S. Meyer of Milwaukee. Fastening attention on the objectives of Allied States Ass'n, also a national exhibitor body and a rival of the M. P. T. O. A., Meyer drew the conclusion both associations were heading for the same goal, but that it was their route and technique that differed. Quoting the President and a recent utterance of his, the Milwaukee exhibitor leader declared considerably more team work was required to better regulate trade practices.

"What we need is wider vision than our own immediate personal gain,

Price Slashes Induce Battle
In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, April 10.—A glance at the suburban theatre listing in the Kansas City Star on Tuesday of any week furnishes striking indication of the reason why first runs have declared "war" on the neighborhoods.

Practically all of the 41 theatres in the suburban calendar, the great majority of the city's houses, announce cut prices for Tuesday and most of them also on Wednesday. Ten-cent admissions are the rule at the majority of the neighborhoods on these nights, with many double billing, and at some premiums to boot. The normal scale is 15 or 20 cents. Some of the 20-centers shave off only a nickel for the two nights, while others cut the price in half. Theatres which do not tilt for Tuesday and Wednesday usually do on other nights, as a rule Thursday and Friday.

Only two suburbans, both Fox houses, maintain a scale of 25 cents. One of these, the Isis, cuts to 15 cents for Tuesday and Wednesday and double bills, which is a late development at that house. The Plaza, Fox Mid-west's de luxe suburban, is the only subsequent which has refused to slash or show more than one feature.

The downtown first runs' war on the suburban contingent has developed into a battle among themselves.

Autographs Lure Jolson,
But Snarl 'Villa' Debut

NEW YORK, April 10.—If he were talking to Walter Winchell, Al Jolson could not have blocked traffic at the opening of "Viva Villa" at the Criterion more than he did here tonight when several theatre attaches and other big shots persuaded him to enter the theatre and restrain from responding to autograph seekers.

After blocking the lobby for several minutes, Milton Weiss of the M-G-M publicity department pleaded with Jolson to enter but he refused, stating that he paid $2.20 each for two ducats and would do as he pleased. Weiss, perturbed by the comic's nonchalance, chirped, "Well, if you like the picture so much why don't you sign up with M-G-M." The crack apparently went over Jolson's head until he got tired writing and walked into the theatre with the less publicity inclined celebrities including Adolph Zukor, June Knight, Thomas Meighan, Mae Murray, William Gaxton, Charles Moskowitz, Louis Shurr and Ceila Villa.

The late Pancho's daughter, seeing the picture for the first time, was later prevailed upon by M-G-M executives to sign a contract, but she no speak english. Al Altman later interviewed her without an interpreter and got nowhere.

Columbia Shifting
Short Reels West

Columbia has transferred production of the remainder of its one-reeler program here.

Irving Briskin has been placed in charge of the remaining eight films on the schedule, the first two being "Murder Madness" and "Stolen Pearls", from the series of "Minute Mysteries", by H. A. Ripley, appearing in Liberty. These go into work next week.

H. C. Bray has been in charge of one-reel production in New York.

Signwriters Work
Less, Earn More

NEW YORK, April 10.—A new contract granting theater signwriters a seven hour day at the same wage rate as prevailed for eight hours was signed today between theatres and New York Signwriter's Union, Local 230. The settlement is a compromise of the union demand for a seven hour day with an increase from $13.20 to $14.70 per day. The union retains the right to ask for a 10 per cent increase later and will continue working on a basis of a four day week in order to spread work.

Hays Arrives Tonight

Will H. Hays arrives in Hollywood from New York and Sullivan, Ind., tonight and will attend the dinner which closes the M.P.T.O.A. convention at the Ambassador tomorrow night.

Ann Sothern has been signed for the feminine juvenile role in "Here Comes the Groom," a Charles R. Rogers film.

Resent Delays, Writers Seek Say In Code

Writers have their own ideas about the code and yesterday made their attitude clear in a wire dispatched to Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt in Washington urging appointment of representatives from their own ranks under the NRA document.

They envision the whole purpose of the code nullified if its collective bargaining provisions are not made effective promptly.

The wire to Rosenblatt over the signature of the executive board of the Guild, read as follows:

"The new officers and executive board of the Screen Writers' Guild of the Authors' League of America, who have just been elected, find upon taking office that the most pressing problem confronting all screen writers is the appointment of writer representatives under the NRA code. We realize the enormous amount of work which you have had to do both in regard to the motion picture code and other industrial codes coming under your supervision, but we feel you must realize as clearly as we do the unfortunate effect upon every employee in the picture business if the code provisions for collective bargaining are not made effective promptly.

"After all these months any further delay can only nullify the whole purpose of the code in relation to collective bargaining.

"May we not have by return wire collect some definite date on which you will make the appointments of writer representatives."

the remaining claims and until then it is held unlikely any reorganization plan will be submitted for approval of creditors and the Federal court.

The reorganization plan being developed gradually by bondholder creditors of the Kuhn, Loeb sponsored protective committee cannot take final form until these claims are out of the way, giving definite knowledge of what Paramount's liabilities are or will be, according to this same spokesman.

Expect Rentals Will Clamber for 1934-35

rental increases will go hand in hand with admission boosts.

Some local exhibitors agree with distributors that industrial recovery is fairly general in key sectors and that, with further improvement it is anticipated theatre patronage will be able to absorb increased admission prices by fall.

Starts "Bad Boy" Soon

With availability of Jackie Cooper promised May 15 by M-G-M, Sol Lesser will start production of "Peck's Bad Boy," around May 20.

Lesser was set to start around March 1, but set back his plan to enable M-G-M to use Jackie in "Treasure Island."

Registers Dirty Pictures Protest

Family Type Is Necessary, Says MPTOA

an attitude that shows the willingness to work together so that the benefits derived by all will be but a reflection of the benefits secured by the individual," he averred at one point.

Readily conceding that the M. P. T. O. A. had not been successful in reaching its maximum objective, Meyer, nevertheless, declared its record proved progress had been made. As evidence, he cited the inclusion of the 10 per cent cancellation clause in the code, designed to benefit exhibitors on rentals of $250 and less as of Dec. 7, and stated this concession, fought by major distributors in Washington, had given birth at the insistence of the M. P. T. O. A.

Running only 15 minutes behind the announced schedule, the convention opened with approximately 175 in attendance. At the dais were Ben Berinstein of California, Edgar G. Levy of Connecticut, M. E. Comerford of Pennsylvania, Walter Vincent of New York, Fred Wehrenberg of Missouri, Jack Miller of Illinois, Kuykendall and Meyer.

Fastening direct attention to a subject rife in the minds of many M. P. T. O. A. men was a banner suspended over the presidential chair calling upon Hollywood to make more pictures suitable for the entire family, while on the extreme right was another addressed to directors and reading:

"If you would put as much thought and energy back of family type pictures as you do sophisticated pictures, box-office appeal would be greater."

Mayor Frank K. Shaw of Los Angeles made the address of welcome, at one juncture pointing out the industry had spent $135,000,000 and had employed 30,000 people in California last year. Colonel Carlos Huntington, representing Governor Rolph, followed with an official welcome to the Golden State and M. A. Lightman, past president of the exhibitor body, made the retort courteous.

Introduced by Comerford, Meyer offered a resolution calling upon the exhibitor group to register its endorsement of the recovery campaign instituted by the President and now operating under various assortment of alphabet bureaus. The resolution was passed unanimously before Meyer's original idea of turning it over to the resolution committee had a chance.

Aside from the Kuykendall and Meyer addresses, the procedure was routine. Seven committees were named to hear individual complaints, if any, and to settle them in various committee rooms around the Ambassador without bringing them into the convention floor, if possible.

Yesterday afternoon, the visitors were entertained at the Warner studio where lunch was served and "Twenty Million Sweethearts" screened.

Meetings slated to be held by various committees and an announced session of the board of directors failed

Majors Combine On Griffin May Draw ITOA Labor Tussle

After weeks of careful preparation in which all the major studios have participated, tonight's party at M-G-M will be one that every delegate of the M. P. T. O. A. convention should remember for a long time if all the promises are carried out.

In true showmanship fashion, forgetting all the rules of convention, they have titled the event "A Night in Hollywood" where one can dance, eat and be entertained by a program that would be next to impossible to duplicate on any other stage. It will be a Hollywood welcome to exhibitors who last gathered in filmland for their convention in 1926.

Louis B. Mayer will make the welcoming speech, to be followed by a response from Ed Kuykendall, re-elected chief of the exhibitors' group, and the introduction of acts will be by Pete Smith.

The cast of the show will include: Wheeler and Woolsey, the Busby Berkeley revue, Jeanette MacDonald, Mitchell and Durante, Charlie Murray and George Sidney, Dorothy Lee, Burns and Allen, Walter Catlett, the Albertina Rasch ballet, Stepin Fetchit, Dick Powell, Joe Morrison, Phil Regan, Irene Franklin, Ann Sothorn, Dorothy Dell, Ben Bernie and Harry Jackson's orchestra.

Berinstein Slipped

Ben Berinstein, in charge of the exhibitor convention detail, got his letters mixed in outlining forthcoming entertainment to the group yesterday. "Tonight," said he, "you will be entertained by a lowdown dance at Universal."

It happened it was a "hoedown" dance.

to jell, the directors deferring their private confabbing until this morning.

In the evening, it was Carl Laemmle who turned host at Universal City where a "hoedown" dance was staged, trimmings full and complete.

Thereafter, the delegates were on their own until the second session gets going at 10:30 o'clock this morning. At least, that is the planned hour, but since no exhibitor convention in the past is known to have started on time, there is no reason to believe this one will break a record of many years' standing.

WASHINGTON, April 10. — Although no decision has yet been made as to the Recovery Administration's representation in the I. T. O. A. labor case in the Court of Appeals at Albany next week, it is possible that Walter Griffin, who appeared in the Congress Theatre case in New Jersey, will handle the matter.

NEW YORK, April 10. — The I. T. O. A. labor case, already heard before several various labor boards functioning under the NRA, may have a national bearing on the theatre labor situation.

Briefly, it involves this independent theatre organization and Local 306 of the I. A. T. S. E. which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Milton C. Weisman, attorney for I. T. O. A., has declared he will fight for his members' rights up the line to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary. The NRA, on the other hand, is considering a suit to defend the film code, terms of which the I. T. O. A. has protested.

NEW YORK, April 10. — Directors of I. T. O. A. conferred today on the setups of the local grievance and clearance and zoning boards, but took no action. Another meeting will be held later in the week. It was admitted that, because individual members had not signed the code, nothing could be done about filing grievances and protests on schedules for clearance and zoning. Other angles of the situation are scheduled to come up Wednesday at a general meeting of I. T. O. A. at the Astor.

Exhibitors Now In Their Own Trailers

Out of its headquarters at the Ambassador, National Screen Service, trailer company, is taking on exhibitors, all and sundry and sound-tracking for them footage describing their experiences in Hollywood for ultimate theatre consumption.

The idea is to have the local operator eventually talk to his public from the screen of his own house, outlining what forthcoming product from the studios looks like.

7 Committees Will Handle MPTO Detail

Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, yesterday named seven committees which will do the road work for the convention.

The personnel:

NRA Code Trade Practices: Fred S. Meyer, Wisconsin, chairman; R. M. Clark, Oklahoma; Morgan A. Walsh, California; William Benton, Ithaca, N. Highlights Of Kuykendall's Annual Report

"First I shall discuss the problems of the so-called small town exhibitor, meaning those who operate theatres in towns of 30,000 or less. As I see it this class of exhibitors have the most difficult problems in the industry and are called upon more than any other class for personal contacts and activities that the larger cities do not have. The small town exhibitor is the 'shock absorber' of this industry. He must keep personal contact with his patrons. He must be an integral part of the community life. His theatre is the meeting place of the community.

"A definite position must be taken in politics. In this manner the respect of both sides is secured. Fence riding never obtained any benefits, as neither side has any respect for a person of this type.

"During the past year many hundreds of additional exhibitors have adopted definite public relations plans for adjusting their programs to the needs of children. They have taken advantage of the tie-up possibilities afforded by the constructive interests of organized groups of women, librarians, teachers, etc. These groups are our natural friends. I have found them everywhere eager to co-operate with the theatre management along the lines of 'Family Nights' and productions of recognized artistic and educational value.

"Personality more than any one factor counts in the theatre operations of today; therefore the individual theatre manager owes it to himself and this industry to take full advantage of it. Theatres in all the states cannot be operated today by one master mind in New York; each community calls for special treatment. The theatre cannot be made into a machine, (it is not that kind of business); therefore the theatre manager each year is given more authority in the individual operation of his theatre. This applies whether it be one theatre or 100. Those gentlemen who have wasted so much money the past few years in acquiring theatres in large numbers realize this more than anyone else. This is proved by the fact that theatres that have been losing money for years under group operations have been operated at a profit, even during the past depressed conditions, under personal management. Then, too, theatre operations must be separated as far as possible from the production end of this industry. The two do not go together; they unconsciously influence each other to the detriment of both if allowed to operate together under one guiding influence.

"I predict the day will soon be here when production and exhibition will be separated entirely. This separation will improve the quality of pictures and enable us to make much constructive progress.

"The exhibitor should keep himself informed as to what is going on in the moving picture industry at all times. He cannot be efficient if he fails in this. He cannot operate his theatre to the best advantage unless he knows what his fellow exhibitor is doing elsewhere and what the general trend of the industry is. This cannot be picked up over night. It is only acquired by continual observation, and the only way this can be done is by continual reading of the trade papers. They carry the story, day by day, week by week. I am not financially interested in any trade paper; I try to aid and abet them in any way possible because they are a tremendous factor in this industry. They were particularly helpful at the Washington code hearings; they kept the contact between all phases of this industry. Read the trade papers.

"We shall be confronted with many problems the coming year. The sentiment is growing in many states to place additional taxes upon us. This must be combatted by having a completely organized unit in every state; the members must sustain the local organization; they must contribute their time and money; and in turn we must have a strong national organization. Much thought must be given to this problem that we as an industry not be discriminated against in taxes or regulation. We are entitled to that, and nothing less.

"One of the greatest handicaps imposed upon the motion picture industry in its relation with the public has been the constant bickering between the exhibitor, the retailer and the distributor, the wholesaler. In no other business of comparable size does this exist. It is doubtful if any other business could have survived this constant friction. There is always the normal difference of viewpoint between the buyer who wants to get the product at the lowest possible price, and the seller who wants to get the highest possible price for his product. Then there is the everlasting battle over who shall have the product at any cost. But it is time every sensible person in this industry realized that the general interest of the industry is the common interest of all.

"There is one organization now in existence, though its membership is dwindling, whose leaders are mostly professional organizers who have no theatre interests and depend solely on the misfortunes of the small exhibitor for their existence. This organization capitalized on the code and took thousands of dollars from exhibitors everywhere for which they gave nothing.

"There is one problem which is a vital one to the exhibitors of this country. It is the proper and equitable method by which percentage pictures are to be contracted for. There is no question in my mind but that percentage contracts are here and are becoming more prevalent every year. However, the matter as to whether we have percentage contracts or not is not so important as the amount of the percentage. It is rapidly working itself into the position of ruining the exhibitor.

"I know of many instances where the percentage has been 35 percent; and the shorts, because of poor business, amounted to another 10 percent; and the score another 5 percent, making the cost of film 50 percent. This is on ordinary pictures; I am not referring to the ones they make us pay 50 percent for plus the shorts and score. This is manifestly unfair. The distributor has much to say about a partnership on percentage contracts but immediately forgets the partnership by unreasonable demands. I say in all sincerity the distributor should furnish the entire program shorts, score, and all when he plays percentage. The average exhibitor cannot stay in business and pay as film rental 50 percent of the gross. Percentages, where fair and equitable, are the solution to many differences as to what a product is worth and give both parties an even break. There must come about a fairer, more equitable understanding as to percentages.

"The score charge is an unfair trade practice. It has no place as based on fairness. I consider it a racket in every sense of the word. It is just as fair to charge additional rental for an extra art title or for the rental of a piano used in a musical. Without the score the film has no value; the distributor could not fulfill his contract without supplying both the print and the score. One is of no value without the other. I shall always resent the score charge and continue to try to find some way to eliminate it.

"I will not attempt to cover the code in detail, others will do this, but I cannot refrain from mentioning one or two things that are most vital to theatre owners. Overbuying to deprive others of service, this is a most important provision, but one that has two angles. It must not be abused one way or the other. It was not included in the code to make someone give that service which he has under contract to someone else but to prevent anyone from buying more than he has normal dates for, for the purpose of depriving others of service.

"I have received a large number of letters and wires concerning the 10 percent cancellation clause wherein exhibitors claim that such and such distributor will not consent to this cancellation. In many instances, I find the exhibitor wrong because he has not done one of the things required to get this cancellation; namely: failed to contract for all the service offered, is delinquent in play dates as designated in the contract, etc. If you have complied with your contract, you are entitled to the 10 percent cancellation as of Dec. 7 on all rentals of $250 or less, and Code Authority so placed itself on record last week.

"We, as an organization, have always felt that there should be complete separation of shorts and features in the selling of same. We shall always feel that way. The clause in the code covering this is a compromise, and was secured by the M. P. T. O. A. It is not all we had hoped for but offers some relief.

"The grievance and clearance and zoning committees will iron out many of our unfair trade practices. The personnel was picked because of their understanding of the problems involved and their character and general reputation in their respective centers. Each one must be fair regardless of the interests they represent. To be unfair would bring removal from the boards as appointments are made 'at will.' Then there will be the impartial government representative. Anyone coming before these boards is assured a fair hearing, and even then if he doesn't feel that he has been treated fairly, he can take it to the code authority itself and even on to the President of these United States.

Urges Hurling Aside "Little", Puny Bickers

"The members of the Code Authority are serving without compensation. They are busy men; some of them have the responsibility of tremendous investments in their hands. I have found every one of them sincere in their desire to render the service assigned to them by the President of the United States, who appointed them. Their task is no easy one at best but is doubly harder when irresponsible and others continually try by criticism and other methods to discredit them and create lack of confidence in the Code.

"This organization has no quarrel with organized labor. We realize and appreciate the necessity of the man or woman who works for so much a day or month to earn more than enough to buy the bare necessities of life. We know that if you make the great working people of this country prosperous, whether they wear a white collar or overall, that then and then only will we have a prosperous business condition. But labor must be fair to us; we will fight to the last ditch any effort to force on us that which is unfair. The labor clause in the code is also a compromise from both sides. I am hopeful that there will be industrial peace and that the rumors I hear indicating that the I.A.T.S.E. is trying to, through its agents, force their contracts in towns that did not have contracts as of August 23 are untrue. That is not the way to do it.

"I cannot refrain from speaking our protest as to the many little indecencies that are allowed to creep into pictures in increasing numbers of late. Most of them have nothing to do with the continuity and are, in many instances plain, crude, ordinary vulgarity. They are doing us tremendous damage with the sane thinking decent men and women who patronize our theatres. It is not so much the regular so called sex pictures that do us damage; it is the vulgar sayings and scenes that are injected into what the public has reason to believe is wholesome entertainment.

"It is not the function of the screen to moralize, but we must adhere to the fundamentals of common decency. How can those that are responsible for these things justify their actions? Injecting obscenities into what otherwise might be a clean picture must be stopped. We owe it to our patrons and to this industry to use every means possible to bring this about.

"Suggestive advertising is doing untold harm to this industry, and, in most instances, it is about pictures that are not in any way suggestive. We are measured more by our advertising than in any other way by those outside of our industry. There is a vast difference in artistic advertising, with beautiful figures of semi-nude girls, and plain suggestiveness. There are too many legitimate ways to advertise to justify unwholesome publicity, such as Screen trailers, newspapers, and billboards—frank truthful advertising is the only kind that pays in the long run.

"Radio broadcasting has given us much to think about of late; it has been getting out of its regular function. Broadcasts by nationally established stars, in halls and theatres to which the public was admitted free, was becoming a menace. I am among those that think broadcasting increases the popularity of Stars and increases their box office value. I believe that radio and the screen have much in common, but the giving of broadcasts at which the public in large numbers is admitted free is unfair. I feel that this has been overcome by agreement with radio authorities.

Hits Allied; Scouts Subsidy Talk

Meyer Scores Rival Ass'n; In Amity Plea

Admitting on the one hand that the objectives of the two national exhibitor organizations, M. P. T. O. A. and Allied, are identical although the roads differ, Fred S. Meyer, national secretary of M. P. T. O. A., on the other, yesterday took a poke at the competitive exhibitor body and decried charges that his own association was subsidized.

Appearing as one of the two major speakers at the first business session of the convention yesterday, Meyer stressed the need for greater cooperation in theatre ranks and pointed out the danger that lurked from adverse legislation unless the showmen front was substantially fortified.

He said in part:

"We make no bones about the fact that we accept in our ranks as members affiliated theatres, whose dues are exactly the same as any exhibitor operating a single theatre. Because of this we have many times been accused of subsidy. Personally, if I thought that such a move would bring about closer relations, a better understanding of one another's problems and more harmony, then I would advocate to this Convention that in our regional state units we also take into our ranks the branch managers, because in matters of legislation, trades practices and local problems, our interests are identical.

"It seems to me that there is a great need for a bigger and stronger M. P. T. O. A. if for no other reason than to exchange experiences between regional organizations and their efforts to combat discriminatory and unjust legislation and taxation directed against the theatre.

"Many who are here today will recall Sydney Samuelson's address at Atlantic City a year and a half ago when he got up and said, 'I am for the independent exhibitor' and M. A. Lightman who succeeded him as the next speaker said, 'I am for the industry as a whole.' It seems to me that this best sums up in the fewest possible words the seeming wide divergence of opinion between M. P. T. O. A. and Allied. When you get right down to it, we are both headed toward the same goal. It reminds me of the conversation between the Priest and the Rabbi in the ever-famous 'Abie's Irish Rose.' 'We are all headed toward one goal, only our roads differ.'

"M. P. T. O. A. has not at any time used, by subterfuge or otherwise, the code as a membership campaign nor for the collection of any fund, in the face of Allied propaganda when they told exhibitors not to sign the Code (I am referring to the blanket code) and that the theatre owners could not and would not be involved in a code in any way, shape or form. In the face of this glaring example of misadvice, M. P. T. O. A. was imbued solely with the spirit of rendering a consistent service to the industry as a whole and to our Government.

"M.P.T.O.A. through its code committee takes full credit for the elimination clause. It isn't what we wanted, but it is better than nothing at all. In fact, a great majority of the reforms now embodied in the code were first adopted by M. P. T. O. A. in executive session at Chicago at a time the country was told that theatres did not come under the provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

"M. P. T. O. A. has taken the initiative, and it is now up to this convention to actually say what is an unfair trades practice. Price fixing under an N.R.A. code was upheld by Federal Judge Knox in New York 10 days ago. The judge ruled that the

Another Speaker

Fred S. Meyer, national M. P. T. O. A. secretary, who delivered his annual report to the convention yesterday.

Federal government is entitled under the National Industrial Recovery Act to restrain a cleaner from charging rates for cleaning lower than those provided under the dyers and cleaners code. In rendering this decision the Judge stated, 'I know full well that it may be a distinct step beyond the boundaries which in peace times have been set to circumscribe the powers of Congress. If the defendant be permitted to continue this unfair trades practice, this will contribute to the frustration of the purposes of the National Industrial Recovery Act. In this industry profits are dependent largely upon volume of business. With due recognition for equivalence in quality of work and general type of service, the volume of the business depends largely upon price and it will go to the establishment which charges the lowest prices.'

"According to newspaper reports the National Industrial Recovery Act and the Dyers and Cleaners Code were attacked on every possible legal constitutional ground. It is of great importance that the Government has been upheld on its first appearance in court on a clean cut issue involving the aim of national recovery. Irrespective of how the Supreme Court may ultimately rule on this matter of price-fixing, the fact remains that if our industry is to survive, unfair trades practices must be eliminated. And in this respect the code as it stands now, in my humble opinion, does not go far enough in its definition of what are unfair trades practices.

"Ours is not only the right but the solemn duty to regulate trades practices, but we've got to start at the top. There is no such thing as 'The king can do no wrong.' The little fellow who may only have $2500 invested has as much at stake as the million dollar first run structure, whether independently operated or producer controlled. M. P. T. O. A. has taken the leadership in advocating a code of fair competition.

"I know of no better way of concluding my report than by closing with what President Roosevelt said, 'I have no expectation of making a hit every time I come up to bat. What I seek is the highest possible batting average—not for myself but for the team.' "That is the spirit we need in OUR business—the highest possible batting average not only for the M. P. T. O. A. but for the team, the industry as a whole. What we need is more team work, wider vision than our own immediate personal gain, an attitude that shows a willingness to work together so that the benefits derived by all will be but a reflection of the benefits secured by the individual."

Kuykendall Opposes Scores, Percentages

ium plans are cheapening and tend to promote indifference on the part of our patrons. A poll of the various organizations, such as women's clubs, prove that these women do not appreciate double bills; they prefer variety of quality, rather than cheap quantity. If we can give two or three features for 25 cents the public wonders why we should get over a nickel for one feature. Long drawn out programs of two or more features wear out the patrons and make them tire of the theatre. This is a highly controversial subject; I am merely expressing my opinion. It must be worked out by the exhibitors involved. Many insist they have to run double features to keep open; I doubt this. I am convinced that the average theatre patron wants quality, not quantity.

"We as an organization sincerely hope that the number of stars who allow themselves to become involved in scandal and sensational episodes will become less and less as time goes on. They owe it to this industry from which they derive a living to see to it that happenings that reflect discredit upon the entire industry do not get into the papers. This is particularly harmful in the smaller communities and helps in creating thought for censorship even though it may be in the private life of the star involved.

"Let us throw aside petty personalities, forget little politics, and work together, every man and woman of us, that we may look into the sun, demand and receive recognition as an essential business that we may prosper together, all of us."

Dodges NRA Order, Theatre Strike On

NEW YORK, April 10.—Local 118 of the New York Ushers and Housemen Union declared strike today on the Tivoli, Brooklyn, which refused to comply with the NRA regional labor board order of last week to reinstate an employee allegedly discharged for union activities.

The theatre responded to this order by laying off another employee, which has forced the union to walk until both are reinstated. The same local said five other complaints were filed with the Regional Labor Board and now are charging the RKO theatre with working cleaners in excess of the code hours.

Doubling in Brass

PORTLAND, April 10.—Although Ruth Doyle, former secretary Film Board of Trade here, as accepted appointment as secretary to the local clearance and grievance boards, she will continue to act as secretary and treasurer for the Oregon exhibitor organization.

Independents Endorse Move Versus Blocks

KANSAS CITY, April 9.—Independent Theatre Owners of Greater Kansas City have approved the principle of the Patman anti-block booking bill, but refused outright endorsement since it is tied in with another measure by Congressman Patman to establish Federal censorship and regulation of the industry.

Exhibitors are divided, but many agreed with the report of a committee, advising with counsel, that while a ban on block booking was desirable, the bills were fraught with many dangers. When the Brookhart bill was being debated the local organization campaigned for its passage.

The I. T. O. has launched a drive to eliminate 10-cent admissions for Sunday matinees, and Jay Means, president, is preparing to file a complaint with the grievance board against a Fox suburban which refuses to abandon the policy.

The organization has investigated complaints that major distributors refuse to sell the Nu-Era, suburban recently reopened. The house uses seven or eight pictures a week, mostly double bills.

Campi Seeking Data On Work, Pay Scales

The last question asks if the total weekly payrolls at present are in excess of, or less than in 1929.

Harold Bareford, Campi alternate for H. M. Warner, already has asked the studios to make a similar survey and George Schaefer of Paramount is contacting the Hays office for figures on distribution.

Several circuit heads have already answered the questionnaire, while others are slow in responding.

Busy on Board Plan

NEW YORK, April 10.—No total of Industrial Labor Boards has been decided upon by Campi. At the present time, Campi is concentrating on turning the work of the compliance boards over to the grievance boards. When this has been finished, the industrial boards will be composed of representatives of labor, industry and the public.

MPTOA Drops In

SOL GORDON of East Texas Theatres, big gun in the Gulf Coast country, is here with Mrs. Gordon from Beaumont. There's a story in it all. Dave Palfreyman, who made the trip west via Memphis and New Orleans where he looked in on both the Tri-States and Gulf States conventions, stayed over one extra day in the latter town, circumstances being what they were, and boarded the Sunset Limited on Wednesday night when his original schedule was Tuesday.

At the station in San Antonio, Dave rubbed his eyes, shook his head and imagined he was seeing things, those circumstances back in N'Orleans again being what they were. He thought he saw Gordon and actually did. The Texas circuit operator had been visiting his son at Austin and caught the Sunset at San Antonio when Palfreyman, who was aboard, knew he had passed through the city the day before.

Charlie Einfeld is mixed on his knowledge of railroading in the western hills. He stuck up Warner banners and cards in Santa Fe stations from San Berdo into L. A. and also in Pasadena and other towns a couple of hours out. All O. K., except the specials came in over the Southern Pacific which doesn't touch San Berdo. Charlie, however, insists they did.

Ben Berinstein, chairman of the convention arrangements, is plotting a vacation after all this M. P. T. O. A. business is over. He's on the ragged edge of something or other now.

Incidentally, there was a sizeable quantity of champagne that went into the limbo of the nether regions by the time the Gordons and Palfreyman reached L. A. The ride in from the city of the Alamo was long, dry and warm.

The Ambassador Hotel sent a man into Arizona to meet the specials. He checked in all those who are now stopping at the hostelry and eliminated all concerns over baggage.

The front of the Southern Pacific station was the busiest place in town about 7:40 A. M. Monday morning when the Pullman cavalcade rolled in. Berinstein had busses meet the gang. Lola Gentry was there to meet Alma Walton, old-time associate in the Film Board secretariat. A MOTION PICTURE DAILY staff photographer was busy directing this and that one into groups who had to watch the usual little birdie.

Lots of the usual East vs. West misunderstanding over the convention program. General accusations have been flying in all directions at once. It's all pretty well straightened out now and the blood pressure is gradually subsiding.

Mike Comerford stands in danger of being charged with exclusiveness. The mob is at the Ambassador. He's at the Beverly-Wilshire.

Mrs. Meyer and daughter, Delphine, who with Stan, manager of the Alhambra in Milwaukee, constitute the family of Wisconsin M. P. T. O.

The Humor Of Rumor

By VICTOR M. SHAPIRO

WHISKING to and fro, in and out of the Hollywood hills is the spigot and spout of Hollywood rumors. It runs hot and cold.

Wherever ladies of both sexes meet and mingle, to dish out the pish-posh, there and then is fabricated from juicy morsels the chit-chat that floats around the canyons and arroyos.

At teas, bridges, parties, games indoor and out, the breezes carry away the wheezes and confections that give some toothsome joy and others a localized pain.

Like cyclones, rumors start from nowhere, have no place to go, but speed on their gay way making folks mad, bad, sad, glad, or just plain pizzicatto.

All for a gag, most zephyrs ride the crest of glee. On gale of cacchination, "anything for a laugh" is the humor of rumor.

MOST of the gas generated is minus malice, designed to deflate, puncture ego, and strange as it seems, acts as a safety valve for emotional outlet. "Pash goes smash"—"Love on rocks" is the formula.

Rumors range from willy-nilly to plain silly, from near fact to free fancy, from pipe dream to hocus-pocus. It's all good, clean fun, and most recipients of rumors soon become inured to the chatter and pay scant attention to the flash of pash.

One of the silliest rumors that ever sailed around Hollywood dealt with a certain Latin lover who, it was said, muscled in on a big gun's wife, a big star.

On the night of their first rendezvous, the Latin was supposed to have had his tonsils cut out and, being in the hospital, could neither murmur sweet nothings, or keep the date. Actual fact was that someone warned the alleged lover to keep off the grass, or else. He was never in the hospital, and never had his tonsils out, as his warbling in a musical subsequently proved beyond any doubt.

ANOTHER spice cake passed out over the tea cups, when tea cups did not contain tea, told of a certain female star who wears pants. It was said in all seriousness she had her pants tailored without pockets, and had them creased on the sides, for what reason, only those supposedly in the know, knew.

Blessed events are always current. Maybe climate has something to do with these conceptions—of imagination.

One rumor had a star expecting triplets, after consultation with an astrologist. But to this day she remains unblessed.

Another canape of caviar was the publication of a story that stated a certain star was "cribbing," but that she only decided after she saw the rumor in print. Revealing as it does the potency of the printed word, it nevertheless made the proud papa sit up and wonder.

ONE from the gas works had a producer of "Resurrection" making it as a musical with hot-cha in the snows and hi-dee-hi on the steppes.

Romantic rumor had Baby Le Roy that-a-way about Nina Skolsky, daughter of "Pint-Sized" Sidney Skolsky, the Broadway columnist, until it was exploded by W. C. Fields.

Another feminine star whose better half is gaily referred to as "The Warrior's Husband," is divorcing that present spouse to marry her ex—and that's no rumor.

Another inconstant witch is said to allude to her hubby as "my rumble-seat husband". He's so far away most of the time, he never hears the persiflage and it's all a gag anyway.

Another really hot rumor wafted on wings of laughter and never verified was about a big shot who winned, dined and orchided a star to discover he was romancing her double. Was his car red?

The most idiotic rumble Hollywood ever heard pivots around the torrid, tragic tale that Mickey Mouse and Minnie Mouse never were and are not married, but the pair are just as happy living in sin—the shame of it!

So goes the humor of rumor, Hollywood's harmless hearsays of "Who is whose?" among the "Who's Who."

President Fred S. Meyer, arrived from Phoenix late Thursday. Delphine's been there for her health. Stan stayed at home.

That was quite a party which headed from New York on Wednesday and pulled in here on The Chief Saturday night. In it were Jack Warner, flanked by his two sales chiefs, Grad Sears and Andy Smith; Sam Dembow of Paramount, George Dembow, a brother and an executive of National Screen, and Herman Robbins, prexy of N. S. S.

The two Dembows and Robbins are comfortably ensconced in one of those Ambassador bungalows out on the grounds, surrounded by birds and those persistent California flowers, et al.

MPTOA Drops In

MORGAN WALSH, president of Independent Theatre Owners of Northern California as well as general manager of Midland Theatres, Inc., is here with a case of Irish whisky. With him is George Mann, president of Midland and Walsh's business associate. All they had to do was to hop down from San Francisco. Nothing in this land of beautiful highways.

Sears, true to that tradition of his that he answers all telephone calls, did just that at 3:15 A. M. Saturday and created near havoc in the orderly existence of a certain editor thereby. That not being enough, he repeated the same stunt at 8:15 Sunday morning.

Andy Smith in pearl gray suit was something snappy in sartorial splendor as he strolled through the Ambassador lobby yesterday.

Jimmy Grainger got 23 calls from 10:30 P. M. to 4:45 A. M. this morning. Only he didn't answer them. The operator was ordered to silence the phone. One fellow turned wise and used the "It's a New York call" gag. Failed to work.

At the Brown Derby at 3:30 A. M. Tuesday dawning:

Sol and Mrs. Gordon, Ben Rosenberg, M. A. and the latter's sister. They did a cotillion to Duke Ellington's music an hour or two earlier.

Johnny Gentile is in. Drove from New York.

Pat Garyn wears dark glasses. Says it's because of the sun.

Herman Robbins in startling gray. What a vision!

Hal Young knows 'em all. He used to represent Nat'l Screen in 11, or maybe it was 18, Middle Western and Southern states before he was switched to New York headquarters.

Joe Klein, former New York exchange manager, is around. A producer now.

Bulletin: Harvey Day's voice is coming back.

Wonder what's happened to "Wonder Bars" Sears?

Later: Ben Berinstein's forgetting early pre-convention pains. He gave credit to Minnie Kopple and Lola Gentry for yeowoman effort on the shindig. Others there were, but Ben figured they carried the chief load.

Wires of good luck and regrets were read yesterday from Ken Maynard, who is in Madrid; W. Ray Johnston, Jack Warner, Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon, Felix Feist, Ned Depinet, and S. R. Kent.

Office memo to Abe Montague, New York: "Jerry Safran, Columbia's district manager, is pumping and pumping hard all exhibitor handles in sight."

Rye Bread To Stars, 'Twas A Real Party

By JEANNETTE MEEHAN

Warners' back was bent yesterday. The portals of the studio were wide open. Hail the M. P. T. O. A.!

At 1:30 o'clock, Jack Warner and the personnel of his Burbank plant welcomed the exhibitors as they poured from the busses which brought them directly from the Ambassador. Followed the parade to lunch. It was evident that the party was not given by Louis B. Mayer. There were no squabs. The sightseers partook of rye bread sandwiches, beer, and ice-cream. Encouraged, the guides herded the gang on a tour of the lot ending on Stage 1 where they were shown a recent Warner musical, "Twenty Million Sweethearts."

And how the visiting firemen went for it all—from rye bread to stars—especially Mitchell Leichter who was comparing things to the days when he used to roll cubes with Jack Warner and Mervyn Leroy—of the times when he used to book John Bunny in West Hoboken—of the days in 1910 when he handled Maurice Costello, Mae West, and others . . . Mrs. Wellingham Wood, lady exhibitor of Washington, Ga., couldn't get over Paul Muni's hat, one which he left out in the rain last year. And Muni, maybe to your surprise, was the lady's man of the party, with Ricardo Cortez and Dick Powell following in the shadow of the "chain-gang" . . . Dolores Del Rio and Verree Teasdale stole the show with their arrival in gold coaches, all put away like bon-bons in their court costumes for "Du Barry." Dolores was alarmingly beautiful in her yellow gown, even if its train did require the service of two maids to keep from menacing Miss Del Rio's walk . . . Mrs. Sidney Lust liked Kay Francis' smart ensemble of navy blue and white with a liberal spattering of sables to top it off . . . Ben Berinstein ate too much ice-cream . . . the boys showed a good deal of interest in Jean Muir . . . also in the 50 Busby Berkeley chorus girls, attired in a rehearsal, especially provided for the occasion . . . but the chorines made it up to the ladies when they distributed smart little pocketbook compacts in black and gold motif, with the compliments of the Warner stars and Warner Brothers . . . Mrs. Walter Vincent and Mrs. Walter Griffith thought Victor Jory looked very handsome in his "Du Barry" finery . . . and George Brent came in for his share of feminine admiration . . . and vice versa for Mary Astor who looked radiant in an afternoon gown of green and white print.

At 4:30 P. M. sirens through Hollywood sounded the return of the gang to the Ambassador.

With their many thanks to Jack Warner, they scored it an elegant day.

They Golf Friday

M. P. T. O. A. delegates will be guests of Fox West Coast at Lakeside Friday. It'll be golf—good, bad and indifferent.

At Mine Host Warners

Coast Has Stage Johnnies, Unlike the Type Elsewhere

The theory and practice of the stage-door Johnny, Hollywood style, analyzed and prepared by one who knows for the guidance of visiting exhibitors in Hollywood's fair precincts:

This is an exclusive group of banjo-eyed gentlemen, who cling daily to film studio gateposts to meet, greet and fete the innocent little chorines, who have been tripping the light fantastic throughout the day for Hollywood cameras. In case exhibitors are not up on figures—or are they?—these are the gentlemen who help the little gals with their home work.

In New York and elsewhere they call 'em stage-door-Johnnies. In Hollywood they're known as Gate-Post-Willies.

Now regardless of the assorted monickers, these gentlemen have similarities right up to the vaseline on their hair—but in many respects they differ. It's basically a geographical problem, depending on whether you're gandering the boys from the East or propagandering from the West.

These little gals from the "Follies," the "Scandals" and the "Vanities," who held a national convention at Fox Movietone City and did a few routines on the side for "Bottoms Up" have a bird's-eye view of the situation. In plain words, gentlemen, they know their groceries.

Maybe showmen don't care, but just cast an eye down the field and see who makes the most touchdowns. It's the Johns of the East versus the Willies of the West. The banjo-eyes pitted against the sheep eyes. Here's how they differ, according to first hand info gathered in person from the little gals from way back stage.

In New York and elsewhere, they say it with orchids. In Hollywood, with assorted petunias.

In the film city, they use different ammunition—and not so much of it. Ammunition meaning any kind of powder.

In the east, it's a trinket. Here, it's simply "good night."

Who Hoedown Gid'ap There Frankenstein

Universal last night did right by the cause of M.P.T.O.A. festivities with (woodland variety) were relegated to a "hoedown," but which looked more like a barn dance (not the kind that mother went to when she was down on the farm). In other words, violets (woodland variety) were relegated to a rumble-seat posture in favor of the gardenia—gardenias put away in silver ribbons for the women. The Universal City Stage 4 was remodeled into first-class night club—rustic and effective. Orchestra and the dance—confetti and beer—ham and sauerkraut, kept the M.P.T.O.A. boys out of mischief, but in danger.

Arriving at 8:30 (a little late) the gang took charge themselves—without much help. Samuel C. Levin drank too much coffee . . . Andy Devine lost out—being on a milk diet . . . William Desmond, disguised under a five gallon hat, and Fred Kolker, looking the same, had the time of their lives signing autographs for exhibitors . . . Lowell Sherman thought it was a costume ball and appeared in his soup and fish . . . Ralph Wilk was actually there without any local copies under his arm . . . James R. Grainger nearly outdid Junior Laemmle as host . . . Sam Dembow discovered too many old friends . . . Eddie Buzzell told stories about his starring days on Broadway . . . J. M. Young thought he was an Indian—with feathers . . . Bernard Kreiselman was worn out after a day with the mayor . . . Alice White and her half, Cy Bartlett, wouldn't be separated . . . Some joker had Eph Asher on the run with the report (over the mike) that his home in Malibu was on fire . . . Sally Blane and Lillian Bond starred in a show all their own . . . Arthur De Stefano went about looking for sugar cubes . . . Boris Karloff forgot his Frankenstein makeup . . . Bela Lugosi was immaculate in a white suit . . . Mr. and Mrs. David Rector talked things over with Sally Blane . . . ditto Buck Jones and Onslow Stevens.

There was also a path, well worn, between the festive dance salon and the Tango Parlor, a place where the gentlemen could deal and bet, just across Avenue C.

What a party—what a night—as the boys stepped out with Universal and stepped into the wrong taxicab.

MPTOA Finds Hollywood A Busy Beehive

By GUS McCARTHY

Hollywood is taking lots of time out to entertain M.P.T.O.A. conventioners. Yet play is not in any way to interfere with the more serious business of making pictures. Thus, while Hollywood, always a friendly and gracious host, entertains lavishly, probably the feature on the week will be a close-up of pictures in work.

During this week the various studios, major and independent, will have more than 40 pictures actually shooting. The schedule includes big pictures and little ones—hoped for epics as well as straightaway programmers. Dramas, comedies, romances—historical as well as modern—musicals, mystery thrillers and spectacles are being made.

What's going on and where:

Columbia

1438 Gower St., Off Sunset

Four pictures working.

Robert Armstrong, Ann Sothern and Minna Gombel are featured in the newly-started "The Hell Cat."

Well along is "One Night of Love" in which Grace Moore, Tullio Carminati are starred and Lyle Talbot, Luis Alberni, Henry Armetta and Jessie Ralph are in support.

Shooting Schedules

Hollywood's at work while M.P.T.O.A. delegates will play.

More than 40 pictures are shooting. The majority of them are the wash-up on 1933-34 schedules and will reach theatres all over the land between now and the beginning of the new season.

Since exhibitors will play them later, it might be an idea to see who and what's in them.

The accompanying article tells the story.

Started yesterday was "Black Moon," in which Jack Holt, Fay Wray and Dorothy Burgess play the leads.

Likewise, first sequences are being made on "Fire Patrol" with Tim McCoy and Evelyn Knapp topping the cast.

Walter Connolly is slated to start work on "Whom the Gods Destroy," his first starring picture, tomorrow.

Fox

At Pico and Tennessee

Fox divides production between two studios, Movietone City and the Western Avenue plant. In the Westwood beauty spot, Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell are busy on "Change of Hearts."

On the stage where "The World Moves On" is shooting, is the British actress, Madeline Carroll, and Madame Schumann-Heink, Reginald Denny, Stepin Fetchit and others.

A little further down the line on the "Grand Canary" set, are Warner Baxter, Marjorie Rambeau, Louise Dresser, Frank Morgan and others.

Today Jimmy Dunn and Claire Trevor will start "Always Honest."

Tomorrow "Caravan" with Charles Boyer, Jean Parker, Charlie Grapewin and Nigel Bruce featured in the cast gets going.

At Sunset and Western

Crossing town to Western Avenue, Will Rogers is busy on "Merry Andrew" and there Peggy Wood, Mary Carlisle, Richard Tucker are working hard, at same time getting a boot out of Will's wisecracks.

Also on the same lot, Herbert Mundin, Pat Patterson and Charles Starrett in "Call It Luck."

General Service

1040 N. Las Palmas Ave.

Harold Lloyd in "Catspaw." Una Merkel, George Barbier, Grant Mitchell, Warren Hymer and Grace Bradley are in the support. Fox will release.

M-G-M

On Washington Blvd., Culver City "Operator 13," Civil War story is shooting. Marion Davies and Gary Cooper are the stars.

The much-talked of "Barretts of Wimpole Street," with Norma Shearer, Fredric March and Maureen O'Sullivan is before the cameras.

Final sequences are being made on Joan Crawford's "Sadie McKee," with Franchot Tone, Edward Arnold, Gene Raymond in the cast.

"Manhattan Melodrama" is in the middle sequences and most likely Clark Gable, Myrna Loy, William Powell, Nat Pendleton, Muriel Evans and Leo Carrillo may be seen in their working togs.

Thrills are on the stage where Jean Harlow, Lionel Barrymore, Patsy Kelly, Lewis Stone, Franchot Tone and Hale Hamilton are working in "100 Percent Pure."

Then to top things off there is "The Merry Widow" with Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald.

With Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper heading a star-studded cast, the "Treasure Island" company is back from location and occupying both stage and outdoor sets.

Paramount

At 5451 Marathon St.

Much to see at Paramount.

Cecil DeMille is busy on "Cleopatra." Claudette Colbert, Henry Wilcoxon, Warren William, Irving Pichel, C. Aubrey Smith, Joseph Schildkraut, Arthur Hohl and Harry Beresford are going through their paces.

George Burns and Gracie Allen, assisted by Joan Marsh, Franklyn Pangborn and Guy Lombardo are in the throes of "Many Happy Returns." "Thirty Day Princess" features Sylvia Sydney, Cary Grant, Edward Arnold, Vince Barnett, Robert McWade and many others.

Important, too, looks "Half Way Decent," with Adolphe Menjou, Dorothy Dell, Charles Bickford, little Shirley Temple and Tammany Young. Mae West is shooting on "It Ain't No Sin." No more need be said.

"She Loves Me Not" with Bing Crosby, Miriam Hopkins and Kitty Carlisle.

Genevieve Tobin, Helen Mack and Edward Everett Horton in "Kiss and Make Up."

Jack Oakie, Roscoe Karns, Alison Skipworth and Arline Judge in "Thank Your Stars."

Many exhibitors do.

"Old Fashioned Way" in which W. C. Fields is starred starts today and final sequences will be shooting on "Private Scandal," Charles R. Rogers Prod. in which Zasu Pitts, Phillips Holmes, Mary Brian, Ned Sparks and Lew Cody are featured.

Radio

At 780 Gower St., near Melrose

Seven shooting here.

(1)—Wheeler and Woolsey and Thelma Todd in "Cock-Eyed Cavaliers."

(2)—Leslie Howard and Bette Davis in "Of Human Bondage."

(3)—"Sour Grapes" with Diana Wynyard, Clive Brook and Steffi Dunn.

(4)—"Virgie Winters" with Ann Harding and John Boles.

(5)—"Down to Their Last Yacht," sprawled over two stages, with plenty of girl-glamour atmosphere. The cast includes Sidney Fox, Sidney Blackmer, Polly Moran, Mary Boland, Ned Sparks, Irene Franklin and Edgar Kennedy.

(6)—"Murder on the Blackboard" with Jimmy Gleason, Bruce Cabot, Regis Toomey and Edgar Kennedy.

(7)—"Family Man" starring Richard Dix.

United Artists

1041 N. Formosa St.

Little active work here.

"Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" is winding up. Ronald Colman, Loretta Young, Warner Oland and Charles Butterworth head the cast.

Universal

Cahuenga Pass to Universal City

In work are "Affairs of a Gentleman" with Paul Lukas, Leila Hyams, Lilian Bond and Dorothy Burgess and "Little Man, What Now?" with Margaret Sullavan, Douglas Montgomery and Alan Hale.

Warner

Cahuenga Pass to Burbank

"Dames" is before the cameras. Music, dancing, chorus girls and Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert and Zasu Pitts are interesting highlights.

Also the "Madame DuBarry" set with Dolores Del Rio, Reginald Owen, Veree Teasdale, Victor Jory should attract.

Then if the company is back from battleship location, watch Jimmy Cagney, Pat O'Brien, Gloria Stuart and Frank McHugh in "Hey, Sailor."

Roosevelt To Discontinue Review Board

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Operations of the National Recovery Review Board are expected to be suspended after this week until President Roosevelt can decide whether to create a permanent organization, adequately staffed, to hear and act upon complaints against codes.

Although the board is now in the middle of important hearings and has others scheduled for the remainder of the month, the President will be told upon his return to Washington at the end of the week that the members of the board do not feel qualified to make specific recommendations with respect to revision of the more than 20 codes before them in the absence of technical advice from men well versed in the practices of the several industries.

The board has concluded hearings on several codes, including the film code, and certain members are of the opinion that reports should be written setting forth the deficiencies in each agreement. Others, however, take the attitude that the material laid before them by witnesses appearing at the hearings is not adequate for recommendations of such importance.

It was indicated today that Chairman Clarence W. Darrow will confer with the President upon the latter's return and lay the situation before him, together with a report outlining what the board has done and pointing out that the hearings have indicated the existence of much dissatisfaction with many codes and the need for an organization to hear and act upon criticisms.

The proposed report is expected to recommend the establishment of a permanent organization, with a staff of economists familiar with the details of the various industries. The board would use the statistical and other material of the National Recovery Administration and other Federal agencies, and would sit continuously, with such machinery as would enable quick action where needed.

As the existence of the present board draws near an end, indications appear that it was never intended by the President to be a permanent organization, but was more for the purpose of testing sentiment to determine the need for such an agency. One of these indications is the request made by President Roosevelt before he left Washington two weeks ago that the board make its report by April 15.

Paramount

The intention of the President to have the Review Board operate only temporarily is seen as the reason for the sudden lack of interest in the project by Recovery Administration officials after the first flurry of excitement following its creation. So far as can be learned, Recovery Administration officials have paid no attention to the hearings, although in some instances members of the code authorities have been present, and have evinced little or no curiosity as to what the board might recommend, indicating the absence of all fear as to the effect of the board's activities upon the codes.

Need for a permanent organization to pass on complaints is seen by members of the board, who stated today that, while they had no opinions on the specific issues which have been raised, the testimony at the hearings indicated clearly that in many industries control is almost entirely in the hands of representatives of the largest units. This they were careful to explain, did not signify that the interests of the smaller members were ignored but did tend to show that those smaller members had little or nothing to say as to the manner in which they were governed.

Majestic in Throes

NEW YORK, April 10.—Majestic will decide production plans and budget for next season tomorrow. The conferences which started at the home office have been shifted to the Park Central and will continue there until the meetings wind up.

After 'Shining Hour'

There is a possibility M-G-M will shortly close a deal for the purchase of "The Shining Hour" by Keith Winter, current Broadway stage hit. If so it will be for Greta Garbo, who suggested the company buy it for her.

Phelps Re-Elected

Lee Phelps was re-elected president of the Junior Screen Actors' Guild yesterday with no opposition. Tom O'Grady was reelected to vice-president and Edwin Baker, treasurer.

Hamrick Expanding

PORTLAND, April 10.—John Hamrick, independent circuit operator in Seattle, Portland and Tacoma has taken a long-term lease on the Roxy in Seattle, and will change the name upon reopening.

Metro Set on "Bounty"

M-G-M has set Wallace Berry, Clark Gable, and Robert Montgomery as the head of the all-star cast planned for "Mutiny on the Bounty." Carey Wilson and John Farrow have been assigned the adaptation.

Music Tinkers to Play

Sam Coslow and Arthur Johnston, who currently have been doing the music on the new Mae West opus, "It Ain't No Sin", have been granted vacations by Paramount. Coslow leaves for Europe and Johnston goes to New York in the next couple of days. The pair have penned 20 songs within the last 20 days.

Stooge Comedy Series

M-G-M is said to be negotiating with Howard, Fine and Howard, formerly known as Ted Healy's stooges, on a deal whereby the trio will work on story ideas for a series of shorts in which they will also star.

Get Going On Reorganizing Fox Unit Soon

KANSAS CITY, April 10.—Late developments point to a start within the next 30 days toward reorganization of Fox Midland Theatre Co., which has been held up more than a year by Federal court actions brought by Herbert M. Woolf and M. B. Shanberg, former owners of the properties.

It is said that a settlement of their suit seeking to recover $500,000 is being completed and that plans are under way to resume bankruptcy proceedings where they were suddenly dropped when the litigation began. Counsel from New York representing large eastern creditors and attorneys for Fox West Coast have been in conference here.

The start of Fox Midland reorganization will find Fox Rocky Mountain Theatre Co., not hampered by court actions, well on its way toward a new deal. The latest report of the Rocky Mountain trustee indicates that on Jan. 1 reorganization had advanced to a point where of 60 houses originally listed in that company's division, only 12 remain subject to new rental deals or other disposition, the others being transferred to new subsidiaries. A few properties under lease have been turned back. Since the first of the year, it is understood similar handling of several more theatres has been completed.

Report of cash transaction for the fall and early winter filed by the Rocky Mountain trustee indicate a substantial business improvement over the previous spring and summer.

Receipts for the period beginning Aug. 20 and ending Dec. 30, 1933, the latest report filed, were $1,707,569.11, exclusive of cash on hand, while for the period April 23 to Aug. 19 the company's gross income was $1,214,274.09. Disbursements were $1,698,374.68 and $1,211,103.92 for the respective periods. The totals are for Rocky Mountain and subsidiaries, including the Midland chain, altogether comprising some 200 theatres. Office receipts are included.

West Illness Over

After a two-day illness during which her picture was held up, Mae West returned to Paramount yesterday to resume her role in "It Ain't No Sin."

Judith Allen Cast

Judith Allen has been assigned the leading juvenile role in W. C. Fields' starring picture at Paramount, "The Old-Fashioned Way."

Signs Caesar Romero

M-G-M has signed Caesar Romero, formerly of the New York stage, to a long-term contract. His first role will be in "The Thin Man".

Mussbaum-Madison

Julian Madison, who won a term contract with Paramount as a "Search for Beauty" winner, is slated to be married to Arline Mussbaum. Ceremony will be held at the Wee Kirk of the Heather in Glendale.

The actor has been currently working in "Many Happy Returns."

Dear Sir:-

Want to take this opportunity to tell you how I enjoy reading your Showman's Review column. It gives a lot of interesting information on the new product, also ideas relative to the box office possibilities. It is a valuable department for the exhibitor and an asset to the publication. Well written with intelligent information.

Thought you might enjoy hearing from someone once and awhile who appreciates your efforts in putting out a real publication for the showman of today. Newsy and meaty. Thanks.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Half A Sinner"

(Universal)

Enjoyable and satisfying entertainment flows from this bucket of farce and fun. It's a sparkling draught right from the well of laughter.

Taken from the successful play "Alias The Deacon," modernized with shrewdness for homespun values, smart showmanship has aimed it at the masses and it completely hits the mark.

As a dignified knight riding the rods, palming himself off as a deacon, with his finer talent revealed as a card specialist, but only after persuasion, Berton Churchill prevents an attack by a hobo on a girl, Sally Blane, riding the rods disguised as a boy, and leaves the door open for Joel McCrae, another 'bo to follow her.

Arriving at the same town where Joel and Sally are in jobs and in love, the deacon immediately gets in right with the sweet ladies and in wrong with the town's promoters. Churchill, by his judicious card-cutting, aids the romance of Sally and Joel, helps the widow, Alexandria Carlisle, repossess her hotel, and saves Mickey Rooney from a whipping.

Churchill, who played the deacon innumerable times on the stage, gives a sterling well-shaded performance. McCrae and Sally Blane are an ideal romantic pair. Mickey Rooney, fresh from his kid comedies, turns in a swell job and is going places. Russell Hopton is human as the heavy. Big Boy Williams plays a dumb wrestler.

Kurt Neumann directed with fine comedy flair. Edmund Grainger is credited as associate producer.

Film's title, exploitable stuff in the production, with its human quality and spontaneous laughter, are the assets that presage good receptions at box offices.

Welsh Off Reporter

Robert E. Welsh is understood to have resigned as managing editor of The Hollywood Reporter. Frank Pope, managing editor before quitting to join Paramount, succeeds.

"The Witching Hour"

(Paramount)

Here's the kind of show that you have been looking for. Gripping novelty that is quality entertainment, "The Witching Hour" is both a showmanship and audience picture. As it brings to the screen fine romance, vivid drama, laugh-generating comedy, nerve-tightening suspense, stark tragedy and emotion stirring human interest, it introduces a new treatment of hypnotism as the motivating element.

Briefly the plot: Unconsciously a hypnotist, John Halliday causes Tom Brown, engaged to his daughter, Judith Allen, to commit murder. Unable to find an attorney willing to defend the boy who can give no explanation for his act, Halliday persuades Guy Standing, boyhood sweetheart of Tom's grandmother, to take the case. Impelled to accept by the vision of his dead love, Standing sets the stage in courtroom for Halliday to bring jury foreman William Frawley under his mystic spell.

As the crime is simulated, the jury acquits Brown, permitting Standing to return to his metaphysical dreams.

Admirably presented and acted, packing intriguing entertainment in sixty minutes it is a personal triumph for Standing and Halliday. Similarly, it is one for which Judith Allen, Tom Brown, Olive Tell, and William Frawley can take bows. What they do to make such an unusual subject interesting is a credit to Henry Hathaway, the director, and Salisbury Field who adapted and Anthony Veiller who wrote the scenario from Augustus Thomas' original story.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Harry Cohn has altered plans and will remain here for several weeks longer to confer with Jack Cohn and Nate Spingold on new production.

Hollywood Touch

M-G-M is sending the chimpanzee featured in "Tarzan and His Mate" on a personal appearance tour East in conjunction with the picture.

The chimp, said to be very temperamental about color, will have special quarters in the baggage car all done up in yellow and gold.

Katz Chain Seeking 6 More New Houses

NEW YORK, April 10.—Former Publix officials now identified with Monarch Theatres left for the Middle West tonight on deals which would increase the circuit by six more houses.

This is the circuit in which Sam Katz is the "silent" partner behind his brother, Harry; Milton H. Feld and David J. Chatkin.

Beery-Gable Co-Starring

M-G-M will make "Hell Hole", based on an original story idea of a ghost city submitted by Sam Marx. Wallace Beery and Clark Gable will head the cast. Edwin Corle and George Aurbach have been assigned the script.

"Riptide" and "Scandals" Are Best

INDIANAPOLIS, April 10.—"Riptide" and "George White's Scandals" divided box-office honors here last week. The Shearer opus went $1,000 over normal to a $5,500 take at the Palace while "Scandals" did a like splurge over routine at the Apollo with a total of $3,500.

Weather was good and grosses not far behind. Total business for the five first runs fighting it out for No. 1 place here was $24,500 as compared with an average bulk of $20,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 7:

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (Fox)
APOLLO—(1,100), 20c-40c, 7 days.
Gross: $3,500. (Average $2,500).

"WONDER BAR" (W. B.)
CIRCLE—(2,600), 25c-40c, 9 days.
Gross: $6,000. (Average $3,500).

"THIS MAN IS MINE" (RKO)
"MAN OF TWO WORLDS" (RKO)
INDIANA—(3,100), 20c-40c, 7 days.
Gross: $3,500. (Average $4,000).

"DARK HAZARD" (F. N.)
LYRIC—(2,000, 20c-40c, 7 days.
Vaudeville. Gross: $6,000. (Average $6,000).

"RIPTIDE" (MGM)
PALACE—(2,800), 25c-40c, 7 days.
Gross: $5,500. (Average $4,500).

Higher Film Rentals Seen In the Offing

Added NRA Costs Cited As Main Reason

Increased film rentals for new season's product loom as inevitable in the face of mounting production and distribution costs under the film code, in the opinion of sales representatives queried here yesterday.

Added to higher negative costs resulting from wage and employment increases under the NRA code are the separate and distinct code provisions operating to boost distribution overhead well above that of other years, it was pointed out by sales executives.

Delaware Tax Bill Strikes First Run

DOVER, April 10.—The brunt of the tax on film in Delaware will fall on the first run theatres if the bill introduced in the Delaware Legislature requiring theatres to pay a tax of 10 cents per 100 feet on film or fraction thereof, becomes a law. The bill, introduced by Representative George P. Elliott of Wilmington, has already been reported favorably in the House.

The measure provides that the tax shall be paid but once on any film and that the receipt secured in payment shall be made a part of the film.

Delay Favored In Revamping Para. Affairs

Reorganization of Paramount Pictures at this time would be "disastrous" to the favorable earnings accumulated by operations of subsidiaries within recent months, it was stated yesterday on good authority within the Paramount bankruptcy administration.

"The company still needs the protection of a trusteeship and will continue to require it until every large claim filed against the company has been settled," a spokesman declared. "To end the bankruptcy at this time would be to make the company prey to every claimant on record, all of whom would be free to attempt to realize on any and all assets of the corporation."

He Prophesies Separation Of Production and Exhibition

By RED KANN

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—Scoring "master minds" for attempts to operate theatres in all states from New York, Ed Kuykendall, as official M.P.T.O.A. spokesman today predicted the day "will soon be here when production and exhibition will be separated entirely." He drew the conclusion the divorce will improve the quality of pictures and enable exhibitors to make "much constructive progress."

Kuykendall's address was the highlight of the first business session. Reading from his text to avoid being misquoted, he talked at length and reviewed the M.P.T.O.A. objections to score charges, high bracket percentage pictures, unwarranted dirt in pictures, the code, and, in general, covered the ground traversed in the recent

Club Is Organized

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Variety Club of Washington came into existence yesterday, as Tent No. 11 when 27 men from Baltimore and Washington met here in the Warner Club rooms. John H. Harris, national president, and founder of Tent No. 1 (Pittsburgh), was guest of honor.

John J. Payette, zone manager for Warner theatres, was selected chairman of the preliminary meeting, which was devoted to Harris' informal remarks on the founding and development of the Variety Club idea. Nat Brown was the temporary secretary.

Following the vote to create the Washington branch and to apply for a charter, it was decided to limit the local membership to 75. A formal organization committee was named by the chair. Following the meeting, the committee chose the following officers: Payette, chief barker (president); Rudolph Berger, first assistant barker; J. Lewis Rome, second assistant barker; Harry Hunter, propertyman (secretary); Sam A. Galanty, wagonman (treasurer); and Carter T. Barron, A. Julian Brylawsky, Charles Kranz, Sam Wheeler, William Saxton and Joe Morgan, canvassmen (councillors).

Before the next meeting of this committee on April 13, details regarding membership, place for quarters, dues, etc., will be completed and the final documents signed and transmitted to the national headquarters as application for a charter.

Tri-States convention in Memphis and at the Gulf States meeting in New Orleans a few days ago.

Fred S. Meyer, national secretary, furnished the second highlight of the day. He declared that M.P.T.O.A. and Allied were both heading for the same goal, although their paths differed.

Quoting President Roosevelt, he said more teamwork was required in the effort to regulate trade practices.

Need "Wider Vision"

"What we need is wider vision than our immediate personal gain and an attitude that shows a willingness to work together so that the benefits derived by all will be but a reflection of the benefits secured by the individual," he stated.

Admitting that the M.P.T.O.A. had failed to reach its maximum objectives, Meyer declared the record of the organization proved progress had been made. He cited the inclusion of the cancellation clause in the code and the long extended deliberations for the standard contract.

Running only 15 minutes behind schedule, the business session opened this morning with approximately 175 present in the Ambassador theatre auditorium. On the dais were Ben Berinstein, Edward G. Levey, M. E. Comerford, Fred S. Meyer, Walter Vincent, Kuykendall, Fred Wehrenberg and Jack Miller.

Crystallizing the trend of mind of many M.P.T.O.A. leaders was a banner suspended over the presidential chair calling on Hollywood to make more pictures suitable for the entire family, while on the right was another addressed to the directors which read: "If you would put as much thought and energy back of the family type picture as you do sophisticated pictures, the box-office appeal would be greater."

Mayor Shaw of Los Angeles delivered the welcoming address, saying at one point that the industry spent $135,000,000 and employed 30,000 in California last year.

Indorse Recovery Moves

Col. Carlos Huntington, representing Governor Rolph, officially welcomed the conventioners, with M. A. Lightman responding. Comerford then introduced Meyer, who presented a resolution endorsing the recovery activity of President Roosevelt. This was unanimously adopted.

Kuykendall's and Meyer's speeches were followed by Berinstein later. He outlined the entertainment, of which there will be plenty. This afternoon the convention repaired to the Warner studio for a full afternoon, including luncheon, and tonight the delegates attended a "Hoedown Dance" and buffet supper as guests of Universal. Wednesday morning Levy will talk on "The Theatre's Liability to Its Patrons." Louis B. Mayer will talk on production, Walter Vincent will discuss "What's Wrong with Exhibition from the Point of View of the

O'Reilly-Weisman

Charles L. O'Reilly, dining and conferring with Harry Brandt and Milton C. Weisman at the M.P. Club yesterday started tongues wagging as to the import of the informal meeting.

Described as a casual meeting, some of the boys are trying to figure out what really was behind the get-together of the local exhibitor head rivals.

Exhibitor?" Mrs. Thomas G. Winter's subject will be "The Public's Attitude Toward Motion Pictures," Cecil B. DeMille will talk on "How Pictures Are Put Together" and Joe Breen will have for his subject "Self Regulation in Advertising Motion Pictures."

An open forum will follow, with adjournment at 1 o'clock for a trip through the RKO and Fox studios in the afternoon, followed by a big party at M-G-M in the evening. All studios are participating.

Lincoln Suburb Ends Its Ban on Pictures

LINCOLN, Neb., April 10.—University Place, Lincoln suburb, where hostility to movies on Sunday or any other day has been the boast of its conservative population, is now open to films without censorship.

Prohibition against movies in the area was one of the terms upon which the suburb consented to annexation by Lincoln several years ago. Business men of the suburb recently decided they wanted their neighborhood to get some of the picture business that was going into Lincoln proper. They petitioned the City Council to revoke the ban, and the council has now completed such action.

Writers Want Action On Code Nominees

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—Immediate action in appointing writer representatives on the code executive board is urged upon Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt in a wire sent by the Screen Writers' Guild of the Authors' League of America. The wire urges him to name a definite day on which he will make appointments. It warns of the "unfortunate effect upon every employe in the picture business if provisions for collective bargaining are not made effective promptly."

May Represent NRA

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Although no decision has yet been made as to the NRA's representation in the I.T.O.A. labor case in the New York State Court of Appeals next week, it is possible that Walter Griffin, who appeared in the Congress Theatre case in New Jersey, will handle the matter, it was learned today.

O'Toole Replaces Dervin

Timothy O'Toole has replaced J. J. Dervin, branch manager for United Artists, on the Boston clearance and zoning board as unaffiliated distributor.

Seven Groups Hearing Most Of Problems

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—Seven committees meeting each afternoon will do the road work for the convention. Unless the problems before each group are viewed as national they will not reach the general convention.

These committees are: Grievances, NRA code-trade practices, legislation and taxes, resolutions, public relations and community affairs, and credentials and rules.

This is in keeping with the plan to proceed according to schedule and keep the fireworks as much in the background as possible, although Jack Miller of the Chicago Exhibitors' Ass'n. probably will unload plenty of code labor provisions on the grievance committee headed by Nat M. Williams. Other members of the committee are Harvey Lust, J. H. Michael, H. W. Harvey and Sidney Lust, with Charles Trampe of Wisconsin added.

The code-trade practices committee includes Fred S. Meyer; R. M. Clark, Morgan A. Walsh, William Benton, Walter Immerman, Roy Walker and Abe Lichtman.

On the code-labor committee are: Jack Miller, A. D. Kvoil, Walter Vincent and L. L. Harmon. Legislation includes M. A. Lightman, M. E. Comerford, R. B. Wilby, W. H. Lollier, B. K. Fischer, J. E. Loth and Max Tabackman. Public relations is made up of Fred Wehrenberg, Williams, W. L. Ainsworth, W. S. Butterfield, Lust and W. P. Moran. Resolutions includes Edward G. Levey, Oscar C. Lam, Ed M. Fay, Harry Hicks, Lightman, A. C. Gutenberg, Walter Griffith and E. O. Kadane. Credentials and rules is made up of Comerford as chairman, with James J. McGuinness, Benjamin Pitts, Williams and A. F. Baker.

pay C. L. Kagey and Hal Black, Wichita lawyers, for bringing suit in the Federal court. The attorneys demanded a fee of $8,000 and $2,500 expenses. The court held they were entitled to the full amount.

Kagey and Black obtained an injunction in the Federal district court at Kansas City, Kan., in the fall of 1931, enjoining city officials from interfering with Sunday shows. On an appeal by the Kansas attorney general, the Circuit Court of Appeals set the order aside.

Numerous theatres began Sunday operation following issuance of the lower court's order.

were filed against Paramount Public subsequent to its bankruptcy. Approximately $200,000,000 remain unsettled, and months will be required to dispose of the largest of these, it was said. No reorganization of the company will be advanced prior to that time, although a plan of reorganization has been in preparation for months by bondholder creditors comprising the Kuhn, Loeb-sponsored protective committee. The plan cannot be submitted to creditors, it was stated, or even given final form until the settlement of the large claims makes possible some definite knowledge of Paramount's liabilities.

Under the glare of huge arc lights, M-G-M last night launched "Viva Villa" at the Criterion. As the picture was about to get under way, Al Jolson walked in, mobbed by autograph hunters who blocked the lobby and would not permit patrons to enter for a time.

Others attending included Ceila Villa, daughter of Pancho, viewing the picture for the first time, June Knight, William Gaxton, Thomas Meighan, Mae Murray, Adolph Zukor, Louis Shurr, C. C. Moskowitz and many other M-G-M executives.

No newsreel was shown, the picture starting at 8:55 P. M. and breaking at 11 P. M. sharp.

According to Representative Elliott, when a picture is brought here for the first time the reel is taxed and recorded by a serial number. If the same reels are secured by a second or third run, carrying the receipt of the tax payment, the reel is free from another tax but if different reels of the same picture are secured and have not been recorded and taxed according to the serial number then a tax must be paid even if the picture has been shown in Delaware previously on different reels. This is not made clear in the bill, but is the interpretation according to its sponsor.

End of NRA Review Board Drawing Near

do not feel qualified to make specific recommendations with respect to revision of the more than 20 codes before them in the absence of technical advice from men well-versed in the practices of the industries involved. The board has concluded hearings on several codes, including the film code, and certain members are of the opinion that reports should be written setting forth the deficiencies of each agreement. Others take the attitude the material laid before them by witnesses is not adequate for recommendations of such importance.

It was indicated today that Chairman Clarence Darrow will confer with the President upon the latter's return and lay the situation before him, together with a report outlining what the board has done and pointing out that the hearings have indicated the existence of much dissatisfaction with many codes and the need for an organization to hear and act upon criticisms.

May Ask Permanency

The proposed report is expected to recommend that establishment of a permanent organization with a staff of economists familiar with the details of the various industries. The board would use the statistical and other material of the NRA and other federal agencies.

As the existence of the board draws near its end indications appear that it was never intended by the President to be a permanent organization but was more for the purpose of testing sentiment to determine the need for such an agency.

The intention of the President to have the board operate only temporarily is seen as the reason for the sudden lack of interest in the project by NRA officials after the first flurry of excitement following its creation. So far as can be learned NRA officials have paid no attention to the hearings, although in some instances members of code authorities have been present, and have evinced little or no curiosity as to what the board might recommend, indicating the absence of all fear as to the effect of the board's activities upon the codes.

Need for a permanent organization to pass on complaints is seen by members of the board, who stated today that while they had no opinions on the specific issues which have been raised, the testimony indicated clearly that in many industries control is almost entirely in the hands of representatives of the largest units.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Wild Gold"

(Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—"Wild Gold" has a new story angle dealing with the 1934 California gold rush and the resurrection of a small mining town. Treated lightly, it borders at times on burlesque, with the audience amused over the comedy situations and failing to appreciate the forced dramatic situations.

John Boles, Claire Trevor, Harry Green and Monroe Owsley give good performances in the top spots, while George Marshall's direction suffers at times from spotty continuity; yet the comedy situations atone for this shortcoming.

The story centers on Boles, a mining engineer, who builds dams between drinks. He meets Miss Trevor in a cabaret after a series of amusing situations, finally becomes regenerated into the ways of accomplishing something worthwhile and settled down before the final clinch with Miss Trevor, but not until she has rid herself of her wastrel husband. Intermingling throughout the story are plenty of unusual situations and action to keep the yarn moving until the climax of a dam bursting, sweeping away the town, as well as the husband. This leaves Boles and Miss Trevor free to start life anew, and all ends well, according to the screen formula.

"Where Sinners Meet"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—Light comedy, given a satirical twist, is the essence of "Where Sinners Meet." Adapted from the popular British play, "The Dover Road," it moves to the tune of witty dialogue, smart acting and tricky situations. As the show has but one locale, the dialogue predominates. Yet, while action is held to a minimum, J. Walter Ruben's directing technique continually manages to focus interest on both story and players.

Here's the plot in brief: Clive Brook, living on Dover Road, the romantic highway for London elopers bound for the Continental Gretna Greens, sets himself up as an anti-Cupid. Gently waylaying Reginald Owen and Diana Wynyard, he ingratiatingly forces them to live with him. There they learn every-day married life is a vastly different panorama than their romantic mental meanderings have painted. Zest is added to the situation when Brook uncovers another pair of eloping lovers, Billie Burke (Owen's wife) and Alan Mowbray. Under the spell of Brook's practical experience and demonstrations husband and wife are reunited. Mowbray is delighted to escape the thralldom of wedlock, and in the end Brook succumbs to Hymen's arrows as he takes the Dover Road with Miss Wynyard.

Brook is outstanding. Miss Wynyard and Miss Burke are just as their fans like them to be, but Owen's performance steals the show. In minor roles Mowbray and Gilbert Emery are pleasing. H. W. Haneman has done a fine job in adapting and Ruben's direction preserves the full flavor of the British humor.

"We're Not Dressing"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—The comedy of Burns and Allen and Bing Crosby's romantic crooning to Carole Lombard, together with the specialties of Ethel Merman and Leon Errol, give certain box-office flavor and name value to "We're Not Dressing," but the entertainment jells only in spots.

The story intermingles some strange people in some queer situations. Even a bear plays its part in some laughable, some mawkish antics. The yarn has tried-and-true values, with Miss Lombard as the socialite owner of a yacht, on which Crosby is just a sailor, with Miss Lombard expressing love by verbal lashings of Bing. Because of Errol's rocky knees, the ship grounds on an island, with Bing taking command and applying the "no work, no eat" dictum, which brings Carole to terms.

The clever lunacies of Burns and Allen as two explorers researching top the picture's audience responsiveness. Crosby's warbling and romantic mood appeal. Miss Lombard doesn't get much chance to display gowns. Miss Merman evidences real possibilities. Errol does his little bit well. The tunes of Gordon and Revel have a distinctive quality with "May I?" a possible successor to "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" The songs, however, seem to suffer by spotting.

Norman Taurog's direction, usually admirable and inspired, is not quite that here. The production is of program calibre.

Higher Film Rentals Seen In the Offing

tives, some of whom cited the code's cancellation provisions as imposing an increased cost factor on distribution which, coupled with other cost increases resulting from the code, could not be met by their companies with distribution revenue remaining on the same basis as in pre-code seasons.

Any general increase in rentals or other playing terms next season is expected to go hand in hand with higher admissions which, it is felt here, will be both necessary and practicable by fall. With industrial recovery established on a fairly general scale in most key cities and further progress believed in prospect, many exhibitors, as well as distributors, believe that theatre patronage by autumn will be in a position to absorb slightly tilted admissions.

Expense of these boards will be borne by Campi. The number of persons to comprise these boards has not yet been set, but as soon the grievance boards assume duties of the compliance boards, Campi will delve into the work of organizing the boards through which labor disputes will be funnelled.

Five Secretaries of Code Boards Are Set

All were unanimously recommended by both clearance and zoning and grievance boards in their respective cities.

More Codes Taken Over by Rosenblatt placed in charge of the banking code and, possibly, the textile code. Supervision over the service trades places under Rosenblatt's charge a large number of industries, some of them among the most important in the country. In addition to the film code, he now has all the amusement codes, the garment trades and transportation.

Disposition of the banking code has not yet been finally determined, it was said today, but is expected to go to Division 5 in the near future. Transfer of the textile code to Rosenblatt is more doubtful.

"Harold" and Penner Big in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—Joe Penner set a new all-time record for the Earle last week with a cool $40,000, topping Eddie Cantor's $38,000. House was jammed all week and six shows were given daily with seven on Saturday. "Harold Teen," the film, won good comments on its own merit.

Also topnotch was "Riptide" which garnered $22,000 in its first week at the Boyd. "Bottoms Up" took $18,500 at the Fox, almost enough to land it a second week. "David Harum" was O. K. in a second run at Keith's. The rest of the houses slipped, but the total figure was a way above average.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 5:

"PALOOKA" (U. A.)
ALDINE—(1,300), 40c-55c-65c, 6 days, 2nd week. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $7,000)

"Wonder," $6,000, Tops Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, April 10.—Top honors went to "Wonder Bar" last week, with a gross of $6,000 at the Circle. This is up by $2,500.

"George White's Scandals" grabbed off second high gross with $3,500 at the Apollo. Business elsewhere was not startling.

Total first run business was $21,500. Average is $16,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 8:

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (U. A.)
APOLLO—(1,100), 20c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,500. (Average, $2,500)
"WONDER BAR" (F. N.)

"Riptide" Garners $7,350, Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 10.—Though the weather was bad part of last week, city first runs piled up bigger grosses than they have seen for many weeks. "Riptide" brought top money to the Criterion, taking $7,350. "Wonder Bar" grossed $5,500 for the Midwest. "Journal of a Crime" at the Capitol flopped to the tune of $1,650. It being the only picture to fall below average last week. "Jimmy, the Gent" and "Coming Out Party," with the help of the stage show, "Blue Ridge Mountaineers," the first of the week took $1,200 over average of $2,000.

Total first run business $17,700. Average is $13,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 7:

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M)

M-G-M Borrows March

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—Fredric March goes to M-G-M for the leading male role in "Barretts of Wimpole Street" on loanout from 20th Century. He is slated to do a picture for Sam Goldwyn following the M-G-M assignment as a filler during the 20th Century production lull.

Borg in Franchise Deals

KANSAS CITY, April 10.—Russell C. Borg, manager of the newly organized Consolidated Film Distributors, Inc., announces that franchise deals have been closed with Amity, Astor, Progressive, Superior Talking Pictures Corp. and Celebrity Productions. Astor is releasing 12 three-reel westerns, Superior will supply feature westerns, while the deal with Celebrity is for a series of six cartoons in color.

Start Burlington House

BURLINGTON, N. C., April 10.—Contract has just been let for a theatre to cost $30,000 on the lot at Front and Worth streets. M. B. Smith and John Barnwell are owners of the property.

"Melody" and Roxy $35,000 Boston Smash

BOSTON, April 10.—Boston shattered records this week when grosses in the six first runs mounted to $119,000 with every house well above average and some coming near the high records for the year.

The Metropolitan was high for the week with "Melody in Spring," plus Roxy in person and his Gang, going $7,000 over par to $35,000. Second honors were tied between "Spitfire" at RKO Keith's and "Riptide" at Loew's Orpheum, each grossing $6,000 better than average.

"I Like It That Way" was good for $3,500 above and both the twin houses with a double bill were well over.

Ideal weather, the first real spring of the year, prevailed.

Total first run business for the week was $119,000. Average is $95,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 5:

"I LIKE IT THAT WAY" (Univ.)
BOSTON—(2,900), 25c-50c, 7 days. Stage: Clark and McCullough musical comedy. Gross: $19,500. (Average, $16,000)

"Spitfire" Omaha Top in Dull Week

OMAHA, April 10.—Business got off to a slow start last week as a result of a snowstorm on Good Friday, but "Spitfire" was strong at $5,000 in the Brandeis. It was $250 over par.

"Riptide," on a dual bill with "Three on a Honeymoon," was a disappointment at $7,500, which is only par for the Paramount.

A stage show at the Orpheum, along with "Jimmy the Gent," got $7,250, which is only fair. The World, playing "Palooka" and "Orient Express," slipped under par at $4,250.

Total first run business was $24,000. Average is $25,750.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending April 4:
"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M)
"THREE ON A HONEYMOON" (Fox)
PARAMOUNT—(2,900), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,500. (Average, $7,500)

Missouri House to Open

KANSAS CITY, April 10.—Howard Meek has taken over the Rex at Maysville, Mo., long closed, and reopened it as the Plaza.

"One Night" Pittsburgh's Top, $11,500

PITTSBURGH, April 10.—"It happened One Night" reached $11,500 at the Stanley, over normal by $2,500, but even at that it was something of a disappointment to those who had expected a big pickup following Easter.

"George White's Scandals" at the Fulton fell off after a great start, getting $3,000 on its first two days and then only $2,200 during the remainder of the week, while "Harold Teen" slipped under par at the Warner at $4,500. Joe Laurie, Jr.'s "Memory Lane Revue" helped "I Believed in You" get $6,800 at the Pitt and at the Davis, "Love Birds" and "The Countess of Monte Cristo" attracted only $2,500.

Total grosses in six first run houses were $51,500. Average is $47,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 7:

"LOVE BIRDS" (Univ.)
"COUNTESS OF MONTE CRISTO" (Univ.)
DAVIS—(1,700), 25c-35c, 6 days. Gross: $2,500. (Average, $2,500)

"HAROLD TEEN" (Warners)
WARNER—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $4,500. (Average, $5,000)

"Wonder Bar" Big Grosser in Denver

DENVER, April 10.—"Wonder Bar," showing both at the Aladdin and Denver, was a heavy draw. It took $4,000 at the former, up by $1,000, and $9,000 at the latter, over par by $2,000.

"The Mystery of Mr. X," with El Brendel on the stage at the Orpheum, garnered $11,000. This is over average by $1,000.

Total first run business was $29,000. Average is $27,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 5:

"WONDER BAR" (F. N.)
ALADDIN—(1,500), 25c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $3,000)

"Wild Cargo" Hits Top in Frisco Week

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—"Wild Cargo," advertised as "world premiere," grabbed top dough here last week at the Golden Gate with $16,700, which is $3,700 over average. A wild animal lobby display helped the gross. Ted Lewis in person with "Countess of Monte Cristo" helped the Orpheum to click at $13,000, which is $4,000 over normal. Other high ones were the Fox, with "Social Register" at $13,000, which is $4,000 up; "Nana" at $11,500 at the United Artists, $3,500 over top, and "George White's Scandals" at the Warfield, grabbing $19,000 for normal business.

All in all, it was a most satisfactory week, and was rather expected following the lows of Holy Week.

Total first run business was $87,200. Average is $76,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending April 3:

"WILD CARGO" (Radio)
GOLDEN GATE—(2,800), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Stage: Vaudeville, band. Gross: $16,700. (Average, $13,000)

"Cat and Fiddle" $6,000 in Seattle

SEATTLE, April 10.—"The Cat and the Fiddle" at the Paramount, together with a strong anniversary and Easter stage program, put the house on the top of the heap for the week. The gross was about an average $6,000.

Total first run business was $28,750. Average is $31,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 6:

"PALOOKA" (U. A.)

"Wonder Bar" a $20,000 Sensation in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, April 10.—"Wonder Bar" led off the biggest Easter week here in two years. It broke opening day records at the Hippodrome and held its crowds all week. The $20,000 gross was $15,000 over average.

"Riptide" also got off to a flying start at Loew's State and topped par $5,000 on its $15,000 take.

"The House of Rothschild" had a good opening at $1.50 top at the Ohio. The $6,100 take was better than some recent roadshows, but this town balks at these prices.

Total business, excluding "The House of Rothschild," was $64,100. Average is $45,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 6:

"LOVE BIRDS" (Univ.)
ALLEN—(3,300), 25c-35c, 7 days. Stage: Gross: $6,100.

"Wonder Bar" Capital Smash With $25,000

WASHINGTON, April 10.—With spring and the annual influx of Easter visitors to the capital, theatres showed one of the best weeks in recent months.

Featuring "Wonder Bar" as its screen attraction, and unreeling five complete deluxe shows, the Earle hit a new high with $25,000. Charlie Melson headlined the vaudeville.

At the Fox the combination of "George White's Scandals" and Thurston, and his daughter, Jane, failed to click off the high that was expected. The take was $20,000.

Critics' acclaim failed to put over "No Greater Glory." It took a weak $5,000 at the Metropolitan.

After going five weeks and one day, RKO-Keith's finally pulled "It Happened One Night" to make way for "Wild Cargo," which came through with $12,000.

The $17,000 for "Riptide" renewed Norma Shearer's stay at the Palace for another seven days.

Estimated takings, exclusive of tax, for the week ending April 5:

"DAVID HARUM" (Fox)
COLUMBIA—(1,232), 25c-40c, 7 days (return engagement). Gross: $5,000.

"WONDER BAR" (F. N.)
EARLE—(2,323), 25c-66c, 7 days. Stage show (5 extra performances). Gross: $25,000.

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (Fox)
FOX—(3,434), 25c-66c, 7 days. Stage show. Gross: $20,000.

"Riptide" Is $25,000 High For Chicago

CHICAGO, April 10.—Business was up at practically all Loop spots last week, "Riptide" at United Artists garnering the heavy take of $25,000 to easily outdistance all competition.

At the same time B. & K's Chicago pushed up to $33,000 with "Gambling Lady" on the screen and Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds of 1934" as the stage attraction.

Of special significance was the $15,000 hung up at the 50-cent top Roosevelt for the third Loop week of "It Happened One Night." The Gable film is being held at the Roosevelt for a fourth stanza.

Total first run business was $134,500. Average is $137,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending April 5:

"GAMBLING LADY" (Warners)
CHICAGO—(4,000), 35c-50c-68c, 7 days. Stage: Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds of 1934." Gross: $33,000. (Average, $34,600)

Week Ending April 6:

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (Fox)

McVICKERS—(2,284), 30c-40c-60c, 2nd week. 7 days. Gross: $10,000. (Average, $13,000)

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M)

UNITED ARTISTS—(1,700), 30c-40c-60c, 7 days. Gross: $25,000. (Average, $17,000)

No Tax for Children

DES MOINES, April 10.—Children's tickets are exempt from the state retail sales tax which went into effect April 1. Theatre owners have received permission to absorb the tax on children's tickets. In many cases, higher priced theatres over the states have had to lower prices to meet the tax.

"Melody" Is Twin Cities' Hit, $14,000

MINNEAPOLIS, April 10.—"Melody in Spring" was the heavy grosser here and in St. Paul last week. At the Minnesota here the $8,000 gross topped par by $500 and across the river the $6,000 take was up by $500.

"The Private Life of Henry VIII" attracted plenty of attention. In the 400-seat World here it went to $3,500 and in the 300-seat St. Paul World the $3,000 take was double normal.

Total first run business in Minneapolis was $25,000. Average is $22,000. Total St. Paul grosses were $19,500. Average is $16,000.

Estimated takings:

Minneapolis

Cincy Unemployment Cut to 23 Per Cent

CINCINNATI, April 10.—Business conditions here continue on the up and up, and gradually is finding reflection in increased box-office returns.

Unemployment in February was only 23 per cent of the normal employment. In other words, 77 per cent of all persons normally employed here were back at work, according to survey by the Chamber of Commerce.

From the same source it is learned that February of this year showed an increase of 47.1 per cent in the business of 18 selected industries over February 1933. There was a 12.3 per cent increase in department store sales in the same period.

Radio to Do West Pointer

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—With heavy returns pouring in from Radio's "Midshipman Jack," the studio has decided to make another government school film, this time with West Point the focal point. Bruce Cabot will again step into the top spot. Christy Cabanne, director of the first one, will again direct and Glendon Allvine will be the producer.

Warners' Wisconsin Managers Are Moved

MILWAUKEE, April 10.—A shift in Warner managers here brings William Geehan, formerly with Fox in Green Bay, to Warners' Retlaw theatre in Fond du Lac. He succeeds Bunny Sommers, who has been transferred to the circuit's Strand in Oshkosh, where he succeeds Burr Cline, resigned.

Tom Reilly, manager of the circuit's Granada, neighborhood house, has been transferred to Menominee, Mich., as manager of the Lloyd, succeeding Cyrus Lloyd. Mikey Kippel has been transferred from the Lake to the Granada, succeeding Reilly, while Vic Poynter has been shifted from the State to the Lake. William Exton is now managing both the Venetian and the State and Gene Arnstein, formerly at the Venetian, is now managing the Riviera and Kosciuszko. The latter house was reopened recently.

Seitz Off to Amazon

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—George B. Seitz, director; Harold H. Noice, author, and Joseph Cook, business manager, have left on the first leg of a 7,300-mile trip into the Amazon region to start filming "Jungle Red Man" for M-G-M. They will be gone four months and will use a native cast. Most of the action will be at Yara Wate.

Looking 'Em Over

"Orders Is Orders"

(Gaumont-British)

With James Gleason, Charlotte Greenwood and Cyril Maude in the principal roles, this tale of a Hollywood director invading the British barracks for authentic shots and turning the place topsy turvy provides countless laughs. As the director, Gleason gets over a lot of American colloquialisms, which are strange to the ears of the English.

Gleason is sent abroad to work on an epic, the story of which is changed by the director when a new idea creeps into his fertile brain. After he has managed to get the captain, Maude, to put the British army at his disposal, Gleason attempts to make a movie hero of the government official. These incidents are loaded with laughs. To top it all, Gleason, after many new ideas have been born and murdered, finally finishes his picture, but it never leaves the barracks. One of the orderlies, attempting to find out whether the film would ignite, puts a match to it and the answer spells ruin for the movie outfit.

Miss Greenwood assists Gleason in getting the captain to capitulate so that the company can get the army shots and manages to do a goodly share of the work. However, chief honors go to Gleason with Maude running a close second.

It should be all right in neighborhoods.

DeMille Picks Another

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—Cecil B. DeMille has gone into production of historical films in a large way, having lined up "Samson and Delilah" as a follow-up on "Cleopatra." Miriam Hopkins and Henry Wilcoxon have been assigned the feature spots.

Short Subjects

"Pagliacci"

(Educational-Fox)

William C. de Mille, who produced this and directed it, admits that it is an experiment in film technique. If it proves acceptable to the public, entire operas may be produced in this way.

Dan Gridley, Rose Tentone, Ralph Magelssen, James Montgomery and Frank Chapman, stage actors, are used to put on the scene from the opera where Canio, the clown, finds out his wife has been unfaithful, but goes out to perform as usual. The actors move about freely and use pantomime while the music is sung by operatic singers and synchronized to the players' movements, but not always with their lips. Both the vocal selections and the orchestral numbers are splendid.

Where audiences like operatic music the numbers ought to be popular. Running time, 12 mins.

"Ceiling Whacks"

(Warren Doane-Universal)

Henry Armetta's work in "Ceiling Whacks" does much to retrieve this short from mediocrity. Considerably true to life is his performance of an Italian husband whose married life is made miserable by a mother-in-law who shares his home. To get its laughs the film resurrects the old one about the cutie who finds her way into a married couple's apartment while the husband is alone, forcing the fellow to do a lot of explaining when the wife returns unexpectedly and finds them together. Much of it is slapstick. Running time, 20½ mins.

"Strange As It Seems"

(John Hix-Universal)

This is No. 38 of the series, and a highly entertaining and instructive one it is. Among the oddities pictured are a pet porcupine fish that eats lamb chops, the making of a Mexican Indian caviar from the eggs of water flies, the production of cochineal. But by far the most engrossing scenes are those showing the training of fleas. Running time, 9¾ mins.

Pittsburgh Houses Fight Time Change

PITTSBURGH, April 10. — Meeting with Mayor William V. McNair here, a committee of showmen including Harry Kalmine, zone manager for Warners; Joe Feldman, advertising director; Mike Cullen, Loew's city manager, and Secretary Herrington of the M.P.T.O.A., registered a vigorous protest against daylight savings time, which goes into effect here April 29 for five months.

The mayor told them he would like to sound out public opinion first and the theatre owners offered to sponsor a referendum among patrons, to which the mayor agreed.

Iowa Tax Brings on Changes in Scales

DES MOINES, April 10.—Several theatres in Des Moines and over the state are announcing changes in price schedules simultaneously with the going into effect of the state retail sales tax of two per cent. For the greater part, the trend is downward as to admission prices, despite the absorption of the sales tax.

The Des Moines and Paramount theatres here have set their schedules at 26c, 36c and 41c for the Des Moines and 21c, 26c and 36c for the Paramount. The Spencer at Spencer, Iowa, reduced from 40c to 35c, according to Manager Gettier. The Grand at Eldora has changed to two feature pictures on Friday and Saturday nights instead of 15c shows and will charge 26c, including the state tax.

M-G-M Holds Three Players, Director

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—M-G-M has handed out four new contracts to three actresses and one director.

Maureen O'Sullivan gets a new long-term and will go into a third "Tarzan" picture, also "Barretts of Wimpole Street," following which she will make a trip to Ireland.

May Clarke, Karen Morely and May Robson were also given extended tickets, the latter two going into "The Shining Hour" and "No More Ladies," respectively.

W. S. Van Dyke, now directing "Manhattan Melodrama," was also given a new long-term.

War Film Brought Back

PITTSBURGH, April 10.—Although it played here several months ago at the Davis, the war film "Forgotten Men" has been brought back to the first run Fulton by Mort Shea on the strength of a couple of test dates in his Ohio houses. It is believed the recent newspaper enthusiasm over uncensored war pictures has revived interest.

Denver Favors Dunbar

DENVER, April 10.—Duke Dunbar, secretary of the Film Board, has been unanimously recommended as secretary of the local code boards. A tentative budget also has been decided upon. The first meeting of the boards to hear complaints will be held April 17 and 18.

Takes Over Dallas House

DALLAS, April 10.—J. S. Groves has taken over the Uptown and intends to install a cooling system and operate the house throughout the year. A film-stage presentation policy will be tried.

Sign Writers Close New Wage Contract

seven-hour day with an increase from $13.20 per day to $14.70. The union, however, retains the right to ask a 10 per cent wage increase next Sept. 15. A spokesman for the local said yesterday that the increase was waived at this time because of the imminence of decreased theatre advertising for the summer season. With the fixing of new advertising budgets and schedules next fall, it was said, the union would be in a more advantageous position to negotiate for an increase then.

Union sign writers will continue working on the basis of a four-day week, as has been their practice for the past several months, in order to apportion available work among members, it was stated. Division of the work gives members a minimum of two days and a maximum of four days work per week.

The settlement averted a strike of the theatre sign writers who have been marking time since April 1, the date on which their old contract expired.

Pick Charlotte Again

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 10.—This city again has been selected as the place for holding the midwinter convention of the Carolina M. P. T. O. The meeting will be held in December on dates yet to be selected.

Variety Club Chatter

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, April 10.—Variety Club of Cleveland has closed its membership list. It now has its full quota. In addition, it has as many associate and non-resident members as it can accommodate. Plans are in the making for a Variety golf tournament to take place as soon as the weather permits.

SALLY RAND, on this week's RKO Palace bill, was the guest of honor at the Monday Variety luncheon. GEORGE ROBERTS and I. J. SCHMERTZ of Fox were "kings" for the day.

Buffalo

BUFFALO, April 10.—HARRY A. SEED and JOHN SITTERLE of the Warner exchange are "kings for the day" for the next luncheon of the Buffalo tent, to be held April 16. Entertainment will be furnished by talent from the "Greenwich Village Follies," which then will be current at the Great Lakes.

PERT KELTON and GEORGIE PRICE, who will be headlining the revue in Shea's Buffalo, also will entertain.

There were 161 barkers and guests present at the first luncheon, with TED O'SHEA of M-G-M and VINCE McFAUL, general manager for Shea, as "kings for the day."

LOU BREESE, conductor at Shea's Buffalo, obliged with a banjo solo;

GERTRUDE LUTZI, soprano, sang, being accompanied at the piano by MOE BALSAM.

BOB ROBINSON, master of ceremonies for "A Century of Progress Revue," did the ballyhoo for his Great Lakes company. These included: FRANCIS ARBELLA, JOHN THIEL, PAUL BACHELOR, KANICHKA, and HENRY BURKE.

ROBINSON was made an honorary associate member, as was ROBERT BOASBERG, secretary to Mayor GEORGE J. ZIMMERMANN.

MICHAEL SHEA was made honorary president of the Buffalo tent.

STANLEY MEYERS, former master of ceremonies at the old Lafayette, was a guest at the first luncheon.

DAVE MILLER, chief barker of the Buffalo Variety Club, helped the Albany tent to get organized last week.

Albany

ALBANY, April 10.—C. H. BUCKLEY heads the new Variety Club unit here. It is tent No. 9. Other officers are: RALPH PIELOW, first assistant chief barker; NATE SAUBER, second assistant chief barker; ABE STONE, wagon man; C. R. HALLIGAN, property man, and C. H. JOHNSTON, TONY RYAN, JACK SWARTOUT, RAY SMITH and HENRY FRIEDER, canvas man.

Speakers at the first meeting at the DeWitt Clinton were: DAVID MILLER, head of the Buffalo club; JAMES K. BALMER of Pittsburgh and ALBERT K. ROWEWELL of Pittsburgh.

First luncheon meeting will be held Monday. Sixty charter members are expected.

Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, April 10.—JOHN H. HARRIS, chief barker nationally of the Variety Club, returned from his visit in California just in time to attend the opening of another Variety Club Tent in Washington, D. C.

HARRY A. ROSS, president of the Ross Federal Service, was a Pittsburgh visitor last week. Ross is making a tour of his offices throughout the midwest.

JIMMY BALMER represented the national organization of the Variety Club when he participated in the opening of the Albany Tent several days ago.

M. R. CLARK and LES IRWIN were visitors, for a few hours last week, of HARRY GOLDSTEIN, Paramount branch manager.

TOMMY RIGGS and BERNIE ARMSTRONG have plans set for their Radio luncheon next Wednesday.

Warnerites Act Tonight

The Warner Club Players and Glee Club will put on their first show tonight at the Warner home office. Included on the program are Harry Delf's "Any Family" and a dramatization of scenes from "Ever in My Heart." In the cast of the former will be Marie Carroll, William Toles, Mac Fried, Ruth Horne and Sam Hertz. Players in the latter will be Grace Walsh, Ruth Goldberg, Etty Phillips, Sol Reiner, Rudy Hagen, Hy Blaustein, Steve Loewer, Herbert Pornhagen, Al Trojack and Theodore Hammer. Arthur Leonard has done the staging.

in theatres, outside of artists, at the present time as were employed in the same theatres in 1929?

2. Is the standard of wage scale paid to employees in theatres at the present time in excess of, or less than, the standard of wage scale paid for the same kind of service as in 1929?

3. Are total weekly payrolls at present in excess of, or less than, in 1929?

Harold S. Bareford already has asked studio heads for an analysis on production and George J. Schaefer is asking the Hays organization for a summary on distribution. In addition to these men, Charles L. O'Reilly is on the committee recently appointed by Campi to make an industry recapitulation on labor and wages.

Union Calls Strike At Brooklyn Tivoli

A strike was called at the Tivoli, Brooklyn, yesterday by Theatre and Amusement Employees Union, Local 118, resulting in the withdrawal from the house of approximately 10 employees, mostly cleaners and janitors. The Tivoli, some time ago, was ordered by the NRA Regional Labor Board here to reinstate an employee allegedly discharged for union activities, but failed to do so, and last Saturday, it is charged by the union, the theatre discharged a second employee. The union demands reinstatement of both employees and a "closed" shop at the theatre.

Charles C. Levey, head of Local 118, said yesterday that new charges were being filed with the Regional Labor Board alleging cleaners employed in RKO theatres were being worked 10 to 12 hours per week in excess of the labor provisions of the film code.

Labor complaints against Manhattan Playhouses were reported to have been sent to Washington yesterday by Nathan Straus, Jr., head of the State Emergency Council.

and grievance boards but took no action. The session was adjourned until later in the week.

It was admitted that because individual members did not sign the code nothing could be done about filing grievances and protests to schedules of the clearance and zoning boards.

The topic will be discussed today at the general meeting at the Astor.

Boards in 31 Cities Ready In Two Weeks

Campi Expects Some to Start in Few Days

Campi expects to have code boards established in 31 cities within the next two weeks, it was stated yesterday, with several of the offices probably set up and in operation within the next week. Recommendations for quarters have been submitted by all boards which already have held informal meetings.

An office of Code Authority will be opened in Hollywood immediately, Pat Casey and Mrs. Mabel Kinney, the latter of the California State Labor Board, having been appointed by Campi.

Ten More of Board Secretaries Named

Ten more code board secretaries were announced yesterday by Campi, bringing the number up to 15. Mrs. Georgia Moffet has been given the post for Cleveland; Ben Koneg, Milwaukee; Mrs. Mabel Dietz, Minneapolis; Rowena Foley, San Francisco; Mrs. Walter Griffith, Charlotte; Minnie A. Kopple, Charlotte; Grace Gannon, Kansas City; Harry P. Lander, New Haven; Alice Juergens, Cincinnati.

Pick Milwaukee

Los Angeles, April 11.—The M.P.T.O.A. board of directors in a private session today selected Milwaukee as the scene of the 1935 convention, probably to be held in May. This is a victory for, and a source of personal satisfaction to, Fred S. Meyer, whose Wisconsin delegation has been barraging the delegates here with boosts for the beer city.

Mayer Takes Hot Shot At Production Critics

Hits Mothers For Laxity in Picking Films

LOS ANGELES, April 11.—Mothers who fail to guide the film tastes of their children were blamed for a share of the criticism leveled at films in an address by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, head of the Studio Relations Department of the Producers' Assn., in an address before the M. P. T. O. A. convention at its second day's session today.

In a recent Chicago survey, she said, only 155 children of 10,052 questioned had had any guidance from their parents in choosing films. Mrs. Winter said she could "hardly imagine a

Review Board Ends Its Code Hearings

WASHINGTON, April 11.—With the failure of William C. Elliott, president of the I. A. T. S. E., to appear to answer charges made last week by Murray Harston of New York, the National Recovery Review Board today closed its investigation of the film code.

Despite well based reports that the board was about to pass out of the picture, Chairman Clarence G. Darrow continued working on his report, with the aid of Charles Edward Russell.

Study of the voluminous testimony taken during the hearings is disclosing little on which recommendations for revision of the code can be based, it was indicated in board circles.

Decision Reserved In Elms-Fox Suit

Supreme Court Justice Albert Conway at St. George, S. I., yesterday reserved decision on the application of John D. Elms for an order requiring William Fox to submit to an examination before trial in the suit of Elms to recover $2,011,000 from Fox. The motion was not opposed by Fox, but he submitted through counsel a Los Angeles, April 11.—Motion Picture Daily today was accorded official praise from M.P.T.O.A. for publishing its special Los Angeles editions during the convention.

"We commend Motion Picture Daily for its constructive and enterprising endeavor," Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, stated as the second business session came to a close this afternoon. "We are all cognizant of the effort and are deeply appreciative. All at the meetings have commented upon this publishing ingenuity."

License Fee Raise To $500 Suggested

Theatre license fee increase from $150 to $500 per year is provided for in a bill proposed to the Board of Aldermen by Alderman Baum, Fusionist. The measure is designed to add $650,000 to the city revenue.

The idea is to make the theatre license fees the same as those for "common shows"—merry-go-rounds, carnivals, etc.

Tells MPTOA Delegates They Know Nothing Of Studio Job

By RED KANN

LOS ANGELES, April 11.—Louis B. Mayer sailed into M. P. T. O. A. delegates today, hitting at them for criticizing production when they know nothing about problems which studios face. He described it as impossible, even for all studios combined, to turn out a hit a week and ended a two-fisted speech with an exhortation for tolerance.

"We are quick to condemn; we are impulsive. Everything must be done over night," he said. "You asked for a hit a week—just like that, and you criticized something you didn't know anything about. If you really wanted to see production, you would have appointed rotating committees to visit the studios. Then the right to criticism would have been yours."

Mayer covered a wide variety of subjects, ranging from double and

Opportunity Faces Showmen—O'Toole

LOS ANGELES, April 11.—Since the last M. P. T. O. A. convention the industry has undergone a complete "evolution" and a great opportunity now faces exhibitors to "make things right," it was stated in the report of M. J. O'Toole, M. P. T. O. "Our industry is being reorganized," he said. "Our position has always

Decision Reserved On Big Para. Claim

A $1,000,000 claim for alleged damages said to have resulted from an anti-trust law violation by Paramount Publix, which had been disallowed and expunged by Referee Henry K. Davis, was reviewed yesterday by Federal Judge William Bondy in U. S. District Court here on the petition of the claimant, the Strand Amusement Co., Portland, Me. Judge Bondy reserved decision on Paramount's motion to expunge the claim, contending that no judgment against Paramount had ever been obtained by Strand Amusement Co.

Referee Davis yesterday heard 12 claims against Paramount filed by general creditors for small amounts. The bulk of the small claims were disallowed or expunged.

Bottle in Desk May Cost Manager License

TORONTO, April 11.—Because the police found a bottle of whisky in his desk, civic officials have asked the Ontario government to cancel the theatre license of Abraham Appleby, proprietor of the Roxy. This is another angle of an uplift crusade. Police raided the theatre on March 17.

Hummell Joins Mountan

D. J. Mountan, president of Showmen's Pictures, Inc., has named Howard S. Hummell as sales manager for Harry Schenck's "Beyond Bengal." Larry Jacobs is handling advertising and exploitation.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., April 11.—Millard Ochs, son of Lee Ochs, was married tonight to Marion Louise Kellerby at her home here. They will sail for Havana Saturday.

Detroit Price Jump General on Sunday

DETROIT, April 11.—With most of the theatres in the city having adopted the Allied-sponsored plan for a general rise in admission prices and with the few remaining houses having agreed to adopt the plan beginning Sunday, the plan will be in general operation on that date.

First runs, under the plan, raise their prices 10 cents from opening to 1 P. M. and maintain their present schedule thereafter. Subsequent runs raise five and 10 cents.

Protection will be based solely on price charged, the schedule being practically the same as that now in effect in Chicago.

Shamrock Pictures Corp. Reorganized

Reorganization of Shamrock Pictures Corp. was completed yesterday at a special meeting of stockholders.

Officers were elected as follows: President, B. C. Fassio; vice-president, Walter E. Rodda; secretary, Paul A. Hartwig; treasurer, Standish T. Cox. These men were also named directors and they will serve until the annual meeting.

Production plans for the coming season were set, it was stated, and will be announced the latter part of the month.

petition that the order require the examination be made at his home, Woodmere, L. I.

Elms, who lives in West New Brighton, S. I., charges in his suit that he invented a device which would give to films the full scope of the screen in any theatre and that in addition would give them the illusion of depth and perspective. Fox, he alleges in his affidavit, agreed to finance and develop this invention. In his affidavit Elms declares that Fox paid him $50,000, agreed to organize the Revo Film Corp. and to give Elms 49 per cent of the stock. Fox also was to supply the necessary financial backing, the complaint states.

The contract was not carried out, Elms states in his affidavit, because at about the time his invention was perfected sound pictures gained a vogue and theatres had purchased equipment for the old type limited size pictures. The equipment for sound for his invention, Elms stated in his affidavit, would have involved considerable more expense. For this reason, Elms alleges Fox failed to live up to the contract.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Half a Sinner"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, April 11.—Enjoyable and satisfying entertainment flows from this bucket of farce and fun. It's a sparkling draught right from the well of laughter.

Taken from the successful play, "Alias, the Deacon," modernized with shrewdness for homespun values, smart showmanship has aimed it at the masses and it hits the mark.

As a dignified knight riding the rods and palming himself off as a deacon, with his finer talent revealed as a card specialist, but only after persuasion, Berton Churchill prevents an attack by a hobo on a girl, Sally Blane, riding the rods disguised as a boy, and leaves the door open for another 'bo, Joel McCrea, to follow her.

Arriving at the same town where Joel and Sally are in jobs and in love, the deacon immediately gets in right with sweet ladies and in wrong with the town's promoters. Churchill, by his judicious card-cutting, aids the romance of Sally and Joel, helps Widow Alexandria Carlisle to repossess her hotel and saves Mickey Rooney from a whipping.

Churchill, who played the deacon innumerable times on the stage, gives a sterling, well-shaded performance. McCrea and Sally Blane are an ideal romantic pair. Mickey Rooney, fresh from his kid comedies, turns in a swell job and is going places. Russell Hopton is a human heavy. Big Boy Williams plays a dumb wrestler.

Kurt Neumann directed with a fine comedy flair. Edmund Grainger is credited as associate producer.

The film's title, exploitable stuff in the production, with its human quality and spontaneous laughter, are assets that presage good receptions at box-offices.

"The Witching Hour"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 11.—Here's the kind of a show you have been looking for—gripping novelty that is quality entertainment. "The Witching Hour" is both showmanship and an audience picture. It brings to the screen fine romance, vivid drama, laugh-generating comedy, nerve-tightening suspense, stark tragedy, emotion-stirring human interest. It introduces a treatment of hypnotism as the motivating element.

The plot in brief: Unconsciously a hypnotist, John Halliday causes Tom Brown, engaged to his daughter, Judith Allen, to commit murder. Unable to find an attorney willing to defend the boy, who can give no explanation for his act, Halliday persuades Guy Standing, boyhood sweetheart of Tom's grandmother, to take the case. Impelled to accept by a vision of his dead love, Standing sets the stage in a courtroom for Halliday to bring the jury foreman, William Frawley, under his mystic spell. As the crime is simulated, the jury acquits Brown, permitting Standing to return to his metaphysical dreams.

Admirably presented and acted and packing intriguing drama into 60 minutes, it is a personal triumph for Standing and Halliday. Similarly, it is one for which Judith Allen, Tom Brown, Olive Tell and William Frawley can take bows. What they do to make such an unusual subject interesting is also a credit to Henry Hathaway, director, and Salisbury Field, who adapted it, and Anthony Veiller, who wrote the scenario from Augustus Thomas' play.

"Looking for Trouble," yesterday morning's opener at the Rivoli, was reviewed from Hollywood by wire on Jan. 23.

"As the Earth Turns," last night's opener at the Strand, was reviewed on Feb. 15.

Pittsburgh Date for "Rothschild" Re-Set

PITTSBURGH, April 11.—After pulling the picture's date at the Penn, with a view to roadshowing it here, United Artists has decided against a two-a-day showing locally for "The House of Rothschild," and it opens at the Penn May 4 at regular prices.

Following one week at the Penn, the film will be moved to Loew's Aldine for an extended run at the same prices. The Aldine will reopen just for this engagement.

Connecticut Houses Helping Labor Fund

BRIDGEPORT, April 11.—Management of the Poli here and the Capitol in New London, who are making possible the presentation of three mid-night vaudeville programs, sponsored by the Connecticut Federation of Labor, have received acknowledgment of their services from John J. Egan, secretary of the federation.

Proceeds are to supply funds for the expenses of an old age pension fund campaign.

First of a Russian Film Series Arrives

First of a series of pictures on Soviet Russia produced by American Group, Inc., which operates under a franchise from the Russian monopolies, has been received in this country and a second shipment is expected within the next 10 days, Fitelson & Mayers, attorneys for the American organization, reported yesterday.

A new camera crew leaves here for the Soviet Union within two weeks to begin work on third picture of the series, it was said. No distribution arrangements for the series have been completed yet. The American producing organization is headed by William Osgood Field, formerly with FitzPatrick and the University Film Foundation; L. K. Bigelow of Natick, Mass., formerly of FitzPatrick and the film department of the Metropolitan Museum of Art; J. Withrow, Jr., of Columbus, and Arthur Menken, formerly of Pathe News. Henry Shapiro, former tourist bureau operator in Russia, is the organization's representative in that country.

Portland Board First To Start on Zoning

PORTLAND, April 11.—Work of code boards has finally gotten under way with the local clearance and zoning group the first in the country to sit down and attempt to work out new schedules under the code.

Following an all day and night session of the board, members failed to reach a decision on clearance for downtown houses. It probably will be necessary for first runs to give greater concessions to second runs, allowing them to maintain present price schedules.

Indications point to additional semi-weekly sessions and impartial members are expected to be called in to make final and equitable decisions.

Hamrick's Five-Cent Plan

PORTLAND, April 11.—John Hamrick will reopen the Playhouse with pictures at a new low of five cents with four changes weekly. Twin bills will prevail, he says.

Five-cent admissions are a violation of present contracts and whether John Hamrick will be permitted by distributors to go ahead with his plan is doubted in many quarters. Most contracts today call for a minimum admission of 15 cents, but some permit 10-cent matinees.

New Majestic Plans Set

Majestic franchise holders were practically set last night on 16 pictures for next season as the three-day convention neared an end. Titles and a producer agreed upon early this morning will be announced today by Herman Gluckman, president, who acted as chairman.

Mayer Takes Hot Shot at Coast Critics triple bills, which, he said, "will wreck the business over a period of years," to an exposition of his idea that local autonomy in theatre operation should prevail.

He concentrated his barrage on a defense of Hollywood, its methods and record.

"Make fine pictures and forget the code. The code and its restrictions are hurting the business," was what a well known director told me at the Academy one night," Mayer continued. "Because I liked him and respected his opinion, I hired him and then asked how many millions he would require to supply the formula for producing only great attractions."

Mayer drew an analogy between the stage producer making five plays per year and M-G-M, which delivers one film weekly.

"They wanted me to talk on what's wrong with exhibition," he said. "I've been out of it for 20 years, so how could I? Therefore, I declined with thanks, because I did not propose coming here to insult you."

Admits Producer Faults

Mayer admitted producers had many counts on which they could be criticized. Since he was the only producer talking here, the conclusion was that Mayer was at least the informal spokesman for all Hollywood and was answering outside attacks when he admitted there were many counts on which producers could be criticized. At the same time, he argued, they were improving, trying new ideas and eager for appreciation of the job they are trying to do.

"We don't understand each other. How else could there be anything but dissension?"

He excoriated exhibitors for trying to beat down prices. He blamed them for forcing producers into theatres, saying it was that "or the ocean," and they elected theatres. He charged exhibitors with sitting around "awaiting Springtime" and trade paper inserts in colors to govern their buying and with deciding what they'll pay each distributor in point of rental. This prelude led to one of the big laughs which threatened Mayer with the loss of his audience. It came when he said: "You decide you'll pay Paramount $7.50 and Metro, $6.50." The guffaws drowned out what followed.

Dipping into block booking, Mayer accused exhibitors who wanted the

Wires Code Defense

Los Angeles, April 11.—Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt in a wire to Ed Kuykendall from Washington today expressed belief the code was entitled to a fair trial and recognized it was not perfect. "I believe, however, the code marks a constructive advance in the motion picture industry," he said.

The Pay-Off

Los Angeles, April 11.

THE old, old argument over publication of box-office reports which made its appearance at the M. P. T. O. A. convention today was merely a repetition of the fallacious argument that the practice encourages adverse legislation. On that ground Ed Kuykendall voiced his disapproval and expressed his wish that the convention go strongly on record against the practice. It probably will.

KUYKENDALL declared that reports on grosses "are beneficial to none." We challenge that statement and ask him exactly what there is to this industry beyond product and what it does at the box-office.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY's system, giving grosses alongside of each reporting theatre's average business, reduces to an irreducible zero the favorite argument which some exhibitors conjure in their minds about unfriendly lawmakers.

This publication runs cash theatre reports and will continue to do so on the theory, well recognized now, that the information is vital trade news to which the men who pay their money for pictures are entitled, and, moreover, want.

practice discontinued with scheming to avoid playing new pictures.

"What do you expect me to do with those you don't play," he asked, "swallow them? You are not looking ahead and you are not allowing for improvement in quality which must come."

Mayer was once for Federal censorship in the hope it would rout out all other types of censorship, he revealed, but dropped the idea when he discovered this would not follow.

Cecil B. DeMille Talks

Cecil B. DeMille took the rostrum and urged exhibitors to remember nobody deliberately makes poor pictures. "Trends mean nothing," he said. "It is whether the picture is good or bad that counts. Thousands of people crowded into scenes have nothing to do with the case. You've heard it said Hollywood is crowded. Hollywood is a desert when you're looking for brains. The brains are here, but they're all tied up."

Following up on Mayer's references to production travail, DeMille said he had canvassed every producer in Hollywood on "The Sign of the Cross" and closed with Paramount, not because of a picture which all other producers refused to touch because of its religious angle, but more because, according to DeMille, Emanuel Cohen had faith in its sponsor.

DeMille made a strong argument for proper planning of production and emphasized it with sketches and indirect sales arguments on "Cleopatra," ranging all the way from headdress to bathtub styles in that production.

Hits Publicity on Grosses

Publication of box office grosses was scored by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, past president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in her address to the delegates and by Kuykendall, who, registering his objections to the practice, expressed the hope that the convention would adopt a resolution opposing it. Mrs. Winter said that publication of the reports "helps no one because they long since have lost their power and are beneficial to no one."

Edward G. Levey, M. P. T. O. A. counsel, of New Haven, Conn., followed with an address covered elsewhere in this issue in which he outlined various legal responsibilities of theatres and their operators under circumstances which recur frequently.

In a well-fashioned, five-minute speech, Joseph I. Breen of the Association of M. P. Producers, sketched progress made in cleaning up the industry's advertising and urged exhibitors to cooperate.

Between the lavish entertainment program and open stretches of reporting to designated points, plus night life in Hollywood, the convention schedule gradually is beginning to crack. This will make it necessary to go into another day, Friday and probably into Saturday. Walter Vincent was slated to talk on "What Is the Matter with Production from the Point of View of the Exhibitor," but his address was set back to Thursday, and it looks as if it may be a rebuttal of points advanced by Mayer and DeMille, chiefly the former. In the afternoon the delegates took a choice of visiting Fox or RKO tonight, and at the hour of going to press the assembled hordes were socializing at the M-G-M studio as the guests of all the major studios.

Bernhard in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, April 11.—Joe Bernhard and I. J. Hoffman, heads of the Warner theatre circuit, were both in town yesterday for all-day conferences with Harry Kalmine, zone manager, and all of his district managers. Summer policies and other changes were determined, although no announcements are expected for a week or so.

been that certain conditions were not right before. Now that the way is open wide for us to participate on an equality in all negotiations, let us make things right. Every exhibitor should pay as much attention to the rebuilding of this industry as he would to the building of a theatre for himself. This now is his industry just as much as it may be the industry of any other person and he should carefully watch all that may be going on and object where he finds situations out of harmony with his interests and always help to advance everything in a constructive way."

O'Toole said exhibitors now have the greatest possible opportunities to extend public service work of the theatres.

"The entire nation is undergoing a radical transformation and exhibitors can help materially to advance and develop conditions of vital concern to all the people by making sensible use of their theatres and their screens. After all," he declared, "no exhibitor makes money in depressions, or what he may call bad times. Such conditions always mean poor business and the most selfish and necessary considerations should impel him to do everything possible to make the community prosperous so his theatre income will always be assured."

Levey Warns Owners On Their Liability

LOS ANGELES, April 11.—Warning that exhibitors should keep their theatres in first class condition for their own protection was issued by Edward G. Levey of New Haven, general counsel for the M. P. T. O. A., in an address at today's convention session on the subject: "The Theatre's Liability to its Patrons."

"The general rule with almost no dissent appears to be that the owner of a theatre is required to use reasonable care to keep his premises, appliances and amusement devices in a reasonably safe condition for persons attending the theatre," he said. "This applies to the following: falling rails of balconies, tripping over an umbrella placed in an aisle by a patron, tripping over carpets, slipping in toilet rooms, etc."

"There is of recent origin a rule of law which holds the owner of the theatre responsible in damages for injuries arising from that which he might reasonably have anticipated. Another important problem is occasioned by a court ruling that the owner or lessor of a theatre is responsible for damage done to patrons of the theatre even though such damage arises out of the negligence of an independent contractor or lessee."

Mayer Lauds Hays

Los Angeles, April 11.—"Will Hays has done an enormously good job. I don't know where we would be without him. This is not personal with me. We don't get along so well, but I respect the job he is doing," declared Louis B. Mayer today before the M.P.T.O.A. convention.

FILM PRINTING

THANKS TO OUR ENGINEERS AND CHEMISTS

AT CONSOLIDATED the old order of "try, try again" has given way to scientific methods that guarantee the right results the first time and uniformity all the time. All our "trial and error" is confined to completely equipped research laboratories where skilled chemical and mechanical engineers constantly draw on the wonders of modern chemistry and machinery to improve the already fine quality of "Certified Prints".

Guess-work and chance results have been entirely eliminated. Elaborate machinery, Consolidated designed and built, and used exclusively at Consolidated Park, has been set up to control quality. Operating conditions are always technically perfect, regulated by a costly air-conditioning plant. Negatives are carefully vacuum and dry cleaned after each print is made. That is why the last print is as good as the first and the negative in perfect condition when returned to the producer.

Only at Consolidated Park can be found the miraculous machines that take negatives and raw stock at one end and at the other deliver the completed print—untouched by human hands throughout the entire operation.

SAFEGUARD YOUR INVESTMENT

Cut-price prints mean cut-price quality — inferior materials carelessly processed on obsolete equipment — poor screen results.

It doesn't pay to jeopardize your entire investment for the few pennies saved on cut-price prints. Make sure of good results. Send your productions to the screen on "Certified Prints." They're made by science to provide the finest possible ex-

Pittsburgh Boards Pick New Secretary

PITTSBURGH, April 11.—The code boards held their second meeting here yesterday and voted to establish headquarters in the Grant Building. Members also nominated Miss Emaline Fineberg, former secretary of the Pittsburgh Film Board of Trade and now in the M-G-M office, for the post of secretary.

Robert Klingensmith had previously been nominated for this post, but he asked to be permitted to hold his present position and board members here demanded a full-time employee.

Breen Blames Industry Ills Upon Bad Ads

today in his address to the M.P.T.O.A. convention in session here.

He urged upon exhibitors their co-operation in furthering the clean-up movement begun by the major companies last fall in New York and described the progress to date as "so far, so good."

Breen said: "No single phase of the business is likely to be as productive of more public good will than is suggested by the right kind of advertising. The industry always accepts, but has not always fulfilled that responsibility."

Tracing the formation of the Advertising Advisory Council last fall, he declared the difficulty with the original advertising code adopted some years back revolved around the question of what constituted uniform interpretation of it.

"That interpretation was made and progress has been pronounced since then," he added.

Breen urged exhibitors to use as much advertising matter prepared by major companies as possible, pointing out that all of it is first approved and its composition represents the combined advertising brain power of the industry. If exhibitors write their own copy, he continued, they are urged to consult with other exhibitors on it in an effort to avoid publication of copy inimical to the industry.

Detroit Boards Set $570 Month Budget

DETROIT, April 11.—Local zoning and clearance and grievance board members have recommended to the Code Authority that Detroit offices be housed in the Francis Palms Building, where the State theatre is situated, and also has submitted for approval a budget of $570 a month.

Elliott S. Kinney, who has been approved as secretary, is a native of Bay City, Mich., where he was born in 1905. He came to Detroit in 1924 as assistant to H. M. Richey, general manager of Allied Theatres of Michigan, a position he resigns to accept the secretaryship.

who have complied with all provisions of the code.

A second letter also has been sent asking all film exchanges to notify Campi headquarters when exhibitors make requests for cancellations. These must not be granted until Code Authority advises branch heads that the exhibitors are in good standing.

Metzger Seeks Judgeship

INDIANAPOLIS, April 11.—Charles R. Metzger, exhibitor, and attorney for Associated Theatre Owners of Indiana since 1927, is running for office for the first time. He seeks the post of judge of the Marion County Juvenile Court.

more scathing indictment of American mothers than these mere bald figures.

"While we recognize the tremendous adult mass as the major audience—the audience for whom pictures are made and the audience that must be satisfied—we women cannot help interpreting the motion picture problem largely in terms of child life, though, personally, I believe that greater danger lies with the adolescent than with the child."

Touching on what she considers an all-important subject—"Who is responsible for the quality of pictures?"—Mrs. Winter said that the question revolves around the well-worn answer of all purveyors to popular taste in newspapers, radio and in pictures—"we give the public what it wants."

Sees Some Fallacy

"I believe there is a bit of a fallacy here," she said. "Every newspaper has its own policy. It feeds its readers with such selected news and such editorial comment as promotes its own points of view. It tries to create the want that it supplies. All these popular forms are really leaders and moulders, yet among them pictures are unique since the whole range of film does to a great extent spread before the public a great variety, as if it said, 'What will you choose?'"

Intimating that the film is "no worse" than any other of the arts, Mrs. Winter pointed out that the great majority of best-selling books, on which pictures are based, are "filled with vicious sex suggestions or with lawlessness."

"Almost all of the plays on the New York stage are filled with dirt. Modern painting exults in greenish nude bodies. Popular music emphasizes loose sex emotion. Obnoxious as are many of the themes and scenes in the pictures, in almost every case they have had to be cleaned up from their literary source because the many-millioned audience is, after all, largely decent—more decent than the so-called intelligentsia."

Doubts Law Can Help

"Naturally we begin to wonder if law can help the situation. But law never did and never can create. It can lop off objectionable features here and there. It never yet produced morals. If the motion picture, or any other form of expression, is going to serve civilization," she maintained, "it needs genius and beauty and idealism and insight and human appeal. None of these come to order. In fact, they wither as soon as you try to put them under control."

In conclusion, Mrs. Winter said: "We believe it is true the public that considers the motion picture its business is growing greater day by day, and that we have opened all the channels by which it can say, 'This and this was good—good drama, good human reaction, good laughter. We'll stand by it,' leading toward that fulfillment which shall make the motion picture what it ought to be—the little drama of all the world."

MAYER DEFENDS HOLLYWOOD; ASKS EXHIBITORS TOLERANCE

Coast Office For Campi Is Set to Start

Casey and Mrs. Kinney Named in Charge

NEW YORK, April 11.—Campi will open an office in Hollywood at once and today named Pat Casey, studio labor contact representative for major producers, and Mrs. Mabel Kinney, chairman of the extras' code committee, as its western representatives.

Campi headquarters west will house committees having to do with free lance players, labor, extras and agents.

With this development, Campi declared today the 31 grievance and 31 clearance and zoning boards in key cities will be operating in their offices and functioning generally in two weeks.

The extras' code and grievance committee met here last night and reviewed 57 complaints, 34 of which were dated prior to March 10 at which time the committee was started. These are being referred to Washington for a ruling. Two of the complaints were referred to the State Labor Board and the balance will be referred to the studios to get their side of the complaint before they can be adjudicated.

Reports Majors Are Fighting Stock Law

New York flash late last night reported several major companies are enlisting their selling forces in the field to combat the passage of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill to supervise securities issues by having their employees and salesmen forward remonstrances to their congressmen and senators.

PORTLAND, April 11.—John Hamrick has taken over the Playhouse on a feature policy, four changes a week and a nickel admission.

NEW YORK, April 11.—In the mail to several hundred exchange managers up and down the land went today an official letter on Campi stationery notifying branch heads that the 10 per cent cancellation privilege under the code is now in operation.

There was removed thereby the final vestiges of distributor opposition to the ruling, originally made weeks ago by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt but objected to thereafter by major distributors.

Film Board Secretaries in Same Posts on Code Boards

NEW YORK, April 11.—Additional substantiation to reports first published many weeks ago that, wherever possible, Film Board secretaries would be named to the secretaryships of key city boards under the code developed today when Campi—Code Authority of the Motion Picture Industry—announced 10 new appointments of which at least six were Film Board attaches. This makes a total of 15. The official list follows:

Charlotte—Mrs. Walter Griffith.
Cincinnati—Alice Juergens.
Cleveland—Georgia M. Moffett.
Kansas City—Grace Gannon.
Los Angeles—Minnie A. Kopple.
Milwaukee—Ben Koenig.

Convention Endorses M. P. Daily

Motion Picture Daily yesterday was accorded official praise from the M.P.T.O.A. for publishing special Los Angeles editions, of which this is the third, during the convention.

"We commend Motion Picture Daily for its constructive and enterprising endeavor," stated President Ed Kuykendall as the second business session came to a close. "We are all cognizant of the effort and are deeply appreciative.

"All at the meetings have commented upon this publishing ingenuity."

Not Exclusive

Those funny lines on theatre marquees happen everywhere. Visiting exhibitors who think they hold an exclusive on prize boners are told now that this appeared on a local marquee the other night:

Review Board Shuts Down on Film Code

WASHINGTON, April 11.—With the failure of William C. Elliott, of the I. A. T. S. E., to appear to answer charges made last week by Murray Harston of New York, the National Recovery Review Board today closed its investigation of the code. Despite well-based reports that the board was about to die, Chairman Darrow continued working on his report.

But Claims Showmen Foster Major Evils In Industry

By RED KANN

Louis B. Mayer came to the defense of Hollywood yesterday.

Sailing into the assembled M. P. T. O. A. delegates, hitting at them for criticizing production when they knew nothing about the problems facing the studios, he declared flatly it was impossible for all of the Hollywood studios combined to deliver a guaranteed hit every week of the year's 52 and ended with a petition for more tolerance.

"We are quick to condemn. We are impulsive. Everything must be done overnight," he said. "You ask us to give you a hit a week just like that and criticize something you don't know anything about." If you really wanted to see and learn about production, you would have appointed rotating committees to visit the studios. Then the right of criticism would have been yours."

Mayer covered a variety of subjects, touching on one to leave it and pick up at another point. He cited the incident involving a director whom he did not name. "Make fine pictures and forget the code and its restrictions," the M-G-M vice-president said this man had told him. Mayer said he had hired him later because he respected his opinion. "How many millions do you want to deliver a formula for producing only great attractions?"

Taking for granted that the answer was obvious, the speaker proceeded further and drew the well-known analogy between the stage producer who thinks he is doing well turning out five good plays a year and a company like M-G-M which exhibitors, he continued, expect to turn out 52.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox, leaves for Hollywood Thursday.

Has No Stage Plans

NEW YORK, April 11.—J. Robert Rubin, vice-president of M-G-M, today declared the company was entertaining no plans to enter stage production, as reported.

Tracy, N. Y.-Bound

Spencer Tracy left for New York last night for a two weeks' vacation, his first in a year. He will return April 20 to prepare for his next Fox picture, "Marie Gallant," which is scheduled for production April 23.

Independents Meet

CINCINNATI, April 11.—The recently-formed Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio have just completed a regional meeting at the Sherry-Netherland. The proposed sales tax, defeated in the House at Columbus today, was discussed.

Dunn-Temple Teamed

Fox is reported negotiating a deal with John V. A. Weaver, husband of Peggy Wood, to write an original in which the studio will star Jimmy Dunn and Shirley Temple. Decision to make a picture starring Dunn and Temple is said to be based on the outstanding song and dance number executed by the pair in Fox' "Stand Up and Cheer."

The Pay-Off

THE old, old argument over publication of box-office reports which made its appearance at the M.P.T.O.A. convention yesterday was merely a repetition of the fallacious argument that the practice encourages adverse legislation.

On that ground, Ed Kuykendall voiced his disapproval and expressed his wish the convention goes strongly on record against the practice. It probably will.

When Kuykendall declared, as he did, that reports on grosses "are beneficial to no one," we challenge that statement and ask him exactly what there is to this industry beyond product and what it does at the box-office.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY's system, giving grosses alongside of each reporting theatre's average business, reduces to an irreducible zero the favorite argument which some exhibitors conjure in their minds over unfriendly lawmakers.

This publication runs cash theatre reports and will continue to do so on the theory, well recognized now, that the information is vital trade information to which the men who pay their money for pictures are entitled and want.

Code Not 100% But Rates Fair Trial, Says Rosenblatt

"No document, born of the toils and travails which this code has witnessed, could possibly be perfect," stated Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt in a wire to President Ed Kuykendall of the M.P.T.O.A. yesterday in which the NRA official expressed it as his opinion that the document is entitled to a fair trial.

He said:

"I regret exceedingly that I am unable to be present with you at your first national convention following your loyal adherence and support of the motion picture industry code. I am the first to recognize that, because the code represents the first united effort on behalf of all three divisions of the industry, that no document, born of the toils and travail which this code has witnessed, could possibly be perfect.

"I believe, however, that the code marks a constructive advance in the motion picture industry, that it is entitled to a fair trial and that we will be better able to judge of its force for good in the near future than we are yet able to do. I am highly gratified with the attitude of the industry generally, and of your organization particularly, with respect to the code, and I pledge you all that as experience demonstrates the necessity for the same, that which may require change will be so accomplished.

"I further pledge you, on behalf of the Code Authority, which to this time has functioned efficiently and constructively, that it will continue to so function in a spirit of utter fairness and impartiality to all concerned. I sincerely trust that your convention will be the great success which it deserves to be, and hope that you will find me at all times in the future ready to be of service, and with the administration's assistance, to be helpful and cooperative in the settlement of your numerous and vexatious problems."

Film Boards' Secretaries In Code Posts

Minneapolis—Mabel Dietz.

San Francisco—Rowena Foley.

Memphis—Alma Walton.

New Haven—Harry P. Lander.

BOSTON, April 11.—Code boards held an informal meeting here Tuesday, but members failed to arrive at a unanimous selection for secretary. Another session will be held later in the week.

NEW YORK, April 11.—The grievance and clearance and zoning boards for New York are scheduled to meet at Campi headquarters tomorrow.

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—No meeting of code boards has been held here as yet, but anticipation is this will take place shortly.

PORTLAND, ORE., April 11.—Following an all day and all night session, the local zoning board today failed to reach any decision on clearance schedules.

NEW ORLEANS, April 11.—This Southern city is yet to get itself completely organized under code operation. While its boards have been named by Campi a number of weeks ago, organization work remains to be ironed out.

PITTSBURGH, April 11.—Emmaline Fineberg, former secretary of the Film Board, has been nominated for the secretaryship of the local code boards in place of Robert Klingensmith, although the latter may get the appointment. Code headquarters will be maintained in the Grant Building.

DETROIT, April 11.—Elliott S. Kinney has been named code board secretary here and has filed his resignation as assistant to H. M. Richey, general manager of Allied Theatres of Michigan. Local boards have asked Campi to approve leasing of Suite 219 in the Francis Palm Building in which the State Theatre is located. Monthly budget has been set at $750, but this is subject to Campi approval.

Toledo Perking Up; Business Improves

TOLEDO, April 11.—That business is definitely improving in this sector is indicated by the increase in bank deposits.

A survey shows local deposits have increased $10,000,000 since December. Banks at Akron report an increase at the rate of $1,000,000 monthly during the first quarter of this year.

The improvement is general throughout the territory, and is being reflected in a pickup in theatre attendance.

Variety Clubs Loom Here and In 'Frisco

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—Organization of Variety Clubs is under way in Los Angeles and San Francisco, it was said here by John H. Harris, national president, en route to Pittsburgh from a California vacation.

Mayer Defends Hollyw'd; For More Amity

"They asked me to talk on what I thought was wrong with exhibition. How can I after being out of it for 20 years? I declined with thanks because I didn't want to come here and insult you. Everyone seems to have two businesses these days, anyway, his own and the picture business," he continued.

Mayer readily conceded that there were many counts on which producers could be castigated, but, at the same time, he argued they were improving, trying new ideas and anxious for an understanding of what they were endeavoring to accomplish at the hands of the theatre owner.

"We don't understand each other. How else could there be anything but dissension?" he asked. As he got warmer, so did his remarks.

Mayer excoriated exhibitors for trying to beat down prices.

He blamed them for forcing producers into the theatre field, saying it was that "or the ocean for producers and they elected theatres."

He charged exhibitors with sitting around, awaiting springtime and attractive trade paper inserts to govern and determine their buying and to make them decide what they proposed paying the distributor by way of rental.

One of the big laughs that threatened Mayer with the loss of his audience developed when he hurled this at the assembled showmen:

"You decide you'll pay Paramount $7.50 and Metro $6.50 and let it go at that."

What caused the howl immediately thereafter might not have been entirely clear, but several exhibitors were heard mumbling something or other that sounded like a reference to 25, 30, 35 and up percentage pictures.

As a matter of fact, in his defense of Hollywood, Mayer implied exhibitors were responsible for everything that was wrong. He continued to let his barbs loose regardless of the direction and made the direct charge exhibitors had gotten together to "figure out how to wreck the business." He failed to mention the year.

On block booking, he said this:

"Elimination of it may be the way out. I don't say it's the only sales medium. But you don't want block booking so that you can escape playing the bad pictures. What do you expect me to do with them, swallow them?" he continued.

He was once for Federal censorship on the theory it would eliminate the "other 49 brands" and then found it wouldn't work that way. Thereafter, he was off the governmental censoring idea.

It was in his discussion of censorship and the travail it heaps on the producers' collective heads that Mayer paid a sterling tribute to Will H. Hays who, incidentally, arrived in Hollywood from the East last night.

"He has done an enormously good job. I don't know where we'd be without him. And that's not personal with me because we don't get along very well. I do, however, respect the job he's doing."

Introduced by Ed Kuykendall as the "Honorable Cecil B. De Mille" whose topic was "How Pictures Were Put Together," the director's first remark-snappy—was:

"I've been trying to find out myself for 20 years."

Fortified by sketches and much pre-production data on "Cleopatra," his current Paramount picture on behalf of which De Mille put across an in-

It's Milwaukee

The strenuous campaign waged under the aegis of Fred S. Meyer to land the 1935 M.P.T.O.A. convention for Milwaukee has been crowned with success. The directors, in private session yesterday, so voted.

Door-knob throwaways, stickers, et al, have been flooding the Ambassador and, for all of it, the Meyer delegation from Wisconsin has been responsible.

direct, but nevertheless effective sales talk, he had this to say,

"In the making of pictures we don't start to make bad pictures. They don't pay. The inception of the idea is the first thing. What are you going to make? What do people want? This is the problem. Take for instance the tremendous hit of Henry VIII. Now you want all the Henrys."

"When I first wanted to make 'The Sign of the Cross,' which is now in its third million of gross receipts, I went around to every producer, both in this country and in England with the script in my hand. All said there had been too many religious pictures and they didn't want to make another at this time. They said that the public and the exhibitors did not want religious pictures, did not know why, but just didn't want them."

He Couldn't Spell It

Ed Kuykendall's address at the all-studio fiesta for the M.P.T.O.A. visitors last night had one particularly humorous crack among many.

He related of the meeting in the Ambassador hotel lobby of Louis B. Mayer and Walter Vincent, who hadn't met in 11 years.

"Walter," said Mayer, "I'm tickled to see you again. Why don't you write me once in awhile and tell me how you like M-G-M pictures."

"Well, Louie," said Walter, "I've been trying to drop you a line on the subject for five or six months, but I get stuck every time. I can't find out how to spell P P P P H H H H H H T T T T T T T T T T!"

The gang roared. So did Leo!

Brains, Ready And Free, Our Need-De Mille

"In this picture I had Charles Laughton. He went back to England and played in 'Henry VIII.' After that there was a landslide of costume pictures, some good, some bad. However the audiences became tired of them. You can't follow a trend that way. Some people will say because some fail that they are no good. If they fail, it is because the pictures themselves were not good pictures."

"You've heard Hollywood is crowded. Hollywood is a desert when you're looking for brains. They're here, but they're tied up."

Discussing further his success in the production of pictures with a religious theme, De Mille said,

"Ten Commandments" is in its fifth million. "The King of Kings" is approaching its fourth and "Ben Hur" is in its seventh."

De Mille, uncertain of the receipts of "Ben Hur" turned to Mayer who supplied the figure.

"That," said De Mille, "proves what Louis Mayer said about exhibitors paying Paramount $7.50 and only $6.50 to Metro."

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and now head of the public relations committee of the Ass'n of M. P. Producers, made a pronouncedly favorable impression.

"Something extraordinary is happening in motion picture audiences just now." She said, in part:

"They are no longer just an audience of so many people. They are transforming themselves into a public—a public that is organized, vocal with many voices some of which are conflicting—a public that is critical and that bestirs itself concerning pictures more than it does about any other of its leisure hour interests. Pictures have suddenly become an issue."

"The public relations people face two great problems and the two are

Radio Stars Regale MPTO Sightseers

By MILTON WATT

About 100 theatre men turned out for a very swlegant buffet luncheon at RKO yesterday, the balance of the congregation trekking to the larger Fox plant at Westwood for their beer and pretzels.

The RKO buffet held sway in the studio's radio broadcasting stage, where several roast turkeys, a few prime ribs of beef, potato salad, beer and assorted sandwiches aided in putting the visitors on a firm basis of living again, following the preceding hectic "hoedown" at Universal the night before.

Jan Rubini and an excellent 10 piece orchestra wafted plaintive melodies into the surrounding ozone, making the M. P. T. O. A. delegates forget that they ever had to struggle through a pressbook or that two so distinctively opposite worldly influences could be hatched out of the same incubator.

Mrs. Rubini, blonde and beautiful, sang semi-classical ballads under the nom-de-plume of Adele Crane, which tugged maliciously at the heartstrings of the visiting firemen—the ballads, not the nom-de-plume. Rubini himself, offered a violin solo at the request of the delegates and their wives, who, as time went on through wining and dining, arrived at that sensitive stage of sentimentality, where music is both a solace and an inspiration.

Following the mysterious disappearance of several cases of beer, several exhibitors took to waltzing, clogging and public speaking, which led to the start of a general tour around the lot.

In groups of 15, the visitors toured, stopping to watch Jimmy Gleason and Edna May Oliver cavort in a comedy vein on the "Murder on the Blackboard" set.

A good time was had by each and sundry, with Radio rating a bouquet for a Class A afternoon's entertainment.

Did You Miss?

By VICTOR M. SHAPIRO

NOW that homeward-bound you're about to go bouncing, have you that jittery feeling, a whole-souled longing for Sunny Californ-eye-aye? Is your spirit suffused with gentle nostalgia as the balm of relaxation sets in, and you think back of the things you wanted to do and didn't?

Recall, or do you, those winings, and them dinings, the proclamations that didn't proc, those talks and squawks, and that pet idea of yours that never came out of committee, and are you sore?

So to round out the picture, at great research we have prepared a list of the good times, the good places, and the good things you missed, just to make you feel worse.

From whispers whirled around the nooks and crannies, you were here on a sort of sailor's holiday. A sailor boy, you know, when on shore leave, hires a rowboat and rows all day.

SO YOU paraded to every theatre and shooting-gallery in town and saw every picture you could lay eyes to. It's your own fault, sailor. But the things you missed are the things to worry about. But you will come back. The climate gets you. And then you can have fun in the Golden Open.

Did you miss the drive up Magnetic Hill, the steepest hill in Hollywood? Did you start up, take your foot off the gas and still keep going up? It ain't done by mirrors, either. It ain't done at all any more. The old hill's just a real estate subdivision now. So you didn't miss much.

But did you miss Peter the Hermit, the kindly old guy who walks around Hollywood with long hair and short pants. You could have visited him up in the hills where he holds seances for you to commune with spirits. If you missed that, you missed a show.

Did you visit Hollywood's greatest Library, where beautiful blondes hand out books of art, science, music and poetry. If you didn't miss the Library, you met Madame B., the head librarian. She's a book lover, too, with plenty of new books, and—has she got circulation, or don't you care much for books?

Did you go to the turtle races, the flea circus, the burlesk shows, where the girls burl and sometimes esk? If you missed that, dun't esk, just boil.

DID you go to the Back Fence, where those boys with long hair cavort with them girls of short, where the air is perfumed, and the color scheme is redolent, too? Here you could have seen performers from the Great Lake regions, Lake Erie and Lake Huron being amply represented. If you missed these goings on, you didn't miss a thing. The dump's been closed for months.

Did you miss the Amusement Parks, where by throwing a baseball and hitting a red disk, you release a lever that rolls a girl out of bed? So you missed that, didja? What will the wife say? If she asks, tell here there wasn't any such thing at the park, but it used to be. But

Social Whirl Runs On; Fox Throws Party

By JEANNETTE MEEHAN

"Stand Up and Cheer" for Fox.

Exhibitors cheered yesterday after a lunch and a visit about the Movie-tone plant, including a chance to watch Warner Baxter at work on Jesse L. Lasky's production, "Grand Canary."

Fox even worked in a little of the "Cisco Kid" atmosphere with a Mexican string music, which brought out the Spanish in J. M. Young . . . John Boles, Rosemary Ames, Herbert Munding, Hugh Williams, Pat Paterson, Claire Trevor, Jimmy Dunn, Mona Barrie, Heather Angel, Nigel Bruce, Ketti Gallian, Suzanne Kaaren, Blanca Vischer, Joe Cook, Mitchell and Durante, Charles Boyer, and Drue Layton, who brought along her enormous Great Dane, were among those signing autographs . . . Ann Remijas has more star signatures now than any one of the convention . . . Louis Zions wanted to ride home with the motor cycle cop . . . M. A. Lightman held a conference with Matt Jackson . . . Mrs. Walter Immerman thought the studio resembled a museum—but she didn't say what KIND of a museum . . . Mrs. Fred Meyer drank her beer like a soldier . . . as they all did.

Came four o'clock but no one wanted to leave, especially the women who were watching Mr. Baxter. But Fox generously herded them off in time for them to "prepare" for the general studio party at M-G-M last night.

Big Banquet Tops The Show Tonight

Tonight's official banquet at the Ambassador climaxes the 14th annual M. P. T. O. A. convention.

Ben Bernstein and his various sub-committee workers have prepared a surprise event for the evening that is slated to top all former entertainment.

Will Rogers takes the "mike" as master of ceremonies.

Breen Urges Exhibitors To Clean Ads

linked. The first is the public point of view. How can fine standards of demand be created, how can those standards be continually raised, how can those standards be made known and effective to the makers of the pictures.

"The second is the producers' side—how can such genius and originality and idealism as lie fallow in the studios be given both stimulus and support by the public and so become parts of the very creative elements in the making of pictures.

"We are not just foolish critics who ignore facts. We know that the first job of the commercial theatre is entertainment. If it does not entertain, people are going to stay away. There is no use in making pictures for empty houses. Audiences are never going to a theatre from a sense of duty or a desire to uplift themselves. When the emphasis topples over from pleasure toward instruction, theatres will close up," she stated.

"Much inimical legislation and effort to control the industry have been inspired by the wrong type of theatre advertising," declared Joseph I. Breen, of the Ass'n of M. P. Producers. He urged upon exhibitors cooperation in furthering the clean-up movement begun by major companies in New York last fall. He described the process to date as "so far, so good."

"No single phase of the business is likely to be as productive of more public goodwill than is suggested by the right kind of advertising," he remarked. "The industry always accepts, but has not always fulfilled that responsibility."

He told of the original advertising code and said the difficulty over it had revolved around a lack of what he called "uniform interpretation."

"That interpretation has been made and the progress has been pronounced since then," he added.

Breen urged exhibitors to use as much of the advertising material supplied them by the major companies as they can, pointing out it comes to them approved and passed by the best advertising brains in the industry. "If you write your own, as many of you do," he continued, "I petition you to check with other exhibitors in an effort to avoid copy that may be inimical to the industry."

The remaining speaker of the day was Edgar B. Levy of Connecticut. He is general counsel of the M. P. T. O. A. and went into a semi-legal dissertation on the liability of the theatre to its patrons.

Lawrence Cobb, chairman of the ways and means committee of the California legislature urged exhibitors to cultivate their lawmakers and cited some of the many unfriendly bills aimed at the industry in this state every year.

Between lavish entertainment programs and the open stretches which separate designated points, plus night life in Hollywood, the convention schedule is gradually beginning to slip. This made it necessary to extend the deliberations one extra day, while the possibility is not remote that the meetings will dip into Saturday as well.

Walter Vincent, slated to talk yesterday on "What's the Matter With Production from the Point of View of an Exhibitor" was set back until today to permit scheduled visits to the RKO and Fox Movietone City plants in the afternoon. Vincent's impending address carries the earmarks of a rebuttal of the charges Mayer made during yesterday's session.

Last night, the major studios combined as hosts and threw an elaborate party for the conventioners on the M-G-M- lot.

Today's scheduled speakers include Sheriff Gene Biscaluiz who will talk on "What Motion Pictures Mean in Aid of Law Enforcement"; W. L. Ainsworth of the Garrick, Fond du Lac, who will talk on "What the Code Means to the Country Town Exhibitor"; and Morgan Walsh of Redwood-Midland Theatres, San Francisco, who will take the same subject from the viewpoint of the metropolitan exhibitor.

The open forum, which will follow Jack Miller's talk on the labor provisions of the code, is potentially interesting as may be some of the resolutions to be presented by the committee drawing them.

Tonight the piece d'resistance is the banquet at the Ambassador with Will Rogers as master of ceremonies and Hollywood ermine flying in the breezes.

Kuykendall Against Box-Office Reports

Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, yesterday voiced his opposition to published box-office reports and expressed the hope the convention will resolute strongly against this practice. "They do not help because they long since have lost their power and are beneficial to one," he said. He predicated his argument on the theory such published material draws the fire of lawmakers seeking new avenues of revenue.

tell her you did throw baseballs at a spot that sprung a pig squealing and sliding down a chute. Then ask her who is anyhow interested in pork at an exhibitor's convention? If you tell her that, you'll be telling the truth, so she won't believe you, anyhow.

Did you visit the Alligator Farms, the Ostrich Farms and the ranch where they grow Chinchillas?

Did you see the Lion Farm, with the Lion Tamer? Did the wife call you a Lion baboon when you told her?

So if you missed all these jolly spots and people, you had a lousy time and you deserve it, you brought it on yourself.

And as you're reading this, mayhap, soft dreams of a starry blonde may cause you to pause and wonder if you should have given her that teeny-weeny kiss she asked for, at least to remember "the great beeg zibitor from Gezump."

And as you cogitate about what you missed and ruminate about who you kissed, and x-ray yourself, try this question before your mirror:

"Should I be glad that I kissed the Miss, or be sorry that I missed the Kiss?" And if the wife pops in while you're talking to yourself, just lie like a gentleman.

MPTOA Feted By Leo, Host For Studios

By JOE BICARB

Another long, loud and triumphant roar from Leo, who roared on behalf of all the producers.

As Will Rogers so aptly put it, the affair elite for the M. P. T. O. A. held last night at MGM looked like a successful dress rehearsal for tonight's banquet at the Ambassador.

Festivities opened with Manhattans, Louis B. Mayer and chicken a la royal, which grabbed first billing over the customary squab (maybe they're out of season).

The "brain trust" group, lined up three deep at the head of the stage gigantic (trimmed with drops from a Joan Crawford opus) consisted of Hal Wallis, Sam Briskin, Walter Vincent, E. H. Allen, B. B. Kahane, Jack Warner, Winfield Sheehan, Harold Lloyd, Hal Roach, Irving Thalberg, Al Kaufman, and Ed Kuykendall, Fred Wehrenberg, M. A. Lightman, Ben Berinstein, Fred Meyers, officers of the M. P. T. O. A.

Mayer extended a high gear welcome to the delegates, which he concluded with soulful regrets that he was forced to turn Washington over to Warner.

Followed the introduction of stars and talent from each respective studio with Pete Smith at the "mike," assisted by Leo Carillo, MGM, Dick Powell, Warners, Joe Cunningham, Fox, Charlie Murray—George Sidney, Columbia, Ned Sparks, Radio, and Ben Bernie, Paramount.

To make sure that there was "no strain on the silken threads of diplomacy," stars and studios were introduced and presented in alphabetical order.

Among those contributing to the evening's entertainment were Jeannette MacDonald, Mitzi Green, Shirley Ross, Arthur Jarrett, Irene Franklin, Stepin Fetchit, Marjorie White, Mitchell and Durant, Mack Gordon and Harry Revell, Joe Morrisson, Earl Oxford, the Albertina Rasch girls and the Busby Berkeley chorus.

Ben Bernie, in introducing the Paramount personalities, thought he spotted Walter Winchell in the audience and realizing his grave error wound up with "pardon me, madam."

Will Rogers, sitting down with the folks, was called upon by Mayer. Without referring to previous allusions of Republican or Democratic nature, Rogers stated:

"I only got one gag for tonight. I'm saving them all for tomorrow night. The reason I'm not sitting up there with the brain trust is because at present the brain trust is being investigated."

Mayer revealed that the party was really the 10th anniversary of his and Irving Thalberg's business relationship. Happily, the delegates' welcome party occurred at the right time so all the studios could chip in their part.

Even though other studios had to come across, the party was worth it. The occasion, well planned and executed to give the delegates an eyeful of Hollywood's aplomb, should put a new coat of gilt on the good feeling of the exhibitors for Hollywood hospitality.

Expect Duals Will Revive In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, April 11.—Anticipation here is that duals, sometimes in and sometimes out of the theatres in this city along Lake Erie's shores, may flare into the open, following decision of Loew executives in New York to convert the Park and Granada, both first run neighborhood houses which have always subscribed to single bills, into duals on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. Not only will these houses go double features, but all attractions are to be first run in their zones as well. Second run singles following Loew's State, big downtown de luxe, will prevail on the other days of the week.

With the policy switch, now only three days old, comes a shift in prices as well. Admissions at the Park, now 35 cents top, tax included, will remain the same. Prices are cut under this policy at the Granada from the present 35 cent scale to 25 cents top, tax included.

The Alhambra has adopted a straight double feature policy with three changes a week. Admission prices have been cut to 15 cents matinees and 20 cents nights, tax included.

Para. Loans Garnett

Paramount has again prevailed upon M-G-M for a loan of Tay Garnett to direct "Honor Bright" for which the director was originally hired before joining M-G-M. The picture was postponed since, but is now ready with the return of Gary Cooper. Deal for the loan will be consummated in the event Garnett's assignment on "China Seas" can be scheduled so as not to interfere with Paramount's bid.

Zanuck Travels May 7

Darryl Zanuck and family leave here May 7 on a combination business and pleasure trip to Europe. It will be his first visit to United Artists foreign exchanges where he will discuss with exchange managers next year's program.

Zanuck will be absent for at least two months and his itinerary will include London, Paris, Rome, Vienna, Cairo, and Capetown in Africa.

Hire N. Y. Musicians

After testing 13 local orchestras and several thousand musicians for "Merry Widow" at M-G-M, the studio finally went to New York for talent, signing Sam Fiedler, soloist with the NBC orchestra and Bela Loblow and his Gypsy band.

The duo and musicians arrive from Manhattan today for immediate work.

Kibbee in "Herbert"

Warners have purchased "Big Hearted Herbert," current Broadway play by Sophie Kerr and Anna Steese Richardson. The story, dealing with a self-made millionaire, will be as a comedy vehicle for Guy Kibbee.

Fox Borrows Woods

Fox has borrowed Donald Woods from Warners for the juvenile lead in "Charlie Chan's Greatest Case."

See Lifting of Sunday Ban In Kansas Less Remote Now

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—With victory on two fronts in the battle of Kansas exhibitors for Sunday shows, theatre men in communities where seven-day operation is now taboo are hopeful that the ban will be lifted. A more liberal attitude on the part of the citizens has swayed local officials to permit Sabbath showings which, despite state laws, have become widespread throughout the state in the last two years.

The cause of Sunday films was advanced last week when Emporia and Clay Center referenda gave them a large majority. The approval in Emporia, a key city in the state, was overwhelming. Two years ago the theatres lost a similar proposal there by 400 votes. Fox Midwest managers were active in promoting sentiment in both cities.

A similar referendum in Manhattan recently was called off after a dispute involving registration of Kansas State College students, who favor Sunday showings. Court action was threatened against one theatre because of an offer to honor student registration certificates as admission passes. Some other method of ironing out the situation will be sought. A previous dispute on the question caused closing of all theatres more than a month.

Discuss Labs, Theatre Projection Machines

The Academy Research Council met last night in the second monthly meeting since the new Academy deal and suggested many new projects to be taken under consideration. Most important was new laboratory devices, new type of theatre projection machines and film preservatives.

The Ginsbergs Back

Henry Ginsberg docked in San Francisco yesterday from the Orient and will be at his desk today. The Hal Roach general manager and wife have been touring the Orient for the past eight weeks.

The Explanation

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—Red Kann in Motion Picture Daily's "Insiders' Outlook":

Coincidence: Paramount has its Bob Gillham, publicity and advertising chief. Kansas City has its Gillham Theatre.

The coincidence is this: The Gillham, at 31st St. and Gillham Road, was named after the thoroughfare which, in turn, was named for Robert F. Gillham, pioneer city builder, also the Paramount executive's grandfather and namesake.

Goldwyn Plotting 3; His Busiest Program

Indications at present are that Samuel Goldwyn will have three pictures shooting at once within two months. This is the producer's heaviest schedule in all the years he has been affiliated with United Artists.

The films will be "Resurrection," featuring Anna Sten and Fredric March, with Rouben Mamoulian directing; slated for the cameras May 15; the Eddie Cantor opus, now being scripted by Arthur Sheekman, Nat Perrin and Nunally Johnson, which goes into work between May 15 and June 1 and "Barbary Coast," co-starring Gary Cooper and Gloria Swanson. This starts about June 1 with William Wellman directing.

With 20th Century temporarily shut down, Goldwyn will have the United Artists lot entirely to himself.

4 Year Old "Farmed"

Scott Beckett, four year old child actor recently signed to a long-term contract by Hal Roach, is being loaned for the first time to Columbia for a prominent spot in "Whom the Gods Destroy."

Censored to the Hilt

NEW ORLEANS, April 11.—It may be tough on Hollywood to make good pictures, but the coast colony isn't the only spot in these United States where show business is having trouble. In Lafayette, La., for instance, exhibitors are faced with a situation like this:

That town has a board of censors, now operating under city ordinance. The board today ruled it is unlawful to give entertainment, stage or celluloid, that is immoral or obscene or which contravenes the generally accepted ideas of decency, or presents scenes or plots which ridicule accepted morality standards, or which justifies their violation.

It is ruled unlawful in that town to display on billboards or in any other manner pictures or scenes or printed matter showing or describing the human form in any manner decreed contrary to accepted standards of morality or calculated to corrupt good morals. Unlawful is it as well to permit children under 16 to attend any shows calculated to injure their morals and the censors also reserve unto themselves the determination if that type of subject matter is fitting for adults to see.

A move is afoot to have submitted to censorial scrutiny all advertising material and all pictures intended for billboard display and to compel exhibitors to submit attractions before public exhibition.

Proposed penalties are not less than $25 nor more than $100 or imprisonment of not less than 10 days nor more than 30 or both.

"Villa" Nabs Rave Lines From Critics

NEW YORK, April 11.—"Viva Villa," Wallace Beery's latest for M-G-M, which opened at the Criterion last night at advanced prices, garnered a wide assortment of adjectives at the hands of the New York critics.

Consensus of their opinion follows:

American.—A stirring subject, startlingly portrayed in broad strokes and splashes of cinematic artistry.

Daily Mirror.—This rousing thriller recalls the splendid days when movies really moved, when horses thundered across the screen and swarms of extras rioted before the cameras * * * photographed with exceptional artistry and the mobs are maneuvered with stirring effect. The dialogue is terse and punchy.

Daily News.—More than satisfactory.

Evening Journal.—Takes its place in the film records as a Mexican "Birth of a Nation." It's rousing, vigorous and exciting entertainment * * * Beery brings to his role lusty, ringing power * * * the supporting cast is excellent * * *

Herald-Tribune.—A hearty, exciting chronicle melodrama that is probably the most bloodthirsty narrative since the heyday of the Elizabethan theatre * * * the picture is, as far as acting goes, almost entirely Beery's.

Post.—Lusty, gory, full-throated melodrama * * * shining example of what the movies can do when they set out to produce a panorama of conflict and passion in the terms of mass action * * * an illustrious motion picture.

Sun.—Sufficiently entertaining * * * subject and background sufficiently new, comedy and melodrama skillfully enough blended to make it diverting entertainment. As a powerful historical drama, it falls down. As a comedy, with a few shockers, it's fun and sometimes exciting.

Times.—For the most part it is a fast, furious, compelling tale, but there are a few episodes which might very well have been excluded.

World-Telegram.—It is a savagely realistic, stirring and dramatic picture with Wallace Beery giving a magnificent performance * * * a truly sweeping, magnificent film.

Labor Committee Is Set to Hear Rows

After several weeks of awaiting instructions and appropriations to operate, the Studio Labor Committee, appointed by Campi and headed by Pat Casey and Ed Smith, is now ready for action and open to hear and adjudicate all complaints with headquarters in the Guaranty Building.

Carrillo, Kruger Signed

M-G-M yesterday handed long-term tickets to Leo Carrillo and Otto Kruger. This is the first time Carrillo has been tied up by contract since starting stage and screen work in Hollywood.

Kruger is currently working in "Treasure Island." Carrillo recently completed "Viva Villa."

Work-Play Week-End

Hal Roach leaves for a week-end trip to Pyramid Lake, Nevada, today accompanied by Director Charles Parrott and Gus Shy, studio writer. The trip will be a combined business and pleasure jaunt with the trio planning to work on a new comedy story.

If Hollywood Made "Henry" Britain Would Have Banned It, Says Farnol

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—If "Henry the VIII" had been produced in America instead of England, it would have been banned in Great Britain as disrespectful to royalty, according to Jeffrey Farnol, English novelist, a recent visitor here.

Farnol explained that while the English industry acclaimed the picture for its excellence, the rank and file of Britishers, out of high respect and even love for the idea of royalty, resented the rowdy humor as applied to the head of the empire.

$800 Set Up Monthly For Research Budget

Budget of the newly organized Technical Research Council of the Academy, now in its second month of operation, has been set at $800 per month, which is pro-rated and defrayed among the major producing organizations.

These expenses consist of salary for a manager, a secretary and office rent.

The work of each of the Research Council subcommittees is individual when it comes to requiring funds necessary for the actual research and engineering investigation of each project. This will be taken from a revolving fund of $1,500 which has been deposited to the credit of the council.

Ostrow Stays East To Look Over Plays

Lou Ostrow will not return to his desk at Monogram for two weeks, having decided to stay on in New York for an extra week to look over a few plays.

Trem Carr gets in Saturday, but the unit will not get into activity until Ostrow gets here.

First picture following the shutdown will be "Jane Eyre," which Ben Verschleiser will supervise. No other assignments have been made.

General Sales Tax In Ohio Is Licked

COLUMBUS, April 11.—The three per cent general sales tax was defeated in the house here today for the third time within the year by a vote of 59 to 48, with a possible chance of a similar favorable action in the Senate later. The defeat of the measure removes the possibility of an early repeal of the 10 per cent admission tax.

Just Another Opening

NEW ORLEANS, April 11.—Dorothy Dell Goff, known to Hollywood as Dorothy Dell, may mean something in the film capital, but no extra preparations have been made for the premiere of her "Wharf Angel" at the Tudor. She first attracted attention here by appearing in beauty contests.

Louisiana Perks Up

NEW ORLEANS, April 11.—A survey made by Harry McLeod, president of G. S. T. O. A., shows eight Louisiana houses spent over $2,000 for new equipment and that over nine houses have opened since the first of the year.

Ponder Nichols' Novel

Radio is said to be considering Beverly Nichols' recent novel, "The Thatched Roof," for production.

ASC Annual Dinner To Be Held Tonight

Annual banquet for ringing in the new and ringing out the old officers of the A.S.C. takes place tonight at the Uplifters' Club. More than 30 are expected to be present and as usual pay homage to E. O. Blackburn of the Brulatour company, who for the past several years has been the sponsor for these parties.

K. C. Aroused Over MGM's 40% Demand

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—Exhibitors here are adding their protests to those of other sections against guarantee and percentage terms demanded by distributors. The neighborhoods are vociferous over a 40 per cent split asked by M-G-M for "Dinner at Eight."

Back for Retakes

Following a Santa Monica preview of "Wild Gold" Monday night, Fox has sent the film back for retakes.

John Boles, featured in the cast with Claire Trevor, is doing a double shift with RKO keeping him busy in "Vergie Winters" with Ann Harding under direction of Alfred Santell.

Pick Raft's Next

George Raft's first starring picture for Paramount following his return from Europe will be based on an original by Philip MacDonald titled, "Limehouse Blues." Helen Mack will have the feminine lead. James Flood will direct.

Ginger Taking Ether

Ralph G. Farnum has arranged for Ginger Rogers to appear as guest artist on Ben Bernie's Pabst air program next Tuesday night. Following this Miss Rogers leaves for Chicago where she will participate in the "Century of Progress" broadcast.

Lang Gets Connolly

Columbia has assigned Walter Lang to direct Walter Connolly's first starring picture, "Whom the Gods Destroy."

Doris Kenyon has been added to the cast.

Rogers Signs Hamilton

Charles R. Rogers has signed Neil Hamilton to play the leading romantic role opposite Ann Sothern in his Paramount production "Here Comes the Groom."

M-G-M Deliberating

M-G-M is considering Clark Gable and Robert Montgomery for the lead opposite Helen Hayes in "Vanessa."

"Lost Patrol" Very Hi-Di-Di On White Way

NEW YORK, April 11.—The phenomena of the week along the Main Stem was the extraordinary $32,500 rolled up by the Rialto, operated independently by Arthur Mayer, with Radio's "Lost Patrol." Prices were stepped up to 75 cents for the engagement, but even at that, this is amazing business.

"The House of Rothschild" is maintaining steady pace at the Astor, currently ending at $23,500. "Wild Cargo" at $79,300 at the Music Hall is plenty of dollars, but not much profit for the city's most beautiful house which requires all but about $3,000 of that gross to meet its weekly expenses.

Why M-G-M found it necessary to put Paul Whiteman on the Capitol stage while Norma Shearer did "Riptide" on the screen is not apparent. The combination, however, proved a smart one to the tune of $63,373.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending April 2
"CATHERINE, THE GREAT" (U. A.)
RIVOLI—(2,200), 35c-99c, 2nd week.
7 days. Gross: $25,600.

Week Ending April 3
"HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD" (U. A.)
ASTOR—(1,012), 55c-$2.20, 3rd week.
7 days. Gross: $23,500.

Week Ending April 4
"WILD CARGO" (Radio)
RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL—(5,945), 35c-$1.65, 7 days. Stage show. Gross:
$79,300.

Week Ending April 5
"RIP TIDE" (M-G-M)
CAPITOL—(4,700), 35c-$1.65, 7 days.
Stage: Paul Whiteman and band; Peggy Healy, Ramona, Jack Fulton and Florence and Alvarez. Gross: $63,373.

"BOTTOMS UP" (Fox)

This One Worked

BALTIMORE, April 11.—Whoever the publicity agent was that thought up the stunt of having Spencer Tracy phone to Donald Kirkley, critic on the Morning Sun here, ostensibly about his newest picture, "Looking For Trouble," didn't go wrong. Kirkley made a story out of it running about a third of a column and used his review of the picture directly below.

Set Joe Cook Title

"Fun in the Air" is set as the tentative title for Joe Cook's musical at Fox. Alice Faye was yesterday slated for the feminine lead.

National Theatre Grosses Evidence Downward Drift

While individual attractions such as "It Happened One Night" with Gable and Colbert and "David Harum" with Will Rogers have been doing business reminding of the old days and, in some cases, cracking recent records, theatre grosses in key cities, in the main, have been sliding gently in recent weeks.

Based on individual, telegraphic box-office reports appearing each morning in MOTION PICTURE DAILY, the curve of receipts since the beginning of the 1933-34 season has taken a dip down the line. Fluctuating numbers of reporting theatres are principally responsible for the slough and lead to the conclusion the shrinkage has been more induced by a fewer total of houses entering into the bulked gross than the gross itself.

For the theatre week ending March 30 and 31, reports from key cities totaled $1,181,822 for 127 theatres. This compares with $1,291,695 for 128 theatres included in the week which closed on March 23 and 24.

How grosses compared in this period is shown in the following comparative chart:

Week Ending March 30-31		Week Ending March 23-24
No. Theatres	Gross	No. Theatres	Gross
Boston	6	6	115,000

Alice Faye Due Soon

Alice Faye has postponed her return from New York for several days in order to appear as a guest star on the Rudy Vallee-Fleischman radio hour Thursday night. The actress will return here next Monday and immediately go to work in her next Fox picture, "She Learned About Sailors."

Gloria Returns Soon

Gloria Swanson now in New York will return here in the next two weeks to begin rehearsal for "Barbary Coast" which will go into production May 10 under direction of William Wellman for Sam Goldwyn. Gary Cooper will play the male lead.

"Rothschild" Local Leader In $$$ Film

George Arliss in "The House of Rothschild" went 'way out in front of all other Los Angeles and Hollywood first runs for the week which ended last night by grabbing $25,171 at the Chinese where Sid Grauman seems pretty well contented if the gross hits $14,000. A sign covering the entire side of the house indicates Grauman expects the booking to stay for some weeks.

Just to make Sam Dembow, visiting Publix executive from New York more hopeful about it all, the Paramount downtown ended at $21,075 as against a normal $18,000. Picture: "You're Telling Me." Stage Show: Mills Brothers, principally.

Second week of Norma Shearer in "Riptide" at the Loew's State brought in $18,700. Good business for that theatre where holdovers once were common, but no more are.

Estimated takings:

"HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD" (U. A.)
CHINESE—(2,500), 50c-$1.65, 7 days.
Sid Grauman prologue, travelogue.
Gross: $25,171. (Average $14,000).

"MOON OVER MOROCCO" (French)
FILMARTE—(800), 40c-50c, 7 days.
Short, news. Gross: $600. (Average $2,- 650)

"RIPTIDE" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S STATE—(2,413), 30c-55c, 7
days. 2nd week. Short, news, comedy.
Gross: $18,700. (Average $14,000)

"YOU'RE TELLING ME" (Para.)
PARAMOUNT—(3,595), 30c-55c, 7 days. On the stage: Four Mills Brothers and a Fanchon & Marco revue; news, comedy. Gross: $21,075. (Average $18,- 000).

"LITTLE WOMEN" (RKO)
RKO (2,700), 25c-40c, 7 days. 3rd week. Shorts, news. Gross: $4,700. (Average $8,000)

"LOOKING FOR TROUBLE" (U. A.)
UNITED ARTISTS—(2,100), 30c-55c, erage $2,800)

"JIMMY THE GENT" (W.B.)
WARNER BROS. HOLLYWOOD—
(3,000), 25c-55c, 7 days. Shorts, news.
Gross: $11,000. (Average $14,000)

"JIMMY THE GENT" (W.B.)
WARNER BROS. DOWNTOWN—
(3,400), 25c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $10,000.
Shorts, news.

Cancellation Rule Now Is Operative

to Dec. 7, applies to rentals of $250 and under and only in those instances where exhibitors so applying have lived up to their contracts by playing pictures in order of release and where exhibitors have complied with all provisions of the code.

In a second letter, branch managers were notified to submit to Campi a list of exhibitors making cancellation requests which are to be granted only after Campi notifies exchanges that exhibitors have complied with code stipulations.

Much of the leaning toward higher rentals next season, as reported exclusively in MOTION PICTURE DAILY Wednesday, ties in with the cancellation clause which distributors, in the aggregate, figure will cost them millions of dollars a year. This shrinkage plus added operating costs under the code, influence the opinion that the only way to come out is by sending up rentals with the exhibitor passing on the load to the public in the form of higher admissions.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Such Women Are Dangerous"

(Fox)

First preview of this picture indicates that intelligent cutting is about all that's necessary to assure box-office entertainment. Adapted from Vera Caspary's 'Odd Thursday,' this modern story builds and maintains continual interest. Such proved theatre values as romance, drama, light comedy, suspense, semi-mystery and thrill, the novel story-telling technique gives the picture an intriguing charm.

The story has Baxter, feminine heart-thrill author, object of young Rochelle Hudson's infatuation. Man of many loves, his secretary Rosemary Ames is buffer between him and adoring fans.

Indulging in mild flirtation with Mona Barrie while trying to stifle Miss Hudson's ardor, the situation is complicated when he learns that Miss Barrie is married. The story turns melodramatic when Rochelle, whom Baxter has tried to let down easily, is found dead. Arrested on circumstantial evidence, dramatic court room scenes have Baxter unable to prove an alibi. On the verge of conviction a letter is discovered which reveals Miss Hudson's suicide plans. Thus the way is cleared for a happy ending in which Baxter realizes that his future is safest with Miss Ames as his wife.

Baxter and Miss Hudson turn in fine and convincing performances, as Rosemary Ames and Mona Barrie hold the pace. In the comedy contrast roles, Herbert Mundin and Henrietta Crossman are effective. James Flood's direction capitalizes all theatrical values as the Jane Storm and Oscar M. Sheridan screen play faithfully preserves the color and punch of the Caspary story. Title, cast and entertainment values suggest potent showmanship exploitation possibilities to attract popular attention.

"Wonder Bar" Proves Leader Among Denver First Runs

DENVER, April 9.—"Wonder Bar," showing at both the Denver and Aladdin, did better than any other film in Denver last week. Both houses had steady crowds, but neither reported standouts.

"The Mystery of Mr. X", supported by El Brendel in person at the Orpheum, did better than average, but below last week. The Denham and Paramount were way below average, the latter on a split week, while the former tried three pictures in a week. The last one, "Melody in Spring," did fine on its two days and is being held another week.

Total first run business was $29,000. Average is $27,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 5:

"WONDER BAR" (First Nat'l)
ALADDIN—(1,500), 25c-50c. 7 days.
Gross: $4,000. (Average, $3,000).

"SHE MADE HER BED" (Para.)
DENHAM—(1,500), 25c-40c. 3 days.
Gross: $800.

"EIGHT GIRLS IN A BOAT" (Para.)
DENHAM—(1,500), 25c-40c. 2 days.
Gross: $900.

"MELODY IN SPRING" (Para.)
DENHAM—(1,500), 25c-40c. 2 days to finish week but being held another week. Gross: $1,800. (Average, $5,000)

"WONDER BAR" (First Nat'l)
DENVER—(2,500), 25c-35c-50c. 7 days. Gross: $9,000. (Average, $7,000)

"MYSTERY OF MR. X" (M-G-M)
ORPHEUM—(2,600), 25c-35c-50c. 7 days, and stage show with El Brendel.
Gross: $11,000. (Average, $10,000).

"EVER SINCE EVE" (Fox)
PARAMOUNT—(2,000), 25c-40c. 3
days. Gross: $500.

"SON OF KONG" (Radio)
PARAMOUNT—(2,000), 25c-40c. 4 days. Gross: $1,000. (Average for week, $2,500).

No 10% Guy

A couple of studio scribblers were chatting in front of Sardi's, when the question of employment popped into the conversation.

"Well Joe, are you working?" said the one.

"Haven't worked in years," said the other.

"Why not get an agent?" advised the one.

"An agent?"

"Sure, he'll get you a job."

"Huh," huh-ed the scrivener, "I should pay an agent 10 per cent of my earnings."

May Ask Impartials To Iron Out Zoning

PORTLAND, Ore., April 11.—Probably the first instance where impartial members of code boards will be called into settle a decision which code boards cannot is anticipated in determining what to do about the local zoning situation. There is some talk first runs may be compelled to give way to the second runs.

Seattle Prices Dip

SEATTLE, April 11.—The Orpheum here with a present scale of 25 cents and 35 cents, will reduce prices next week to 15 cents for matinees and 25 cents for nights. The present first run dual feature policy is to be retained with secondary product drawn from First National, Fox, Paramount, Radio and Universal.

Still Another House to Try It in Kaysee

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—Defying superstition, the Pantages will be re-lighted here on Friday, April 13, after being shuttered about three years. The Rewot Corp. has obtained a 10-year lease on the property, which includes the next-door 12th Street. M. W. Reinke, formerly Universal Theatres district manager here and more recently on the West Coast, is president and S. Bernard Joffe, former manager of the Fox Uptown, is vice-president.

The reopenings will add two houses to an already over-seated condition downtown. The "Pan," renamed the Tower, will show pictures and stage presentations at an all-time price of 25 cents. The 12th Street, to be known as the Downtown, will open Saturday on a grind policy with an admission of 10 cents. Straight pictures will take the place of burlesque at this house.

The Pantages was built by Alexander Pantages as part of his original chain at a cost of $900,000. When he retired from active operation, he let the house revert to the land holders, and the property has been involved in complicated litigation since.

Lawyers Win Over Fox in Fees Suit

TOPEKA, April 11.—The Kansas Supreme Court has held that Fox West Coast Theatres and the Fox Kansas Theatre Co. must pay C. L. Kagey and Hal Black, Wichita lawyers, for bringing a "blue law" injunction suit in the Federal court. The attorneys demanded a fee of $8,000 and $2,500 expenses. The court held they were entitled to the full amount.

The lawyers obtained a court order in the fall of 1931, enjoining city officials from Sunday show prosecutions. On an appeal by the Kansas attorney general, the circuit court of appeals set the order aside. Numerous theatres continued Sunday operation, however.

Du Maurier Dead

LONDON, April 11.—Sir Gerald du Maurier, noted actor, died in a nursing home here today after an operation. He was 61.

Latterly he appeared in "I was a Spy" for Gaumont British. Fox is handling it in the States.

Johnson Returns

After conferring with Eddie Cantor in Florida on the story for his next picture, Nunnally Johnson returned here yesterday and joins Arthur Sheekman and Nat Perrin in working out the treatment.

Price Jump Ready

DETROIT, April 11.—Theatres along Monroe and Woodward Aves. have agreed to join other theatres in a price increase effective Sunday. Sponsored by Allied, all of Detroit is now set to boost admissions.

FILM PRINTING

ONCE A CRAFT
NOW AN EXACT SCIENCE

THANKS TO OUR ENGINEERS AND CHEMISTS

AT CONSOLIDATED the old order of "try, try again" has given way to scientific methods that guarantee the right results the first time and uniformity all the time. All our "trial and error" is confined to completely equipped research laboratories where skilled chemical and mechanical engineers constantly draw on the wonders of modern chemistry and machinery to improve the already fine quality of "Certified Prints".

Guess-work and chance results have been entirely eliminated. Elaborate machinery, Consolidated designed and built, and used exclusively at Consolidated Park, has been set up to control quality. Operating conditions are always technically perfect, regulated by a costly air-conditioning plant. Negatives are carefully vacuum and dry cleaned after each print is made. That is why the last print is as good as the first and the negative in perfect condition when returned to the producer.

Only at Consolidated Park can be found the miraculous machines that take negatives and raw stock at one end and at the other deliver the completed print—untouched by human hands throughout the entire operation.

SAFEGUARD YOUR INVESTMENT

Cut-price prints mean cut-price quality — inferior materials carelessly processed on obsolete equipment — poor screen results.

It doesn't pay to jeopardize your entire investment for the few pennies saved on cut-price prints. Make sure of good results. Send your productions to the screen on "Certified Prints." They're made by science to provide the finest possible expression of the sound and action in your negative. Twenty-one years' experience and a loyal devotion to the highest ideals of service are always evident in every frame of "Certified Prints."

Huffman Cites Advantages of Local Control

Agrees with Chatkin on Theatre Management

DENVER, April 15.—Harry Huffman, president and general manager of General Theatres, Inc., in expressing agreement with David Chatkin's recent statement in MOTION PICTURE DAILY defending local operation against chain operation, declares that "the one thing that will determine the success of either type of operation is manpower."

"Where manpower has been efficient the local situations have been universally more successful," Huffman says. A chief reason advanced by him is that "permanency of residence tends

Fast Work Planned By Grievance Board

Every attempt to dispose of grievances in quick order for the local territory will be made by board members, the first series of complaints to be heard starting with the third meeting, not definitely set yet but which will take place around April 24. The second session will be tomorrow at Campi headquarters with Milt Kusell as chairman.

About 100 complaints from local theatremen are on file at Code Authority.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—Col. Harry Salter of Trenton and Raymond Rau, treasurer of the Integrity Trust Co. of Philadelphia, have been officially named by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt as impartial members of the grievance and clearance and zoning boards, respectively.

Naming of Rau and Salter to the Philadelphia boards, completes the list of impartial members for the entire country.

Sound Trucks Going in Reel Economy Move

Gradual reduction of sound truck crews by newsreels is under way, it was learned over the week-end, and may result eventually in maintenance of sound crews in the four key news centers only.

These centers are New York, Washington, Chicago and Los Angeles. Forces in those cities, too, are being pared and future coverage of news in intermediate cities may be handled almost entirely by correspondents without sound equipment. Where the occurrence of events requiring a sound record takes place in an intermediate center, plans are being discussed for covering the happenings by transporting portable sound equipment to the scene by plane.

The developments taking place in newsreel production are being dictated, it was said, by decreased newsreel rentals which, for a year or more past, have made a reduction of operation.

Albany Kills Three Censor Repeal Bills

ALBANY, April 15.—Four film bills have been killed in Assembly committees and a new one has been presented in the Senate. Three were censorship repeal measures.

Among the bills killed is the Breitbard measure designed as an amendment to the penal and education laws. It provided for special censorship for films intended for showing to children under 16 and for special licenses for theatres showing them. It died in the Codes Committee.

A new bill introduced by Senator Thomas F. Burchard covers the same

Engineers Opposed To 1,700-Foot Reel

Opposition to the proposed 1,700-foot reel standardization is expected at the Atlantic City meeting of the S.M.P.E. scheduled for April 23-26. The exchange practice committee has decided to oppose the change on the ground that the present 1,000-foot reel is best adapted to exchange practices.

Reason for the disapproval, according to Trevor Faulkner, chairman of the exchange practice committee, and Harry Rubin, chairman of the projection practice committee, is that the 1,700-foot reel would not prevent doubling of film in projectors. To end this practice reels would have to be about 2,000 feet long, they say.

Latter Angle May Come Up Today in Talks With L. B. Mayer

By RED KANN

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Punctuated by considerable argument over an effective means of eradicating double bills, but by no differences of opinion on the principle, the M. P. T. O. A. in its final general convention session Saturday resolutely strongly against twin features and registered a sentiment for fewer and better pictures.

This latter angle as well as a slant on unwarranted smut injected into pictures deemed otherwise to be wholesome will probably highlight a meeting Monday between the executive committee of the M. P. T. O. A. and a producer committee headed by Louis B. Mayer. Exhibitors to the last man favor an open meeting, but late Saturday the conference was set for the Beverly Wilshire Hotel Monday behind closed doors.

The double feature discussion proved interesting. It brought many angles to

Cooper Asks Canada Ban 'Damaged Lives'

TORONTO, April 15.—This city has its first example of a film man trying to prevent the showing of a picture.

Colonel John A. Cooper, president of the M. P. Distributors' Ass'n., has asked the government to ban "Damaged Lives," a picture produced in Hollywood under the supervision of Dr. Gordon Bates of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council.

Cooper contends such pictures should not be exhibited in theatres where people go for entertainment.

Hearst-Fox Newsreels To Split in September

Separation of Hearst Metrotone newsreel from Fox Movietone at the expiration of the contract between the two next September was confirmed officially on Saturday by E. B. Hatrick, Hearst representative.

Hatrick said that Mike Clofine, editor of the Hearst reel during the Fox-Hearst production arrangement, would continue as editor of the reel with its own news gathering organization in the future. Preparations for launching the new Hearst reel, involving the lining up of cameramen throughout the world, will be carried on during the next six months, Hatrick said. He said that no important changes in policy would be made, and declared that sound crews would be used and

Warners Get Second Delay on Building

A second, five-year extension of Warners' lease obligation to build a $5,000,000 theatre and office building on the Strand site, Broadway and 48th, has been granted, it was learned Saturday.

The original lease called for completion of the new buildings by Jan. 1, 1935. An extension of the obligation to Jan., 1938, was granted several years ago because of unfavorable building and business conditions. The new extension is to Jan. 1, 1943.

H. O. Girls to Broadcast

Various angles of production and distribution are to be discussed by women employed in home offices in a series of eight weekly broadcasts over WEAF starting April 18. The speakers and their subjects will be: Helen Hughes, personnel officer for Universal, "The Right Person for the Right Job"; Julia Kelly, secretary to Will H. Hays, "How Movie Titles Originate"; Mollie Grill, publicity department, Fox, "Breaking into the Headlines"; Tessie Michaels, publicity department, United Artists, "When Stars Come to New York"; Gwen Heller, Warner style scout, "Hollywood Becomes Style Conscious"; Sarah Lyons, Paramount, "How Prints Get to Theatres"; Lillian Messenger, RKO, "Scouting for Screen Prospects," and Florence Browning, M-G-M, "Where Stories Come From."

to build up proper contacts and followings together with an understanding of what a community needs." Another advantage pointed out by him is "economies that may be realized only by local management and concentration on details that affect the pocketbook of the local management." A big trouble with chain management, he declares, is that it "suffers from too frequent a change in manager."

Huffman believes that "where manpower is equal, local management is found to be more successful." "Otherwise," he adds, "it is a question of what evil may be counterbalanced by what benefit."

Chain buying to Huffman has its good and bad points. Here is his comment on the subject:

"A local operation receives the benefit of chain buying power and the national pressure to obtain that which is right and equitable in the particular situation. On the other hand national buying frequently does not give the benefits to the local situation, and in many cases unjustly burdens one situation to help another point for some reason or other. I know also that frequently the benefits that have been received from national buying have not been sufficient to overcome the home office overhead charges."

Huffman asserts that while it is "quite possible" some of the alleged faults of chain management "may be overcome and unquestionably in some spots have been," the fact remains that "the general condition of national management shows that in most cases the faults were not corrected."

A SHORT AD

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's Shorts have had their best year. Quality is the reason! These Hal Roach Comedies outshine all others: Laurel-Hardy; "Our Gang"; Thelma Todd-Patsy Kelly; Charley Chase; Hal Roach Musical Comedies and All-Stars.

One of the new sensations in Short Subjects is M-G-M's Goofy Movies, with Pete Smith's laugh-talk. His Sport Champions and Oddities are going great also. Fitzpatrick Travel Talks and Willie Whopper Cartoons (some in color) complete this advertisement. Short—but sweet!

ing overhead imperative. The necessity for economies revived discussion a year ago of the "Associated Press" plan of coverage for the newsreels; that is, the formation of a central newsgathering agency which would serve all five reels, thereby eliminating duplication of coverage on the greatest possible number of happenings.

Newsreel organizations almost unanimously vetoed the idea as "impractical" and declared that it would be fatal to individual enterprise among the reels. With the necessity of economies persisting, if not actually increasing, during the past year, however, the reels were obliged to find other means of lowering overhead. Universal, with its economical system of silent camera coverage and dubbed in voice, appears to have pointed the way. The absence of sound failed to hamper "U's" reel sales and its low cost production enabled the company to distribute at comparatively low rentals.

While Pathe, Paramount, Hearst Metrotone and Fox Movietone do not consider complete elimination of sound crews, all are making some reductions with a corresponding increase in material from cameramen correspondents working without sound. In some cases, stock sound recordings are being synchronized with the silent material being received. Some obvious advantages of the cameraman unencumbered by sound equipment have also demonstrated their value, apart from the cost angle, to newsreel editors. Such cameramen, it is pointed out, can get among crowds and into byways more easily than a sound truck, and frequently turn in three good camera angles to a sound truck crew's one.

Hearst Metrotone and Fox Movietone have been produced jointly since the start of the latter. At the beginning they were controlled by the Fox-

Variety Club Chatter

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, April 15.—Two additional members have been added to the membership committee, bringing the total number to six. The new appointees are HARRY J. ("Pop") WESSELL and JOHN (Metro) ALLEN.

Mayor RUSSELL WILSON addressed the club at last week's noonday luncheon meeting, although was compelled to curtail his remarks, due to official engagement. Hizzonor formerly was dramatic reviewer for the Cincinnati Times-Star, and, therefore, speaks the language of the club membership.

A new block and gavel now adorn the desk of President ALLAN MORITZ. It's a gift from the National Theatre Supply Co., and was presented at the last meeting by Barker Col. JAKE GELMAN. Incidentally, the handle indicates that JAKE now is a colonel on the staff of Governor RUBY LAF-FOON of Kentucky. It happened very recently.

Barker MARK WOLF, who holds down the chair of vice-president, presented the club a swanky looking sign in colors bearing the club's name. It now adorns the front wall of the lounge.

New members enrolled at the last meeting were: ELMER H. DRESSMAN, MAURICE THOMPSON and GLEN CORBETT. They all hail from WCKY, Barker L. B. WILSON's radio station just across the Ohio river in Covington, Ky.

LOUIS J. SCHNEIDER, prosecuting attorney for Hamilton County, has been accepted as an associate member.

BILLY BIEN has been absent from the last few meetings owing to the illness of his better half, who, however, now is on the road to recovery.

HARRY MICHAELSON, district manager of RKO-Pathe, Pittsburgh, was a welcome visitor at the local tent last week.

Columbus

COLUMBUS, April 15.—At the Tuesday luncheon it was voted that a weekly sum of money be donated to the little family of a former outstanding vaudeville performer in difficulty in Columbus. Also, a regular charity program is being worked out with Barker MAX STEARN heading the committee.

Variety entertained 100 members of Aladdin Temple Shrine on Sunday evening. One of the highlights of the evening was the singing of The Chanters, a chorus of 65 voices. Barkers BILLY JAMES and ROSS ANDERSON were the kings for the evening.

The club had the pleasure of a visit from Barker EDDY FONTAINE, head of the Cleveland tent.

The club will turn out in a body for the opening game of the American Association's Red Birds, "Little World Series Champions" of 1933. Columbus being very proud of their showing last year, Mayor Barker HENRY W. WORLEY has declared a half holiday in all municipal offices for celebration of their homecoming after spring training in Florida. Barker RED TRAUTMAN, president of the Columbus Baseball Club, is planning a place of honor for his brother barkers at the special ceremonies on opening day. Barker Governor GEORGE WHITE will pitch the first ball.

The board of directors this week voted an Associate Membership to MAX SCHALL, BUDDY ROGERS' personal manager for the past six years. This was in connection with a reception tendered BUDDY and his mother. BUDDY is an associate member of the Pittsburgh chapter, having been elected nearly five years ago.

Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, April 15.—RAE SAMUALS and two of the girls appearing on the stage of CHARLEY OLSON's Lyric provided songs and dances for the Variety boys at the weekly luncheon in the Hotel Lincoln. Those assisting were ELEANOR WHITNEY and HELEN POPE. OLSON and TED NICHOLAS, manager of the Lyric, were in charge of the program.

CLAUDE A. MAHONEY, feature writer of The Star, kept the luncheoneers laughing during his recital of the humorous things which happen to a reporter in line of duty.

I. M. HALPERIN, manager of the Indiana and Circle, and MARTIN SOLOMON of Columbia will be king and queen of entertainment at the next luncheon.

CARL NEISSE, local manager for MANNY MARCUS, and treasurer of the local organization, announced that 40 applications for resident members and nine non-resident members had been acted upon. JOE CANTOR, president, stated that all applications received had been accepted.

Permanent quarters for the club have not been selected as yet, but JOE CANTOR promised that definite information would be available at the next meeting.

Associate members of the local club are: CORBIN PATRICK, critic for The Star; WALTER D. HICKMAN, critic for the Times; CHARLES R. METZGER, attorney for Associated Theatre Owners of Indiana; BILL KILEY, correspondent for Variety, and HOWARD RUDEAUX, correspondent for Film Daily.

Philadelphia Grosses Fall Into a Slump

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—Grosses last week in Philadelphia suffered from a general slump, with Keith's deciding to call it a day altogether, making a sudden exit for the season.

The Fox only held "Murder in Trinidad," though the yank was not altogether bad business, but the desire to launch the Wide Range sound system on Thursday with "George White's Scandals." "Trinidad" gross, however, not so hot.

"Men in White" had a fairly strong week at the Stanley and got eight days in all for an estimated $15,000. "The Showoff" tilted the average at the Earle, though far away from the magnificent Joe Penner week previously.

"Looking for Trouble," originally scheduled for two weeks at the Aldine, disappointed by getting only one.

Total first run business was $68,100. Average is $69,900.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 12:

"LOOKING FOR TROUBLE" (U. A.)

Kansas Sunday Show Prospects Brighten

TOPEKA, April 15.—With victory on two fronts in the battle of Kansas exhibitors for Sunday shows, theatre men in communities where seven-day operation is now prohibited are hopeful that the ban will be lifted. A more liberal attitude has swayed local officials in a number of towns.

Sunday show proponents are heartened by recent referenda in Emporia, where their cause won by a 700 majority, and in Clay Center, which voted in Sunday amusements by 265 majority out of a total vote of 1,942. Two years ago the theatres lost a similar proposal in Emporia by 400 votes. Fox Midwest managers were active in promoting sentiment in both cities.

A similar referendum in Manhattan recently was cancelled after a dispute involving registration of Kansas State College students, a majority of whom are said to favor Sunday films. Officials threatened court action against one theatre because of an offer to honor student registration certificates as admissions. Some other method of ironing out the situation is being sought.

Short Subjects

"Even as You and I"

(Howard Milton)

This novelty introduces a series to be released under the title of "Bringing Up Sally." If the first is any criterion, audiences are in for something different in film entertainment. Much intelligent effort has gone into the production of "Even as You and I," which is high-class stuff beautifully photographed with simplicity and skill. The series is intended as a study of child behavior. "Even as You and I," for instance, is laden with all those little things that children do that endear them to the hearts of grown-ups. To many parents the short will recall the days when their boys and girls were "so high." The child is Baby Sally Lee. Her actions are so natural that one suspects the camera was hidden in filming the short. This is chiefly mature entertainment. Previewed at the Radio City Music Hall, the short received a favorable reaction. Running time, 9 mins.

"The Undie World"

(Radio)

Grady Sutton is a new comedian who will bear watching. He has a style of his own that clicks. It's because of his mannerisms here that this comedy has a goodly portion of laughs. He's supported by June Brewster and Carol Trevis, for looks, and Big Boy Williams, Dewey Robinson and Will Stanton as the big bad bad men.

The plot has to do with Sutton, a violin instructor, employed by Williams when the latter tries to win Miss Trevis. The girl, however, believes the violinist the gangster and falls for him. Later in a night spot, Sutton again is mistaken as a gangster by Robinson and what follows nets no end of laughs.

Running time, 21 mins.

Looking 'Em Over

"Love Birds"

(Universal)

Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts are teamed in "Love Birds." That the comedians are not funnier is the fault of the material they have been given to work with—much of it slapstick that is not exactly original. However, there are any number of situations productive of considerable laughter.

The pair play the sort of roles that one would expect of them. Miss Pitts in a maidenish teacher with a sissy nephew stiffly brought up, while Summerville is a woman-shy poultry man. Each has a yen to get away from it all and retire to some quiet, peaceful place. Faith brings them both to the same real estate shark. The fellow has a worthless piece of desert land on his hands and sells it twice over. This brings Miss Pitts and Summerville together. They bicker over ownership to the place and fail to discover the peace and quiet they were hankering for.

Summerville gets into a fight with a gold prospector and loses the gold cap from one of his teeth. The prospector picks it up and starts the rumor of a gold find. Gold seekers come in droves. The real estate man gets the two to part with the property for a large sum. When no gold is found on the land the prospectors take it out on the new owner. Mickey Rooney plays the nephew. William A. Seiter directed.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Doomed to Die"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, April 15.—"Doomed to Die" is trite western melodrama starring Ken Maynard. Gloria Shea is wasted in the leading feminine role. The usual stuff, but has some punch to get over with Maynard fans, especially the kids.

The story is set at the start in an alligator infested swampland. Maynard, accused of murder, is tracked there by Walter Miller, who gets the fever. Maynard nurses him along, offering to give himself up voluntarily. There is an accident and Miller's leg is severed by an alligator. He dies. Maynard shaves off a crop of whiskers, charcoals his hair black from the blond to resemble Miller and returns to sagebrush territory to clear himself. Miller's girl, Miss Shea, catches on and he is forced to explain, producing a final letter from Miller, which puts him over with the girl.

Follows much hard riding, gun smoke, fist fights and a spooky house, where Maynard discovers his imprisoned and half crazed father, who is held by Harold Goodwin, the real murderer and son of the victim. Goodwin is making a play for Gloria but loses her to Maynard, following which the culprit is apprehended. The horse Tarzan does his usual stuff.

The film moves at high speed, but otherwise it is just a programmer. Ken Maynard authored.

"Laughing with Medbury In the Orient"

(Walter Futter-Columbia)

China and Japan stand up pretty well as travel subjects in this reel, despite the farcical treatment they get in John P. Medbury's accompanying remarks. Native customs of the two Oriental countries and glimpses of a cherry blossom festival in Japan stand out in interest. This one is on a par with others of the Medbury travel series. Running time, 10 mins.

"Hula Honeymoon"

(Educational)

Beautifully photographed on tinted stock, with the scenes laid in Hawaii. A native dance is shown with an orchestral accompaniment, all the music being on stringed instruments. It's a good number. Running time, 7½ mins.

"All on Deck"

(Paramount)

With the deck of a boat as a setting, and presenting the Three Singing Sailors, Henry Berbig, Del Campo and Gertrude Niessen, as entertainers, this short is fair entertainment. Most of the artists are familiar to radio listeners, but their material is below the average. Running time, 18 mins.

"Madeira"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

Interesting and educational—also entertaining. This travelogue brings to the screen Madeira, its principal streets and other sightseeing locations which hold a genuine interest for those interested in traveling.

The descriptive narrative is well done and lends considerably to the effectiveness of the subject. Running time, 9 mins.

"Spitfire" and Olsen's Band Lead Buffalo

BUFFALO, April 15. — "Spitfire," helped by George Olsen and his band and Ethel Shutta on the stage of the Buffalo, ran up a fine $19,200 at the house last week.

Grosses were generally good in spite of heavy rain which turned to snow. "The Road to Ruin" more than doubled the normal take at the 300-seat Hollywood.

Total first run business was $54,900. Average is $46,300.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 13:

"The Big Meow"

(Educational)

Fast slapstick with Tom Howard and George Shelton hired by a judge to trail a gun moll whose boy friend is threatening his life. The two comedians look out of the judge's office and see his wife. The pursuit gets complicated, with the pair being arrested several times, and finally winding up in a raid upon the judge's home. Good for a number of laughs. Running time, 18½ mins.

"The Brave Tin Soldier"

(Celebrity)

A diverting novelty and one of the Comicolor Cartoon series. One of the tin soldiers in a toy maker's shop is discarded because one of his legs has been broken off, but that doesn't prevent him from coming to life after the owner goes to bed. The soldier meets his lovelight, protects her from the enemy and later goes to heaven with her. There he has his missing foot restored and the subject ends with them entering the gates of toyland. The music is engaging. Running time, 7 minutes.

"Jungle Bound"

(Pizor-Monogram)

The subject of this, the latest of the "Port O' Call" series, is the ruined city of Angkorvat in Cambodia. Half-buried in the wild jungle growth the dead city, once the thriving capital of Cambodia, creates a strange sensation with the deathly calm that hangs over it. This may not be exciting, but it certainly is an interesting short. Running time, 10 mins.

For Three Years

THE LEADER

EASTMAN Super-sensitive "Pan" led the way into the amazing field of ultra-speed motion picture photography. That was three years ago. At no time since then has this Eastman film faltered in its leadership. MPTOA Goes On Record As Against Duals light and produced an attack upon independent producers by Jack Miller, who drew on the experiences of Chicago exhibitors in trying to eradicate the practice. He challenged statistics on payrolls presented by independent interests at the code parleys, declaring that they do not gross the money they claimed to be spending on production. Spread of the policy was laid at the door of big theatre operators with combination presentation and vaudeville policies which, Miller stated, compelled subsequent runs to go in for duals, since they could meet first run competition no other way.

"Independent producers and distributors have never contributed a single thing," Miller went on. "Why do we give them any consideration? Independent production will put us out of business, if we don't quit duals. Independent producers are parasites and have no right in the industry. Why we are so easy with them I don't understand."

Walter Vincent of New York and Robert McNeil of San Francisco injected their viewpoints. The discussion raged on until M. A. Lightman sprang to the defense.

Lightman for Fewer Films

"What about the quickies the majors make?" he asked. "They're all out grinding out numbers of pictures instead of pictures. We're missing the principal question before us. We should inform producers we don't want four, five or six hundred pictures yearly until we get fewer but better pictures."

Ben Berinstein added that Mayer was liberal in some instances when he stated some independents spend $20,000 to $25,000 per picture. "There are some companies that turn them out for $9,000 in from 48 to 72 hours. Every major company in Hollywood is planning more pictures next year because they're after some of the revenue available from duals," he said.

Championing the Lightman slant, Sidney Lust of Washington rose to say: "We should have no desire to kill independents, but we should influence them to make better pictures. Why don't the first runs take the initiative by increasing admissions and by not giving the public too much for its money, thus eliminating the necessity for independent showmen to compete by going dual?"

Whether or not it was realized a faux pas had been committed was not established, but it was, perhaps, significant that Ed Kuykendall stepped in to point out no exhibitors had any argument against independents, but rather their type of pictures, also that it made no difference who produced the attractions, provided they were good.

"The public has been returning to theatres in the last few months. Are we going to nauseate them with bad pictures?" he demanded.

Miller then went into an about-face, admitting he had made a mistake in attacking independents. "I have no desire to force them out of business, but I am definitely opposed to quickies," he stated.

Edgar Levy of Connecticut made an interesting observation when he declared the elimination of duals wouldn't help because first runs could continue vaudeville presentation policies, which, many thought, had maneuvered independent subsequents into doubles. Out of the varied arguments developed a resolution unequivocally voicing a protest against duals and a petition to Code Authority to instruct code boards to compile zoning schedules predicated firstly on admissions. It was held this would check duals on the implied theory that exhibitors showing duals and charging 20 cents are really charging 10 cents. Tenth-cent exhibitors would be placed further down the line on clearance schedules in each territory.

The convention in its closing session voted against a continuance of gangster films and called upon press agents to avoid publicity involving stars in scandal and hoax. Non-theatrical competition was again struck in a resolution more specific in language than the first. Another resolution pitted the M. P. T. O. A. against a bill proposed by Senator Cutting of New Mexico inviting the United States to become a member of the International Copyright Convention of Berne. Lust was the torchbearer of this move. He declared it would extend automatic copyright control to all foreign music reproduced here and give the A. S. C. A. P. a wedge in increasing the present seat tax.

Palfreyman Fights Move

David Palfreyman, theatre contact for the Hays office, attempted to kill the move after asking if American music would similarly benefit abroad. Informed the bill would, he pointed out that one-third of production costs is borne abroad, and if American producers subsequently found their revenue curtailed this would mean increased rentals to American exhibitors. The resolution was passed, regardless. A resolution on labor discussed Friday was referred to the executive committee for further brushing up in New York later.

The board of trustees named Saturday is composed of Ed Kuykendall, Walter Vincent, M. E. Comerford and Charles Picquet of North Carolina, representing independents; Joseph Bernhard, Col. E. A. Schiller, Sam Dembow, Jr., and Major Leslie Thompson, representing affiliates.

Trustees will handle the finances as they elect and will be answerable to no officer or group for their decisions.

Fred S. Meyer Gains After an Operation

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Fred S. Meyer is doing as well as could be expected following a serious operation for adhesions at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital on Friday.

No visitors will be allowed to see him for a week, so the M. P. T. O. A. passed a resolution commending him for his untiring work.

Discussions now revolve around a girl secretary for each board. Louis Nizer, executive secretary for the New York Film Board, will be counsel for member exchanges in complaints filed by or against them. He will be one film board secretary who will continue on the job regardless of the fate of those throughout the country. Many have already accepted similar jobs with code boards.

Retiring Stars Stir Ire of K. C. Dailies

KANSAS CITY, April 15.—Local dailies are in the throes of a burn-up over snubs recently handed reporters by players passing through Kansas City. In response to wires from the studios or New York publicity departments, or at the request of local managers, the scribes have been meeting the Chief when it hits the Union Station to grab interviews. Sometimes they are refused. Reporters and cameramen met the Chief to interview Gloria Swanson, en route east recently, but Miss Swanson sent word through her secretary that she could not be disturbed. Some time ago, Joan Crawford likewise denied herself to the press, claiming the crowd of admirers in the train sheds was too great.

Chief burner-upper is Lowell Lawrence, critic of the Journal-Post.

All open air theatres regardless of seating capacities will be charged $150 for new license fees, an increase of $100 over the present figure.

The matter has been referred to the Committee on General Welfare.

subject in a less complicated way. It provides for admission of children under 16 outside of school hours when enabling ordinances have been passed by cities, towns or villages, but matrons must be on duty in the theatre and seats must be provided. Special $5 annual license fees will be charged houses admitting the children.

The three other Assembly bills killed were the two Neustein measures practically similar, designed to repeal the censorship provisions of the education law and transfer administration of its tax provisions to the state comptroller. These bills were killed by the Ways and Means Committee as they were considered unconstitutional.

Another censorship bill, the Brownell measure, designed to end censorship and transfer the tax provisions of the education law to the State Tax Department, was also killed by the Ways and Means Committee.

Defeat Foreseen for Delaware Censoring

DOVER, April 15.—The censorship bill, to create a board of censors and to bar divorced actors and actresses, which has caused nationwide comment and protest, is not expected to pass the Senate, according to persons interested in the measure. The bill, introduced by Representative Robert B. Hopkins of Milton, was reported favorably in the House.

The Independent M.P.T.O. of Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Loew's and the Hays organization will oppose the bill when it comes up for a hearing. The National Council on Freedom from Censorship, unit of the American Civil Liberties Union urged opposition to the bill in a letter sent to its Delaware members and organizations of lawyers, teachers, business men and college alumni.

Review Board Lists Children's Choices

As a result of a series of private showings of pictures to children picked at random from schools in all sections of the city the National Board of Review has compiled a list of the preferences expressed by the youngsters.

"Little Women" headed the list with both boys and girls and "Massacre" was top choice among the boys alone, with "Son of a Sailor" and "Cavalcade" second and third. Among 21 other boys' choices were: "All Quiet on the Western Front," "Bring 'Em Back Alive," "Penrod and Sam" and "Lone Cowboy."

"Little Women" and "Flying Down to Rio" headed the girls' list with "Footlight Parade," "Alice in Wonderland," "Forty-second Street" and "Cavalcade" following.

Freedman Gets Shorts

Herman B. Freedman has contracted for the distribution of 13 "News-laughs" and "Shadowlaughs" for states rights exchanges throughout the United States, Boston excepted.

Boston

BOSTON, April 15. — THOMAS B. SPRY, representing affiliated national distributors on the Boston grievance board, is New England branch manager for Warner-F. N. with headquarters here. He is a veteran in the film industry and well known throughout the New England territory where he has been active for more than 15 years past.

Spry established his first film industry connection when he came here to be married. He became a partner of Nathan Gordon's in a distribution enterprise and when First National was organized became a partner in that company. When Warners took over First National Spry was retained as Boston branch manager. In point of service in this territory he ranks as the oldest sales executive in New England film business. His early experience was as an advance agent and publicity man for theatrical producers.

HERMAN RIFKIN, representing unaffiliated distributors on grievances, is owner of the Hollywood Film Corp. and a native of Russia. He was born there in 1884 and came to New York when 16 years old. For 12 years he was manager of the New York office of the Singer Sewing Machine Co., but gave up that position in 1910 when he came to Boston and founded the Eastern Feature Film Co., which operated under that name until 1925, when it became known as the Hollywood Film Corp. Rifkin was one of the first distributors to bring feature films to the New England territory. He is a franchise-holder of Monogram, one of its founders and a member of the board with an exchange here and one in New Haven. Rifkin is married and has a daughter, who was graduated from Simmons in 1933, and a son attending Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

JOHN H. BRENNAN, representing affiliated exhibitors on grievances, is a native son, born in Charleston. He started in the business as an usher and later was a stagehand. Twenty-five years old is his association with the Loew circuit, his period of service dating back to the Columbia here. Later he was transferred to the St. James. When the 3,700-seat State was built about 14 years ago, Brennan was appointed manager. He continues to fill that post and is the dean of the first run managers in the city.

MARTIN R. TOOHEY, representing unaffiliated exhibitors on grievances, is 42 years old, but has been identified with show business since he was 13. He got his start as a general helper at the old Keith in Providence, and since then he has tasted work in most departments of the theatre. He was one end of a two-man vaudeville comedy team in 1911 and 1912, one of the first Rhode Islanders to hold a projectionist's license, and in managerial capacities has seen pictures advance from the day, as he expresses it, when they were housed in a penny arcade until their present tenancy of "sumptuous palaces." After his vaudeville experience, he returned to Providence to become affiliated with Jennings and Bradstreet, and as manager of the old Scenic, now the Rialto, he played a part in directing the destinies of such later-day celebrities as Eddie Downing, Eddie Healey, Jack Kammerer and Walter Weems. In 1913 he became associated with Emery Bros., builders of the Carlton, the Majestic, and the Rialto, and operators as well of the Modern and the Capitol. When Edward M. Fay took over the Emery properties in 1926, Toohey went with him for two years. He has been associated with the Payne interests, builders and operators of the Leroy, since that house's beginning in 1923. Seven years ago he gave up other duties to devote himself to management of the Leroy.

GEORGE R. FARNUM, impartial member on grievances, is a native of Melrose, where he was born May 30, 1885. His education was obtained in the public schools of that city and Boston University Law School from which he was graduated in 1907 with an LL. B. summa cum laude degree. The following year he received his Master of Laws degree from B. U. In 1927, Farnum was appointed assistant attorney general of the United States and served two years under the administration of President Coolidge and one under Ex-President Hoover. In 1930, he resigned to return to Boston to continue his associations with the firm of MacPherson, Auerback and Farnum, lawyers, with offices at 6 Beacon Street.

Farnum served as assistant United States district attorney for Massachusetts in 1925. With the exception of the three years spent in Washington, he has always resided in or near Boston. He is a special instructor on Admiralty law and Federal jurisdiction and practices in the B. U. Law School. Aside from his duties as a lawyer, he is an author of magazine and newspaper articles and has recently submitted stories which have appeared in the Boston Evening Transcript, The Boston University Law Review, the Yale Law Journal and other papers. He has written a number of books, among them biographies of former Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the U. S. Supreme Court and Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the same court. When Benjamin N. Cardozo was appointed to this court, Farnum wrote a philosophic study of him. One of his latest articles concerns the Crawford case and the connections of the late Judge James A. Lowell with it.

Farnum is one of five members from the entire country on the standing committee on Admiralty law of the American Bar Ass'n., of which he is a member. Other organizations to which he belongs are the American Law Institute, Federal Bar Ass'n., Boston Bar Ass'n., Massachusetts Bar Ass'n. and the Maritime Law Ass'n. of U. S. He is the honorary consul general of the Turkish Republic for the New England states and is noted as a speaker on legal, civic and international affairs. Each year he makes a trip abroad with his wife, to whom he was married in 1912.

ROSS C. CROPPER, representing affiliated national distributors on clearance and zoning, is branch manager for RKO and was born in Chicago in 1888. He received his education in the public schools of that city and his degree from Purdue University in 1911. He has been in Boston for 10 years and was connected with Pathe until RKO and Pathe were consolidated in November, 1931. After his graduation from college, Cropper was connected with Universal as branch manager at Kansas City and also as district manager there. Previous to 1924, he had a state rights office in New York. Cropper is married and has two daughters.

JOHN J. DERVIN, representing unaffiliated distributors on clearance and zoning, is well known throughout the territory. He first joined United Artists in December, 1922, as a salesman and resigned in 1930 when he left the industry for another business venture. Films proved the stronger, as well as the first love, and so Dervin returned on March 3, 1930, to his old company. He is now U. A. manager here.

MARTIN J. MULLIN, representing affiliated first runs on clearance and zoning, had been with Publix several years prior to 1928, but in that year was placed in charge of the Publix maintenance department in the home office. He served in that capacity for more than a year, following which he was transferred to the operating department and subsequently assigned to Publix Northwest as head of the Finkelstein & Ruben circuit with headquarters at Minneapolis. After a year in that post he was assigned to the Publix New England division in 1931, headquarters at Boston. After various circuits comprising the New England division went into receivership, the M & P Theatre Corp. was organized by the receivers, with Mullin in charge as operating head, the post he now occupies. M. and P. Theatres, formerly Publix, operate a formidable string of houses in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine and New Hampshire and, through the affiliated Maine and New Hampshire Theatre Co., runs additional theatres in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. M. and P.'s Massachusetts string include houses in Allston, Boston, Brighton, Brockton, Cambridge, Chelsea, Chicopee, Dorchester, Gloucester, Greenfield, Haverhill, Holyoke, Jamaica Plains, Lowell, Lynn, Marlboro, Mattapan, Natick, Needham, New Bedford, Newton, North Adams, North Cambridge, North Attleboro, Norfolk Downs, Norhampton, Pittsfield, Roslindale, Rosbury, Salem, Somerville, Springfield, Waltham, Wollaston and Worcester. Rhode Island holdings are scattered through Newport, Pawtucket and Woonsocket; Maine holdings include theatres in Bangor, Bath, Biddeford, Fort Fairfield; Houlton, Rockland, Waterville and Westbrook; New Hampshire holdings are confined to one theatre in Dover; Vermont holdings to theatres in Barre and Rutland. Maine and New Hampshire operates in Augusta, Auburn, Brunswick, Gardiner, Hallowell, Lewiston, Livermore Falls, Norwov, Rumford, South Paris and Wilton in Maine; in Berlin, Concord and Portsmouth in New Hampshire; in Burlington and Montpelier in Vermont and in Fitchburg in Massachusetts.

MAX L. LEVENSON, representing unaffiliated first runs on clearance and zoning, is an attorney who was born in Boston and who received his education in the Chelsea public schools and Boston University Law School, from which he graduated in 1909. During 1918 and 1919, he served as assistant attorney general of Massachusetts and became connected with pictures in 1909 when he was appointed general counsel for the Mitchell Mark Enterprises and the Highland, Abrams Co. with his brother, Joseph M. Levenson, was associated with the original Metro Film Co. and American Feature Film which at that time was associated with Louis Mayer, now of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. He is vice-president of the Independent Exhibitors Film Ass'n of New England, is married and has three children. His theatres include Columbia (850 seats) and Bates (1,000), in Attleboro; South Station (500), in Boston; Metropolitan (1,200), Plymouth (1,000) and Rialto (1,116), in Leominster; Alhambra (1,600), Quincy (1,660) and Strand (2,000) in Quincy; Plymouth (1,500) in Worcester and Coolidge in Brookline.

CHARLES W. HODGDON, representing unaffiliated subsequent runs on clearance and zoning, entered the amusement world in 1902 as the Boston representative of M. R. Sheedy's circuit which operated in Brockton, Fall River, New Bedford, New London, Norwich, Westerly, Derby and Holyoke. A few years later he opened his own booking office for singers and musicians with New England as his field. Hodgdon became well known in the early days of films through his connection with the Boston Banner Rental Exchange, where he saw all releases to pick out what he considered the most interesting for ultimate reproduction in oils and on canvas. These were leased to theatres for lobby displays. Shortly thereafter, he operated a series of one night stands in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Connecticut with "Pop" Sherman. Later, he entered exhibition and opened houses of his own in Wakefield and for ex-Governor John H. Bartlett in Portsmouth, N. H. He also had the Ioca in Exeter. Subsequently, his Portsmouth interests were turned over to William Gray, whose houses were finally acquired by Publix. About 1917, Hodgdon and his partners then opened houses in Middleboro, Mass., and in Worcester. In 1926 they built the Capitol in Worcester and later sold it to Publix. At present, he operates two theatres, the Wakefield (900 seats) in Wakefield and the Middleboro (1,200), Middleboro, as the Princess Amusement Co.

FRANK LYDON, second exhibitor representing unaffiliated subsequent runs on clearance and zoning, is manager of the Hamilton (700 seats) in Dorchester and was born in Boston in 1898. He received his education in Boston public schools and graduated from Mechanics Arts High School as well as Tilton Seminary in Tilton, N. H. He has always resided in Boston. Lydon followed his father, Michael J., who was one of the pioneers in the business. The father founded a chain in 1907 and took his son into the organization in 1918.

JUDGE ROBERT WOLCOTT, impartial member on clearance and zoning, is associate justice of the Cambridge district court and a Harvard University and Harvard Law School graduate.

Code Charges Finally Set; Bills Go Out

First Payments Are for Six-Month Period

Upon word from Washington yesterday that Administrator Hugh S. Johnson had signed an order approving the budget and finance plan for assessing theatres under the code, Campi began sending out 7,800 bills to exhibitors all over the country for the first six months' assessment totaling $90,681.

The plan which classifies theatres according to population, seating capacity and type of run is in detail and includes only those houses which have sent in unqualified compliance forms.

Trans-Lux 1933 Net Is Put at $114,926

Trans-Lux Daylight Pictures Screen Corp. and its subsidiaries, Trans-Lux Movies Corp. and Canadian Trans-Lux Corp., Ltd., yesterday reported for the year ending Dec. 31, 1933, a net profit of $114,926 after all charges. This was equal to 15 cents a share on 776,348 shares at $1 par capital stock excluding shares held in the treasury. This compares with a net profit of $93,175 or 12 cents a share on 785,175 shares in 1932 exclusive of operations of Trans-Lux Movies Corp.

B. & K. Reports Net In 1933 as $95,191

CHICAGO, April 17.—Balaban & Katz and subsidiaries report a consolidated net profit of $95,191 for the 52 weeks ending Dec. 30, 1933. This was carried to the surplus account. It compares with a consolidated net loss of $993,638 for the 53 weeks ending Dec. 30, 1932.

Reaction to Films May Reach Studios Through Hays Group

Hollywood, April 17.—Public reaction to picture types, aired at the joint exhibitor-producer conference here Monday, will probably filter to the latter through the local Hays organization, it was learned today. This is considered the natural method of handling such material since all major producers, except United Artists, are members. Moreover, the Association of M. P. Producers has machinery along identical lines operating and for some time has been keeping tabs on editorial comment anent production for general studio consumption.

Successor to Film Boards Now Studied

An industry field organization patterned after local chambers of commerce and including in their membership exhibitors as well as distributors is being considered as a successor to the Film Boards of Trade, it was learned yesterday.

Reorganization of the Film Boards along lines such as this now appears inevitable. While the boards, as such, may disappear in the prospective shuffle it appears certain that a new

HOLLYWOOD, April 17.—A cut in major studio schedules may develop as a result of exhibitor-producer deliberations following the general conference held Monday. It was learned today the discussion on quality versus quantity veered around the reputed admission on the part of producers there was no point grinding out pictures merely to meet schedules and it would be far better business to make them fewer and better. Charter Majestic Unit

ALBANY, April 17.—Majestic Producing Corp., New York City, has been chartered with 1,000 shares preferred stock $100 par value and 900 shares common stock no par value. Alfred S. Krellberg, Hilda Geier and Nathan Rochstein of New York, are directors and subscribers.

This is the company formed by Majestic when franchise holders last week approved a plan to make productions under the Majestic banner with Larry Darmour as production head.

May Drop '20th Century'

After spending heavily on advertising, Columbia is seriously considering changing the title of "Twentieth Century." Harry Cohn, president, who is now in New York for conferences, is said to have ordered the change.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Scarlet Empress"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 17.—A magnificent eye-filling spectacle rich in production investiture and replete with the barbaric sadistic splendor of the 18th Century Russian court, "The Scarlet Empress" is far above average, but nevertheless lacks heart and emotional appeal to make it a genuinely big picture.

Telling the story of the diplomatic marriage of Marlene Dietrich, shy and beautiful German princess, to the half-wit nephew of Russia's empress, Catherine, Director Josef Von Sternberg indulged himself in a technically impressive field day, but in so doing failed to take full advantage of the glamour and feminine appeal of his star.

"Scarlet Empress" is a big picture insofar as values on the screen are concerned, but not at all satisfying in its portrayal of the checker board events which turned Miss Dietrich from a trusting romantic girl into a woman of loose morals and unscrupulous power.

The story finds itself well nigh smothered under crushing music, resounding church bells and thundering hoofs of Cossack riders. Of course it has Miss Dietrich, who is photographed with cameo-like care, and, while she is pleasing as a frightened girl in the first half, she reaches her best work in the latter half as a matured, conniving woman bitten by a desire to dominate Russia. It is John Lodge, as Count Alexei, in a biting, incisive role, who makes the strongest impression. This new-comer will be in demand from now on. Sam Jaffe, stage actor, as a mad grand duke, does an interesting job, as do others, including Louise Dresser, C. Aubrey Smith and Olive Tell.

It is essential for showmen to be advised of the fact that "The Scarlet Empress" is in costume. Their box-office experience with this type of picture will influence them in further appraising Miss Dietrich's latest.

Ampa Talent Lineup
Includes Many Stars

Talent lists for the Ampa "Naked Truth" dinner broadcast are growing. Due to the number of stars lined up the dinner will start promptly at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the Astor.

Arthur Lyons of Lyons & Lyons is securing talent. The list includes: George Jessel, Jack Benny, Jimmy Savo, Gloria Swanson, Nita Naldi, Morton Downey, Three Ritz Brothers, Mae Murray, Irene Rich, Frances Williams, Phil Baker, Helen Ford, Emile Boreo, Harry Livingston, Jans and Whalen, Dorothy Mackaill, Jack Campbell and others.

Ken Hallen of RKO is given credit for the deal by which General Foods contributes $3,000 to the relief fund.

Jack Ellis, Maryin Kirsch and others on the entertainment committee met yesterday at Sardi's to complete the program.

Warners Win Right
To "Gold Diggers"

Exclusive right of Warners to the film title, "Gold Diggers," was conceded yesterday by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here in a unanimous decision reversing an earlier ruling of the U. S. District Court.

The suit was brought against Majestic Pictures Corp. when the latter announced release, some time ago, of a picture titled "Gold Diggers of Paris." The district court declined to restrain Majestic from use of the title and Warners appealed to the higher court, resulting in yesterday's reversal. Warners claimed prior right to the title on the basis of its releases of "Gold Diggers," a silent film; "Gold Diggers of Broadway" and "Gold Diggers of 1933." The appeals court decision is said to be the first of its kind.

Is Set on Big Time

HOLLYWOOD, April 17.—Phil Goldstone today reiterated his intention of making only major product and starts with Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." He said he has release set but would not divulge details, adding he will make a limited number on no set schedule.

field organization of the same or similar type will replace them and continue many of their functions.

Miscellaneous duties of the Film Boards, particularly those pertaining to local legislation, fire inspection and the handling of petitions for industry contributions, necessitate the maintenance of a field organization of some sort, it is felt by representative film executives who point out that few industries of the size of this have found it possible to do without a field organization. Changing conditions and problems within the industry, however, have relieved the Film Boards of many of their original functions with the result that consideration of a lower cost organization to take up the remaining, essential field activities of the boards may result soon in a decision to reorganize them along the lines of chambers of commerce.

Exhibitor membership in such a revised industry field organization is favored by many who hold that the industry's problems are rapidly becoming less of an inter-industry type than those arising from sources outside the industry and uninfluenced, for the most part, by trade practices. A complete industry representation within its field organization is regarded as necessary to meet these new problems, it was said.

Also considered as the basis of a new field organization is the Variety Club idea.

Campi Upholds Cullman

Campi has upheld Howard S. Cullman, receiver for the Roxy, in denying a request of John J. Brady, chaplain of the U. S. S. California, for 40,000 cut rate tickets for the theatre.

Code Authority held that any form of cut rate tickets is a violation of the code.

Following a hearing before the general welfare committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday, Alderman Baum's bill to amend the local license law to provide graduated increases starting June 30 was held. No action was taken.

Asks Clearance Chart

PORTLAND, April 17.—Members of the Portland clearance board have suggested that charts on clearance be prepared listing local houses, distributors being guided by the positions allotted on these charts.

Against Reopening

Declaring he is "unwilling at this time to recommend to the President" a move to reopen the code as a result of suggestions made by the vaudeville committee, Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt has notified Jack Partington of F. & M. that action on the vaudeville-labor report is being deferred until a later date, not mentioned.

After the Code, What?

local autonomy through the 31 grievance boards and the 31 clearance and zoning boards, minus control from New York and in strict conformance with the oaths to which all board members pledged themselves in accepting those appointments.

Perhaps it is too idealistic a point of view. The convention here passed a resolution designed to cloak the boards with complete local decision, locally arrived at, and in so doing implied that the members should ignore or forget or gloss over the allegiance which is due their employers. Asking a man to adhere to an ideal if he knows or learns or suspicions the company which gives him his livelihood may not agree is going far in an effort to revamp the normal flow of human reactions.

What appears to have been forgotten, if it were ever at all known, is the fundamental behind the national recovery program. The theory of spreading available work in order to put more men back in jobs is, of course, thoroughly familiar by this time. As thoroughly familiar as well, should be the realization that all codes formulated to date recognize that the large, vested interests in any given industry must dominate code authorities and all other supplementary or complementary sub-machinery under them.

It was inevitable and inescapable that major companies like Paramount, Warners, M-G-M, Fox, Radio, and Universal would have seats on code authority; that each one of the two national exhibitor organizations — M.P.T.O.A. and Allied—would have one each; that the independent producers and distributors would rate one at least, as would independent exhibitors not tied in with either or any of the national theatre associations.

It was inevitable and inescapable, as well, that the balance of power would reach into local boards, the personnel of which Code Authority not only approves, but has the power to change.

The NRA never had intention of turning over any industry to minority interests, granting that all effort has been made to clean up practices in that industry. Because the setup is what it is and is what any observer, capable of prying beneath surface indications, must have concluded anyway, any such idea of Walsh's becomes subject to doubt.

Laudable it is, and commendable. Right he is when he advances the theory that some thought might well be expended on what comes after the code. The factors mentioned earlier, however, cannot be ignored on any altar of idealism nor can it be forgotten that the history of competitive business illustrates full well how jealously and how tenaciously are fought the relinquishing of the power of the strong to bolster the effectiveness of the weak.

The folly of loose talk was rather thoroughly demonstrated in one of the later sessions here by Jack Miller, who took independent producers and distributors for a sleigh ride. Exactly as Louis B. Mayer ineffectually attempted to shift whatever onus rests on Hollywood's shoulders today to the exhibitor, so did Miller open the flood gates of rebuttal that persuaded him to admit subsequently he made a mistake.

He took handsome cracks at quickies and concluded double features would drive exhibitors out of business if they didn't get to the punch, in reverse, first.

He stated independent producers and distributors never had contributed anything to the business and thereby stubbed his toes pretty badly, forgetting, as did Joseph M. Schenck several weeks ago, the talent now part of many major producing organizations which sprang from those very beginnings.

He overlooked the first run operator, principally producer-affiliated, who, by extended protection, makes it difficult for the subsequent run showmen to get product when it is fresh and then proceeds to give the public more than it has paid for by adding presentations or vaudeville or both.

He neglected to realize that independent producers, many of them making very bad pictures, it is true, proceeded to do what is normal business procedure: to cash in on market peculiarities which, in this instance, happen to be double features.

"They have no right in the business," stormed Miller.

No? Independent producers and distributors live by the demand of their customers, independents, exhibitors and circuits as well.

As long as any theatre in America wants to play double features, it will.

As long as any demand exists, someone will be found to supply that market regardless of any resolutions or heat which the M.P.T.O.A. may have turned on.

The attack on independents was fallacious because the guilt, if it is guilt, rests on the men who launched the attack. Exhibitors have never had the courage to cut out doubles and triples, yet at this convention they sought to pass on the blame for their own vacillation to other sources.

matter over until today. It was also decided to open offices on the 10th floor of the Bond building. J. Louis Geller is chairman of the committee on quarters.

All members of the boards were present except Lawrence Bolognino, who is vacationing in California. Geller acted as his alternate. In addition, Charles L. O'Reilly, a member of Campi and head of the T. O. C. C., and John C. Flinn were present at the clearance and zoning session. Flinn also attended the grievance board meeting.

Milwaukee Takes Up Its First Grievance

MILWAUKEE, April 17.—The grievance committee here is airing its first code complaint in the case of the Saxe Amusement Management Co. vs. Ashley Theatres Corp. and Vitagraph, Inc. The complaint charges violation of Article 5, Section E, Part 2 and Article 6, Part 2, Sub-Sections A, B and D of the code.

All committeemen were present today with M. T. Ellis of Beloit acting for David Weshner and George Fischer for Fred Meyer. Decision was reserved.

Governor of Idaho Will Present Award

BOISE, Idaho, April 17.—Governor C. Ben Ross will present the March Quigley Award to Nevin McCord, manager of the Granada. Arrangements were made by Louis Marcus of Salt Lake City, but the date has not been set.

Reed to Be SMPE Guest

William Reed, the man who "ran the picture" in the first film theatre, will be an honor guest at the spring meeting of the S.M.P.E. which gets under way next Monday at Atlantic City. He is now an operator at the Colonial, Atlantic City. He was a field repair man for Thomas A. Edison on kinetoscopes when he was hired in 1896 by William Rock and William Wainwright to put on a show in a vacant store on Canal St., New Orleans.

Gala Stadium Opening

HOLLYWOOD, April 17.—The Actors' Guild will open the Gilmore Sports Stadium, now under construction, with a three-day fiesta beginning May 18. Proceeds will go to the Guild fund. Planned are five big shows consisting mostly of animal acts and other carnival attractions, with stars making personal appearances.

SMPE Number

Articles by Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, president of the S.M.P.E., and Terry Ramsay, editor of the M. P. Herald, will be special features of the Herald's S.M.P.E. number out tomorrow. The S.M.P.E. convention opens Monday and continues through Thursday at Atlantic City.

VIVA VILLA PACKS 'EM IN!

RIPTIDE... 3rd BIG WEEK CAPITOL

Giant Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Hits March on Broadway!

36 hour weeks! Millions... with new leisure... race to the theatre for happy hours of entertainment!

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer snaps into action! "Viva Villa!" hailed with critical cheers, storms into the Criterion as a two-a-day attraction. At the Capitol, Norma Shearer's "Riptide" sweeps into a third capacity week, winning an honor that has been accorded only six pictures in fifteen years.

Put your ear to the ground! More MGM triumphs are on the march! Read more about them on this page!

NORMA SHEARER'S "RIPTIDE"—300,000 people stormed through the doors of the Capitol Theatre to see Norma Shearer, Robert Montgomery and Herbert Marshall in "Riptide" in the first two weeks of the engagement. Now, in the third week, box-office lines are still trailing down Broadway.

If the Capitol schedule permitted we believe this fine actress in this truly great emotional drama could run as long as "Abie's Irish Rose!" Congratulations, Miss Shearer!

"TARZAN AND HIS MATE" CAPITOL FRIDAY, APRIL 20

For sheer excitement, you'll find "Tarzan and His Mate" to be your most vivid movie experience. It leaves you gasping! Adventures and thrills rain on the screen in these brand-new exploits of the one and only Johnny Weissmuller. Among other high-lights of this Edgar Rice Burroughs jungle thriller, we recommend the incredible episode at the secret Elephant Burial Ground; Tarzan's clash with the ferocious "Lion Tooth Men" and the fight with the crocodile in the Crystal Love Pool.

yesterday included one for a "closed" shop and for adoption of a new wage scale for the classifications of employees represented in the union's membership. The scale sets up the following weekly wages: ushers, $18; assistant chief ushers, $20; head ushers, $24; janitors, $24; head janitors, $30; doormen, $24; watchmen, $24, and matrons, $18.

Attending the meeting, which was held at Loew's theatre headquarters, were: C. C. Moskowitz, Loew's; Major L. E. Thompson, RKO; Charles L. O'Reilly, T. O. C. C.; Harry Brandt, I. T. O. A.; Jack Bannan, Publix; Louis Frisch and Sam Rinzier, Randforce Circuit; Willard Patterson and F. N. Phelps, Warners, and George Skouras, Skouras Circuit.

Circuit representatives issued the following statement at the close of the meeting:

"Executives representing motion picture theatres of New York City met with Charles Levey of the Building Service Employees organization, and again asked Mr. Levey to present definite data as to whom he represents. The theatre representatives refused to negotiate further with Mr. Levey until he made clear whom he represents. The theatre men reiterated the fact that they are fully complying with the NRA Code, as to hours of work and wages, in many instances paying as much as 50 per cent above the code minimum wage. The theatre managers believe it contrary to the spirit of the New Deal to discharge otherwise efficient employees who have not chosen to join the organization Mr. Levey claims he represents."

"U" Meeting Tomorrow

Universal's stockholders meeting will be held in New York tomorrow at which time two directors will be elected from the stockholders. Carl Laemmle, president, in from the coast to attend the meeting, has several other matters to take care of before heading west again.

Code Charges Finally Set; Bills Go Out to Exhibitors

The last census, 1930, is taken as a basis for determining population of the various cities. Exhibitors who did not sign are not included, therefore the number of houses specified by Campi in its chart includes only theatres represented by assent forms now on hand.

According to the figures tabulated by Code Authority, 2,387 houses seating under 500 in towns where population is under 25,000 are taxable. These theatres are being sent bills for $6 on the semi-annual payment plan. In the same cities, 1,794 theatres with seats over 500 are being assessed $9. Payments can be made by check, postal or express money order to Code Authority in New York. Exhibitors are being cautioned against sending money to secretaries of the local boards, as this will delay receipt of the funds. Secretaries upon receipt of payments must send them to headquarters where each theatre will be checked off on the master card index system.

The official chart as prepared by Code Authority follows:

pendent producer will be held in Chicago the early part of May when directors, vice-presidents and regional chairmen of Allied meet with Samuelson. At this meeting it will be determined how much playing time can be guaranteed an independent producer before signing a deal.

Allied Talks Rentals

Discussion of producers' rental demands formed the principal topic at the Jersey Allied meeting yesterday. These will be taken up further at a meeting of eastern regional Allied directors to be held at the Park Central next Tuesday under the chairmanship of Walter B. Littlefield, Allied vice-president.

Production Down; Cutters Are Busy

production is slowing up at this time. The score last week registered 36 features and 10 shorts in work, as compared to 41 and 14 for the preceding week.

Paramount continues to lead the field with seven features in work, six preparing and eight cutting; M-G-M has six, two and eight; Radio, six, three and three; Fox, four, five and six; Warners four, three and eight; Columbia, three, two and four; Universal, zero, one and two, while the independent producers report a total of six, five and four.

The short subject division shows M-G-M with three in work, two preparing and five editing; Roach, zero, zero and three; Universal, one, two and three; Columbia, zero, two and three; Radio, one, zero and zero, while the independents report a total of five, five and six.

Frank Phelps Given Paterson's Old Job

Frank Phelps, former zone manager for Warner Ohio theatres, has succeeded Willard Paterson in the New York office.

Phelps has been with Warners for the past four years. Prior to that he was division manager for RKO and at one time he was also general representative for the Shuberts.

Paterson resigned his Warner post last week to accept the post as operating head of the Publix theatres in Detroit under George Trendle.

Showmen May Win Fight to Hike Quality

sphere was reached today at a meeting between M.P.T.O.A. representatives and leading independents at the Ambassador. Present for the exhibitors were Ed Kuykendall, M. E. Comerford, M. A. Lightman, Walter Vincent and Charles E. Williams, while independents were represented by Trem Carr, head of the I.M.P.P.A. and vice-president of Monogram; I. E. Chadwick, vice-president of the I.M.P.P.A. and president of Chadwick Productions, and J. Boyce Smith, vice-president of Inspiration Pictures.

Duals were said to have been opposed and it was reported that sentiment was that independents must be encouraged to make better product. The M.P.T.O.A. conferees repeated their opinion that independents have a definite place because of the necessity of new and independent ideas in production. The exhibitors again went on record for fewer pictures, reiterating their stand that this is the only way to make more quality product.

There is no question that a better understanding of the attitude of both parties was arrived at.

Kuykendall said at the close of the meeting he was authorized to say that the Monday session with the majors resulted in a decision duals should go but that no definite method of arriving at that end had been determined. He added exhibitors had informed producers their own affiliated theatres were among the guilty parties, a fact which, he said, producers admitted. Producers were reported as not having admitted unwarranted dirt had crept into pictures but granted that "some unnecessary material of that nature may have slipped by."

The exhibitor committee to carry the discussion further probably will not be named until Kuykendall returns east.

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—Ed Kuykendall leaves tomorrow to address northern California exhibitors at San Francisco on Thursday. Later he will visit exhibitors informally at Salt Lake City, Denver and Chicago on his way east.

Calls Coast Choice Wise

HOLLYWOOD, April 17.—The M. P. T. O. A. convention on Hollywood ground was a smart move because "exhibitors made their presence felt," declared Jack Warner today, adding "they made Hollywood realize there was someone else around aside from those of the production colony."

Darrow to Ask For Specific Code Changes

Review Board's Report Ready on Saturday

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Specific revisions of the film and other codes which the National Recovery Review Board has investigated will be recommended in a report to be submitted to President Roosevelt April 21, it has been made known by Clarence Darrow, chairman of the board.

The submission of the report, it was indicated, will bring the labors of the board to an end, unless and until it is reorganized on a permanent basis.

That section of the report devoted to the film code will go into the matter exhaustively, it was intimated, and

No Secretary Named By Clearance Board

Members of the main local clearance and zoning board were in a deadlock yesterday on the choice of a secretary and have put the matter over until April 26, when another session will be held.

Conferring at the M. P. Club yesterday on the recommendation, the board invited the three applicants to detail in person their qualifications. Sam Moross was immediately disqualified because it was felt that if he were taken on a stenographer for

Levey Laying Plans for His Strike Calls

Local 118, Theatre and Amusement Employees Union, mapped plans yesterday for putting into effect on Saturday its threatened strike against circuits in the metropolitan area.

No general strike will be called, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned. The present strategy planned by the union is the withdrawal of only limited numbers of employees from strategic circuit houses. By this means the bulk of the union's membership would be kept at work while, at the same

Warners Sue For $105,864 In St. Louis

New Angle of Fight for Amusement Company

ST. LOUIS, April 18.—Another phase of the bitter struggle for control of the St. Louis Amusement Co. has cropped up in the form of a suit by Warners against the amusement company for $105,864 with interest. It has been filed in the U. S. District Court.

Warners acquired control of 93 per cent of the outstanding stock of the St. Louis Amusement Co. when they bought Skouras Brothers Enterprises, Inc., in 1928. When the latter went into bankruptcy, however, 51 per cent of the stock held in the name of the Skouras company, went into the hands of the court's trustees.

In one of the suits it is alleged Warners paid bills and payrolls for U. A. Will Have 20 On New Season List

United Artists will release 20 features next season, it was stated officially yesterday. In addition 26 shorts in color will be released. These will be produced by Walt Disney and will consist of 13 Mickey Mouses and 13 Silly Symphonies in Technicolor.

No sales meeting or regional confabs are slated this year, the company going right into the new season without any ado over new product, which will be sold on policies to be set up as the individual pictures arrive from the coast.

Numbers Versus Quality

By RED KANN

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—"What about the quickies the majors turn out? If independents can be made to stop turning out poor pictures, what are we going to do about the large companies which insist upon turning out numbers of pictures instead of pictures? Exhibitors should inform producers in no uncertain terms we don't want and can't use 400 to 500 to 600 a year. Until we get a curtailment in product, we get nothing and any time we may have spent here is wasted."

M. A. Lightman did the talking and sounded a vital problem which, while it came to light at the M.P.T.O.A. convention, proved a revival of an old and vexatious problem about which nothing has been done in the business since it went into the major classification.

Chance Seen In Contracts To Kill Duals

Weigh Clause to This End in New Pacts

By RED KANN

HOLLYWOOD, April 18.—Falling back on what they feel certain is the right to sell their product under their own conditions, major producers are seriously considering a clause in contracts for the new season prohibiting exhibition of their pictures when coupled with any other feature and in this manner deal a body blow to doubles. Since films are copyrighted articles and license to them is not sold to exhibitors, it is felt producers who may be so inclined have the right to refashion their selling policy along these lines, it was learned today.

This was aired at a joint conference between ranking studio executives and M.P.T.O.A. leaders Monday, with no decision reached as reported earlier, but with the determination to submit such a plan, which continues entirely nebulous so far to legal scrutiny.

It is understood M-G-M, Paramount, Warner and Fox feel their output is carrying minor features on dual bills and is suffering from, or sharing rentals with, secondary prod-

DETROIT, April 18.—No further changes in the United Detroit Theatres management are contemplated at this time, according to George Trendle, as a result of the resignation of Thomas D. Moule as general manager and his replacement by Willard Patterson.

Moule held the post for 15 years, staying over when Kunsky-Trendle turned the houses over to Publix.

Howard O. Pierce stays as advertising and production manager and L. H. Gardner remains as manager of the suburban houses.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Double Door"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 18.—"Double Door" purports to be drama based on the lives of two New York spinsters of amazing wealth and legendary home life. It reveals the dominant sister as the maniac ruler of the house, exercising tyrannical power over her spinster sister, thwarted in love, and also against a weakling brother who has dared to marry and whose bride she browbeats also.

Seldom has such a menace been depicted—loveless, envious and jealous, absorbed only by lust for power and gold. The central character will give audiences plenty of opportunity to hiss and vent their feelings.

Screened with the sub-title "The play that shocked Broadway," this melodrama is dour in mood and sinister in theme, yet has dramatic suspense.

The production is rich and nicely directed. Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor supply the romance. Mary Morris, playing the lead, makes her character completely venomous. Sir Guy Standing and Ann Revere give able support. The production is unrelieved by humor.

Without box-office names to attract, selling the picture becomes a problem, unless it can be: "Come and Hiss a Hateful Dame."

Honor Universal Booker

CHICAGO, April 18.—In recognition of 18 years of service, Walter Hyland, booker at the Universal exchange here, is being honored by having the week of May 6 to 12 designated as "Walter Hyland Week." It is one of the few instances in which such distinction has been accorded a booker.

Astor-Marcy in Deal

R. M. Savini of Astor Pictures has closed a deal with M. A. Marks of Marcy Pictures whereby the latter will distribute Astor product in New York and northern New Jersey. The pictures include 12 three-reel "Bud 'n' Ben" westerns, three of which have been released, "Killers of the Chaparral" and other shorts.

Glick Leaves for Coast

Hyman J. Glick, comptroller of Mascot Pictures, left yesterday for the coast to discuss product with Nat Levine. En route, Glick will stop over at Buffalo and Chicago for conferences with franchise holders.

Waldorf Now a Cinema

The former Waldorf, at 153 West 49th St., is scheduled to open tomorrow as the "Westminster Cinema" on an all-British film policy. Two Gaumont-British pictures, "The Prince of Wales" and "Just Smith," are booked for the opening program. A syndicate under the name of Westminster Cinema, Inc., has been formed to operate the house, a 200-seater, without balcony, which formerly housed an occasional stage play.

Book Woolcott Short

Alexander Woolcott's first short, "Mr. W's Little Game," has been booked into the Rivoli, starting next Wednesday. It was directed by Lynn Shores under the supervision of George Goman.

Amity Secures 'Morning'

John M. Crinnion of Amity Pictures has secured distribution rights to "Before Morning," in which Leo Carrillo is starred.

uct as result of the widespread use of twin shows throughout the country. If this move crystallizes into definite action, the understanding is the step must be and would be reached by individual action, thereby those majors who, because of the nature of their business, feel doubles are necessary to continue doing exactly that.

Private discussions here remind of the exclusive publication in MOTION PICTURE DAILY last fall of the situation in Chicago where B. & K. and Essaness were understood to have killed duals by insisting upon a clause in contracts with distributors calling for a refund from the latter if pictures subsequently were coupled with a second feature in any other Windy City theatre.

An alternative proposal to rid the industry of twins revolved around conferences which poised the value in asking Campi to add a clause to the code ruling out twins in any territory where a major exhibitor vote so determined. This varies from the long haranguing during Washington code hearings when it was nip and tuck whether or not the code would contain a clause eliminating duals by a 75 per cent vote in a given territory.

George A. Billings Dead

HOLLYWOOD, April 18.—George A. Billings, 63, died today after a long illness in obscurity at the National Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle. His widow survives. The actor will be remembered as the Abraham Lincoln of Al Rockett's silent production based on the life of the Emancipator.

Decision was reserved by Judge Caffey on a review of Referee Davis' order expunging a rent claim of the Georgia Realty Co., Atlanta, for $674,666, which had been filed against Publix Enterprises, bankrupt theatre subsidiary of Paramount Publix.

Silent-Sound Film Programs Get Test

KANSAS CITY, April 18.—Silent films are to be a weekly feature at the Colonial and Southtown, local neighborhoods, as a result of an experiment conducted by W. D. Fulton, who combined silent and talking pictures on one bill last week. Fulton said grosses showed a spurt.

"Beau Geste" was chosen as the representative film of the pre-talk era. In contrast, the combination included "Lady Killer" at the Southtown, and "The Prizefighter and the Lady" was on the double bill at the Colonial later in the week. The programs were shown two days at each house.

The novelty was billed in 20,000 heralds as the "world premiere of Silent vs. Sound." Advertising was directed to those who regret the passing of the silent film and to the new crop of fans to whom talkless pictures are a novelty.

Wins Suit in Sale Of "Padded" House

DENVER, April 18.—The Colorado Supreme Court has affirmed the award of the district court of $4,290 damages because of losses incurred by Mrs. Clara Moidel in the purchase of the Comet from Mr. and Mrs. Frances Micheletti.

Mrs. Moidel claimed that because the Michelettis had represented the gross at the Comet to be $450 a week and because of the large number of passes making it appear large crowds attended regularly, she agreed to purchase the theatre for $6,000, and also to take an option on the building and real estate.

After operating the theatre she found the receipts were far below the $450, and sued for damages. In the meantime Micheletti had been killed in an auto accident.

will show not only where revision should be made, but just how it should be accomplished.

All hearings have been canceled and dissolution of the board is looked for, because of differences of opinion on procedure among members. Due to these differences the report has been revised repeatedly, and is said to be of such a nature even now that all of the members will not sign, although officials do not believe any member will go so far as to submit a minority report.

It is expected John F. Sinclair of New York will be one of the members who will not sign. He has consistently maintained that the board should not recommend specific changes in codes without first securing technical information.

A vote was taken and the members were evenly divided on the selection. Both girls are considered unusually capable and further details are being sought.

Attending the conclave were Robert Wolff, chairman; Judge Alfred E. Steers, impartial member; David Loew, Harry Shiffman, J. Louis Geller, Leo Abrams and Edward Rugoff. Geller was alternate for Lawrence Bolognino, who is on the coast.

Elias Mayer, Chicago, attorney for Ashley, objected to the hearing on the ground that the compliance board at Madison had already referred it to Washington. This objection was overruled. An early decision is expected.

Inter-Mountain Men Discuss Code Issues

SALT LAKE CITY, April 18.—Code problems and the work of the grievance board were the principal topics of discussion at the last meeting of the Inter-Mountain Theatres Ass'n. New clearance schedules are wanted.

time, the union would picket houses in which some of its own membership continued at work. The union membership includes ushers, doormen, janitors, matrons and watchmen.

The union demands a "closed" shop and acceptance of a new wage scale for its members by noon today. Circuits gave no indication yesterday that they would yield.

Local 118 has received a reply from Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt to a request for a reopening of the film code to negotiate higher minimum wages for the classes of employees represented by the union's membership, in which Rosenblatt states the code will not be reopened at this time. The reply sets forth that the minimums prescribed in the code were drawn from a national viewpoint and, as far as the NRA is concerned, were never intended to be made the maximum scales.

Midland Scale Goes Up for "Rothschild"

KANSAS CITY, April 18.—Decision by Loew's to boost the Midland's top from 25 cents to 40 cents for "The House of Rothschild," dated for the week beginning April 28, has stirred speculation whether the higher price is to remain in deference to many demands that downtown first runs raise their admission scales. It is pointed out that should the circuit retain the higher scale as a permanent policy, it would go a long way toward a solution of the local price situation.

John McManus, Midland manager, said the increased admission is for the week of "Rothschild" only and reverts to 25 cents at the end of the run. The scale for the week will be 25 cents until 6 P. M. and 40 cents thereafter, marking the first departure from the Midland's low price since it was adopted 16 months ago.

South Carolina Tax On Theatres Is Cut

CHARLOTTE, April 18.—Under a new tax bill just passed by the Legislature of South Carolina the 10 per cent admission tax is replaced by a graduated tax on theatres, according to seating capacity and population. It is figured this will cut the annual theatre tax by from $80,000 to $100,000.

Walsenburg Co. Quits

DENVER, April 18.—The Walsenburg Amusement Co., which operated the Valencia and Rialto at Walsenburg, Col., until selling to F. W. C. several years ago, has been dissolved. The papers were signed by Paul Krier as president and P. A. Wyatt as secretary.

Denver Scales Up Again

the amusement company totaling $9,264 between Nov. 15, and Nov. 28, 1931, and that $8,945 of this is still due. In another action the charge is made that Warners advanced $47,499 to the circuit between Aug. 16, 1930, and March 31, 1934, and that $46,919 of this amount is still due.

The third suit, brought on a note of April 9, 1930, for $30,000 and a second note for $20,000 dated April 28, 1930, seeks interest at six per cent. The same rate of interest is asked on the $8,945 action, while in the suit for $46,919 interest amounting to $6,055 is asked. The suit for $8,945 was brought in the name of Warner Brothers Theatres, Inc., and the others under the name of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc.

serted, will kill a picture quicker than anything else.

Mae West's third film will show conclusively whether the public likes her type of production, it was declared. The success of the first two pictures was attributed to their novelty.

A continued drive in support of good pictures is the only way in which the screen can be improved, the report stated, and education was indicated as being better than censorship in bringing this about.

Catholics in Cincy Sign Decency Pledge

CINCINNATI, April 18.—Many thousand Catholics are reported to be pledging themselves to remain away from pictures which offend decency.

The pledges were distributed in all local Catholic churches Sunday by the Legion of Decency. The Legion also seeks to "arouse public opinion against the portrayal of vice as a normal condition of affairs, and against depicting criminals of any class as heroes and heroines, presenting their filthy philosophy of life as something acceptable to decent men and women," to quote the language of the pledge.

and 12 "Willie Whopper" cartoons, produced by Ub Iwerks for Powers. Iwerks will continue making cartoons for Powers, who will distribute independently next season.

With the end of relations between Powers and M-G-M, Harry Cohen, contact man for Powers at the distributing company's headquarters, has been dropped.

Two animators, formerly with Walt Disney and Leon Schlesinger, have joined M-G-M and are now lining up a staff to start work shortly on the first of 12 cartoons to be done in three-color Technicolor process.

Numbers Versus Quality

Facts are lacking, or at least impossible to officially nab, to back up Ben Berinstein's statement that "every major producing company was figuring on adding to its program in order to land some of the revenue available from double bills."

Yet this writer is reminded of what he learned in New York prior to this western trek. One major company, hearing another in its same classification planned to trim for 1934-35, immediately revamped its temporary plans for the new season by contemplating 10 additional pictures. Thereby it filled in an impending gap in the industry's commitment, founded on what is a mystery, to turn out next year what it produced this and all the years before it.

Several exhibitors at the convention asked why it was that M-G-M, for example, insisted on making 52, Paramount 60 to 65, Warners 60 every year. "I'll tell you why," volunteered Walter Vincent. "It's because each producer is afraid some other producer will tie up more of your time if he makes less pictures."

The problem of industry production has been thrown around from year to year, dodging and defying solution simply because no one has ever paid serious attention to it. The other night someone remarked what a fine job Jeff McCarthy had done in dry cleaning advertising.

"It's marvelous, isn't it?" was the comment.

"Yes, it is," was the reply, "but the explanation is very simple. It happened and that quickly because the determination to do so was developed and McCarthy was backed to the limit in the job assigned to him."

While this may have nothing to do with the point under discussion, it, nevertheless, has in that the failure to solve the question of production and possible overproduction subjects itself to the same underlying reason for the success which has marked the move toward less objectionable advertising.

It is doubtful if any thorough analysis of market requirements ever has been made. Exactly how many pictures are necessary each year to supply the theatres of the land? Who knows, anyway?

There appears to be little or no effort to adjust production to fit the needs, but rather a lone-hand endeavor, individually carried forward and predicated on tying up as many playdates as possible with celluloid firstly and with what's caught on that celluloid, secondly.

Louis B. Mayer's attack on exhibitors was built largely on the theory showmen expected a hit every week, plus the admission on his part that neither M-G-M nor all Hollywood studios combined could deliver on that basis. Exhibitor rejoinder was: "Why make 52? Who told you to?"

The argument is bromidic and frosty with age, but repetition fails to weaken the observation that, if pictures drop in number, they may increase in quality. It does not necessarily follow that this is true, but the chances are for it.

The argument that the flow of pictures is determined by the number of program changes and competitive theatre situations rates consideration naturally, but likewise does the argument that pictures can and are held over when they rate. "David Harum" and "It Happened One Night" are demonstrating that rather generally up and down the land. There is no need to go into "Three Little Pigs."

Showmen, as demonstrated here, understand every release cannot click, are ready to be satisfied with about one in five and prepared at any and all times to extend playdates when the product is commercially meritorious. It's obvious that they should be. In fact, they are.

If events bear out the fears expressed during the meetings here that major distributors actually will increase their programs to hurdle the 10 per cent cancellation clause to which all of them are committed under the code, the situation would be unfortunate indeed. Since all of the principal studios are compelled to make more pictures than they can attractions under the present, archaic system, the consequences of stepping up schedules to maintain present day averages can result in only one way: more poor pictures.

Why aren't fewer pictures made? The bogey of lost playing time is one reason, but a bogey it is since the chance that pictures will improve brings a more certain chance of extended playing time. Producers, reluctant to relinquish what they think they have now, say privately that, if they cut, independents will step into the gap. Undoubtedly true, but what of it?

It's what's on the spools, not the number of spools that tells the story.

Seven of Nine "U" Directors Are Reelected

Schine and Klee Replace Mastroly, Walsh

WILMINGTON, April 19.—Seven of the nine directors of Universal Pictures Co., Inc., were reelected at the annual meeting of stockholders of the company held here today. J. Myer Schine, up-state New York circuit operator, and Simon J. Klee, New York manufacturer, were the additions to the board. They replace Frank Mastroly and E. F. Walsh.

Reelected were: Carl Laemmle, P. D. Cochrane, Charles B. Paine, Helen E. Hughes, James R. Grainger and Willard F. McKay, for the common

More Code Finance Problems Up Today

With Nathan Yamins acting as chairman, the committee on finances, consisting of W. C. Michel, alternating for S. R. Kent, and Harold S. Bareford, substituting for H. M. Warner, will meet this morning at Campi to discuss ways of assessing producers and distributors $90,681 as half of the code budget expense. The other half is being derived from exhibition.

Clearance to Stand Pending Objections

Unless protests are made against changes in local clearance and zoning schedules the current drafts will stand, it was pointed out yesterday by Campi with the release of the official blank for filing protests.

In addition to identifying himself, the exhibitor must specify the theatre he represents on the standard form. Also, he must "state the nature of his

KANSAS CITY, April 19.—The business stimulator known as "bank night" is in violation of the Kansas lottery laws, Roland Boynton, state attorney general, has informed R. R. Biechele, secretary of the K. M. T. A., who requested an opinion for the benefit of members.

The attorney general made the same ruling to the Central States Theatrical Premium Co. of Kansas City.

According to information furnished the attorney general, the plan works as follows: "A register book is placed near the box-office with a sign thereon stating, 'Register here to get free bank account.' The public at large is permitted to register, each person being permitted to register but once. Each registration is numbered. On the night of drawing a number corresponding to each registration is placed in a hat or other receptacle and is drawn therefrom. WILMINGTON, April 19.—Chief Justice Daniel J. Layton today fixed May 1 as the date for a hearing on a petition of U. S. Senator Daniel O. Hastings, Wilmington receiver for General Theatres Equipment, Inc., for authority to enter into a compromise agreement with the Chase National Bank.

The agreement provides that the bank will reduce its claim against General Theatres from in excess of $20,000,000 to $15,310,832.19 and that the bank will assist in the reorganization of the company. It will also give General Theatres an option to buy 325,000 shares of Fox Film Class A stock at $15 per share.

Sales Tax in Ohio Gets Worst Defeat

COLUMBUS, April 19.—The general sales tax, reduced from three to two per cent, was defeated in the House today for the fourth time within a year. The vote was 55 for and 58 against, with 68 votes necessary for passage. It was the worst defeat ever received by the proposal.

A motion to reconsider the bill was carried in the House later with an amendment to make allocations by individual counties on the basis of actual loss incurred from the real estate tax limit voted favorably at the November election. This assures another vote for the tax bill.

Strike Calls Put Up to Rosenblatt

a result of an appeal to Rosenblatt by the union, which set forth that the minimum wages prescribed by the code for the classifications of employees represented by Local 118 were "insufficient for a decent living." Rosenblatt previously had advised the local that the code's labor provisions would not be reopened at this time for adjustment and suggested that they seek relief through collective bargaining.

The union also sent appeals for "aid and sympathy" during the strike to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt; Norman Thomas, Socialist leader; Heywood Brown, New York newspaperman; and to the Jewish Daily Forward. The appeal to the latter asked that it aid in a boycott of Loew's theatres, which, the union's letter charged, were leading the opposition to the ushers' door-men's and janitors' union.

Local 118 had set yesterday noon as a deadline for acceptance of its demands by the circuits, failing which the strike was set to become effective tomorrow.

Three copies of the protests must be made out, all to be filed with local secretaries.

Code Board Expense Is Being Tabulated

A recapitulation on how Campi expects to spend the $181,362 to be collected from distributors, producers and exhibitors is now being made by Executive Secretary John C. Flinn. The report, when completed, will give the number of employees working for Campi and salaries paid them. In addition all other expenses, including rents of the various code offices, will be included. The report will be ready in a few weeks.

Seven Secretaries To Be Named Today

Seven code board secretaries are expected to be approved by Campi today at its regular meeting. Nineteen already have been approved and five cities are not unanimous on their selections.

Easil Ziegler yesterday was unanimously recommended by the Philadelphia boards and his name will be one of the seven to be announced today. Emaline Fineberg is expected to get the Pittsburgh post.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Strictly Dynamite"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, April 19.—This is a fair comedy marred by a weak plot and slight overpaying.

Norman Foster, a struggling young poet, is persuaded by his wife (Marian Nixon), to write radio copy to solve their money problem. Posing as a dynamic literati, Foster sells his stuff, purloined from old joke books, to Jimmy Durante, a national radio favorite. Money rolls in until Foster gets tangled with Durante's gal (Lupe Velez). His wife leaves him; Durante fires him; his agent (William Gargan) burns up his contract, and Foster finds himself on the curb. The situation does an about-face when Miss Nixon accidentally sends Foster's most serious poem to Durante, who falls for it as a "new touch" for his program. Miss Nixon returns to her husband, his contract is renewed, and money rolls in again.

Uneven tempo and scattering of laughs keep this one from getting anything but mild reactions. The cast does well enough. The biggest laughs go to Sterling Holloway, a telephone repairman, and Leila Bennett, Foster's secretary. The dialogue, by Milton Raison and Jack Harvey, saves many of the situations. Elliott Nugent directed.

"Manhattan Melodrama"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, April 19.—"Manhattan Melodrama" is aptly titled. This romantic metropolitan saga of two men and one woman is earmarked for the box office. All the production values hit the bullseye while preserving a powerful character drama. Punchy dialogue, rapid fire action and thrilling New York sporting shots endow the film with Manhattan's sidewalk flavor. Director W. S. Van Dyke capitalizes every punch, while Clark Gable, William Powell and Myrna Loy contribute outstanding performances.

The story parallels the diverging lives of two New York boys orphaned in the General Slocum steamboat disaster and left destitute as their foster father, George Sidney, is killed in a Trotsky riot. Gable becomes a big shot gambler, Powell a district attorney.

Surrendering his mistress, Miss Loy, to Powell, Gable kills the menace, Jackson, ex-Powell aide. Powell prosecutes and convicts Gable, his boyhood pal. Powell is elected governor. His wife, Miss Loy, pleads with him to commute Gable's death sentence. There is a dramatic death house scene which shows Gable urging Powell to stick to his duty, no matter what his fate, and going to the chair so there will be no blot on Mrs. Powell's path to the White House.

The picture has a powerful adult appeal. The three leads shine. Leo Carrillo, Nat Pendleton and Isobel Jewel are effective in the cast. The story teems with talkable showmanship angles for genuine advance interest and entertainment satisfaction.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Woman Condemned"

(Willis Kent)

The trouble with "The Woman Condemned" is that it is so engrossed in mystifying that it forgets to clear up the mystery it takes so much pains to build up. This is rather a pity, for the film really succeeds uncommonly well in keeping one guessing all along. But it ends very much up in the air and thereby loses the chance of being considered more than just so-and-so entertainment. Another case of too much plot.

Isla Lane, a radio luminary, goes to a surgeon to have a birthmark removed. She insists that the whole thing be kept a secret—just why, only she knows. During her absence her twin sister visits her apartment and is killed. Claudia Dell, who is hiding in the apartment, sees her shot immediately after Miss Lane's worthless husband leaves. Miss Dell is found in the apartment and charged with the murder. (Why she was there is another of the mysteries.) Miss Dell clears herself and it develops that the murderer is Miss Lane's husband. He had shot the twin sister under the impression she was his wife.

The acting is fair. Other players include Richard Hemingway, Jason Robards, Mischa Auer, Douglas Cosgrove and Tom O'Brien. Mrs. Wallace Reid directed. This is a Progressive picture.

able," Webb's report states, "to adjust the accumulated dividends on the eight per cent preferred and Class A preference stock, in order that stockholders of all classes may benefit from the future growth of the company. With this in view, a registration application under the Securities Act is now in course of preparation for filing with the Federal Trade Commission."

"Outstanding progress" has been made by Pathe with an x-ray film for medical and scientific purposes, which was placed on the market by Pathe in 1932, according to the report. This, together with the Pathe interest in Du Pont Film Mfg. Co., makes it an "important and growing factor," the report says, "in two branches of the photographic industry, the annual sales volume of which exceeded $100,000,000 in 1929."

MPTO of Maryland Bans All Cut Rates

Premiums and cut rate tickets have been voted down by the M.P.T.O. of Maryland, it was stated yesterday, following receipt of a letter from the unit divulging its stand on the matters. Among the 75 exhibitors present at the meeting of the organization, 66 voted against cut rate tickets and any type of giveaway, both of which are violations of the code.

However, unless an exhibitor files a complaint with the local grievance board, no action on giveaways and cut rate tickets can be taken. The boards do not file complaints; they merely act on them.

The Maryland vote was a test case and it is being referred to the code committee on unfair competition at the regular meeting today.

Suit in Louisville May End Giveaways

LOUISVILLE, April 19.—An action brought in Criminal Court by the Better Business Bureau against Herman Straus & Sons Department store, may result in local theatres ending free or gift automobiles, and other offerings that border on lotteries.

The suit charges that the department store has been operating a lottery, in connection with advertising appearing in the Louisville Courier Journal and Louisville Times, offering free automobiles, on certain dates, to holders of numbered tickets.

Portland Prizes End

PORTLAND, April 19.—Race nights, prizes and giveaways have been discontinued here. Notices posted on suburban houses say the discontinuance has been forced by the code.

Pick Cleveland Quarters

CLEVELAND, April 19.—Code board headquarters have been established at the Statler. The grievance board received its first three cases today and will give a hearing Monday.

Kansas Rules "Bank Nights" Are a Lottery in the form of a bank account which is opened at a specified bank."

Answering the question whether the plan is a lottery, the attorney general says: "In order to constitute a lottery, three elements are essential. First, there must be a prize. Second, the receipt of the prize must be dependent upon chance, and third, there must be some consideration going to the giver of the prize.

"It is obvious in the plan above described that two elements of a lottery appear without question. That is, the prize, consisting of a bank account, and the element of chance, which consists of the registration and the drawing described. In order to constitute a lottery, however, the plan must have not only these two elements, but the element of consideration. The question, therefore, is, is there any consideration going to the theatre as a basis for the giving of a prize?"

On the third point he ruled that the fact signers had to pass box-offices constituted a "benefit from the operation of the plan," which, in his opinion, "is sufficient to constitute a consideration, which consideration supplies the third element necessary to a lottery."

The Tower, reopened last weekend, is alone in the field as a combination house with a regular stage and film policy. Even among the neighborhoods there has been a substantial return to occasional stage attractions.

A marked vaudeville revival has been noted in the Dubinsky circuit. The Liberty has been running a short stage program since downtown competition stiffened several weeks ago. Dubinsky's Electric in St. Joseph is on a combination policy and vaudeville is a regular feature at the circuit's houses in Jefferson City and Leavenworth. Fox Midwest houses in Topeka, Wichita and other Kansas spots have increased stage show bookings.

Ashley, which operates the Strand, Parkway and Orpheum in Madison.

The Saxe brothers declared that the sale of the product to the Ashley group left them with insufficient bookings for the Capitol for the rest of the season. The board heard the case for eight hours and deferred decision.

Vitagraph, according to the board, must release Ashley from its contract and turn over 30 pictures to the Saxe company. Terms and conditions under which Saxe gets the pictures are those which existed between the distributor and Ashley.

Considerable interest was evident in the trade yesterday following exclusive publication in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of the first grievance case in the country, which so happens to be the Saxe complaint against the Ashley Theatre Corp. and Vitagraph, distributor subsidiary of Warner and First National pictures.

Several inquiries were made from exhibitor sources for results of the case, but because the decision was handed down late yesterday, it was impossible to give out the details.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Line-Up"

(Columbia)

A consistently entertaining exhibit is "The Line-Up," which concerns itself with the stolen fur racket. There is suspense to its story and quality to its acting. Touches of humor here and there add to the pleasantness of the picture.

The love interest is entrusted to Marian Nixon and William Gargan. The latter, a detective, meets the former when she is detained by the police for questioning in connection with the theft of a fur coat from the check room of the hotel where she is employed. The dick he is working with insists she be held on the theory she is connected with a gang of fur thieves. Gargan, in love with her, succeeds in obtaining her release. In order to have her clear herself he prevails upon the chief of detectives to have her associate with an underworld character suspected of knowing the leaders of the gang. Gargan feels that thus she may lead the police to the apprehension of the thieves. That is exactly what happens, but not before Miss Nixon faces death from ammonia fumes in the fur vault of the gang, which learns of her purpose and holds her prisoner. At the end the pair are on their way to Niagara Falls.

Other players are John Miljan, Noel Francis, Harold Huber, Paul Hurst, Greta Meyer, Francis McDonald, Joseph Crehan and Charlie Browne. Harold Higgins is responsible for the direction.

"A Modern Hero," Wednesday night's preview at the Strand, was reviewed on April 6.

"Stand Up and Cheer," yesterday's opener at the Radio City Music Hall, was reviewed from Hollywood by wire on March 29.

"Tarzan and His Mate," this morning's opener at the Capitol, was reviewed from Hollywood by wire on April 10.

"I'll Tell the World," last night's preview at the Roxy, was reviewed from Hollywood by wire on April 2.

"Wharf Angel," this morning's opener at the Paramount, was reviewed from Hollywood by wire on March 9.

Federation to Have Board on Ads and Films include the production advisory services conducted in Hollywood by Joseph I. Breen, and the advertising advisory service here, headed by J. J. McCarthy. A statement issued by the federation gives as its reason for rejecting the offer, "the statements made by certain leaders in the motion picture industry, affiliated with the major organizations, to the effect that they favor the elimination of independent production.

"The members of the federation," the statement continues, "cannot subscribe to any set of rules or regulations of moral conduct or standards promulgated by any association or organization of which such parties are an integral part."

Declaring that the federation agrees with views that pictures need "radical improvement," particularly because of the over-emphasis on sex and the use of suggestive scenes and dialogue, members pledge themselves to produce "good, clean, human-interest pictures, or pictures of a manly or womanly action type, the tendency of which shall be to uplift rather than to lower the morals of the patrons; to cater to films for family and neighborhood patronage, and to elevate pictures in the eyes of the majority, instead of attempting to please only the sophisticated few."

Complaints of violations of these standards are to be heard by the arbitration committee of three, which Harry Thomas, federation president, is delegated to name. Any scenes or advertising found to be objectionable by the committee shall be eliminated or withdrawn, it is stated.

Kuykendall in New Attack on Double Bills Sears Can See Drawbacks to 20¢ Sales Ban

No Section Favors Them,
He Says in Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, brought the dual bill controversy into this town yesterday in a talk to industry leaders. "I don't believe that in the whole United States there is a section that is wholeheartedly for double bills," he said. "If the practice continues the quickie companies will start grinding out product until we give Hollywood the definite impression that we want quantity, not quality. Code Boards' Sentiment
Important, He Says

CHICAGO, April 20.—Commenting on reports that sales managers are discussing a 20-cent minimum admission for new season contracts, Gradwell Sears, in charge of southern and western distribution for Warners, said here today on his way to New York from the coast that the sentiment of code boards will have an important bearing on the question. Whether exhibitors will cooperate with distributors to the extent indicated by M.P.T.O.A. leaders at the organization's meeting in Los Angeles last week, he said, will also have to be taken into consideration.

Sears said it was too early to tell whether exhibitors want to hike ad-

Cummins Challenges Censors on "Hitler"

On the ground that "Hitler's Reign of Terror" is a record of current news and actual events, Samuel Cummins, president of Jewel Productions, has withdrawn his application to the New York Censor Board for permission to show the film. He says he will open it April 30 at the Mayfair under Section 1083 of the censorship law covering newsreels.

Cummins says the censor board has repeatedly delayed acting on the film.

The picture was made by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., in Germany, and Edwin C. Hill has worked on it.

Strike Calls For Theatres Delayed Week

Local 118, Theatre & Amusement Employees' Union, agreed to postpone for one week its strike against Greater New York circuits, which was scheduled to have begun this morning, pending a checkup by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt of the percentage of employees represented by the union in Loew's and RKO houses here.

If the checkup shows a majority of affected employees in the union's membership, Loew's and RKO may be obliged to accept the local's demands for higher wage scales for ushers, doormen, janitors and matrons and a "closed" shop in the theatres, or

Theatres Get Month to Pay Code Charges

Delinquents Lose Film
Unless Given Time

Exhibitors are being given 30 days from day of receipt of bills from Code Authority to pay assessments under the code. Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt yesterday approved a resolution adopted by Campi to enforce the assessment clause.

Bills started going out Wednesday and several have been returned to Campi with check enclosures.

Unless theatremen pay up on time, product will be shut off, the resolution states. However, exhibitors in dire straits can appeal to the local grievance boards to recommend an extension of 30 days. Campi is notifying all boards upon receipt of payments, Agfa Anso Corp. and subsidiaries, raw stock manufacturers, yesterday reported a net loss for 1933 of $519,474, after depreciation, interest, bad debts and other charges. This compares with a loss of $588,049 for 1932.

Pittsburgh Variety
Show Is a Big Draw

PITTSBURGH, April 20.—The Variety Club's annual benefit stage and screen show this year was the most successful the organization has ever held. It drew 3,850 to the Penn, where the seating capacity is 3,300.

Ed Lowry, former master of ceremonies at the Stanley, came in from Hollywood, where he is now living, to m. c. the show. The talent included Stanley Brothers, Hilton Sisters, Milano and Davis, Ray Saxe, Elaine Arden, Bill Aronson, the Darling Twins, Joe and Jane McKenna, Clyde Hager, Allan, Lynn and Allan, Burns, Moriarty and Burns, Don Zelaya, Gilda Grey and Dixie Dunbar, Harry Kalmine, zone manager for Warners, and Mike Cullen, Loew's city manager, were chairmen of the entertainment committee.

Cartoon Shows Gain
In St. Louis Houses

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—Cartoon programs are spreading in this territory. George Tyson and Cullen Espy originated the idea of tying cartoons together in place of a feature picture about a year ago at the Ambassador and Missouri. Children and parents took to the innovation.

The Missouri has been repeating the stunt about once in every six weeks, and the Ambassador revived it successfully during the fag end of the Lenten season.

As a result, the plan is spreading among neighborhood houses.

End 5-Year Labor Row

ZANESVILLE, O., April 20.—A five-year union battle has been ended here between Zanesville Theatres, Inc., and the I.A.T.S.E. and the A. F. of M., largely through the efforts of Arthur H. Bischoff, business agent for the stage hands and operators, and R. F. Cullis, president of the musicians' local. Four houses are affected.

More Western Stars
Join Circus Troupes

CANTON, O., April 20.—Motorized circuses are going in strong for western film stars this season.

Barnett Bros., playing the upper Ohio Valley, have Harry Carey. He arrived this week from Hollywood bringing his horse.

Jack Hoxie and Dixie Starr are with the Downie Bros. circus. Buzz Barton, who has been touring the south with his own stage rodeo unit, has joined the Gorman Bros. circus. Tom Mix, a few years ago featured with Sells-Floto, is now en route with the Sam Dill-Tom Mix motorized show.

Gibson May Make Six Abroad for Warners

Hoot Gibson may make a series of six westerns for Warners next season, contingent on reaction of the first, "A Cowboy in London," which he will make in London around the middle of June.

Warners has an option on Gibson's services after the first picture and may continue the series with "A Cowboy in Africa," "A Cowboy in Paris," "A Cowboy in Germany," etc. Gibson leaves for London the early part of June and is now appearing in vaudeville in the East.

Skouras Forms New Unit

ALBANY, April 20.—Neo Amusement Corp. has been chartered here with a capital of $3,000 in $1 shares with Julia, Sarah and Florence Skouras and Brevet Lane as directors and subscribers.

George Skouras yesterday stated this is one of the many companies being formed in preparation for the reorganization of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses. Skouras operates a number of houses in this circuit.

which at the same time makes exhibitors qualified to register complaints, if any, with local grievance committees.

Non-assenters are not being sent bills. Only the 7,800 exhibitors who signed the code are getting them, but those who did not comply and want to benefit by the 10 per cent cancellation clause must send in checks for their particular classification.

Distributors will be notified by Campi when exhibitors do not pay. They will automatically discontinue serving the theatres unless an extension is granted.

Text of Resolution

The resolution follows:

"RESOLVED: That upon the failure of any person engaged in the exhibition of motion pictures to pay to the Code Authority the amount assessed against the theatre or theatres of such persons as hereinabove provided within thirty (30) days after the receipt of notice of such assessment and the amount thereof, unless a local grievance board shall unanimously recommend that such thirty (30) day period be extended, such person shall refrain from exhibiting in the theatre or theatres of such person, any motion picture to which is attached or made a part thereof, the insignia (blue eagle) of the National Recovery Administration and any exhibition of any motion picture in violation of this resolution shall be deemed a violation of the code of fair competition for the motion picture industry."

They are expected to assume their new duties next week when offices in the Bond building are opened.

In addition Charles R. Zeasars has been named as secretary for the Oklahoma City boards, Regina Molsceid for Omaha, Emaline Fineberg for Pittsburgh, James B. Fitzgerald for Washington, Benjamin Stosverg for Atlanta, Basil Ziegler for Philadelphia and Lila B. Schofield for St. Louis.

These complete the secretarial setup for all boards except Indianapolis. The boards in this territory have not yet agreed upon a selection and Campi has not yet acted, but it is expected that an appointee will be made at the next session of Code Authority, May 4.

Leslie E. Thompson will be chairman of the next session. Attending yesterday's meeting were W. C. Michel as chairman, Charles L. O'Reilly, Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt, R. H. Cochrane, W. Ray Johnston, Harold S. Bareford, Jay Emanuel, Neil Agnew and C. C. Moskowitz. Moskowitz acted as alternate for J. Robert Rubin, who was ill.

Denies Extra Kicks Must Go to Casey

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.—Mrs. Mabel Kinney, chairman of the extras' code committee, before departing for Sacramento on state welfare business, made it emphatic that all complaints and adjudications concerning extras must clear through her office. This was put in writing to all studio casting directors and other parties concerned. The issue was forced by the appearance of reports to the effect that complaints must clear through the office of Pat Casey, who heads the code studio labor board. Mrs. Kinney returns next week to resume extra code work.

Vincent Lawrence's Para. Claim Denied

An order expunging a claim of $113,000 filed against Paramount Publix by Vincent Lawrence, writer, for an alleged breach of contract, was signed by Referee Henry K. Davis following a hearing yesterday. Lawrence's contract was voided by the Paramount Publix trustees May 31, 1933. The claimant, who has since been engaged on individual writing assignments for Paramount, sought to collect $1,750 per week for the balance of his contract plus a one-year option for renewal.

To Build Mary Morris

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.—Following the reaction of a preview audience to her role as a hard, cruel, selfish woman in "Double Door," Paramount has decided to build Mary Morris into a female Boris Karloff. The studio is now looking for a story, of the horror type, in which to star the actress.

"U" Makes Title Change

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.—Universal has changed the title of "Sin for Cinderella," a musical on the 1934-35 schedule, to "Romance in the Rain."

North Dakota, whose protests against operation of codes were in part responsible for the setting up of the Darrow organization. They are believed to have acquainted him with the views they have reached as a result of their hearings.

At the White House today it was said the President has an appointment to meet Chairman Darrow in the near future, but that no date had been set. Asked whether the report would be made public, it was declared the President's action would depend upon what it contained.

Product Problem Up To K. C. Board Soon

KANSAS CITY, April 20.—Among problems facing the Kansas City grievance board, one in particular is expected to be a difficult nut to crack. It involves the alleged refusal of four major distributors to sell C. E. Esterley, operating the recently reopened Nu-Era.

Esterley says he cannot obtain product from Warners, Paramount, Fox and M-G-M, and the dearth of available pictures may force him to quit. At his request, a committee of the I. T. O. investigated and reported that two companies made outright refusals to enter into deals on the ground they did not want to jeopardize a long-established account, the Summit, owned by Charles Burke, which is competitive to the Nu-Era.

The I. T. O. informed Esterley the distributors were within their rights in refusing contracts and there was nothing it could do, but Esterley is dissatisfied with that decision.

It is said Esterley wants to maintain a dual bill policy at an admission price mainly of 10 cents and will need seven or eight features a week. The competitive house charges 15 cents and is one of the few suburbs not double billing consistently.

whose members were so delighted with the whole business that they unanimously decided to admit Disney to their ranks. Disney is the first representative of the industry to be so honored. Fellow members of the guild are George Bernard Shaw, Sir Edwin Llewellyn, Laurence Binyon and a long line of Royal Academicians.

Plans a Disney Party

W. G. Van Schmus, managing director of the RKO Music Hall, will stage a Walt Disney program at a press party Monday. It will be called "An Hour With Walt Disney" and will include a preview of "The Big Bad Wolf."

4 Newsreels at Embassy

Hearst Metrotone newsreel is being added today to the Embassy's program, giving the house four newsreel services. Pathe, Paramount and Universal reels are also used. A travelogue will also be used. The admission price remains the same.

Strike Calls For Theatres Delayed Week

again face the threatened strike. If it is found that the union does not represent a majority of the employees involved, it is believed that a strike would be ineffectual and would probably lead to dissolution of the union.

The agreement to postpone the strike was obtained by Rosenblatt following a conference at Code Authority headquarters yesterday attended by Charles C. Levey, head of the local; Abner Rubien, counsel for the local; C. C. Moskowitz of Loew's, Major L. E. Thompson of RKO, and other affiliated and independent circuit representatives, and Ben Golden, executive secretary of the Regional Labor Board.

Both the union and the circuits are to submit their records to Rosenblatt on Monday for the check-up, with a report on its results expected within the next few days following. A majority of union membership among Loew's and RKO employees, it is believed, would be accepted by other leading metropolitan circuit operators as a satisfactory representation of the situation in their own employees' ranks, with a city-wide agreement resulting.

St. Louis Proposes New Sales Tax Levy

one half of one per cent. Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann has indicated his intention of asking for such a tax in an address to the Board of Aldermen.

The idea is to raise an additional $3,500,000 to relieve the levy on real estate. Real estate taxes are about $15,000,000 in arrears.

This new proposal comes in the face of the fact that the state tax has been a disappointment, having produced only $350,000 a month for January, February and March. The state sales tax, in conjunction with liquor taxes, was designed to bring in about $10,000,000. At the present rate it looks as though they will total less than half that amount, and the state deficit is piling up as a result.

Chatterton Is Back West

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.—Ruth Chatterton is back from New York with a contract ready to be signed which provides for her making a picture for Irving Thalberg. She brought along several scripts and novels which she read on the train. The contract signing is contingent on her approval of a story.

quantity, but insist on quality and variety in programs."

His talk was delivered before a group which included Morgan Walsh, president of the Independent Theatre Owners of North California, and about 75 exhibitors. Herman Wobber, Arch Bowles, Robert McNeil, the Nasser brothers, M. A. Lightman and David Palfreyman also were present.

Kuykendall described the Los Angeles M.P.T.O.A. convention as "the most constructive and representative in the history of the industry."

In his following remarks he touched on many of the highlights of recent convention speeches. Code board members are thoroughly representative of the industry, he said. He also had a few kind words for Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt.

Sees Need for Vigilance

Speaking in behalf of exhibitor organizations, he described them as the "shock absorbers of the industry." Vigilance is needed, he said, to protect the industry from menacing legislation. In this connection he emphasized that exhibitors should make themselves public relations men and should take part in all movements for the public good. He attacked exploitation which prejudices influential persons against the industry.

Discussing labor problems, Kuykendall said labor was playing a dominant role in the NRA. He said he favored living wages for theatre employees and fair treatment, but, he went on: "We cannot permit labor to tear both houses down—theirs and our own—without a fight."

During an open forum that followed Bowles asked what exhibitors should do about the national admission tax. Kuykendall urged that the matter be not revived at this time when Congress is under pressure to devise more taxes. He recommended that the tax be allowed to run its course to July 19, 1935.

Sunday Shows Up to Monessen Ministers

MONESSEN, Pa., April 20.—Sunday shows here are up to the ministers of the city. An invitation to the members of the Monessen Ministerial Ass'n. to attend the next Sunday shows has been extended by Andrew Askounes, manager of the Manos and Star, in response to protests by the association. The ministers' committee plans to attend Sunday.

"If the ministers insist on the theatres being closed on Sundays after they have investigated," Askounes said "they will be closed."

Poli Manager Shifted

HARTFORD, April 20.—First move by Loew's in changing the Poli managerial setup since control passed from A. C. Blumenthal and N. L. Nathanson is the shift of Harry Watts from Loew's in Syracuse to the Poli here succeeding Charles Brenan.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Springtime for Henry"

(Lasky-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.—Typical of the production care and the good taste characteristic of all Lasky product, "Springtime for Henry" is seven-eighths adult and sophisticated fare and one-eighth down-to-the-earth movie. In point of performance the picture is fortunate, with first honors for laughs going to Nigel Bruce in a typical, slow-moving plodding middle class Englishman role. Otto Kruger, as a roue who thinks he has turned pure, is second best, but still very good indeed. Women in the case are Nancy Carroll, who likes Kruger and eventually lands him, and Heather Angel as a demure miss simulating purity when she is really after a wealthy husband.

The picture moves slowly and essentially is a photographed stage play in skimpiness of story substance which apparently made necessary over-long sequences with the result that interest lags too often for the general good of the job undertaken.

Marking the effort with unevenness is a sequence where Kruger, seeking solace for soul and heart, tries eking out comfort at a Ray of Hope Mission. A bangup fight which results is almost entirely slapstick. While it is probably the highlight of the picture, it seems strangely out of gear compared with what goes before and follows it.

"Springtime for Henry" has its moments, but they are all too few.

Looking 'Em Over

"Battling Buckaroo"

(State Rights)

Produced by Willis Kent, this western rates very little in the way of entertainment. It's primarily designed for children, particularly favorites of Lane Chandler. It is poorly directed by Oliver Drake, badly acted by Chandler, Doris Hill, Yakima Canutt and Lafe McKee. Photography is mediocre.

Following the usual formula, Chandler, a government official, poses as Blackjack, a notorious bandit, to clean up McKee and his clique, who are molesting the heroine and her father, owners of a gold mine. After much fighting and stunting on the part of the hero, the culprits are brought to justice and the heroine succumbs to the impulsive love making of Chandler.

Poles May Lift Ban On German Pictures

WARSAW, April 20.—The ban against German pictures in Poland is expected to be lifted as a result of reconsideration of film relations between the two countries developing out of the recently signed trade treaty between them. For almost a year films made in Germany have been excluded completely from the Polish market. The new Polish contingent law, recently passed, limits the number of foreign-made films shown in Poland to 200 per year.

B. F. Keith Corp. directorate met yesterday. Recently a meeting of the directors of RKO Canadian Corp. elected Nate Blumberg a director of the company.

Baltimore Theatres Aid Drive for Lyric

BALTIMORE, April 20.—This city has the unusual spectacle of film theatres aiding a drive to keep their competition alive. A drive is under way here to raise a fund to pay off the $150,000 mortgage on the Lyric, where the city's musicals are put on.

Frank Hornig, president of the M.P.T.O., conferred with Mayor Howard Jackson on the problem and offered to have members run trailers. The proposal was accepted.

Cleveland Vaude Out

CLEVELAND, April 20.—The RKO Palace will discontinue vaudeville after May 4, when the theatre will go into a straight picture policy. The Allen dropped vaudeville last week. After May 4 all first runs will be playing straight pictures.

missions since local boards are just swinging into operation.

"We didn't sell 10-cent houses last year and probably won't next year," he asserted, "but I am not prepared to say that this will be a definite sales policy. Also equally indefinite at this time is whether rentals will be hiked for the new season. It is well known that the NRA has increased production costs $25,000 to $35,000 per negative, but there is nothing definite to indicate this will be reflected in film rentals."

Mum on Plans

Sears indicated conditions in the theatre business will be a major factor in deciding the question. He refused to divulge plans or policy for the new season, explaining no announcement will be made ahead of the sales convention, the date for which has not been set.

Queried on doubles, Sears pointed to Jack L. Warner's stand against doubles at the M.P.T.O.A. convention, adding that while the company opposes the practice as detrimental to the industry, it must, because of the fact half of the country's exhibitors are double-billing, sell them as a business measure. It was said by Sears that selling this year will start as late as last.

In the party were A. W. Smith, in charge of eastern and Canadian distribution for Warners; S. Charles Einfeld, its director of advertising and publicity; Richard Curtis, Eastman sales manager, and Jack Alicote, Film Daily publisher. The group left immediately for New York.

Showmanship Is Restoring Para.-Zukor

Sounds Optimistic Note In Review of Year

Stressing the value of showmanship and admitting "we got into trouble only when we lost sight of the all important fact that we were showmen first, last and always," Adolph Zukor, in reviewing the progress made by Paramount during the last year, finds an improved coordination of the many departments and a return to sound, basic principles of showmanship.

"For nearly a score of years Paramount forged ahead by adhering to Hollywood, April 22.—Recently released films and new story purchases among the majors indicate a definite trend for one word titles.

Last week Radio purchased "Exoneration" and has "Afterwards" listed on their schedule for early production. Paramount bought "Intimate." Other pictures, released or in various stages of filming are "Glamour," "Riptide," "Du-Barry," "Wanted" and "Resurrection."

M-G-M Plans To Distribute Own Trailers

Began Making Them with "Queen Christina"

M-G-M will distribute its own trailers beginning with the first release of January, 1935, the company's exchanges throughout the country are now advising exhibitors.

The company has been making all of its own feature trailers since February, the first to come from its own studios having been that for "Queen Christina." National Screen Service, however, has continued to handle distribution, being supplied by M-G-M with one positive and one negative of each trailer, and has been making the prints. The arrangement continues throughout this year, but will be ended by January, at which time virtually

Universal Pictures Has Net of $24,507

A consolidated net profit of $24,507 is reported by Universal Pictures Co., Inc., for the three months ending Jan. 27. The profit statement is after deduction of all charges including depreciation of fixed assets in the amount of $131,699, and compares with a net loss of $213,211 for the same period of the preceding year.

Universal's financial statement declares that: "The business of the company since Jan. 27 shows a considerable gain over the corresponding period of last year. The indication is that a substantial profit will be realized as a result of the operations for the quarter ending April 28."

Insiders' Outlook

A MID-WESTERN theatre executive operating in a racket-infested city was called upon some three years ago by fellow exhibitors to negotiate a settlement of an operators' union strike which had crippled neighborhood theatre business over a period of months and threatened to reach a climax of violence unprecedented in the industry.

Although not directly affected by the strike himself, this theatre operator commanded contacts with the racketeering hierarchy of the city which made him peculiarly useful in the desperate situation. All other efforts to settle the strike amicably having failed, the theatre executive agreed to do what he could, which was to get in touch with the racketeers who ruled the operators' union and determine the terms on which peace in the local theatre world would be restored. The price quoted for a settlement was high, but there was no appeal from it, and in view of the fact that the agreement called for a reduction in the number of men formerly required in the projection booths in the city it was regarded, in the light of future savings, as a bargain.

The local exhibitor organization collected the money and paid it over to the intermediary, who was the theatre executive. He in turn paid the bulk of it, in accordance with the agreement, to the racketeers. The remainder, several thousands of dollars, went to transport imported strike-breakers out of town.

Recently, a Federal investigation of labor racketeering got under way in the city. Undercover men of the Department of Justice unearthed the exhibitor organization's record of the substantial payment made three years ago to the intermediary. Naturally enough, the intermediary's books do not reveal where the money went, to whom it was paid or for what it was paid. A Federal grand jury now is waiting to hear the exhibitor's explanation of why the amount paid him "for settlement of labor troubles," as the exhibitor organization's records state, was not reported in his Federal income tax statement for the year.

The intermediary finds himself faced with either the prospect of a jail sentence for evasion of income tax on an amount which he handled but did not receive as his own, or disclosing to a Federal grand jury the identity of the racketeers to whom the money was paid. If he elects the latter course he can clear himself of any suspicion of guilt in the matter, but those familiar with the situation, and particularly the intermediary himself, are aware that if he does so he may never again know personal security.

Hays Wins Victory As M-G-M Scraps 2

HOLLYWOOD, April 22.—Announcing its inability to prepare an acceptable treatment, M-G-M is abandoning "The Postman Rings Twice" and is also scrapping "Professional Co-Respondent," thus marking a double victory for Hays' moves to check allegedly objectionable material prior to production.

At an estimated cost of $30,000 the company is reshooting the underwater nude sequence in "Tarzan and His Mate" and is also reediting to reduce the brutality sequences. The underwater sequence in the film was ruled out by the decision of a committee composed of B. B. Kahane, Winfield Sheehan and Carl Laemmle, Jr.

Harry Katz Returns; Silent About Deals

Back from a trip from the midwest where he was accompanied by Milton Feld, Harry Katz Saturday stated no theatres were acquired but that the trip mainly had to do with an inspection of the Monarch group and "some others."

He said there was some talk on about additional theatres, but nothing has yet developed.

Va. Censors Admit Two

RICHMOND, April 22.—Court action over the ban on "Road to Ruin" has been averted through the licensing of the feature after cuts of 3,000 feet.

"Henry the Ache" also has been licensed after an appeal.

Mr. Elmer Rhoden
Midwest Theatres
Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Elmer,

You will be interested to read the following New York newspaper reviews on "Stand Up and Cheer!" The critics all stress the happiness and gaiety of this production -- an important box office angle, especially today.

N. Y. AMERICAN:

Gay film summons laughter and songs to rout bad times
...a great idea.

N. Y. EVE. JOURNAL:

Drew enthusiastic applause.
Very light, gay and diverting. Enlivened by tuneful songs.

N. Y. MIRROR:

Handsome and entertaining... gay and exhilarating. Attractive and unusual film.

N. Y. POST:

Deserves its special cheer.
Lavish, gay...a wealth of song and dance numbers.

N. Y. WORLD-TELEGRAM:

Genuinely fine, amusing and entertaining. Something to cheer about.

N. Y. TIMES:

A case of bringing smiles to the faces of the nation.

N. Y. DAILY NEWS:

Designed to wipe away the fears and blues of these hard times.
Little Shirley Temple earned spontaneous applause. Nick Foran sings with vim and vigor and in good voice. Nigel Bruce gathered the laughs.

STAND UP AND CHEER!

"Phase Shift" Sound Tested In 4 Studios

flict on light values and by so doing to increase the sound cycle range in both lower and upper registers. It necessitates changes in studio amplifiers and refinements in present recording equipment, but does not require changes in theatre reproducers, according to well authenticated information available here.

Erpi is known to be installing "Phase Shift" as rapidly as possible, but in view of the fact that the changeover from "Wide Range" involves engineering problems and three days to change each recorder new installations are naturally limited by these factors.

"Wide Range" recording gives reproduction additional values over standard theatre equipment and this is seen as similarly applying to "Phase Shift." Whether or not the ultimate in the new development can be brought about simply through changes in reproducers, as is the case with "Wide Range" recording, which reaches its maximum over "Wide Range" reproducers is not apparent, but the same factor is likely to prevail in furthering the development of "Phase Shift."

Seek Way to Study Reaction to Duals

on public reaction to pictures to studio executives, it has been learned here. With this purpose in mind the executive committee of the organization will gather soon in New York. Meanwhile, a plan to clear through the Hays organization is being extensively discussed here. The possibility also looms that data on specific pictures will be forwarded directly to the studios.

Should the industry decide to solve the problem through the scheme reported to have been advanced by major producers—that a clause be included in new season contracts forbidding an exhibitor to show their pictures when coupled with any other feature—it is believed now is the time to put such a move in effect with the new season still sufficiently removed.

According to the offer, Webb will have the right to purchase 12,500 shares of common stock at \$2 over a period of four years and 3,000 shares of "A" preference at \$12 for three years. Saturday, the common stock closed at \$3 $\frac{3}{4}$ and the "A" at \$23 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Election of officers is scheduled and minor changes are anticipated. In addition to Webb as president, Arthur B. Poole is vice-president and treasurer, John C. Walsh, secretary and assistant treasurer, and Ellen U. Keogh, assistant secretary. Fifteen

Looking Over Shorts

"The Lost Jungle"

(Mascot)

If this serial can carry on the exciting pace it does in the first three chapters it is bound to prove good entertainment. On the strength of its opening footage "The Lost Jungle" can be booked by exhibitors, for kid shows particularly, without qualm. Clyde Beatty is starred, and his role as an animal trainer gives him plenty of opportunity to display his wares. To add to the excitement there is scene after scene of combat between wild beasts.

The villainy is supplied by a rival animal trainer, played by Warner Richmond, who resorts to every means imaginable to get Beatty out of the way and step into his shoes. At the end of the season with an American circus, Beatty, accompanied by Richmond and Sid Saylor, press agent, book passage on a dirigible on its maiden trip to trap animals for the outfit. When the airship is wrecked in a storm the three are thrown on a mysterious island covered with wild animals. Richmond stumbles upon a secret treasure, and to acquire it for himself he is ready to do anything. His first step is to release a wild tiger, which is on the point of mauling Beatty as the second episode closes.

The animals in the film are from the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus.

Also in the cast are Cecelia Parker, Edward Le Saint and Wheeler Oakman. Saylor provides the comedy relief. "The Lost Jungle" may be obtained as a serial in 12 chapters, as a feature followed by 10 chapters or as a straight feature. The first chapter runs 27 minutes, the others 18 each.

"Arizona Nights"

(Astor)

A short of average merit, "Arizona Nights," a William Steiner production, presents Jack Perrin as a member of a border patrol along the Rio Grande delegated to trail a gang of smugglers. Most of the film is taken up with a fight between Perrin and the gang. It is one of those exaggerated slam-bang encounters common to western films. Fortunately this one happens to be done with a touch of humor. Running time, 28 mins.

directors are also to be named. Those now members of the board include Robert W. Atkins, Paul Fuller, Jr., Henry Guild, Ellery W. Mann, George S. Montgomery, Jr., Poole, Arthur Sewall, 2nd, Charles A. Stone, Theodore C. Streibert, Webb and Charles B. Wiggin.

Proxies are coming in rapidly and four-fifths of the number necessary to hold the meeting are on hand. No postponement is expected, although this may happen if the necessary additional proxies do not arrive by tomorrow.

Caldaref Foy Manager

HOLLYWOOD, April 22.—George Caldaref has been appointed western divisional manager of the Foy exchanges for Foy Productions Ltd.

"Everybody Likes Music"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

Fun at a party where Irene Taylor tries to inveigle the President of Bullyvania to give her husband-a minister's post. There is entertainment followed by a lot of excitement when it is believed important papers of the president are lost. He declares war, calls it off and before the party is over is deposed.

Donald Novis renders a song beautifully, assisted by Meyer Davis and his orchestra. Directed by Leigh Jason. Running time, 20 mins.

"Wolf! Wolf!"

(Universal)

Oswald goes into the forest, leaving two frisky lambs at home with a warning to call should the big, bad wolf show up. Like the boy in the fable, they cry "Wolf!" just to play a joke on Oswald. They do this once too often. When the wolf really comes they cry in vain, for Oswald thinks they are fooling. In the nick of time Oswald realizes they are in danger and goes to the rescue. "Let this be a lesson to you," says Oswald in effect after Mr. Wolf has been slain. Running time, 8 $\frac{1}{4}$ mins.

"Palsie Walsie"

(Universal)

It's pretty funny. Lillian Elliott, a doting mama, wants her husband, Henry Armetta, to keep designing gals from their big freckled boob of a son, Mickey Daniels. Armetta and the boy get into court and the judge sentences the boy to the custody of his father for 30 days. In a weak moment Armetta takes the boy to a restaurant with the judge's daughter. When the mother discovers them a first class riot develops. Running time, 20 $\frac{1}{2}$ mins.

"Marine Marvels"

(Paramount)

A Grantland Rice Sportlight that should thrill any audience. The scenes, all featuring water sports of some kind, are taken in Florida hotel pools and at Crystal Springs. Helene Madison, Pete DesJardins and Jim Foley are featured. Running time, 12 mins.

SMPE Men Converge Upon Atlantic City

at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, began converging on this seashore resort early Saturday. A registration of between 300 and 400 is indicated by the numbers of advance arrivals.

Alfred N. Goldsmith, president, is scheduled to call the convention to order at 10:00 A.M. tomorrow. The four-day session will include addresses on virtually every phase of sound, projection, exchange, non-theatrical, amateur-film, studio, laboratory and photographic practice. The society's annual banquet will be held Wednesday evening. Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt will be the principal speaker.

Four Division Meets Set for Secretaries of the Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Salt Lake City boards will convene at Los Angeles some time this week, probably Wednesday. This session will be followed by one in Kansas City, where secretaries of the Dallas, New Orleans, Oklahoma City, Denver, Des Moines, Atlanta, Kansas City, St. Louis and Memphis will meet.

The third gathering will be at Chicago with secretaries of the Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Indianapolis will discuss the code. The final meeting will take place here and will be attended by secretaries from Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Albany, New Haven and Boston and will meet at Campi headquarters.

Flinn leaves by plane for the coast today to confer on the Hollywood office. It is expected he will name a secretary before he leaves. Sidney R. Kent is on the coast now and in addition to conferring with Fox studio officials on new product, he is also looking into the studio situation for code data. Flinn will remain on the coast for about three days before leaving for Kansas City.

Seattle Men Oppose NRA Order on Wages

neighborhood houses to increase salaries of operators is being undertaken here by a group of exhibitors. According to their statements, they are paying the same scale as paid on August 1, 1933, as provided by the code. The NRA, however, claims that the scale at that time was on the basis of a reduced summer wage, and was to be effective for the summer season only. Exhibitors have been notified to raise salaries to the point contemplated before the code was adopted.

Ohio Selective Tax Flop, Says Governor

tax, defeated in the House last week, following two previous defeats within the past year.

The Governor pointed out that the 10 per cent imposts on admissions, cosmetics, beverages and malt wort, enacted last fall, were supposed to produce $666,000 each per month, when, as a matter of fact, the returns have been between $400,000 and $450,000 monthly from each classification.

Legislative strategy, some of which is believed to be without precedent, is being resorted to in order to railroad the general sales tax through the House, with certain modifications of the original draft. If the measure can be passed in both branches, it is assured gubernatorial signature, and will replace the selective sales impost. Otherwise, the present taxation setup will remain in effect until the end of 1937.

the elemental principles of show business," the president of the company states. "We pioneered in many fields but always with the showman's angle in mind.

"We got into trouble only when we lost sight of the all important fact that we were showmen, first last and always.

"During the past year we have had time to take stock of ourselves and the organization. The depression forced us to use all of our accumulated knowledge of showmanship in order to carry on our business. It has likewise made increasingly clear the necessity for a strong and harmoniously-operated organization.

Departments Rebuilt

"In the past 12 months we have rebuilt our several departments to the highest point of efficiency and have simultaneously developed an inter-departmental cooperation comparable with the spirit which existed during the best years in the company's history. As a result, our business has during 1933-34 been highly satisfactory from every angle.

"Production has shown a sharp upturn in the quality of the pictures we have made. Distribution has achieved the maximum circulation for this quality product. The foreign activities of the company have more than kept pace with the progress made by the domestic departments. And our theatre department, through a series of reorganization moves, notable in the decentralization of operation and the formation of locally operated partnerships, is rapidly getting back into its original field—practical show business.

"In the final analysis, all of these moves of the past 12 months have been in only one direction—a return to the business of selling the best possible entertainment to the greatest possible number of theatre patrons."

Report Warners to Buy London Studio

LONDON, April 22.—A deal for outright purchase of the Teddington studios by Warners is reported to have been closed during the recent visit here of Harry M. Warner and Sam E. Morris. The move is interpreted in British film circles as presaging an expansion of Warner activities here which will probably include production increases.

H. M. Warner could not be reached at his office on Saturday for comment on the London report.

"One Night" Breaks Seattle Run Record

SEATTLE, April 22.—All records for long run engagements here have been shattered by "It Happened One Night." The Columbia opus has gone into its ninth week at the Liberty, thereby shattering the eight-week record previously set by "The Jazz Singer" at the 950-seat Blue Mouse several years ago. More than 175,000 people have seen the current show, which is running at an advance of 10 cents over the usual scale of 25 cents top. A tenth week is entirely possible, executives say.

M-G-M Plans To Distribute Own Trailers

all National Screen contracts with exhibitors for Metro trailer service will have expired. Thereafter, exhibitors will contract directly with M-G-M for the service.

M-G-M cites as advantages in making its own trailers the opportunities to work farther in advance on this form of exploitation and advertising, and the elimination of rush work in turning out trailers to meet release dates. Under the new arrangement the company reports it is possible to begin preparation of trailers as soon as production of a picture starts, rather than waiting until it has been completed to make the trailer. Larger selection of special scenes and music is also offered, the company reports.

Warners is the only other large company making its own trailers.

day evening at the "Naked Truth" Dinner at the Astor. He promised 100 per cent cooperation and stated he will continue the good work of his predecessor, John C. Flinn.

The retiring president reviewed the work of the administration under him and thanked the industry for the opportunity it had given him to head the association.

The dais was studded with personalities in and out of the business, including Adolph and Mrs. Zukor, E. W. and Mrs. Hammons and Mrs. August Belmont. The affair was a sellout and more than $15,000 was netted for the Film Daily Relief Fund and the M. P. Charity Fund.

Children's Theatre Measure Bumps Snag

ALBANY, April 22.—The Burchill bill to allow a city, town or village to pass an ordinance permitting children to attend picture theatres unaccompanied by parent or guardian when school is not in session, has struck a snag and probably will not be passed at this session.

Certain welfare agencies of New York City, including the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, have objected. Upstate welfare officials are said to favor the bill.

Lesser to Start May 18

HOLLYWOOD, April 22.—Sol Lesser has leased space at the Mack Sennett studios where he will produce "Peck's Bad Boy" beginning May 18, which will be followed by "When a Man's a Man," "Chandu" and a series of westerns.

75 in Phila. on Duals

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—Approximately one-third of the theatres in this territory are operating on a double feature policy, according to records of distributors here which show 75 houses to be dual customers.

Didn't See It

Kansas City, April 22.—This business of double bills is confusing. The other night a patron asked Mrs. A. Baier, owner of the Lindbergh, why "The House Beautiful" wasn't shown. That descriptive label, in the newspaper ad, referred to the theatre. To prevent further misunderstanding, Mrs. Baier has changed the tag, which now reads: "That cheerful theatre." No one, she says, would mistake that for a title.

Three Boston Houses Make Policy Shifts

BOSTON, April 22.—Three downtown theatres have changed policies. All are M. & P. Publix houses managed by Robert M. Sternberg. Scollay Square goes to vaudeville and double features with program changes Thursdays and Saturdays. Modern and Beacon theatres, formerly twin houses, resume that relationship, playing day and date, with two features, short subjects and newsreel. Paramount and Fenway continue day and date bills with two features, first run. This gives Boston two sets of twin houses for the first time.

Oppose Cincy Union

CINCINNATI, April 22.—Charles H. Elston and Arthur H. Fix, attorneys, representing Operators' Local 327, have filed suit in Common Pleas Court here against the Sound Projectionists' Union of America asking an injunction against using the name they have adopted, and a declaration that the organization is not a bona fide union. The petition, signed by John P. Hawthorne, president of the local, charges that the defendant organization consists principally of strike breakers and beginners in projection work, and that it is violating the code.

Canton Strand to Close

CANTON, O., April 22.—The Strand, independent, is scheduled to close in the next few weeks for complete renovation and remodeling.

Who? What? When?

Who are the appointees on code boards announced by Code Authority in New York?

More thumbnail sketches, gathered by MOTION PICTURE DAILY correspondents, furnish the answer:

Albany

ALBANY, April 22.—JOSEPH SHURE, who replaces Charles W. Koener as first run affiliated representative on clearance and zoning, is connected with RKO here. He started in show business with an independent in Kansas City, Mo., in 1919. After two years he went into the mercantile business and did radio jobbing. In 1925 he joined the Orpheum circuit in Chicago. He remained in Chicago six years and was then transferred to Dallas with RKO Southern Corp. He remained in this job until RKO Southern was turned back to Karl Hoblitzelle. After a few months with Hoblitzelle he returned to RKO, which was about a year ago. Before coming to his present post here he served for a time in the New York office. He was named to replace Koener when the latter was transferred by RKO from this city to Boston.

Chicago

CHICAGO, April 22.—JUDGE HARRY HIBBARD PORTER, who replaces Lowell Mason as the impartial member of the grievance board, had to turn back the pages of time a bit when he received word from Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt of his appointment. But their days together at Harvard Law School were quickly recalled, and that explains why the chief justice of the Municipal Court of Evanston has been asked to sit in on the problems of the industry.

Judge Porter, who has lived in Evanston the past 20 years, is a Northwestern University graduate, class of 1921 with an A. B. He emerged from the Harvard Law School in 1924 with an LL.B. Extremely popular in his home town, Judge Porter is also well known in Chicago for his untiring fight against red tape and legal maneuvering. He is recognized as a fearless champion of justice and has several times made the front pages by refusing to let friendship interfere with its execution. One time he fined himself a dollar for over-parking, and the novelty struck public fancy.

Judge Porter was married June 6, 1931, to Beatrice Vahle. They have a daughter 20 months old. He is a member of the Kiwanis, B. P. O. E., Evans Lodge 524 of A. F. & A. M. and a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He has had no previous association with the industry.

Des Moines

DES MOINES, April 22.—ARTHUR A. MORROW, impartial member of grievance, has been dean of the college of law, Drake University, Des Moines, for the last eight years, and was previously dean of the college of commerce. He has been admitted to the bar in Michigan as well as Iowa. He is president of the Frederick Apartments Co. here. He was born in West Alexander, Pa., in 1893, and is a graduate of Bethany College, Bethany, W. Va., and of the University of Michigan Law School.

Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, April 22.—ROY CHURCHILL, manager of the RKO exchange here, replaces J. Harold Stevens on the local grievance board. He has been manager of the local exchange for two years. Before coming here he was in Kansas City.

PAUL Q. RICHEY, impartial member of clearance, is president of the Russell Seeds advertising agency and was president of the local chamber of commerce in 1929. He is a former newspaper man, having worked on the Muncie Star and the Indianapolis Star. In 1909 he left the Star to join the advertising agency.

GEORGE S. OLIVE, impartial member of grievance, is senior partner of the accounting firm of George S. Olive & Co. He is a local man and a Harvard graduate. He was formerly accountant for the Indianapolis Water Co. Olive was a member of the board of directors of the local chamber of commerce at the time Richey was president.

Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, April 22.—EMMONS L. ABEL, Minneapolis attorney, impartial member on grievance, is 40 years old, lives at 2115 Aldrich Ave. S., Minneapolis, and maintains a law office at 1054 McKnight Building. He is engaged in the general practice of law and has had no connection with the film business except to represent an occasional client in the course of his practice. He was born in Minneapolis, and educated in the Minneapolis schools and the University of Minnesota. He has been practicing since about 1916.

EVERETT DILLEY, who replaces Eddie Ruben on grievance, is an old timer in the theatre business in Northfield, Minn., having taken over the Grand there about 15 years ago. For about five years in the heyday of prosperity, the house was operated by Publix under an agreement with Dilley but he took it back about two years ago. He is one of the well known names of the rural theatre business in the Northwest and is about 50 years old. He is married.

EDWARD G. TUNSTALL, who replaces Fred Holzapfel on clearance and zoning, grew up in the theatre business, having been connected with Metropolitan Theatres in Minneapolis and St. Paul since boyhood. He is now treasurer of the Metropolitan Theatre in Minneapolis as well as owner of the Southern Theatre, a neighborhood located at the famous Seven Corners in Minneapolis. He spent several years in the independent business, operating the Tri-State Film Co. in Minneapolis, moving to Milwaukee for some years and then returning here for another short hitch. For several years he was general manager of the St. Paul and Minneapolis Metropolitan Theatres. He took over the Southern theatre, four or five years ago from M. J. Cavanaugh and has been operating it since. He is about 50 years old, married and has one boy.

Offers Jobs to Cops

Cleveland, April 22.—Because members of the police force are to be put on part time due to the city's lack of funds, H. M. Addison, Loew division manager, has offered to put some of the policemen on as doormen in their "off" time to help bolster their incomes. Present doormen will not be dismissed but will be given other work.

A. A. D. RAHN, impartial member on clearance and zoning, is a veteran Minneapolis lumberman. He has been connected with the Shevlin-Carpenter & Clarke Co. for nearly 40 years, having started under T. H. Shevlin as a timber cruiser in his early youth. He is now vice-president of the company. He has been in Washington working on lumber codes, both wholesale and retail, since January. He is chairman of the Shippers' Advisory Board of the American Railway Ass'n for the Northwest. He is also a past potentate of Zuhrah Temple of the Shrine and is now a national officer of the lodge. He was born in Valparaiso, Ind., is married and has three children. His home is at Crystal Bay, Lake Minnetonka (suburb of Minneapolis).

New Haven

NEW HAVEN, April 22.—GEORGE S. STIRLING, impartial member of clearance and zoning, is a member of the investment banking firm of Stoddard and Williams and a former vice-president of Mechanics Bank here.

Portland

PORTLAND, April 22.—PHILLIP BLUMAUER, owner of the Capitol, Portland, recently celebrated his 69th birthday, having been born here in 1865 on the identical spot where his theatre stands. Following his schooling, he worked in various trades until he became associated with the wholesale drug house, Blumauer-Frank Drug Co., one of the pioneer concerns, and was with this firm for over 20 years. Following his resignation from the firm some three years ago, he took over the Capitol from the lessees, since which time he has operated the house. Blumauer is a real, simon-pure independent, steady, reliable and unchangeable in his house policy, which has never changed since he took it over, showing vaudeville and pictures, principally subsequent run, though at times he has used a first run independent film. He is well aware that the film business needs remodeling and is willing to devote his time to the betterment of the business.

Lease Birmingham Spots

BIRMINGHAM, April 22.—Three theatres here figure in new deals. The Galax has been leased to Galax Theatres, Inc., Frank V. Meritt, president, and will be remodeled and new equipment will be installed. The Pantages, dark several years, has been leased to Birmingham Theatres Co., which operates the Ritz and others. The Trionon has passed out of the film picture, having been leased for a chain dress shop.

Albany

ALBANY, April 22.—First luncheon since inception of the Albany chapter was held last week with NATE SAUBER and ALEC SAYLES as the kings for a day at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel.

Guest of honor was MAYOR THATCHER, who welcomed Variety Tent No. 9 to Albany and presented Chief Barker CHRIS. BUCKLEY with the key to the city.

Fifty members and 10 guests made up the assemblage. The gavel was wielded by SAUBER who defined the purpose and motives for the weekly noon day affair and the king for a day idea.

TOM BAILEY, Fox district manager, was the guest of TONY RYAN, Fox exchange manager. His remarks were short and sweet but to the point. He explained that a Variety Club was in the making in Boston.

MAYOR FITZGERALD of Hudson Falls, N. Y., was a guest of RAY SMITH, Warner manager. He competed with Albany's mayor in eloquence.

Chief Barker BUCKLEY gave MAYOR THATCHER credentials that will identify him as an associate member.

Permanent headquarters are definitely set in the Harmanus Bleeker Hall Building. These quarters formerly housed the American Legion. It is expected to have the quarters equipped May 12.

GEORGE WILLIAMS was named one of the king for a day team for April 23. GEORGE is editor-in-chief of the Times Union. His partner will be W. W. FARLEY, theatre operator in Albany and Schenectady.

Buffalo

BUFFALO, April 22.—Good natured jibes at the expense of the industry and a comparison between screen drama and the drama of the courtroom were highlights of an address by City Court Judge ROBERT J. SUMMERS at the second king for a day luncheon.

WILL MAHONEY and CHIC YORKE, headliners in Shea's Buffalo and Great Lakes theatres, respectively, were entertainers. MAHONEY sang songs of his own composition and YORKE recited poetry. Judge SUMMERS and the vaudevillians were made honorary associate barkers.

DAVE MILLER, chief barker, announced permanent headquarters will be on the sixth floor of Hotel Lafayette and will be remodeled and ready by May 1.

Kings for the day were HARRY A. SEED and JOHN SITTERLY.

Of the 125 barkers and their guests present, Rochester sent a delegation of eight and Syracuse of four.

SIDNEY SAMSON got a cake with one candle on it in honor of his birthday. He wouldn't tell how old he was.

HARRY T. DIXON and GEORGE GAMMEL are kings for the day for the luncheon April 23. Details are being kept secret.

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, April 22.—A new set of rules has been drawn up by the house committee, headed by BILL ONIE, chairman.

BILL KEYES came down from Dayton, O., last week, and was presented a radio by the membership. The case was O. K., but there was no mechanism.

Plans are being formulated for a dance to be held by the club in the near future. According to advance information, it will be one of the gala events of the local social season.

Variety Club Chatter

Visitors from the Columbus tent at the local club last week included PETE WOOD, MAX STEARN and J. REAL NETH.

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, April 22.—The largest attendance since the formation of the Variety Club turned out to meet the Cleveland baseball team. More than 340 guests were checked in. Kings were ED BANG, News sports editor; BEN SCHWARTZ, attorney; M. B. HORWITZ and JOHN KALAFAT, exhibitors. BANG introduced the baseball team as well as ALVA BRADLEY, owner; WALTER JOHNSON, manager, and BILLY EVANS, business manager.

BEN SCHWARTZ was master of ceremonies, and introduced FRANK BUCK and CARL FRIEBOLIN, local legal light and author of the annual City Club plays. Autographed baseballs were given to the guests.

Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, April 22.—Arrangements for permanent rooms have been made in the Claypool Hotel. JOE CANTOR, president, says they will be opened about May 1.

MARTY SOLOMON and I. M. HALPERIN were the kings for a day at the luncheon last week. Entertainment was provided by FRANK LIBUSE, vaudeville headliner, appearing last week at the Lyric.

LIBUSE came in as one of the waiters. Only those in charge of the program were in the know and when LIBUSE elbowed a few and stepped on a few corns, CARL NIFESSE got up in arms and started to call the manager. A. C. ZARING was ready to back him up and ask for the waiter's dismissal.

TOM DEVINE and LOUIS STOCKMAN came in late and were called to task by LIBUSE.

The club will hold an informal dance April 28 in TOM DEVINE's ballroom. Floor show entertainment and a "name" band will be the attractions.

JACK FLEX and COL. KEN COLLINS will be in charge of the entertainment this week.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, April 22.—Paramounters had their inning as rexes for "der tag" at the April 16 luncheon. First Assistant Chief Barker ARTHUR COLE delivered DR. BURRIS A. JENKINS in person for an illuminating address. The doctor is pastor of the Community Church, exhibitor, friend of the industry, novelist, former newspaper editor and an entertaining speaker.

The house committee decided to defy superstition and open the club rooms on Friday the 13th. After a directors' meeting, Chief Barker FRANK HENSLEY declared the quarters open and the crowd attending inscribed their names in the registration book. Housewarming will be held later.

PECK BAKER, chairman of the house committee, says the rooms will be open daily from 11 A.M. to 1 A.M., with a steward in attendance at all times.

Among early visitors were NORMAN FRESCOTT, with the "New Yorkers" company at the Mainstreet, an associate member of the Pittsburgh tent. Also HAROLD GOLDBERG, company manager, a barker from Cleveland.

Tent topics: IRWIN DUBINSKY a bridge addict . . . DICK BIECHELE and PECK BAKER frequent dropper-inners.

By-laws and constitution having been adopted, ELLIOTT JONES is obtaining the state charter.

BILL WAGNER is the local associate editor for "The Barker," national V. C. publication.

GEORGE (NEWMAN) BAKER lately has become a polo addict.

MAX ROTH spent a few days in Des Moines where JOE LEVY, Columbia branch manager, and MRS. LEVY were injured in a motor car smashup.

Detroit

DETROIT, April 22.—Sally Rand minus her fans, was the guest of honor at the noon-day luncheon for which BARKERS FRANK A. WETSMAN and LOU WISPER were kings for the day and proved herself as much at home on the rostrum as before the footlights. She told the barkers that competition of the right kind was a much needed tonic in the show business at present.

President J. E. FLYNN, who spent some time recently in Florida, has returned there to bring home his wife, who has been ill.

ELLIOTT S. KINNEY, who resigned from Allied to become secretary of the local NRA boards, is a barker. He was honored at a dinner in the Book-Cadillac on Wednesday night.

BEN LYON, appearing with wife, BEBE DANIELS at the Michigan, attended the get-together last Saturday night in the club rooms.

HAROLD ROBINSON has returned from Miami.

H. M. RICHEY and HAROLD ROBINSON will be kings for the next luncheon.

BILL HURLBUT is back from a business trip to Boston.

HERMAN HUNT, local manager for National Theatre Supply, is the newest barker.

Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, April 22.—The quota for a number of Variety Club charters set for September of this year has already been reached with the organization of the Variety Club of Washington, D. C., which is No. 11. The national officers have determined that not more than 11 charters would be issued up to September of this year and April finds that quota completed.

The total roster of Variety Clubs now consists of Pittsburgh, Columbus, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland, Kansas City, Buffalo, Albany, Indianapolis and Washington, D. C. The first club was organized in Pittsburgh seven years ago and the second in Columbus four years ago. The nine other clubs have been organized since September of last year.

In spite of the numerous requests for charters no additional ones will be issued before next September. It is the desire of the national officers that the organization be slow so that each of the new clubs will be equally as strong as the Columbus and Pittsburgh clubs.

They are more than enthused with the type of men who make up all these new organizations and they have been particularly active in the matter of charity and civic contacts. The club was originally organized in Pittsburgh by the man who now heads the organization as national president—JOHN H. HARRIS.

Washington

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Committee of Eleven of Tent No. 11 has met with Chief Barker JOHN J. PAYETTE in the chair. The tent's progress has been temporarily decelerated to a snail's pace because of the unexpected lack of space in acceptable hotels for headquarters.

Ways and means, house, transportation, membership, finance, entertainment and other committees were slated to have been chosen. Reports indicate that none of them were named.

It is understood that the names of 64 candidates for membership (which is arbitrarily limited to 75) were discussed.

St. Louis Men Shifted

ST. LOUIS, April 22.—In a shuffle of St. Louis Amusement Co. managers Sid Johnson of the Congress has gone to the Shenandoah, James Irving of the Shenandoah has gone to the Mikado, and John Hoehn, assistant manager of the Granada, has been made manager of the Union. Henry Cole has quit the Union for the Shaw, and Ernest Fox of the Shaw has gone to the Congress.

Spring Is Here

When they start repairing chairs
In deserted open airs
Then you'll know that SPRING IS HERE.
When dailies give their space
As to when conventions will take place
Then you'll know that SPRING IS HERE.
When exhibitors start complaining that
Their rentals were too high
And exchanges say at last year's prices
They just can't get by;
When the theatre doormen shout
"Cooler here inside than out"
Then you'll know that SPRING IS HERE.

LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?

The Three Ritz Brothers in
 "Hotel Anchovy"
 (Coronet Comedy) 19 mins.

A Wow
 Educational A goofy riot of laughs that will slay 'em anywhere. The Ritz Brothers which the proprietress, Paris Hill, is about to sell. She has a couple of buyers coming in, so she fires the Ritz boys to keep everything looking prosperous. And how they look leaving. It is one continuous series of howls as these boys go through their loony antics with the guests. It's fast, original, and -filled with uproarious situations. Can't miss. Produced by Al Christie.

"The Big Meow" 19 mins.
 Educational Tom Howard and George Shelton in Fast Comedy
 plenty of laughs in the Tom Howard and George business who are hired by a judge to trace a gangster who is threatening to do him bodily injury for sending him to jail. By mistake, the two sleuths trail the judge's wife instead of the gangster's moll, with very disastrous results to all hands.
 Moves fast, and the comics have an original line of humor!

"Hula Honeymoon" 8 mins.
 Educational (Treasure Chest Series)
 Beautiful
 A very delightful and atmospheric short of Hawaii, showing the natives celebrating the ceremonial maturity of one of the lovely maidens of the Island. It is very artistically done, with beautiful photography and the haunting Hawaiian melodies.

"The Gold Ghost" 20 mins.
 Educational Classy Comic
 A fine executed short comedy starring Buster Keaton in the role of material that he can handle to perfection. When his ritzy girl gives him the air until he proves himself a man and not just an idle son of a rich man, Buster starts out in his car, and breaks down on the Nevada desert. A new gold strike is discovered by a couple of old prospectors, and Buster finds himself running the town as sheriff, he having grabbed himself the badge from the sheriff's office. Filled with the delightful Keaton touches, it will go over big with all his many admirers.
 Directed by Charles Lamont.

"Born to Die" 9 mins.
 Educational Unusual
 Very entertaining and absorbing presentation of minute sea life, showing a series of and little known habitants of the bottom of the ocean. The photography is exceptionally fine, and the narrative tells the story of the different species in a terse and graphic manner. Unusual subject that will have a wide appeal.

First Hearing On Grievances Set for May 2

It Will Be Followed by Weekly Meetings

Airing of local grievances will start May 2 and weekly meetings thereafter will be held on Tuesdays. The board is expected to meet three days a week the first few weeks in order to dispose of more than 100 complaints which have piled up. Harry H. Thomas will be chairman.

Although everyone will be given a fair chance, protestants will be asked to try to settle minor disputes before hearings. This is reminiscent of arbitration hearings held here in the past where every attempt was made to settle cases before going before the board.

Zoning Board Sets Its Meeting Dates

Thursday is the day set for weekly meetings of the local clearance and zoning main board. Advisory committees are scheduled to convene on Mondays and Wednesdays to work on reports to be taken up by the main group on Thursdays.

Leo Abrams of Universal will be chairman of the meeting slated for April 26. No actual zoning problems will come up at this session, the purpose being mainly to get down to organization work.

Postpone Cleveland Grievance Hearings

CLEVELAND, April 23.—Three cases filed for hearing by the local grievance board today were postponed to next Monday, one by request of the complainant, A. E. Ptak; another by request of the defendant's attorney, David Siegel, and a third because the complainant, Paul Gusdanone, failed to appear.

All are cases involving distribution of dime passes.

Code Board To Get K. C. Controversy SMPE Looks For Comeback Of Color Film

KANSAS CITY, April 23.—Local exhibitors look for Kansas City's price and protection situation to be split wide open when the clearance and zoning board swings into action this week. The first function of the board will be to take up the Independent Theatre Owners' petition demanding shorter first run protection. Subsequent object to the 30-day clearance after first runs, contending the present protection schedule was adopted when downtown first runs charged 50 cents

ATLANTIC CITY, April 23.—Strong belief that there will be a return to color in features was expressed today in a report presented by the progress committee of the S.M.P.E. at the opening session of the society's annual convention at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall here, with President A. N. Goldsmith presiding.

"There is evidence," the report stated, "that the public is showing more interest in color pictures, and the stage seems set for a pronounced

Sessions in 47 States With More Than 300 Measures In

With the fate of virtually every important legislative measure affecting the industry already settled, indications are that a net gain instead of an anticipated loss can be chalked up for the industry from the turbulent 1933-34 legislative sessions.

The sessions approaching a close were the busiest in which the industry ever has been involved. Tax-hungry legislatures met in 47 of the 48 states, Mississippi being the only state not meeting, and considered more than 300 measures affecting the industry during the time they were in session. In addition, 18 Federal measures involving the industry were introduced at Washington. The legislatures of

Code Boards Here Vary Rule in Picking Alternates

Although the code provides that when a member of the clearance and zoning board is absent a member of similar standing on the grievance board be appointed as his alternate, and vice versa, this procedure is being dropped for the New York territory and the members themselves are naming their substitutes.

At the first meetings of the boards, local members were told to name alternates at the first regular meetings. The personnel of the grievance board will designate alternates at the May 2 meeting while members of the clearance and zoning board will submit their substitutes at the meeting on Thursday.

All alternates must be approved unanimously by the boards.

The Pay-Off

Hollywood, April 23

CLIPPED from the Los Angeles Times and typical of the pap concocted and dished up in the manner of which Hollywood most approves. Bing Crosby talking:

"If only the truth—the real truth—were told about the salaries of Hollywood, kidnaping and extortion threats against all of us who are in the spotlight would cease. And we could enjoy life and our children and our homes with the same peace and happiness that heaven intended.

"With the disturbed economic conditions in the country, men out of work, families losing their homes and children not getting enough to eat, in many, many instances—it's understandable why embitterment fills the hearts of persons who read about the other fellow making a fabulous fortune, when they have nothing themselves. I'd feel that way myself if conditions were reversed.

"But if the unvarnished truth were told about Hollywood incomes—if the correct figures, and not the phoney and highly colored ones, were actually stated, after deducting income taxes, and commissions, and living expenses necessary for the peculiar position in which our work places us—then it would be discovered that most of us are far from being rich.

"What accumulated fortune any of us might happen to have possesses only a relative value anyway, because our incomes stop the minute we slip in popular favor. Each one of us is perpetually faced with imminent danger of taking an abrupt box-office toboggan. In my own case, I feel lucky if I can save between 15 and 20 per cent of my yearly salary, over and above normal deductions. So from a financial standpoint I wouldn't be a great shakedown for kidnapers.

"When people read those articles they don't stop to analyze what's behind the figures. They just see large, beautiful, fairy-tale numbers."

AND so there is ruined for us what might otherwise have been a rather perfect day loaded with California sunshine and rich in bursting blossoms.

We suppose that, between his Paramount contract and his radio broadcasting, Crosby grosses not less than $5,000 a week. Between living and cursing the income tax collectors, he may spend half of that amount, leaving perhaps an income of $130,000 a year.

Tough to take, you must agree, and leading to only one conclusion:

Pity the poor Hollywood star who has to struggle along on four figures a week. What a struggle!

First Hearing On Grievances Set for May 2

T. O. C. C., and Florence Abramson, last identified with the Film Board of Trade, yesterday assumed their duties as secretaries of the grievance and clearance and zoning boards, respectively. The clearance and zoning board meets Thursday.

Before Executive Secretary John C. Flinn left by plane for the coast yesterday, he called in both secretaries and gave them final instructions.

Defendants, who are non-assenters, will be given the right to appeal in the event decisions are rendered against them by grievance boards, it is officially stated. However, they cannot file protests with either clearance and zoning or grievance boards.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—The local grievance board meets tomorrow in the RKO building at 2 P. M.

Name Three to Serve On Complaints Body

Charles L. O'Reilly, J. Robert Rubin and Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt have been named to the Trade Practice Complaints Committee, the first two with power to vote. Rosenblatt only has the power of veto subject to review by the NRA.

The committee will set up local industrial adjustment agencies, which are the local grievance boards, to handle all complaints other than production, vaudeville presentation and labor. This is in line with the plan to keep all trade practice complaints within the industry and away from local NRA regional boards.

Impartial members do not necessarily have to be present at clearance and zoning discussions. When they do not attend, no vote can be taken. Government observers must be present at all grievance hearings. Secretaries are being notified of this procedure by Campi.

Ohioans Ask Change In Code's Ad Clause

COLUMBUS, April 23.—Reopening of the code to change the advertising clauses under Article V, Section E, Part 5 (a) and (b) is sought by the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio. Copies of a resolution calling for the move have been sent to John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority, and to Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt.

This clause as it now stands prevents advertising by subsequent until after the close of the prior run.

who, in addition to conferences with Fox studio executives, is working on code setups for the coast.

Later in the week, Flinn will hold the first of four divisional code secretarial meetings in Los Angeles, to be followed by one in Kansas City, Chicago and New York. He is due in New York May 3.

Who? What? When?

Who are the appointees on code boards announced by Code Authority in New York?

More thumbnail sketches, gathered by MOTION PICTURE DAILY correspondents, furnish the answer:

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—LEONARD S. SCHLESINGER, affiliated representative on clearance and zoning, has been 13 years in the show business, his experience ranging from part-time usher to zone manager. A relief usher's job at the Missouri in St. Louis was his first contact with the business in October, 1921. He went from usher to the assistant managership of the theatre. When Skouras took over the theatre in 1925, he was made publicity director, then manager. He operated the Missouri, assisted in the operation of the Ambassador and ran several neighborhood houses for Skouras in St. Louis.

In December of 1928 he entered the booking and buying department of the Skouras circuit. He remained in that capacity until Warners took over the Skouras interests and he then became assistant to Charles Skouras when the latter was in charge of Warner theatres in St. Louis, Indianapolis, Oklahoma City, Memphis, Louisville and Milwaukee. When Skouras withdrew from Warners in 1931 Schlesinger became general manager of Warners' St. Louis Amusement Co. Before a year had elapsed he was sent to Cleveland as assistant zone manager in charge of booking and buying for that area. When a similar position presented itself in Philadelphia, Schlesinger was transferred there. In November, 1933, he became zone manager for Warner in the Philadelphia area with 130 houses under his jurisdiction. Schlesinger is single, fond of golf and sports of all kinds, but regards his business as the most diverting pastime of all.

PERCY BLOCH, representing affiliated distributors on clearance and zoning, is Paramount's district manager here. Starting his career as a rice buyer and grader in Texas, he turned to pictures in 1914, working under Felix Feist in the Cleveland World Film Corp., New York office. He came to Philadelphia under S. R. Kent in exchange work just before America entered the war. He enlisted and served in the Ordnance Department. Later he went to Kansas City for Goldwyn, then to Cleveland. He joined Famous Players-Lasky in 1920 and was exchange manager in Chicago, Cleveland and then Philadelphia. Bloch was appointed district manager here, with jurisdiction over Philadelphia and Washington, in 1932.

MILTON ROGASNER, representing independent subsequent runs on clearance and zoning, is a Philadelphian by birth and has long been an independent exhibitor. He is interested in several neighborhood theatres with the Iris in the Kensington section as his headquarters. He started in 1914 by building and operating the Logan in North Philadelphia. Later he acquired the Susquehanna, Bellevue, Star, Lafayette and Iris in Philadelphia, and the Grand and Globe in Vineland, N. J. He is an active M. P. T. O. member, is married and has one son attending Harvard.

LOU LINKER representing first run unaffiliates on the clearance and zoning board, is a prominent south Jersey exhibitor, operating two houses in Bridgeton, N. J., and the Lennox in Philadelphia. He is a veteran in the exhibitor field, having joined it in the early days of the business after a long association with the Campbell Soup Co. as a tomato buyer. He is a member of the board of managers of the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware.

M. S. LANDOW, representing unaffiliated distributors on the grievance board, is manager of the Universal exchange here. A Philadelphian, he has been associated with pictures since 1914, starting as an exhibitor in Bristol, Pa. In 1920 he sold out to Sablosky and McGuirk and entered the Paramount exchange here. In 1925 he became Universal manager here, returning to the exhibition field in 1929 with the Appell Amusement Co. in York, Pa. After nine months this outfit sold out to Warners and Landow went to Universal again as district manager for Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Washington. When the districts were separated, he became exchange manager for the Philadelphia territory. At present he is president of the Philadelphia Film Board of Trade. During the life of the Hays Arbitration Board, he served on the Philadelphia committee. He is unmarried and is a 32nd degree Mason.

FRANK L. MCNAMEE, representing affiliated distributors on the grievance board, is local exchange manager for RKO-Radio and has been in the film field since 1919. Born in Butler, Pa., in 1892, he attended Washington and Jefferson College and graduated from University of Pittsburgh Law School in 1918. He entered the service and was assigned to the officers' training school (field artillery) at Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky., where he served until the armistice. He broke into films in 1919 as city salesman for Universal in Pittsburgh and later went out as special representative for the company in the middle west, his territory including Chicago, Oklahoma City, Kansas, Minneapolis and Omaha. In 1922 he became Universal's exchange manager in Salt Lake City. In 1923 he went to Washington to manage the FBO exchange, staying there until 1932, during which time FBO became RKO. Then he came to Philadelphia to handle the local RKO-Radio exchange.

During his Washington residence, for five years McNamee was a member of the Hays Arbitration Board. He is a member of the Press Club of Washington, also of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity (W. & I.). He is married but has no children.

LEWEN PIZOR, representing unaffiliated exhibitors on grievance, has operated a chain of independent theatres in Philadelphia for 18 years. He is president of the M. P. T. O. of East-or more as top for single features against the present policy of 25 cents at most first runs. One has double bills.

Independents are against the present policy of two bits at most first runs, one with double bills. Unaffiliates favor giving first runs merely prior protection unless they boost scales to former level. They want zoning changed immediately for the balance of the present season pending a new schedule for next year. Some also want protection next year over competitors in the same zone, cutting normal scales to 10 cents some nights a week.

First runs here will resist the I.T.O. petition filed with the zoning board for revision of the Kansas City zoning protection schedule.

Numerous complaints filed by individual exhibitors with Code Authority, charging competitors with unfair practices, were received today by the local code office from New York. They are being returned to the complainants for filing on the required forms and certification by a notary. Grievances involve two for ones, price cutting, giveaways, lotteries and other practices. The grievance board meets Thursday, but since the complaints are not in proper form it is doubtful if the board will have much to do for the next two weeks.

The first report of the board, to include the film code investigation, has not yet been completed, it was learned today, and will not go to the White House until the end of the week at the earliest.

Dubinsky Row Goes To St. Louis Board

KANSAS CITY, April 23.—Following an agreement to arbitrate the labor dispute under way for some time between Ed Dubinsky and operators and stagehands, Dubinsky extended a notice expiring last night for another week.

Arbitration was agreed upon following the intervention of Robert K. Ryland, Missouri state NRA compliance director. It revolves around Dubinsky's demand for three operators at the Liberty instead of four.

interested in the acting profession to sign a petition of protest to be forwarded to Senator Coolidge.

John Emerson outlined numerous reasons why the measure should be fought. He said only one-twentieth of all salary payments made to actors went to foreign talent, adding that if we barred foreign talent Europe would retaliate even to the extent of banning our pictures. He asserted the determination of American producers to use foreign talent might result in their operating in foreign studios, where pictures, he said, can be made much cheaper than here.

The meeting voted enthusiastically against the bill. Each present signed the petition. Mayer plans to extend the drive to include other studios with the intention of making the protest against the measure unanimous.

dent of the M. P. Research Council, will be one of the opposing speakers, and Mrs. Florence Bagley of this city, who was reported at one time to have been considered by the Administration for the post of government representative on the film Code Authority, will be the other. Mrs. Bagley, according to the report, was to have received the post left vacant when Dr. Lowell resigned from Code Authority, expressing disappointment that the code did nothing to curb block booking. The post has never been filled.

Asked yesterday if they would accept the Boston organization's invitation, Pettijohn and Schaefer said that they had not received the invitations yet, but indicated they would accept if and when they arrived.

Levey Will Answer Charge of Coercion

a strike of members of Levey's union has been in progress for several weeks.

The theatre charges in its complaint that Levey "threatened violence" against Harry Lewis, manager, for his refusal to reinstate several employees, members of the union, who, the complaint says, were discharged for "incompetency."

"There are no grounds for the charges," Levey said yesterday. "There were no threats of violence made and the orders to reinstate the discharged employees were issued by the Regional Labor Board after a thorough hearing of the theatre's case and ours."

Halliday Replaces Cortez

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—John Halliday has replaced Ricardo Cortez in the cast of Warners' "House Wife." Cortez is recovering from an operation at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

tern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware and is a charter member of the organization. He has been particularly active on legislative committees of this organization and for several years has been one of the hard-fighting leaders of the independent exhibitors' cause.

CHARLES SEGAL, representing independent subsequent runs on the clearance and zoning board, is one of Philadelphia's veteran exhibitors, having started in the business in 1907 with a small theatre at Front and Diamond Sts. in the Kensington section. At present he is secretary and treasurer of the Principal Theatres Corp., controlling Keith's, the Arcadia and Segal's Apollo in Philadelphia. He is also associated with Sol Lesser in the latter's west coast activities.

After his start in the exhibition field, Segal turned to theatre construction, at the same time increasing his exhibitor holdings. In the revolt against the Stanley Co. of America Segal joined several local independents as president of the United Theatre Owners. Later he entered the Stanley Co. as chairman of the board of Stanley Exhibitors, later assuming the post of chairman on construction, appraisals and purchases for the Stanley outfit. He withdrew about eight years ago to form the Principal Theatres group. Segal was one of the first presidents of the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware and was once national treasurer of the organization. A widower, he has one son and one daughter. He is a life member of the Masonic order and is honorary director of Temple Beth-El.

HARRY WEINER, representing unaffiliated distributors on clearance and zoning, started in the business as a salesman for Universal 12 years ago. After two years he joined the Independent Film Co., at that time franchise holder for Warners. He was connected with the firm up to the time the franchise was sold to Vitagraph, with which he became associated as Philadelphia-New Jersey salesman. After four months he was promoted to branch manager of its Washington office. He returned to Philadelphia as branch manager of Associated Exhibitors. When the company was dissolved, he rejoined the Independent Film Co., then franchise holder for Columbia. When the firm sold the franchise to Columbia several months later, he was appointed branch manager here for the latter, a post he now holds. When the first zoning board was organized in 1930, he was one of its first members.

M. B. COMERFORD, representing affiliated exhibitors on grievance, is general manager and treasurer of Comerford Theatres, Inc. He was born in Larksville, Pa., and educated at St. Vincent's Academy in Plymouth, Pa., the Stroudsburg Normal College in Stroudsburg and the Wharton School of Finance in Scranton, Pa. He taught school in Pennsylvania and was also a builder of many of Pennsylvania's fine roads. He has been associated with his uncle, M. E. Comerford, for 15 years. He is married.

COLONEL HARRY B. SALTER, impartial member of the grievance board, was born in New Jersey in 1873. His education was obtained in the public schools of Trenton. After leaving school in 1890 he was engaged in reportorial work for New York and Philadelphia newspapers. From 1894 until 1904 he was assistant city clerk of Trenton. In 1904 he was elected city clerk and served until his appointment in 1917 to the position of chief auditor and assistant to the comptroller of the State of New Jersey. He is aide-de-camp to Governor Moore, and carries the title of lieutenant colonel in the department of the Quartermaster General, to which position he was appointed in 1905. During the World War he served in the Department of the Adjutant General of New Jersey in connection with selective service administration, under General Enoch H. Crowder in Washington, D. C.

In politics he is identified as a Republican, but has had no political activity since 1914.

Report Cooper to Expand New Theatre for Hickory

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 23.—Rumors here are to the effect that Cooper-Regal is planning an expansion program which will reach 15 leading towns in the state.

Recently a new 800-seat house, the Inca, was opened by the Cooper interests in Okmulgee, Okla.

"Big Wolf" Is Cincy Hit

CINCINNATI, April 23.—Walt Disney's "Big, Bad Wolf," after playing a week at the RKO Palace, has moved to the Capitol for a second week, which is something of a record for this town.

Drop "Dark Tower" Title

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—Warners have changed the title of "Dark Tower," starring Edward G. Robinson, to "Strange Case of Mr. Chautard."

the next few weeks that part of his work which has involved RKO theatres, and will concentrate exclusively on the handling of Radio Pictures advertising and publicity only, it was learned yesterday.

John Dowd, who has handled the RKO theatres' advertising and publicity under Sisk, will continue in that capacity probably without other changes in the department under him.

The change is understood to have been directed by J. R. McDonough, RKO general manager, who felt that the pictures and theatres should be handled separately. Given his choice of the two departments, Sisk selected the Radio Pictures post.

Fix Responsibility For Immoral Shows

ALBANY, April 23.—Under the terms of the Quinn bill, just passed and sent to the Governor as an amendment to the penal law, only the producer can be held responsible for the presentation of an immoral show. This relieves theatre employees and the owner of the prospect of arrest.

Research Budget Fixed

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—With the newly organized Technical Research Council of the Academy now in its second month of operation, the budget has been set at $800 per month, which is prorated among the major producers. These expenses consist of salary of the manager, a secretary, rent of an office, telephone, stationery, postage, etc.

The work of each of the sub-committees is individual when it comes to requiring money necessary for actual research and engineering investigation. This will be taken from a revolving fund of $1,500 which has been deposited to the credit of the council.

Kendrick Gets New Post

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—Harry Kendrick, former assistant to Harry Arthur, operator of Fox Metropolitan theatres in New York, has been named manager of the Enright in East Liberty by Harry Kalmine, zone manager for Warners. Kendrick takes over his duties with the switch of the 4,000-seat Enright to a double feature policy. He succeeds Ted Thomas, who will probably be transferred to another post in the Pittsburgh territory.

Harrington to Seattle

SEATTLE, April 23.—Ronald Harrington has just been appointed assistant manager of the Fifth Avenue by Frank L. Newman, Sr. He succeeds Henry Ross, resigned. Harrington was formerly assistant manager of the Liberty in Portland.

Seattle Orpheum Cuts

SEATTLE, April 23.—The Orpheum has cut its scales from 25 to 15 cents for matinees and from 35 to 25 cents at night.

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—George Raft and Carole Lombard are again to be teamed by Paramount, this time in "Rhumba," by Guy Endore.

Legislatures Close; Films Hit Lightly

19 states met twice during the past year, and those of five states met three times, making a total of 76 state legislative sessions at which industry interests were at stake.

Of the measures of major importance, only one adverse proposal has been made a law. That was the passage of the Ohio admission tax. Approximately 30 such tax measures were actually introduced in state legislatures. Overbalancing this was the repeal by South Carolina of its admission tax and the passage of measures legalizing Sunday shows in three states.

Tax bills proposed other than those on admissions included levies on footage, licensing and sales.

The industry's successful fight against unfair or discriminatory legislation during the past 12 months demonstrates again, according to observers, that in this annual battle, if in no other, all component parts of the industry stand together.

Deal for Roxy Seen About 6 Months Off

With four reorganization plans still under consideration, the first mortgage bondholders for the Roxy will not close any of the deals for another six months, it is understood.

Loew's, Herbert Lubin and Harry C. Arthur are among those having submitted the plans under advisement, but no deal is near consummation, it is said.

The main difficulty, it is said, is that $1,000,000 in cash must be put up before the management of the house changes. Raising the money by the principals other than Loew is proving a task, it is said. Loew's has cooled on the deal and is said to have dropped out of the bidding entirely, although the bid is still on record downtown.

Hode Heads Columbians

New officers have been elected by the Columbians, the employees' organization of Columbia Pictures, as follows: Hal Hode, president; Milton Hannock, first vice-president; Sam Hacker, second vice-president; Vincent Borelli, treasurer; Clara Gorin, secretary; Minna Stieglitz, assistant secretary; Ruth Cohen, financial secretary; Mary Koben, chairman of the board of governors, and Daniel Heiss, press agent.

Plans are being made for the annual spring dinner dance at which the officers will be installed.

Christie Joins Mitchell

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—Charles H. Christie, veteran comedy producer, has joined the Mitchell Camera Co. as vice-president in association with Stanley S. Anderson, who has been vice-president of the company for several years. Christie's duties will center on cultivating a world market for the company's product and he will go abroad next month, visiting the Orient, Paris, London, Vienna, Germany and Russia.

Ampa Intermingles Seriousness, Fun

Seriousness and fun were intermingled at the "Naked Truth" dinner in a way that still has the industry talking. More than 1,000 persons turned out for the gathering at the Astor and a net of $15,000 was realized for the Film Daily and Motion Picture Charity Fund.

Dinner service began shortly after 8 o'clock and speechmaking was more or less haphazard for a time. When the new president, William R. Ferguson, attempted to talk after an introduction by the retiring president, John C. Flinn, about 30 boys ran up with telegrams and a crowd of "news-paper" photographers took many flashlights. A Scotch bagpipe band interrupted his third effort to talk and he gave up. Later a watch was presented to Flinn in a serious moment.

Warm Greeting for Mrs. Belmont

Mrs. August Belmont was warmly received, in spite of the fact that she said there were many "degrading" pictures being turned out. She declared the M. P. Research Council, which she heads, did not want to be a "scold," but hoped by constructive cooperation with the industry to bring about an uplift in general taste for the protection of children. Louis Nizer answered in a later address that there was much of cultural value in pictures and that not all of them could be turned out for children. Terry Ramsaye, editor of the Motion Picture Herald, spoke briefly.

The entertainment continued until after 1 o'clock. From 10 to 11 o'clock the affair was broadcast over Columbia hookup on the General Foods hour which goes to Little America each week. Admiral Byrd's remarks were inaudible because of static.

Forty on Dais

The dais was said to have been the longest ever used at a film gathering, running the whole length of the ballroom. Among the 40 seated at the long table, in addition to the speakers already mentioned, were: Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia and Mrs. LaGuardia, Aldermanic President Bernard S. Deutsch and Mrs. Deutsch, Nathan Burkan, E. W. Hammons, P. S. Harrison, all the retiring Ampa officers and the incoming slate, and Irene Dunne, Jay Emanuel, Jack Ali-coate, Tom Hamlin and others.

Stage, screen and radio talent entertained intermittently throughout the evening. A burlesque reel stirred plenty of laughs. Dancing began about 1:30 o'clock.

Erskine Busy on Deals

Having finished dubbing on "Frankie and Johnnie" yesterday, Chester Erskine is now working on a deal for release through a national company. Some reports have it Columbia will handle the picture.

Erskine starts his next in two months and is now working on star and story material. Production is set at the Biograph studios here.

Jay Golden in Town

Jay Golden, city manager for RKO in Rochester, is in town for booking conferences with home office executives. He leaves tonight for his headquarters.

final stages of preparation and 39 in the cutting rooms, with the shorts registering five and 13.

Paramount as in the past four weeks, continues to lead the field with eight features in work, five preparing and five editing. M-G-M has six working, one preparing and eight cutting; Radio has six working, four and six; Warners, four, two and three; Columbia, three, two and three; Fox, three, three and five; Universal, three, two and two; Columbia, three, two and three, while the combined independents report a total of five, four and six.

Short subject producers show M-G-M with two working, none preparing and four cutting; Roach has three cutting; Universal reports none working, two preparing and one editing; Columbia has one, one and three; Radio, one, two and two, while the independent group shows nine, two and five.

Oklahoma City Goes Into 10-Week Drive

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 23.—George Henger, city manager for Standard Theatres, operating Cooper-Regal and Warner houses under a joint plan, has set up a hard mark for his employees to shoot at.

Henger explains that the advent of warm spring weather means a kick in the pants for the show business. Hence his idea of a two phase business drive. The first phase is one which concerns every employee. The object is to gross as much business for a 10-week period beginning April 1, as was rolled up during a 10-week period which ended April 1, an approximate total of $200,000. The second phase concerns managers alone, which sets as a goal a 90 per cent operating expense for the second 10 weeks as compared to the first 10 weeks.

If the goal is reached there will be prizes aplenty for all employees pushing the first phase and prizes for the managers if they achieve the second phase.

Omaha Orpheum Is Sold

OMAHA, April 23.—Dependent upon court approval, the Orpheum here was sold today to a corporation formed by the bondholders of the house for $125,000. The bid was the only one received and was made with the reservation that any part of the property may be rejected with a view to negotiating new leases at more favorable terms. A. H. Blank is at present operating the house.

Selznick Arrives Here

David O. Selznick arrived from Hollywood yesterday and will be here several days before sailing for London to do preliminary work on "David Copperfield." Selznick is accompanied by George Cukor and Howard Estabrook.

Hold "Whirlpool" Date

Because the management feels Radio's "The Finishing School" is a stronger opening attraction, Columbia's "The Whirlpool" will open at the Casino May 4 instead of April 27.

SMPE Looks For Comeback Of Color Film increase in color in important feature pictures."

The convention, which continues through Thursday, attracted an attendance of more than 100. Exhibitors and projectionists of Atlantic City joined with the society in honoring William Reed as the oldest projectionist in the world in point of continuous service. He was introduced by F. H. Richardson of Motion Picture Herald, who pointed out that Reed began his career as a projectionist with the earliest beginnings of commercial films in 1896.

At a luncheon Dr. Goldsmith described recent progress of the society, which, he said, had grown from a membership of 561 on Jan. 1 of this year to 768 at the moment. Following Dr. Goldsmith, William F. Casey, representing the mayor of Atlantic City, welcomed the conventioners. Another speaker at the luncheon was T. L. Huselton, executive manager of the Atlantic City Chamber of Commerce.

Many technical advances were described in papers and in demonstrations. Striking progress was shown to have been made recently in the use of 16mm. film, as well as in both sound and image.

The equipment exhibit, while containing several interesting technical developments, proved smaller than usual.

Ohio Shifts Vaudeville

CLEVELAND, April 23.—Starting May 4, vaudeville will be discontinued at the RKO Palace for the summer. With the elimination of stage shows, the scales will drop to the average local first run level of 30c-35c-44c.

DAYTON, April 23.—Five acts of vaudeville go into the RKO Colonial May 4, replacing a straight picture policy. Bookings will be for a week, and will follow the run at the RKO Grand at Cincinnati. Prices have been set at 25 and 35 cents, including 10 per cent state tax.

James Winn Recovering

KANSAS CITY, April 23.—Recuperating from a serious illness which kept him in California the last year and a half, James Winn, former Warner manager in St. Louis, arrived here en route to Lincoln, Neb., for a visit with relatives. After a short stay he will return to the coast for further treatment. It is expected that in six months he will be in condition to resume work, which will probably be a Warner assignment in California.

Miss Hopkins Is Injured

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—A sprained ankle suffered by Miriam Hopkins while at work on "She Loves Me Not," starring Bing Crosby, has forced Paramount to postpone production on the film until she recovers.

"Wild Cargo" Is Cleveland Hit, $21,000

CLEVELAND, April 23.—"Wild Cargo," with Frank Buck appearing in person, just about ran away with the big business here last week. The $21,000 gross at the RKO Palace was over normal by $3,000. The picture was transferred directly from the Palace to Keith's East 105th St., RKO's ace neighborhood house.

"Catherine the Great," on a straight picture policy, took $5,000 at the Allen. This equals the normal take with a vaudeville program.

"Men In White" was strong at $12,000 in Loew's State, the take being only slightly under "Riptide."

Total first run business was $50,200. Average is $45,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 20:

"CATHERINE THE GREAT" (U. A.)
ALLEN—(3,300), 25c-35c, 7 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $3,000)

"GAMBLING LADY" (Warners)
WARNERS' HIPPODROME—(3,800), 30c-35c-44c, 7 days. Gross: $6,000. (Average, $5,000)

"THE NINTH GUEST" (Col.)
"MARRIAGE ON APPROVAL" (Monogram)

WARNERS' LAKE—(800), 30c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $2,200. (Average, $2,500)

"WILD CARGO" (Radio)
RKO PALACE—(3,100), 30c-40c-60c-75c, 7 days. Stage: Frank Buck in person, and vaudeville headed by Rae Samuels & Co. Gross: $21,000. (Average, $18,000)

"MEN IN WHITE" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S STATE—(3,400), 30c-35c-44c, 7 days. Gross: $12,000. (Average, $10,000)

"YOU'RE TELLING ME" (Para.)

"CARNIVAL LADY" (Goldsmith)
LOEW'S STILLMAN—(1,900), 25c-35c, 7 days. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $4,000)

"Jimmy" Tops Dull Indianapolis Week

INDIANAPOLIS, April 23.—"Jimmy, the Gent" was the only attraction in town to show any strength. Its $6,500 at the Lyric was $500 up.

"Gambling Lady" at the Circle reached a par $3,500, but business was off elsewhere.

Total first run business was $19,000. Average is $16,500 without the Indiana.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 21:

"BOTTOMS UP" (Fox)
APOLLO—(1,100), 20c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $2,000. (Average, $2,500)

"GAMBLING LADY" (Warners)
CIRCLE—(2,800), 20c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,500. (Average, $3,500)

"MELODY IN SPRING" (Para.)

"ONE IS GUILTY" (Col.)
INDIANA—(3,100), 20c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,000.

"LOOKING FOR TROUBLE" (U. A.)
PALACE—(3,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $4,500)

Rome, Bach in New Jobs

BALTIMORE, April 23.—J. Louis Rome, managing director of Associated Theatres, Inc., controlling six houses, and Samuel Bach, vice-president of his organization, have just been elected to the board of the Gwynn Amusement Co., of which Robert Kanter is president. This company operates the Gwynn, a residential house.

Insiders' Outlook

April 23.

Ten thousand feet up, looking down, at and through some of the current goings on in Hollywood. Written on the airline between Hollywood and San Francisco:

BEHIND M-G-M's announced decision to forget "The Postman Rings Twice," novel by James Cain, is a victory for the Hays organization here in its constant campaign to keep out of pictures material which, in the light of public reaction it feels will meet objections upon release. Columbia looked over the yarn some weeks ago and there ensued quite a fuss with Lewis ("Milly") Milestone, who was slated to direct. No action on making it there. Later, Warners took a looksee and decided to drop it. This was voluntary and with no pressure exerted. Then came the third, or M-G-M, phase. The company paid $25,000 for the best-seller and now scraps it on the ground no acceptable treatment could be prepared. The Cain yarn, admittedly powerful on paper, is viewed by Hays officials as the type of material that simply cannot be recorded on celluloid. . . .

Regarded as Victory Number 2 is the scrapping of a story dubbed "Professional Co-Respondent." This, like the Cain opus, was on the Metro schedule. This, like its predecessor, goes into the refuse dump because no suitable treatment emerged from the writing mill on the Culver City lot. Number 3 is an extremely interesting situation swing around "Tarzan and His Mate." One of the too hot-cha sequences in that attraction showed Maureen O'Sullivan, or someone doubling for her, swimming in the altogether. And the altogether proved too much for the Hays office. Shooting that sort of thing through water purposely disturbed is one thing, but what turned out to be altogether too disturbing was clear water and feminine curves disporting face up toward the grinding camera. . . .

The opposition registered, a jury of Hollywood peers composed of Winnie Sheehan, Ben Kahane and Junior Laemmle sat in judgment and ruled against M-G-M. Prior to that Irving Thalberg waxed bothered, also hot, and built a long argument around his claim that the same sort of thing had been done—and allowed—in "White Shadows of the South Seas" several seasons ago. At his insistence, the two telltale reels were screened in an M-G-M studio projection room, but what Thalberg believed was there to bolster his argument proved not to be upon screen examination. Thumbs down resulted at a cost of $30,000 to Metro, which had to re-shoot, at the same time toning down the "excessive" brutality to animals against which the Hays association had similarly raised official voice. . . .

The first two instances, typical of others under way in Hollywood today, reflect the practical application of a theory propounded by Will H. Hays a year ago almost to the day. Then the bank holiday had socked this industry, like others, with a situation unparalleled in its history. To stem the rising tide of Hollywood discontent, the heads of the major companies traveled west. Thereafter, they cogitated over many ways and means to effect reasonable economies in production without eliminating any of the competitive effort. Vehicles gathering dust were to be put on a weekly auction block with story editors of all studios sitting around as props. There was to be an exchange of patents, an inter-company agreement on the leasing of standing sets. And more. . . .

It sounded feasible and, from many angles, actually it was. But Hollywood is just that. Which is another way of saying the plan went the way of plans usually advanced by the East to the West not many weeks after the presidential parade returned to New York. Published in MOTION PICTURE DAILY at the time, however, was the Hays idea of scanning and dissecting vehicles prior to purchase to the end that costly mistakes thus might be avoided. The thought bore fruit principally because of the heartaches through which Paramount then was passing in attempting to treat the sex implications in Noel Coward's "Design for Living" in a manner which would have kept the bloodhounds of critics on the outside straining, but not breaking their leashes. . . .

Whether or not Hays was able to keep the breath of life in his scheme is something this writer does not know. That he ran counter to opposition is an inside story known to so many today that it no longer is inside. It is a fact on the other hand that in the last couple of months the untried formula of a year ago

Boston Tips "Wild Cargo" Big $22,000

BOSTON, April 23.—"Wild Cargo" kept things humming at Keith's, piling up a $22,000 gross. This is $6,000 over par.

Grosses, generally, were somewhat under the previous week in spite of the help from the Patriots' Day holiday, but were still good. "The Trumpet Blows" was up $5,000 on a $33,000 take at the Metropolitan.

Total first run business was $114,000. Average is $95,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 20 were:

"LET'S BE RITZY" (Univ.)
BOSTON—(2,900), 25c-50c, 7 days. Sophie Tucker and Johnny Perkins on stage. Gross: $19,500. (Average, $16,000)

"HAROLD TEEN" (Warners)
"YOU CAN'T BUY EVERYTHING" (M-G-M)

"TRUMPET BLOWS" (Para.)
METROPOLITAN—(4,350), 30c-65c, 7 days. Vagabonds on Parade with Nina Olivette. Gross: $33,000. (Average, $28,000)

"HAROLD TEEN" (Warners)
"YOU CAN'T BUY EVERYTHING" (M-G-M)

PARAMOUNT—(1,800), 30c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $10,000. (Average, $9,000)

"Men in White" Is Top Buffalo Draw

BUFFALO, April 23.—"Men in White," with a stage show headed by Pert Kelton, led the parade here last week at the Buffalo with a take of $18,400, going over normal by $3,400.

Grosses generally reacted from the post-Easter enthusiasm, but were still good. "The Cat and the Fiddle" was $2,000 up at $12,000 at the Great Lakes.

Total first run business was $53,500. Average is $46,300.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 20:

"MEN IN WHITE" (MGM)
BUFFALO—(3,500), 30c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Pert Kelton, Will Mahoney, Wes & Lisa Adams, Four Trojans. Gross: $18,400. (Average, $15,000)

"THE LOST PATROL" (Radio)
"THREE ON A HONEYMOON" (Fox)

CENTURY—(3,000), 25c, 7 days. Gross: $8,100. (Average, $6,000)

"THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE" (MGM)

GREAT LAKES—(3,000), 25c-50c, 7 days. Stage: "Greenwich Village Follies," with Yorke & King. Gross: $12,000. (Average, $10,000)

"WILD CARGO" (Radio)
HIPPODROME—(2,100), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,400. (Average, $8,000)

"THE ROAD TO RUIN" (First Division)

HOLLYWOOD—(300), 25c-40c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $1,000. (Average, $800)

"WINE, WOMEN AND SONG" (Chadwick)

"16 FATHOMS DEEP" (Monogram)
LAFAYETTE—(3,300), 25c, 7 days. Gross: $6,600. (Average, $6,500)

has sprung into action. How much progress it makes can be computed only in ratio to the desires of the producers to make it succeed. The opening blows of the sledgehammer have been helpful and decidedly worthwhile.

"Men White," Rogers Smash In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—The town last week was full of surprises and disappointments. The biggest surprise was the take of $30,000 at the Penn with "Men In White" on the screen and Buddy Rogers on the stage. Although a profitable session was anticipated here, nothing like this was expected.

There were two major disappointments, "Spitfire" and "As The Earth Turns." At the Stanley, the Katharine Hepburn picture finished with a poor $8,000, while the Warner was forced to pull "As The Earth Turns" after five days to a weak $3,200.

Also something of a surprise was the nice business "The Cat and the Fiddle" did at the Fulton. It was held over for one day beyond a full week and gave the house $6,800. The Davis, after getting only $2,500 with "Heat Lightning" and "Sing and Like It," closed for the season.

Total grosses in six first run houses were $56,750. Average is $48,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 21:

"SING AND LIKE IT" (Radio)
"HEAT LIGHTNING" (Warners)
DAVIS—(1,700), 25c-35c, 8 days. Gross: $2,500. (Average, for 6 days, $2,500)
"CAT AND THE FIDDLE" (M-G-M)
FULTON—(1,750), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $6,800. (Average, for 6 days, $4,500)
"MEN IN WHITE" (M-G-M)
PENN—(3,300), 25c-75c, 6 days. Stage: Buddy Rogers' band. Gross: $30,000. (Average, $21,000)
"HOLD THAT GIRL" (Fox)
PITT—(1,600), 15c-40c, 6 days. Stage: "Broadway to Hicksville" unit with Charlie Withers. Gross: $6,250. (Average, $6,500)
"SPITFIRE" (Radio)
STANLEY—(3,600), 25c-50c, 6 days. Gross: $8,000. (Average, $9,000)
"AS THE EARTH TURNS" (Warners)
WARNER—(2,000), 25c-40c, 5 days. Gross: $3,200. (Average, for 6 days, $5,000)

"Glory" at $8,800 Top in Providence

PROVIDENCE, April 23.—While sensational grosses were lacking, most of the downtown houses did better than average business for the week here.

The RKO Albee, with "This Man Is Mine" and "No Greater Glory" was $1,800 over par, while the Paramount, Majestic and Fay's also recorded brisk trade.

Total first run business was $42,500. Average is $41,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 19:

"THIS MAN IS MINE" (Radio)
"NO GREATER GLORY" (Col.)
RKO ALBEE—(2,300), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $8,800. (Average, $7,000)
"MELODY IN SPRING" (Para.)
"THE HOUSE OF MYSTERY" (Chesterfield)
PARAMOUNT—(2,300), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $6,800. (Average, $6,500)

"LOOKING FOR TROUBLE" (U.A.)
LOEW'S STATE—(3,800), 15c-40c, 7 days. Joe Phillips heading stage bill. Gross: $9,500. (Average, $12,000)
"WONDER BAR" (F.N.)
MAJESTIC—(2,400), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,400. (Average, $7,000)
"FOUND ALIVE" (Cameo)
"THE 9TH GUEST" (Univ.)
RKO VICTORY—(1,600), 10c-25c, 7 days. Gross: $2,800. (Average, $2,000)

Variety Club Chatter

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, April 23.—MERRELL SCHWARZ, last week's king for a day, teamed with MAURICE WHITE, revealed a talent hitherto unsuspected by many of the barkers when he did a classy vocal number following the regular program. He proved to be a Bing Crosby in the making.

The sympathies of the entire club membership went out to Barker ISAAC LIBSON, whose sister passed away in Pittsburgh recently.

MARK CUMMINGS and AL KOLITZ of Universal and M. G. THOMAS of Erpi are the latest applicants to be hailed as barkers.

ARTHUR FRUDENFELD has been added to the publicity committee. Ditto JOE GOETZ and L. BUGIE on the entertainment committee, while SAM KRAMER and JOHN ALLEN are the two new members on the house committee, succeeding E. V. ("DINNY") DINERMAN and JOE GOETZ.

The stork has paid a visit to the home of NAYLOR STONE, sports editor on the Cincinnati Post. The same can be said for FRANK W. HUSS.

A "hard time" party was given at the Saturday evening Family Night, at which every person was asked to wear clothing in keeping with the occasion. Many barkers explained that it wasn't hard to do.

The ritual of the national headquarters is to be adopted by the Cincinnati tent, and will be in operation in the very near future.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, April 23.—The first party at the club rooms of Tent No. 8 was in honor of the "New Yorkers" company at the Mainstreet. GEORGE GIVOT, NORMAN FRESCOTT, HAROLD GOLDBERG, barkers all, plus some of the other lads and all the girls were in attendance. As well as many Kansas City barkers.

MAX BAER, in town for an exhibition bout in preparation for his fisticuffs with CARNERA, dropped in while the party was in progress. DR. D. M. NIGRO and MIKE CANTWELL, his trainer, acted as bodyguard. BILL WARNER is understood to have gotten quite chummy with the championship contender.

MAX (ERPI) BUCHANAN and a couple of others entertained and were entertained by the Greek Ambassador at the Silver Slipper, after the party.

EARL JAMESON came away heavy winner from the poker table, to the loss of HARRY TAYLOR and BILL WARNER.

L. J. MCCARTHY got back from a trip to Springfield and held a reunion with MARTIN FINKELSTEIN at the club.

DR. BURRIS JENKINS has been appointed Protestant chaplain of the tent. Others completing the roster of chaplains are RABBI GERSHON S. HADAS and the REV. R. W. GARDNER, assistant pastor of the Little Flower Shrine Church.

RALPH LEBEAU, ARTHUR COLE, JOE MANFRE and JIM STATES were kings for the day, which was "Paramount Day."

FINTON JONES, as Variety Club representative in the ticket selling drive for the first home game of the baseball season, exceeded his quota. Quite a few of the barkers turned out to see the Blues play St. Paul.

W. A. (CALL ME BILLY) RYAN, club steward, hails from Boston, knew JOHN L. SULLIVAN "when," and can mix more concoctions than you have ever dreamed of.

Gable Film $38,000 Hit On the Loop

CHICAGO, April 23.—In a week marked by weak grosses all along the line "Men In White" was an outstanding hit. It reached $38,000, over par by $3,400, at the Chicago, with a stage show. The film was moved to the Roosevelt for a second Loop week.

RKO's Palace was down sharply to $17,000 the program being "Journal of a Crime" and Pola Negri and the Timbergs as the stage headliners. "Wild Cargo," for its second week in the Loop was satisfactory in garnering $11,000 at the Roosevelt.

Total first run business was $117,500. Average is $137,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending April 19:

Presents Disney Show

Trade and daily critics and others were the guests yesterday of W. G. Van Schmus, managing director of the RKO Music Hall at a show called "An Hour With Walt Disney." The program was made up of "The Big Bad Wolf" and a number of other Disney shorts. A buffet luncheon followed the showing.

Phillips to Paramount

E. Paul Phillips, formerly attached to the legal staff of the Paramount Publix trustees, has been employed by Paramount and assigned to theatre realty advisory work under Ralph A. Kohn, in charge of the company's theatres.

"Death Takes" Twin Cities' Gross Leader

MINNEAPOLIS, April 23.—"Death Takes a Holiday" was top in both Minneapolis and St. Paul for gross, but "The Private Life of Henry VIII," now in its third week, still had the percentage honors and looks good for a long run. "Wonder Bar" was another outstanding percentage contender and the three pictures gave Minneapolis an exceptional week. "Wild Cargo" stood out in St. Paul.

Minneapolis' five theatres, usually taking $22,500, got about $25,500, while St. Paul's quintet made it $18,500 where they usually get $16,000. Estimated takings:

Minneapolis:

"One Night" Pulls $7,300, Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 23.—"It Happened One Night" was a bright light among the first runs here last week, jumping par by $3,300 for a gross of $7,300 at the Mid-West.

"Lady for a Day" was also in the money with a $3,200 take at the Liberty, but the Criterion, with "The Trumpet Blows," and the Capitol, with "Beloved," couldn't stand up under the competition.

Total first run business was $15,200. Average is $13,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 21:

Pittsburgh Bombing Rush Injures Eight

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—Eight persons were injured, two of them seriously enough to require hospital treatment, when a smoke bomb was exploded in the New Oakland, an independent house in Oakland avenue. Police aided house attaches in quelling a stampede.

Manager T. A. Gulbert told authorities that the theatre had no labor trouble and he could not explain the bombing.

Boston Censor Injured

BOSTON, April 23.—Major Patrick F. Healey, film censor attached to the Massachusetts Department of Public Safety, and Miss Merle Delancey, 22, of Manomet, were badly injured when the former's auto collided with another machine at Tremont and West streets early yesterday morning. Both were taken to Boston City Hospital.

Looking 'Em Over

"Just Smith"

(Gaumont-British)

This British adaptation of Frederick Lonsdale's play, "Never Come Back," is pleasant entertainment. Light and gay and sprightly, it should succeed in pleasing audiences generally, although its chances may be better with adults.

The central character is an American crook (Tom Walls) trying his art among the elite of Monte Carlo. Associated with him is another thief from the States. In the hope of getting an entry to the villa of a wealthy American society matron, they arranged a party on a yacht with their intended victim among the invited. When the affair leads to the engagement of the woman's daughter to a British duke and to the realization of her most cherished ambition of bringing a title into the family, she is so grateful that she invites the crooks to her home.

When the daughter hides one of her mother's necklaces to keep her from giving it away in a moment of generosity, Scotland Yard comes into the picture. To save the girl from getting into an embarrassing situation Walls takes the jewelry from her purse. The reason for his act may be explained by the fact he has fallen for the young lady, who loves him in turn and is marrying the duke just to please her mother. The whole muddle is straightened out nicely and there are assurances at the end that Walls and the girl will do the marching up the aisle. Walls also directed. Other players include Carol Goodner, Anna Grey, Allan Aynesworth, Eva Moore, Reginald Cardner, Veronica Rose and Hartley Power.

"The Prince of Wales"

(Gaumont-British)

This pictorial history of the Prince of Wales is a most interesting and entertaining subject. Its material is culled from a variety of sources, some of it from newsreels, some from the private collection of the Prince and still others from the official files of the British government. All has been fused into a smoothly flowing chronology of the life of the heir to the British throne at work and at play.

From christening to the present the film traces the rise of Edward and his preparation for the job of king. In following him on his travels—and they are many—the spectator is taken to every corner of the globe. The film thus becomes a travelogue at the same time. The Prince is revealed as quite a "regular fellow" and a person of tremendous personal charm. Considerable footage has been devoted to his visit here during the Wilson administration.

Adding to the value of the picture is an epilogue in which the Prince makes a plea for the unemployed of his country. Incidentally, the proceeds of the film, under an agreement with Gaumont-British, are to go to the relief work among the idle of Great Britain.

There are many laugh-provoking scenes in the picture, which is delightful entertainment.

"Picture Brides"

(Allied)

Only mildly interesting despite the cast, which boasts such names as Dorothy Mackaill, Alan Hale, Regis Toomey, Dorothy Libaire, Will Ahearn, Mae Busch and Harvey Clarke.

The story has to do with five down and out girls en route to Lotto-grosso, a tropic island off South America. They are known as picture brides and on the way to marry diamond miners. Miss Libaire, on the same boat, finds she is shanghaied and Miss Mackaill switches places after they land.

Miss Libaire was originally intended to marry Hale, but through the switch is betrothed to Toomey. When Hale learns of the trick he sets out to get his partner, Toomey, by notifying the police, who are after him for a bank robbery.

Hale seduces Will Ahearn's daughter and she is thrown into the marshes. When she is discovered, a clue gives Hale away and he is killed by her father. With Hale out of the way, Toomey settles with the police and Miss Mackaill marries Clarke.

Minority Opponents Are Heavily Outvoted

Threats by a minority group of Pathe stockholders to over-ride the Stuart Webb administration faded yesterday as stockholders representing 402,343 shares of the combined issues defeated the protesting group representing 770 shares of the combined issues.

Objections of the minority group centered around cancellation of a clause in Webb's contract stock option and an increase in his salary at the discretion of the board.

Following the stockholders' session, the board of directors met and re-elected Webb as president, in addition to the entire slate, including Arthur B. Poole, vice-president and treasurer; John C. Walsh, secretary and assistant treasurer; Ellen U. Keogh, assistant secretary.

Kent to Head FWC Theatres In New Setup

Report Chase National Is Bowing Out

By RED KANN

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—Sidney R. Kent will be elected president of Fox West Coast when its reorganization, long in work, is completed soon. Fox Film controls the dominant Pacific Coast circuit through the Wesco Holding Co.

It is now learned the big stumbling block which long delayed the new set-up was a claim running into millions held against Wesco by the Chase National Bank. It is understood an agreement has been reached whereby Chase will withdraw and take Fox West Coast stock in settlement, thereby allowing the circuit to rearrange its affairs under the Fox aegis.

Charles Skouras is expected to continue as operator, and the possibility also exists that Herman Wobber, general representative of the Fox enterprises on the west coast, aside from production will play an important, if background, part under the arrangement.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood, April 24

"PHASE Shift," now being used by Vic Schertzinger on "One Night of Love" starring Grace Moore which is one of Columbia's early releases next season, finds the director waxing enthusiastic over its results. Schertzinger is an accomplished musician as well as a director and should be qualified to talk. This is the new Bell Telephone Laboratories development now being grafted by Erpi to the sound recording equipment of its licensed companies here. That means practically every major lot in Hollywood. . . .

Erpi expects the refinement, which is perhaps best described as a "sound purifier," to go far. The company is known to regard the development as an emphatic step forward in its long and expensive clamber towards complete naturalness in sound recording. Exactly as "Wide Range" is viewed by the electric as a decided advance over noiseless recording, so identically are viewed the advantages of "Phase Shift" over "Wide Range." The inside story bruited about here is that the development represents an experimental cost to the Bell Telephone labs of almost $2,000,000. . . .

Vine Street bookshop display: On the counter, copies of "STRANGE LOVES, a Study in Sex Abnormalities," by Dr. La Forest Potter; "THE COURTEZAN OLYMPIA, An Intimate Chronicle of Artists and Their Mistress Models," by C. J. Bulliet; "SECRET HISTORY OF PROCOPIUS, a Private Account of the Customs, Morals and Scandalous Episodes During the Reign of the Empress Theodora and the Emperor Justinian," compiled by Richard Atwater; "VENUS CASTINA, Famous Female Impersonators Celestial and Human," likewise by Bulliet; "THE SATYRICON OF PETRONIUS ARBITER." In the window, a photographic collection in book form dealing with strikes, et al., and perhaps significantly titled "THEY TURNED ON THE HEAT." Above, painting of the Madonna and to the right, a pastoral scene featuring fauns. . . .

Mack Sennett, full of California sunshine and good humor, expects to have his film experiences published by Covici-Friede in the fall. Gene Fowler is doing the writing job. The idea is to film the biography later. . . . Sol Wurtzel to Winnie Sheehan: "Zanuck made 'The House of Rothschild' and you made 'The House of Rothstein.'" Sol was referring to "Now I'll Tell," based on the life story of the notorious Broadway gambler. . . .

There's a reason behind the shift of Will Rogers and Lillian Harvey from that gorgeous Fox plant in the Westwood hills to the more prosaic studio on Western Ave. and this is it: Those who call the shots are endeavoring to soft pedal talk, well circulated in Hollywood, that the big ones are made in the hills and the cheap ones ground out in the old studio. Under Sol Wurtzel's sceptre, the Western Ave. plant was called upon to supply two and sometimes three pictures in a row this season when Westwood failed to salaam in time before the altar of release dates. This was contrary to plan in that Wurtzel stuff, scheduled as B pictures, was supposed to be sandwiched in between the loftier product assigned the other studio. This is viewed in some quarters here as explaining why Fox hit the market so often this season with so many smaller pictures in a clip. . . .

"Listen, you must economize. The bankers are raising hell in New York and you must do your bit." A studio head laying down the law to his musical director. "I can't cut any more," came the reply. "You must," was the answer. "O. K. I'll have to hire one-armed fiddlers." . . . "Down to Their Last Yacht" looks so good, as far as it has gone. Radio has slapped $150,000 more on its production budget. . . . The same studio is considering "Becky Sharp" from Thackeray's "Vanity Fair," not Conde Nast's. . . .

for a new clearance schedule. A second meeting was called for next Tuesday.

Suburbans denounced Loew's Midland for inaugurating a 25-cent first run scale downtown, with other first runs coming in for a share of the criticism. It developed at the hearing the suburbans' intention is not so much to reduce first run protection as to force up low scales. First run managers defended the length of protection on the basis of rental and advertising, while suburbans contended protection should be governed only by admission price.

Despite efforts to effect a ban on duals, the RKO Mainstreet goes to doubles next week. This will be an occasional policy, it is declared.

Meanwhile, without waiting for action by the zoning board, exhibitors in Kansas City, Kan., operating 13 theatres today voted a city-wide ban on dime admissions, doubles and giveaways, effective May 19.

K. C. Rezoning Plan Stirs Up Opposition

tain the matter would be brought to a showdown in the courts for a test of the board's powers, since the board would be arrogating to itself authority not granted by the code. He believes the first logical step would be to request a ruling from Code Authority or Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt on whether the local board may disturb the existing zoning and clearance schedule prior to the new season.

Expressing the opinion of those who oppose the I. T. O. petition, Fulton maintains there is nothing in the code which permits the board to set up a new schedule for the balance of this year. He holds that any alterations should govern with the start of the 1934-35 season. He takes exception to the opinion of the I. T. O. counsel who informed the organization, after a study of the code that a new setup is in order immediately if desired.

Plans to Protect Houses

While the petition now in the hands of the zoning and grievance board merely requests immediate rezoning, Fulton sees in it an attempt to extend protection over theatres charging 10 cents and also probably 15 cents. He said he intends to protect the interests of theatres in these classifications. He also suspects that some exhibitors are seeking protection over competitive houses in the same zone and charging equal admission, which is not permitted under Kansas City's protection system.

The I. T. O. wants rezoning because conditions have altered radically since the existing zoning and protection plan went into effect three years ago. Since that time, theatres have drastically reduced scales and double billing has become epidemic, the situation culminating recently in a major price war. The I. T. O., it is understood, will seek to have the board deprive first runs of any definite protection where their price is on a par with subsequent, granting them only prior protection in place of the existing clearance of 30 days. This is a move to force downtown first runs to restore their top of 40 or 50 cents and eliminate double bills. It is taken for granted these theatres will resist price increases unless the suburbans do likewise.

Exhibitors who have been fighting unsuccessfully to eliminate 10-cent admissions, dual billing and premiums among the suburbans now favor a solution through a new zoning plan, extending protection over houses where such practices prevail.

Boards' Functioning Seen As First Job

Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority, who reached the coast by plane today from New York. On Friday he confers with the Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Portland, Seattle and San Francisco board secretaries here. On Monday or Tuesday he leaves for a meeting of middle western secretaries, probably in Kansas City, although it is also possible he may call one general meeting for that section in Chicago. He expects to return east in about a week for a meeting with eastern secretaries.

Flinn declared today that 1,000 checks poured into the New York headquarters of the authority from exhibitors on the third day following the mailing of assessment forms and described the general theatre reaction as instantaneous. The probability is Flinn will do nothing relative to the opening of the Campi office here beyond surveying the situation and handling the situation later from New York. This is the office which Pat Casey and Mrs. Mabel Kinney will head.

must recognize the union and negotiate new wage scales with it. If a majority of the service employees are found not to be members of the local, no recognition need be given it, in accordance with an understanding arrived at last week between representatives of the union and the circuits meeting with Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt at Code Authority headquarters. A majority membership among Loew's and RKO employees, if found, is expected to reflect existing conditions in other circuits in the metropolitan area.

The union is deferring a strike pending conclusion of the checkup.

Charles C. Levey, secretary-treasurer of Local 118, Theatre and Amusement Employees union, pleaded not guilty to charges of coercion brought by the Tivoli, Brooklyn, when arraigned in Brooklyn City Court yesterday. A hearing was set for May 21.

are used film mutilation will continue," and added that exchanges must accept the 2,000 foot reel or "be prepared to police projection rooms to prevent doubling." It was also prophesied that the 2,000-foot reel will result in considerable saving to the industry and also in better theatre performance.

At an exchange and theatre session which featured the second day of the convention other practical problems of the theatre were attacked. Chief among the papers read were those by F. H. Richardson of Motion Picture Herald, who asked that theatre operators follow higher standards in the purchase and maintenance of projection equipment; and by Ben Schlanger, New York architect, who laid down principles of design which he said would perfect the auditorium as an integral part of the motion picture mechanism.

An open forum on practical technical problems of exhibition was postponed until Wednesday. The semi-annual banquet will be held Wednesday evening, at which the convention will be addressed by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt, who will also be heard over the Red network of NBC.

All Impartial Men To Attend Meeting

found inadvisable at this time because the impartial members will not have had enough time to observe code operations in various key cities. This is due to the late start by the boards, which in many spots have not yet set the first date for business sessions. Up to now most of the sessions held have had to do with organization work.

Although the local grievance board intended to hold its initial business session yesterday, this was postponed until May 2, a Wednesday, but thereafter regular meetings will be held on Tuesdays.

Reason for the postponement is due to the fact that the local secretaries are still preparing the complaints in order of arrival for hearings. In some cases from eight to 10 parties are named as defendants and all must be notified to attend.

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.—James R. Grainger will start east Sunday after three weeks here.

Webb Forces Easily Carry Pathe Control

Fleming and T. J. Loach, all employees of the company, were added to the board of directors consisting of Webb, Poole, Robert W. Atkins, Paul Fuller, Jr., Henry J. Guild, Ellery W. Mann, George S. Montgomery, Jr., Arthur Sewall, 2nd, Charles A. Stone, Theodore C. Streibert and Charles B. Wiggin.

Webb reported that business for the first three months will show a profit and expected that the net profit for the new year will be as much, if not more, than 1933.

The president also stated that the Bound Brook plant is developing 40,000,000 feet of film a year and several deals are under way to increase this figure. According to a contract with Radio, Pathe is turning out 27,000,000 feet of developed film annually for this company.

Webb was praised for his work during the past year by Fuller and Sydney Cohen.

When questioned by one of the stockholders, Webb stated not all suits against the company had been settled, mentioning the Spitzer case as one which comes up in California in June.

Poole presided for most of the meeting.

The petition goes to the U. S. District Court here today for final approval, with a ruling expected from the court within the next few weeks. The allowances sought include $35,000 compensation for the trustee in bankruptcy and $75,000 for the attorneys. The bankruptcy affairs of Publix Enterprises were virtually wound up when Famous Theatres Corp. took over the bankrupt's assets last December, but creditors' claims against Publix Enterprises are still being contested, putting off, until their settlement, the final discharge from bankruptcy.

Ruling in St. Louis Theatre Plan Rapped

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—The bondholders' protective committee today filed a motion asking Federal Judge Charles B. Davis to modify his ruling of yesterday denying its request that he set a date for the bondholders to vote on whether to join the proposed reorganization plan for the Ambassador, Grand Central and Missouri theatres. The motion stated the effect of Judge Davis' ruling was unfair.

The essential merit of the plan is not now before the court, but a copy of it was attached to the committee's petition filed on March 30 which was the basis of the judge's comment yesterday. Judge Davis has indicated he may allow the properties to go through a foreclosure sale.

Business Picks Up In Both Carolinas

CHARLOTTE, April 24.—Evidences of improvement in theatres of North Carolina are numerous, according to exhibitors here. As a result of increased grosses and an anticipated further improvement, many theatres in both North and South Carolina are re-opening and others are doing considerable remodeling.

Howard Theatres, Inc., of Wilmington is planning to make a number of improvements in the exterior and interior of a recently opened theatre in that city, according to Percy W. Wells. A new house will be opened soon at Woodruff, S. C., according to S. L. Workman. The Paris of Greenville, S. C., is being remodeled to cost over $10,000, according to an announcement by H. V. Wynne, manager.

L. J. Schlaifer, western division manager for United Artists, has returned from an extended tour of exchanges under his supervision.

Looking 'Em Over

"Beyond Bengal"

(Showmen's Pictures)

Harry Schenck has succeeded in crowding a remarkable number of thrills into a jungle picture made in the Malay Peninsula. It rates high among the animal films of recent years. Just a thread of a story is dragged in for motivation of some of the scenes.

Some of the sequences are built up with a shrewd regard for dramatic values. Pythons don't suddenly pop out of nothing. They are shown crawling about on the ground, over tree branches in pursuit of monkeys, and, finally, darting down out of a tree and wrapping around a screaming man. It's gruesome, but it makes the audience gasp.

In another sequence natives in flat bottomed boats, one of which has a camera, pursue a herd of elephants floundering around in water until one of the animals turns around and upsets the boat.

In still another boys on boats spear crocodiles, lasso their noses and let the animals tow them, fight them in droves with spears. A honey bear is grabbed in the big mouth of one of the reptiles, and as a climax a boat tips over and one of the swimming boys is grabbed by a crocodile. It may have been a trick shot, but it is hair-raising on the screen.

There are also lens-to-face encounters with tigers.

It's loaded with exploitable angles throughout.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Private Scandal"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.—"Private Scandal" is a comedy mystery wherein a murder is committed and solved in burlesque fashion. The plot is form calibre, but compensates in comedy situations and fast, smart dialogue which occasionally gets rowdy. It is amusing at all times and provokes spontaneous laughter.

Lew Cody, a real estate operator, loses his client's investments in the stock market and decides to kill himself. Phillips Holmes, his junior partner, is tipped off to make it appear as murder, so investors can be paid back with the insurance. Holmes, who is engaged to Cody's daughter, Mary Brian, tries to prevent the suicide, but arrives on the scene too late, almost being arrested for murder.

The comedy solution revolves around Zasu Pitts, Cody's secretary, and Ned Sparks, the investigating flat foot, it being finally discovered that Cody had been murdered by the husband of his current sweetie before he could turn the gun upon himself.

The entire story takes place in the real estate office, with the investigation resulting in uproarious comedy from the employees. Although lacking in cast names, the film is sure fire entertainment. Ralph Murphy has done a creditable job of direction. The entire cast performs well.

"We're Not Dressing," this morning's opener at the Rivoli, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on April 11.

"Twenty Million Sweethearts," tonight's preview at the Strand, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on March 14 under the title of "Rhythm in the Air."

Warner Checkers All Set

H. M. Doherty of the Warner auditing department, has been placed in charge of the company's theatre checking organization, the formation of which was perfected by Ralph Budd of the Warner personnel department. No other change in the company's checking system is planned at present, with results to date described as "very satisfactory."

Para. Re-Signs Vidor

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.—As a result of his handling of his first directorial assignment, "Double Door," Paramount has renewed Charles Vidor's contract. His next probably will be "A Son Comes Home."

Evelyn Venable, young English actress, also has been given a new Paramount contract.

Joe Lee Is Recovering

BOSTON, April 24.—Loew's Boston Theatres Co. today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents, payable May 1 to stockholders of record of April 24.

Means Foresees No Allied K.C. Drive

KANSAS CITY, April 24.—Jay Means president of the I. T. O., denies reports current here that Allied may invade the Kansas City area in its expansion drive now under way. Means is close to Allied and receives frequent communications from that organization, although his association is not affiliated, and would know of any intended invasion.

The I. T. O. head said that at this time he would not be interested in leading a movement to organize an Allied unit. He favors an amalgamation of the two national exhibitor groups.

Allied has made two or three attempts to gain a foothold here, but unsuccessfully. The last time was almost two years ago at a convention of the M. P. T. A. of Kansas and Missouri at Topeka. Several exhibitors in this territory are said to be affiliated with Iowa Allied.

Ohio Mayor Closes Whole City Sunday

MIAMISBURG, O., April 24.—An ancient blue law, dug up under a state statute of the General Code, is being enforced here, and the town was closed tight Sunday for the second time within the past decade. The only exception was drug stores, which were permitted to dispense drugs and medicines where it was proved that they actually were needed.

The law provides that a fine of $25, plus a five-day jail sentence, shall be imposed for each violation.

The lid was ordered clamped down by Mayor H. E. Beachler after some of the local liquor establishments are said to have failed to observe the Saturday midnight closing law.

Exhibitors especially are up in arms.

Catholic Leaders on Coast to Weigh Films

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—Delegates from all parts of California will convene here beginning Sunday at the Ambassador for "Catholic Action Week." The gathering is being held under the auspices of the National Catholic Welfare Ass'n., headed by Bishop Cantwell. The movement for cleaner pictures will be the major topic of discussion. Leaders from other sections of the country associated with various Catholic groups will be present.

Mayer Is Preparing to Carry Producers' Case to Exhibitors

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 25.—Louis B. Mayer will carry the case of the producers to exhibitors and shortly will leave to address theatre men in a number of eastern cities. This is an outgrowth of the recent M.P.T.O.A. parleys between M.P.T.O.A. leaders and producers which followed in the wake of Mayer's challenge before the exhibitor convention to showmen that they be shown.

Mayer's impending trip of "education and explanation" developed largely at the behest of M. E. Comerford and other exhibitor leaders. Mayer told the writer today he believed the impending discussions will do much to clarify misunderstandings between exhibitors and producers through the detailed analysis of problems confronting the latter and the reason why they do the things they do.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood, April 25

ONE slant on what is apt to make bad friends and drive a further wedge between the actors who make 'em and the exhibitors who show 'em in this lotus blossom land: Detouring customers from the box-office, the 1,000 or more actors and actresses who are members of the Screen Actors' Guild plan a mammoth outdoor show to commemorate the opening of the new Gilmore Sports Stadium now under construction not far from Hollywood's center which means the Boulevard and Vine. . . .

It will be a three-day engagement with two matinees and three shows nightly at the rate of one each night. The talent and turns are now being assembled under a general scheme designed to make the performances so attractive the public will scramble for the 5,000 seats which the stadium is being constructed to hold. Concessions a la carnival style will hold forth as well as a parade of stars. Proceeds will go to swell the the Screen Actors' Guild treasury. Viva Hollywood and never mind the exhibitor—the forgotten man. . . .

Sights and anecdotes: Lowell Sherman strolling around the Universal lot, hands in pockets with nothing to do at four hand-some figures a week for doing it. It's been months, maybe eight or nine, since he's been there. By profession a director, Lowell has nothing to direct. . . . Will Rogers declaring the M. P. T. O. A. called off the convention because Hollywood ran out of blondes. . . .

Film notables, all in the open for the NRA and national recovery, nevertheless continuing to patronize the Vine Street Brown Derby whose waiters contend they are underpaid and are compelled to rely on tips to get by. . . .

John Lodge, who made an impression as Count Alexei in "The Scarlet Empress," is one of the Boston Lodges. You know, the family that speaks only to the Cabots who supposedly only speak to God. Might be in reverse, but the idea is the same. . . . The Dietrich picture, incidentally, has gone back for additional shots et al and is off the Paramount schedule for this season anyway, although originally on. . . . In work on that lot for 1934-35 at the minute are "Cleopatra," with Cecil Biblical De Mille at the helm and loud speaker replacing megaphone, and "She Loves Me Not," sensational Broadway stage play. Bing Crosby is the luminary in the latter. . . .

Fantastic yarns: The one pounded across by a local press agent who insists Mr. So and So doesn't allow any politics on his lot; that the stars all go to bed early because the boss sees to that. Boss may not allow politics, but how does he keep it out? And where emanates the first-hand information on how early the celebrities go to sleep? . . . Big roadster dashes out of the Colony Club driveway. Very fancy, with much aluminum and splash. Standerby remarks: "That's what happens to a Hollywood actor after three days of steady work." . . .

J. Ludvig, Sir William Wiseman, Donald S. Stralem, as executor for the estate of Casimir I. Stralem, deceased, and Eugene Zukor, Melville Shauer and Julia Shauer, as executors for the estate of Emil E. Shauer, deceased.

The petition to be filed also states that the trustees and their counsel are investigating the possible liability of the theatre operators and others from whom the stock was repurchased in connection with the transactions in question. If the investigation establishes the liability of these, it is intimated, suits to recover money or property received by them from Paramount may also be instituted by the trustees.

Among the circuits acquired by Paramount with an agreement to repurchase the stock at a guaranteed redemption price were the Dent Circuit, Texas and New Mexico; Kunskey-Trendle, Detroit; Great States Theatres, Illinois; Hostettler, Nebraska and Iowa; and Rickards & Nace, Arizona.

Charles D. Hilles, Eugene W. Leake and Charles E. Richardson, the trustees in bankruptcy for Paramount Publix, set forth in their petition that last Sept. 15 they retained Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co., accountants, to investigate and report on the stock repurchase transactions of 1930, '31 and '32. Additionally, last December Arthur W. Teele, of the accounting firm of Teele & Dennis, was retained for the same purpose, and last March, Frederick H. Hurdman, of Hurdman & Cranston, accountants, was retained.

Accountants Disagree

All three accountants made their reports to the trustees during March. The Barrow, Wade, Guthrie report set forth that, in their opinion, "the capital of Paramount was impaired by the purchase by it of its own stock on Sept. 9, 1931; Dec. 26, 1931; Jan. 29, 1932; and March 7, 1932, in an aggregate amount of at least $11,335,285." Teele's report offered the opinion that "the purchases impaired the capital to the extent of at least $3,257,453, as of March 7, 1932." Hurdman's report stated that "no evidence had been presented (to him) to indicate that the purchase by Paramount of shares of its own stock during the periods in question impaired the capital of Paramount."

The trustees' petition then sets forth that they were advised by their counsel, Root, Clark, Buckner & Ballantine, "after an investigation of the facts and the law," to institute suit against the directors who authorized or approved the purchases, "on the ground that the capital or capital stock of the bankrupt was impaired by reason of the purchases of stock in question."

Accordingly, the trustees' statement declares, the suit is being instituted "in order to determine the liability in connection with the stock transactions of those who were directors at the time the purchases were authorized and approved."

Adolph Zukor, Paramount's president and one of the defendants named in the trustees' suit, in commenting on the trustees' action revealed that the opinions resulting from the findings of the Barrow, Wade, Guthrie study were subsequently submitted to five auditing and accounting firms, all of whom submitted opinions sustaining the actions of the Paramount directors in the transactions in question.

Zukor Makes Statement

Zukor's comment follows: "Several years ago Paramount acquired various theatre properties by the issue of its stock, with agreements to repurchase the stock upon demand within specified periods. The suit brought by the trustees involves these repurchases. No officer or director of Paramount had any interest in any of these contracts.

"In determining the various accounting questions involved in the repurchases, particularly as to whether Paramount had sufficient surplus to require performance of its contracts, the directors relied upon the audits of Price, Waterhouse & Co., and upon a special report made by Haskins & Sells. The consolidated earned surplus of Paramount and its subsidiaries at Dec. 26, 1931 (before deducting $8,711,917.06 of stock repurchases) was certified by Price, Waterhouse to aggregate over $27,000,000.

"The points raised by Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co. have been submitted to Arthur Anderson & Co.; Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery; Miller, Donaldson & Co.; Peat, Marwick & Mitchell, and Price, Waterhouse & Co., all of whose opinions upon the disputed points sustain the action of the directors in performing the company's obligation to repurchase the stock in question," the Zukor statement concludes.

Paramount's program of theatre acquisitions, particularly that part involving the stock repurchase agreements, was the target of considerable questioning by attorneys for the Paramount trustees and by Saul E. Rogers, attorney for a group of Paramount Publix bondholders, during the examination of officers of Paramount in the bankruptcy proceedings of the past year.

Acquired 176 Theatres

In one such examination, Ralph A. Kohn, a defendant in the present action by the trustees, and now head of Paramount's home office theatre department, testified that the company had acquired 176 theatres on a stock repurchase basis during 1930, '31 and '32. The most important of such transactions listed by Kohn at the time included a 71 per cent interest in Kunskey-Trendle, Detroit, for 65,000 shares guaranteed for repurchase at $75 per share. Market value at redemption time was $21 per share. Another was Great States circuit, Illinois, a 70 per cent interest in which was acquired for 30,000 shares guaranteed for repurchase at $85 per share. The stock was repurchased at a time when the market value was $6.50 per share.

A half interest in the Dent circuit, Texas and New Mexico, was acquired, Kohn testified, for 19,997 shares guaranteed for repurchase at $80 per share. The market value at redemption time was $53.50 per share. The Rickards & Nace circuit, Arizona, was acquired for 14,112 shares, redeemable at $80 per share. Market value at redemption time was $39 per share. The Hostettler circuit, Nebraska and Iowa, was acquired for 6,195 shares, guaranteed for repurchase at $80 per share. Market value at redemption time was $39 per share.

All of the repurchase agreements, Paramount officers testified under examination, were contingent upon the existence of a specified surplus at the time of redemption. Ali testified that Price, Waterhouse audits revealed sufficient surplus on the various redemption dates to make the repurchase of the stock by Paramount obligatory.

Kohn testified at the time that while about $12,000,000 of theatre properties were acquired in the manner now questioned by the trustees' suit, there were $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 of properties bought without stock guarantees. Among these were, he said, Olympia circuit, New England; B. & K., Chicago; A. H. Blank, Iowa and Nebraska; FitzPatrick-McElroy; Finkelstein & Ruben, Minnesota; Saenger; Indiana-Ohio Theatre Corp.; Netoco; Massachusetts and Connecticut; Famous Players-Canadian; G-V Theatre Circuit, and others.

Saul Rogers, Paramount Publix creditors' attorney, in commenting on the trustees' action yesterday, said that he regarded it as "an essential step in protecting the interests of creditors and endeavoring to recover assets for the bankrupt estate."

ment Co., for $250,000, both involving future rent on Denyer theatre leases. The claims were objected to by the Publix Enterprises trustee and hearings were held before Referee Davis several months ago. The referee permitted the filing of additional briefs and rendered his opinion yesterday.

Two additional large claims remain pending against Publix Enterprises. They are both future rent claims for more than $600,000 each and both have been ordered expunged by Referee Davis. A review of the referee's order, however, was sought of the U. S. District Court by the claimants and a final ruling from the Federal court is expected daily. When these claims have been disposed of, Publix Enterprises will be in a position to apply to the court for a final discharge from bankruptcy, according to attorneys for the trustee.

Biophone Sues Big Electrics As A Monopoly

Vatner, sets forth that it had sold more than $500,000 worth of equipment to exhibitors up to 1929 when it was sued for patent infringement by the present defendants. The complaint declares that as a result of the suit Biophone's sales declined and exhibitors who had purchased equipment refused to meet installments. It is also claimed that Biophone received an offer from a Wall Street firm of $750,000 for 49 per cent of its stock, which was withdrawn after the filing of the electrics' suit.

The complaint attacks patent pooling by the large sound equipment manufacturers in 1919, together with a cross-licensing agreement and an alleged allocation among themselves of certain sales fields, and hits at licensing agreements by which, it is charged, producer licensees would rent product only to those theatres having reproducing equipment manufactured by the defendants.

Attorneys for Erpi could not be reached yesterday for comment on the suit.

Technical organization matters and new product also were discussed by the Allied group, which, in addition, took up the question of "forced sales of individual trailers." Action is to be taken shortly on the trailer topic.

On May 15, the eastern units will meet in Syracuse in conjunction with a session scheduled by Allied Theatre Owners of New York. Attending yesterday's meeting were Walter B. Littlefield, chairman; Sidney E. Samuelson, president of the national Allied organization; E. M. Loew, Edward Ansin, L. Levin, Julius Charnow, Irving Dollinger, William Smalley, Ben Berkowitz, W. H. Members of the organization were warned not to sign contracts with sound companies until consulting with the attorney for the unit.

for the summer, with the exception of one stage show. Lawrence Lehman, Mainstreet manager, denies reports RKO will at the same time cut from 40 cents to two bits.

Dubinsky's Liberty is also going to doubles, but probably not as a regular policy.

The zoning board is considering cutting first run clearance, which is now 28 to 42 days, down to 14 days following 25-cent single feature first runs, and seven days following doubles at that price. The board also is considering going into the suburban price situation with a view to taking action on doubles, giveaways, dime admissions, etc. Protection over these policies may be extended.

Kansas City, Kan., theatre owners have filed a demand with the zoning board for protection reduction for first runs there following Kansas City, Mo., first runs, from 28 days, as now, to 14 days, regardless of the price in the larger city, since they have agreed to ban objectionable practices May 19.

John McManus, manager of Loew's Midland, is regarded as the key to the whole situation. He maintains no one has a right to dictate the Midland's price policy. He suggests suburban should eliminate objectionable practices first and, after testing their plan for a month, first runs will be receptive toward a proposition to meet their demands.

Independents are unwilling to renew negotiations for a voluntary agreement, since several previous attempts have failed. They are determined to seek a solution through the code.

Boards Called Great Advance By Rosenblatt

membership has practically demonstrated," he said, "that it is entirely possible for an industry to provide for any controversy which may arise, even though the complainants would have no right to go into a court and start a lawsuit.

"These boards are industrial courts extraordinary. They cannot be found in any other industry in this country. They constitute the final answer under the New Deal to any member of this industry, whether a big or little man, who claims to be aggrieved."

The Recovery Administration, Rosenblatt asserted, "cannot be threatened or coerced by any self-styled leaders of industry whose fundamental purpose it is, principally from political considerations, to harass and destroy, rather than to put their shoulders to the wheel in an effort to help and cooperate."

"Minimum of Labor Unrest"

Rosenblatt spoke of the code as a scientific approach to the problems of the industry.

"An NRA administrator is neither a dictator nor a tyrant," he declared. "The value of cooperation from outstanding labor leaders cannot be overestimated. From the studios to the theatres there has been a minimum of labor unrest, and with our courts supporting the collective bargaining provisions and other labor-safeguarding provisions of the act as well as the code, there is no reason why in the immediate future all of labor cannot rejoice in the benefits which have accrued to it under this code." He referred to the code as capable of being amended to protect labor in any situation.

Rosenblatt criticized those in the industry clinging to the policy of "let well enough alone," saying "in the picture industry as well as in other industries possibly there still are diehards, openly skeptical, avowedly suspicious, and incurably committed to the proposition that the policy of laissez faire is preferable to a policy of constructive forward looking and scientific thinking for the benefit of the industry."

Rosenblatt's address was broadcast over NBC's Red network.

Improved Sound Described

At the morning session today there was an open forum on size and shape of screen image.

Further refinement of sound recording was promised in methods described in a paper by G. L. Dimmick and H. Belar of RCA Victor. The system was represented as eliminating all ground noises and requiring only a few changes in existing reproducing apparatus.

The complete elimination of "ground" or hissing noises, full definition of the various shadings of volume, and fidelity of reproduction over the complete audible range of sound are some of the improvements claimed for the new development.

With all existing systems of sound-on-film recording, according to RCA

Looking 'Em Over

"Sleepers East"

(Fox)

Well-plotted, engrossing entertainment is "Sleepers East." Tense and graced with some sterling performances, the film should have little difficulty in satisfying audiences. It is to the production's credit that once it captures the interest it holds it.

The tale revolves about Wynne Gibson, a victim of fate. Out on parole, she has the tough luck to be with the mayor's son when he shoots down the proprietor of a night spot during an argument. An enemy of the night club fellow is found at the scene of the crime and charged with the murder. The mayor's boy wants to tell the truth, but it is near election time and the political bosses don't intend to ruin his father's chances of re-election.

The film from then on concerns itself with the efforts of the party in power to keep Miss Gibson's mouth shut. The attorney for the racketeer who stands to burn for the crime, on his side, does all in his power to keep the prosecution from getting to Miss Gibson. First she is forced to promise to testify for the defense on the threat of turning her over to the police for violating her parole. When the political fellows catch up with her, they make a similar threat. She doesn't know where to turn. But on the stand she testifies to the facts, and the mayor's son commits suicide in the courtroom when he realizes the jig is up.

Other players are Mona Barrie, Preston Foster, Harvey Stephens, Roger Imhof and J. Carrol Naish. Kenneth McKenna directed.

"Marrying Widows"

(Tower)

This film ought to provide a good deal of pleasure in neighborhood houses. Besides being endowed with a fine cast, the production has many moments of merriment. The story has been developed with a light hand and is told in quick tempo.

Judith Allen is the widow of a sewing machine king. In an attempt to deprive her of her share in his estate his relatives tell her he has left no will. Disgusted with the whole lot of them, she sets off for New York. There she meets John Mack Brown, the chief rival in the field, who has his heart set on seizing control of the business left by her husband to avenge the theft of some of the inventions of his father. He hopes to gain his end by marrying the widow, thus coming into control of the company. What he doesn't know, of course, is that Miss Allen has not inherited the business he is seeking to grab. This makes things harder, for he is really in love with the woman.

In the end Brown does get control of the rival company, thanks to Minna Gombell, who, through clever strategy, forces Lucien Littlefield, a brother-in-law, to sign a paper that Miss Allen is being victimized. This naturally means the business left by her husband will pass into Miss Allen's hands. So the marriage of Brown and the widow turns out as expected.

The acting of Miss Allen is first-rate. Miss Gombell and Bert Roach unite in putting over many hearty laughs. Sam Newfield directed.

Victor engineers, peculiar hissing background noises result from particles of dust or scratches on the unused portions of the film sound track, which are picked up by the photocell in the optical system and amplified. With the new recording system, which was developed in the Camden laboratories, the sound waves are halved into two separate but symmetrical sound tracks, one negative and the other positive, automatically eliminating the black unused portions of the sound track. The new system also eliminates the slight distortion frequently introduced by the processing which the film undergoes before it reaches its final form, it is claimed.

Among other papers were "Some Considerations in the Design of Sound Reproducing Equipment," by F. C. Willis and G. Friedl, Erpi; "Recent Optical Improvements in Western Electric Sound Film Recording Equipment," by W. Herriott, Bell Telephone Laboratories, and "Care and Operation of Theatre Sound Systems," by J. S. Ward and P. T. Sheridan, Erpi.

Mayer Is Preparing to Carry Producers' Case to Exhibitors

By RED KANN

Hollywood, April 25.—Louis B. Mayer will carry the case of the producers to exhibitors and shortly will leave to address theatre men in a number of eastern cities. This is an outgrowth of the recent M.P.T.O.A. parleys between M.P.T.O.A. leaders and producers which followed in the wake of Mayer's challenge before the exhibitor convention to showmen that they be shown.

Mayer's impending trip of "education and explanation" developed largely at the behest of M. E. Comerford and other exhibitor leaders. Mayer told the writer today he believed the impending discussions will do much to clarify misunderstandings between exhibitors and producers through the detailed analysis of problems confronting the latter and the reason why they do the things they do.

Goldwyn, Swanson,
M-G-M Deal Is Off

HOLLYWOOD, April 25.—Samuel Goldwyn will not use Gloria Swanson in "Barbary Coast," and the deal to borrow her from M-G-M has been called off. Goldwyn refers inquirers to Irving Thalberg for explanation.

Thalberg says the reason the deal has been cancelled is that Miss Swanson wanted to extend her personal appearances for six weeks and "Barbary Coast" could not be held up for that length of time. Anna Sten will replace her.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood, April 25

ONE slant on what is apt to make bad friends and drive a further wedge between the actors who make 'em and the exhibitors who show 'em in this lotus blossom land: Detouring customers from the box-office, the 1,000 or more actors and actresses who are members of the Screen Actors' Guild plan a mammoth outdoor show to commemorate the opening of the new Gilmore Sports Stadium now under construction not far from Hollywood's center which means the Boulevard and Vine. . . .

It will be a three-day engagement with two matinees and three shows nightly at the rate of one each night. The talent and turns are now being assembled under a general scheme designed to make the performances so attractive the public will scramble for the 5,000 seats which the stadium is being constructed to hold. Concessions a la carnival style will hold forth as well as a parade of stars. Proceeds will go to swell the the Screen Actors' Guild treasury. Viva Hollywood and never mind the exhibitor—the forgotten man. . . .

Sights and anecdotes: Lowell Sherman strolling around the Universal lot, hands in pockets with nothing to do at four handsome figures a week for doing it. It's been months, maybe eight or nine, since he's been there. By profession a director, Lowell has nothing to direct. . . . Will Rogers declaring the M. P. T. O. A. called off the convention because Hollywood ran out of blondes. . . .

Film notables, all in the open for the NRA and national recovery, nevertheless continuing to patronize the Vine Street Brown Derby whose waiters contend they are underpaid and are compelled to rely on tips to get by. . . .

John Lodge, who made an impression as Count Alexei in "The Scarlet Empress," is one of the Boston Lodges. You know, the family that speaks only to the Cabots who supposedly only speak to God. Might be in reverse, but the idea is the same. . . . The Dietrich picture, incidentally, has gone back for additional shots et al and is off the Paramount schedule for this season anyway, although originally on. . . . In work on that lot for 1934-35 at the minute are "Cleopatra," with Cecil Biblical De Mille at the helm and loud speaker replacing megaphone, and "She Loves Me Not," sensational Broadway stage play. Bing Crosby is the luminary in the latter. . . .

Fantastic yarns: The one pounded across by a local press agent who insists Mr. So and So doesn't allow any politics on his lot; that the stars all go to bed early because the boss sees to that. Boss may not allow politics, but how does he keep it out? And where emanates the first-hand information on how early the celebrities go to sleep? . . . Big roadster dashes out of the Colony Club driveway. Very fancy, with much aluminum and splash. Standerby remarks: "That's what happens to a Hollywood actor after three days of steady work." . . .

Trustees Sue Para. Board On Big Deals

J. Ludvig, Sir William Wiseman, Donald S. Stralem, as executor for the estate of Casimir I. Stralem, deceased, and Eugene Zukor, Melville Shauer and Julia Shauer, as executors for the estate of Emil E. Shauer, deceased.

The petition to be filed also states that the trustees and their counsel are investigating the possible liability of the theatre operators and others from whom the stock was repurchased in connection with the transactions in question. If the investigation establishes the liability of these, it is intimated, suits to recover money or property received by them from Paramount may also be instituted by the trustees.

Among the circuits acquired by Paramount with an agreement to repurchase the stock at a guaranteed redemption price were the Dent Circuit, Texas and New Mexico; Kunsky-Trendle, Detroit; Great States Theatres, Illinois; Hostettler, Nebraska and Iowa; and Rickards & Nace, Arizona.

Charles D. Hilles, Eugene W. Leake and Charles E. Richardson, the trustees in bankruptcy for Paramount Publix, set forth in their petition that last Sept. 15 they retained Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co., accountants, to investigate and report on the stock repurchase transactions of 1930, '31 and '32. Additionally, last December Arthur W. Teele, of the accounting firm of Teele & Dennis, was retained for the same purpose, and last March, Frederick H. Hurdman, of Hurdman & Cranston, accountants, was retained.

Accountants Disagree

All three accountants made their reports to the trustees during March. The Barrow, Wade, Guthrie report set forth that, in their opinion, "the capital of Paramount was impaired by the purchase by it of its own stock on Sept. 9, 1931; Dec. 26, 1931; Jan. 29, 1932; and March 7, 1932, in an aggregate amount of at least $11,335,285." Teele's report offered the opinion that "the purchases impaired the capital to the extent of at least $3,257,453, as of March 7, 1932." Hurdman's report stated that "no evidence had been presented (to him) to indicate that the purchase by Paramount of shares of its own stock during the periods in question impaired the capital of Paramount."

The trustees' petition then sets forth that they were advised by their counsel, Root, Clark, Buckner & Ballantine, "after an investigation of the facts and the law," to institute suit against the directors who authorized or approved the purchases, "on the ground that the capital or capital stock of the bankrupt was impaired by reason of the purchases of stock in question."

Accordingly, the trustees' statement declares, the suit is being instituted "in order to determine the liability in connection with the stock transactions of those who were directors at the time the purchases were authorized and approved."

Adolph Zukor, Paramount's president and one of the defendants named in the trustees' suit, in commenting on the trustees' action revealed that the opinions resulting from the findings of the Barrow, Wade, Guthrie study were subsequently submitted to five auditing and accounting firms, all of whom submitted opinions sustaining the actions of the Paramount directors in the transactions in question.

Zukor Makes Statement

Zukor's comment follows: "Several years ago Paramount acquired various theatre properties by the issue of its stock, with agreements to repurchase the stock upon demand within specified periods. The suit brought by the trustees involves these repurchases. No officer or director of Paramount had any interest in any of these contracts."

"In determining the various accounting questions involved in the repurchases, particularly as to whether Paramount had sufficient surplus to require performance of its contracts, the directors relied upon the audits of Price, Waterhouse & Co., and upon a special report made by Haskins & Sells. The consolidated earned surplus of Paramount and its subsidiaries at Dec. 26, 1931 (before deducting $8,711,917.06 of stock repurchases) was certified by Price, Waterhouse to aggregate over $27,000,000."

"The points raised by Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co. have been submitted to Arthur Anderson & Co.; Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery; Miller, Donaldson & Co.; Peat, Marwick & Mitchell, and Price, Waterhouse & Co., all of whose opinions upon the disputed points sustain the action of the directors in performing the company's obligation to repurchase the stock in question," the Zukor statement concludes.

Paramount's program of theatre acquisitions, particularly that part involving the stock repurchase agreements, was the target of considerable questioning by attorneys for the Paramount trustees and by Saul E. Rogers, attorney for a group of Paramount Publix bondholders, during the examination of officers of Paramount in the bankruptcy proceedings of the past year.

Acquired 176 Theatres

In one such examination, Ralph A. Kohn, a defendant in the present action by the trustees, and now head of Paramount's home office theatre department, testified that the company had acquired 176 theatres on a stock repurchase basis during 1930, '31 and '32. The most important of such transactions listed by Kohn at the time included a 71 per cent interest in Kunsky-Trendle, Detroit, for 65,000 shares guaranteed for repurchase at $75 per share. Market value at redemption time was $21 per share. Another was Great States circuit, Illinois, a 70 per cent interest in which was acquired for 30,000 shares guaranteed for repurchase at $85 per share. The stock was repurchased at a time when the market value was $6.50 per share.

A half interest in the Dent circuit, Texas and New Mexico, was acquired, Kohn testified, for 19,997 shares guaranteed for repurchase at $80 per share. The market value at redemption time was $53.50 per share. The Rickards & Nace circuit, Arizona, was acquired for 14,112 shares, redeemable at $80 per share. Market value at redemption time was $39 per share. The Hostettler circuit, Nebraska and Iowa, was acquired for 6,195 shares, guaranteed for repurchase at $80 per share. Market value at redemption time was $39 per share.

All of the repurchase agreements, Paramount officers testified under examination, were contingent upon the existence of a specified surplus at the time of redemption. Ali testified that Price, Waterhouse audits revealed sufficient surplus on the various redemption dates to make the repurchase of the stock by Paramount obligatory.

Kohn testified at the time that while about $12,000,000 of theatre properties were acquired in the manner now questioned by the trustees' suit, there were $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 of properties bought without stock guarantees. Among these were, he said, Olympia circuit, New England; B. & K., Chicago; A. H. Blank, Iowa and Nebraska; FitzPatrick-McElroy; Finkelstein & Ruben, Minnesota; Saenger; Indiana-Ohio Theatre Corp.; Netoco; Massachusetts and Connecticut; Famous Players-Canadian; G-V Theatre Circuit, and others.

Saul Rogers, Paramount Publix creditors' attorney, in commenting on the trustees' action yesterday, said that he regarded it as "an essential step in protecting the interests of creditors and endeavoring to recover assets for the bankrupt estate."

Two Publix Rental Claims Disallowed

ment Co., for $250,000, both involving future rent on Denver theatre leases. The claims were objected to by the Publix Enterprises trustee and hearings were held before Referee Davis several months ago. The referee permitted the filing of additional briefs and rendered his opinion yesterday.

Two additional large claims remain pending against Publix Enterprises. They are both future rent claims for more than $600,000 each and both have been ordered expunged by Referee Davis. A review of the referee's order, however, was sought of the U. S. District Court by the claimants and a final ruling from the Federal court is expected daily. When these claims have been disposed of, Publix Enterprises will be in a position to apply to the court for a final discharge from bankruptcy, according to attorneys for the trustee.

Biophone Sues Big Electrics As A Monopoly

Vatner, sets forth that it had sold more than $500,000 worth of equipment to exhibitors up to 1929 when it was sued for patent infringement by the present defendants. The complaint declares that as a result of the suit Biophone's sales declined and exhibitors who had purchased equipment refused to meet installments. It is also claimed that Biophone received an offer from a Wall Street firm of $750,000 for 49 per cent of its stock, which was withdrawn after the filing of the electrics' suit.

The complaint attacks patent pooling by the large sound equipment manufacturers in 1919, together with a cross-licensing agreement and an alleged allocation among themselves of certain sales fields, and hits at licensing agreements by which, it is charged, producer licensees would rent product only to those theatres having reproducing equipment manufactured by the defendants.

Attorneys for Erpi could not be reached yesterday for comment on the suit.

convention came to a close at the Park Central. The council's program, among other things, provides for the abolition of block booking.

Technical organization matters and new product also were discussed by the Allied group, which, in addition, took up the question of "forced sales of individual trailers." Action is to be taken shortly on the trailer topic.

On May 15, the eastern units will meet in Syracuse in conjunction with a session scheduled by Allied Theatre Owners of New York. Attending yesterday's meeting were Walter B. Littlefield, chairman; Sidney E. Samuelson, president of the national Allied organization; E. M. Loew, Edward Ansin, L. Levin, Julius Charnow, Irving Dollinger, William Smalley, Ben Berkowitz, W. H. McLaughlin, E. H. Stoneman, and Herman Blum.

The I. T. O. A. discussed them at the regular meeting yesterday. The unit expressed some concern over the Sharkey bill, which would prohibit color lights in certain portions of theatres.

Members of the organization were warned not to sign contracts with sound companies until consulting with the attorney for the unit.

for the summer, with the exception of one stage show. Lawrence Lehman, Mainstreet manager, denies reports RKO will at the same time cut from 40 cents to two bits.

Dubinsky's Liberty is also going to doubles, but probably not as a regular policy.

The zoning board is considering cutting first run clearance, which is now 28 to 42 days, down to 14 days following 25-cent single feature first runs, and seven days following doubles at that price. The board also is considering going into the suburban price situation with a view to taking action on doubles, giveaways, dime admissions, etc. Protection over these policies may be extended.

Kansas City, Kan., theatre owners have filed a demand with the zoning board for protection reduction for first runs there following Kansas City, Mo., first runs, from 28 days, as now, to 14 days, regardless of the price in the larger city, since they have agreed to ban objectionable practices May 19.

John McManus, manager of Loew's Midland, is regarded as the key to the whole situation. He maintains no one has a right to dictate the Midland's price policy. He suggests suburbs should eliminate objectionable practices first and, after testing their plan for a month, first runs will be receptive toward a proposition to meet their demands.

Independents are unwilling to renew negotiations for a voluntary agreement, since several previous attempts have failed. They are determined to seek a solution through the code.

Michigan's communities west of the Eastern Standard Time zone used eastern time all last year and are continuing to do so. Ohio is continuing on Eastern Standard Time which it adopted April 3, 1927, by order of the Interstate Commerce Commission after there had been considerable agitation for daylight saving time in communities west of the E.S.T. zone.

Minneapolis is the only spot in Minnesota using the summer time.

Boards Called Great Advance By Rosenblatt

membership has practically demonstrated," he said, "that it is entirely possible for an industry to provide for any controversy which may arise, even though the complainants would have no right to go into a court and start a lawsuit.

"These boards are industrial courts extraordinary. They cannot be found in any other industry in this country. They constitute the final answer under the New Deal to any member of this industry, whether a big or little man, who claims to be aggrieved."

The Recovery Administration, Rosenblatt asserted, "cannot be threatened or coerced by any self-styled leaders of industry whose fundamental purpose it is, principally from political considerations, to harass and destroy, rather than to put their shoulders to the wheel in an effort to help and cooperate."

"Minimum of Labor Unrest"

Rosenblatt spoke of the code as a scientific approach to the problems of the industry.

"An NRA administrator is neither a dictator nor a tyrant," he declared. "The value of cooperation from outstanding labor leaders cannot be overestimated. From the studios to the theatres there has been a minimum of labor unrest, and with our courts supporting the collective bargaining provisions and other labor-safeguarding provisions of the act as well as the code, there is no reason why in the immediate future all of labor cannot rejoice in the benefits which have accrued to it under this code." He referred to the code as capable of being amended to protect labor in any situation.

Rosenblatt criticized those in the industry clinging to the policy of "let well enough alone," saying "in the picture industry as well as in other industries possibly there still are diehards, openly skeptical, avowedly suspicious, and incurably committed to the proposition that the policy of laissez faire is preferable to a policy of constructive forward looking and scientific thinking for the benefit of the industry."

Rosenblatt's address was broadcast over NBC's Red network.

Improved Sound Described

At the morning session today there was an open forum on size and shape of screen image.

Further refinement of sound recording was promised in methods described in a paper by G. L. Dimmick and H. Belar of RCA Victor. The system was represented as eliminating all ground noises and requiring only a few changes in existing reproducing apparatus.

The complete elimination of "ground" or hissing noises, full definition of the various shadings of volume, and fidelity of reproduction over the complete audible range of sound are some of the improvements claimed for the new development.

With all existing systems of sound-on-film recording, according to RCA

Looking 'Em Over

"Sleepers East"

(Fox)

Well-plotted, engrossing entertainment is "Sleepers East." Tense and graced with some sterling performances, the film should have little difficulty in satisfying audiences. It is to the production's credit that once it captures the interest it holds it.

The tale revolves about Wynne Gibson, a victim of fate. Out on parole, she has the tough luck to be with the mayor's son when he shoots down the proprietor of a night spot during an argument. An enemy of the night club fellow is found at the scene of the crime and charged with the murder. The mayor's boy wants to tell the truth, but it is near election time and the political bosses don't intend to ruin his father's chances of re-election.

The film from then on concerns itself with the efforts of the party in power to keep Miss Gibson's mouth shut. The attorney for the racketeer who stands to burn for the crime, on his side, does all in his power to keep the prosecution from getting to Miss Gibson. First she is forced to promise to testify for the defense on the threat of turning her over to the police for violating her parole. When the political fellows catch up with her, they make a similar threat. She doesn't know where to turn. But on the stand she testifies to the facts, and the mayor's son commits suicide in the courtroom when he realizes the jig is up.

Other players are Mona Barrie, Preston Foster, Harvey Stephens, Roger Imhof and J. Carrol Naish. Kenneth McKenna directed.

"Marrying Widows"

(Tower)

This film ought to provide a good deal of pleasure in neighborhood houses. Besides being endowed with a fine cast, the production has many moments of merriment. The story has been developed with a light hand and is told in quick tempo.

Judith Allen is the widow of a sewing machine king. In an attempt to deprive her of her share in his estate his relatives tell her he has left no will. Disgusted with the whole lot of them, she sets off for New York. There she meets John Mack Brown, the chief rival in the field, who has his heart set on seizing control of the business left by her husband to avenge the theft of some of the inventions of his father. He hopes to gain his end by marrying the widow, thus coming into control of the company. What he doesn't know, of course, is that Miss Allen has not inherited the business he is seeking to grab. This makes things harder, for he is really in love with the woman.

In the end Brown does get control of the rival company, thanks to Minna Gombell, who, through clever strategy, forces Lucien Littlefield, a brother-in-law, to sign a paper that Miss Allen is being victimized. This naturally means the business left by her husband will pass into Miss Allen's hands. So the marriage of Brown and the widow turns out as expected.

The acting of Miss Allen is first-rate. Miss Gombell and Bert Roach unite in putting over many hearty laughs. Sam Newfield directed.

Victor engineers, peculiar hissing background noises result from particles of dust or scratches on the unused portions of the film sound track, which are picked up by the photocell in the optical system and amplified. With the new recording system, which was developed in the Camden laboratories, the sound waves are halved into two separate but symmetrical sound tracks, one negative and the other positive, automatically eliminating the black unused portions of the sound track. The new system also eliminates the slight distortion frequently introduced by the processing which the film undergoes before it reaches its final form, it is claimed.

Among other papers were "Some Considerations in the Design of Sound Reproducing Equipment," by F. C. Willis and G. Friedl, Erpi; "Recent Optical Improvements in Western Electric Sound Film Recording Equipment," by W. Herriott, Bell Telephone Laboratories, and "Care and Operation of Theatre Sound Systems," by J. S. Ward and P. T. Sheridan, Erpi.

Industry May Join Fight on New City Tax

New York theatres face the prospect of an additional tax levy on 1933 receipts with the introduction of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's bill providing for the imposition of his proposed levy of one-twentieth of one per cent on gross receipts over $15,000 of all New York businesses.

Film exchanges and theatre supply houses also are affected by the proposed measure, a part of the city's emergency tax program, authorization for which was given by the state this week. Theatres, however, already carrying the federal 10 per cent admission

Allied Policy To Be Set at Chicago Meet

Allied has called a special two-day meeting of all directors, vice-presidents and regional chairmen for May 12-13 in Chicago. Abram F. Myers, general counsel, will preside.

Up for discussion will be the six plans now under consideration which involve a tieup by the organization with an independent producing company. Regional chairmen have brought the matter up before meetings of the various units for reaction and it is understood the members in general are in favor of such a deal.

Other topics to be discussed will have to do with expansion plans into various territories. From 15 to 20 national officers will attend. The Congress Hotel will be the meeting spot.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood, April 26

STUDIO inside on the Hepburn-Radio fracas: Kitty did such a swell job in "Little Women," the studio voluntarily offered a bonus, but called it a present. The legal department, however, insisted she endorse the check, making it clear the iron men did not represent an increase in salary. In effect, said La Hepburn, right in front of Building A where all who passed could, and did, hear: "If a gentleman wants to give me a present, it's a present and nothing else. What's the difference if a studio does it?" Purchase of an original by Howard H. Spellman, Radio's story editor, plus the fact Miss H. is due here in about two weeks, now leads to reports the trouble is over. . . .

Jack Warner says the agents are the next to hold a convention here. The date has been delayed until they can make a deal for the Olympic Stadium. How agents work, or some of them, anyway: It was at a production conference. A well known agent is talking: "Mr. Executive-from the East, I am not interested in what the pictures featuring my people make. I don't care whether they make a million or lose two. I'm only interested in selling them in Hollywood for the most money I can get." . . .

More and more are the foreign pictures which are being remade here by some of the majors. Janet Gaynor's "Adorable" was drawn hook, line and sinker from a Ufa film with Lilian Harvey. "The Countess of Monte Cristo" was carbon-copied from a German feature shown privately in New York about a year ago. There are others. . . . The elevator starter gets those four cars in the Taft Building moving by clicking castinets. Why? It's not a Spanish custom. . . .

Paramount studio tour: From De Mille's Rome to Bernie with Ben fiddling. In other words, from those extremely interesting "Cleopatra" sets to "Thank Your Stars." And Tammany Young's comment on the De Mille spectacle which Paramount may roadshow: "I don't associate with those third-rate dramatic companies." Tammany, long seeking a break in Hollywood from New York, is now getting a break in Hollywood as W. C. Fields' stooge and yearns for New York. So! . . .

More on John Lodge: Was over at Radio originally and appeared in "Little Women." Most of what he did found final resting place on the cutting room floor. . . . Another break for The Brown Derby: The original establishment across Wilshire from the Ambassador has the perfect whispering gallery. You talk on one side and the other side hears without straining eardrums. Strangers here who don't know about it have been embarrassed.

A pile of dirt marks the site of a new building which will house the Paramount publicity department. Symbolism, say some on the lot. . . .

Service from Ampa, Ferguson's Keynote

Declaring that the keynote of the Ampa under his presidency will be to render service to the industry at large, William R. Ferguson of M-G-M, officially took over the chair with approximately 150 on hand. He said he would do his utmost to continue the good work of the organization.

Pointing out that it will not be a one-man organization, Ferguson appointed various committees and said he expected every man to do his bit. He announced 28 new members and the placement of three men in permanent jobs.

Ferguson said he will not hire any man unless he is a member of the Ampa, and added he expects other companies to follow suit. Several congratulatory wires were read, including those from Nicholas M. Schenck, Robert F. Sisk, Jack Cohen and Carl Laemmle.

The entertainment included the Three Sizzlers from NBC, Betty Bartels of CBS and a colored band. On the dais as speakers were Si Seadler, Frank Scully, Ceila Villa and Major Edward Bowes.

Rumor Chase to Sell Third of Fox Shares

Chase National was reported in Wall Street quarters yesterday completing plans to sell one-third of its 70 per cent interest in Fox. Neither confirmation nor denial of the report was forthcoming at the offices of the bank, which became interested in the company in the proxy fight which resulted in the removal of Fox, the founder, and the entrance of Harley Clarke into the business. The report seems to be in line with the purported withdrawal of Chase from the affairs of Fox West Coast, reported earlier this week from the coast.

Audio Color Shorts Done

Audio Productions has completed two of a series of shorts in Technicolor. The company plans between 13 and 14 during the coming season with negotiations now under way for distribution.

The completed three-color process shorts were made by Robert Bruce, who will make an additional number. They are "Hymn to the Sun" and "Fingal's Cave." The series is being called "Musical Moods" and a Technicolor camera may be sent abroad for native background shots.

tax, would feel the new emergency city levy the most. Indications are that the local industry will muster a group of spokesmen to voice the New York theatre and film trade's opposition to the proposed measure at public hearings on the mayor's bill to be held at City Hall this afternoon.

A few industry spokesmen, however, deprecated the effect of the proposed gross receipts tax on the local industry, pointing out that it is expected to yield only an approximate $8,000,000 to the city from all sources. On this basis, they contended, the local film industry probably would not bear more than $400,000 to $500,000 as its proportion.

If the proposed tax is enacted, returns must be filed by Aug. 1, at which time the tax is due.

The censor board withheld a permit for the Hitler picture and Reade now plans to open it as a newsreel compilation under the provisions exempting newsreels from licensing by the censor board. Reade said he anticipated a possible recommendation for a change of title to the simple "Hitler's Reign," as was done by the Chicago censor board in connection with the showings of the film in that city. Other than that, he said he anticipated no interference, but indicated he would apply for an injunction restraining the censor board from banning the exhibition in the event an attempt was made to do so.

ROBERT S. WOLFF, distributor with theatre affiliation, was born July 25, 1896, in New York City. He entered the business at the age of 20. He graduated from P. S. 44 in the 1910 class, and also high school and attended a commercial school in Brooklyn. Wolff left the commercial school in 1914 to become manager of the Orient Theatre in New York.

After three years as a theatre manager, Wolff joined George Kleine of the K. E. S. Exchange, where he remained for one year and then joined the marines. In 1919 he rejoined Kleine as salesman, the K. E. S. firm having consolidated with General Film Co. He continued with the company until it dissolved and then he identified himself with the World Film Co. in a sales capacity. He left the firm to join National Screen Service as special sales representative for Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

In 1921, Wolff joined W. W. Hodgkinson and after a year was elevated from salesman to branch manager at New Haven. Another promotion followed a year later when he was named assistant sales manager for the New York branch. In 1926 he was appointed branch manager of the Pathe New Jersey exchange. The company was then taken over by Radio and shortly after he was named sales manager for the New York exchange, a post he holds today.

He is married, a member of the M. P. Charity Fund, the M. P. Club, the NVA committee, was president of the New York Film Board in 1933 and is now chairman of the executive board of that organization.

LEO ABRAMS, distributor without theatre affiliation, was born April 16, 1895, in Granville, N. Y. He is a graduate of Granville High School and attended N. Y. U.

He has been with one film company, Universal, 18 years and that is the only company he has worked for since he left college.

In March, 1916, he joined Bluebird Pictures as salesman in New York and then covered several other territories in the metropolitan area until 1926, when he was appointed short subject sales manager for Big U. Later in that year he was named Brooklyn and Long Island branch manager for the company and in 1927 was transferred to New Haven as exchange head.

A year later he was designated manager of the St. Louis exchange and shortly after was transferred to Kansas City in the same capacity. In 1929 he was shifted to New York to succeed Dave Miller as general sales manager of the local Universal exchange. Miller was switched to the managership of the Buffalo office.

Abrams continues as general sales head of the local exchange. He married his secretary, Hannah Pettit, the Christmas of 1931. He has no children and is not affiliated with any social or political organizations.

DAVID LOEW, representing affiliated theatres, was born in October, 1897, in New York City. He is a graduate of Public School 165, the Hamilton Institute and also attended N. Y. U.

His entrance into the film business was as an office boy for Loew's, Inc., of which his father was head, and later he was placed in charge of the real estate department. Shortly after he took on booking duties. He still holds both posts in addition to being vice-president of Loew's.

He is a member of the Quakeridge Golf Club in Mamaroneck, the M. P. Club, the Pi Lambda Phi, the last a fraternity organization of N. Y. U.

HARRY SHIFFMAN, independent first run exhibitor, has virtually been brought up in the exhibition field, having started at the age of 14 when he joined his uncle, the late Sol Brill, as assistant projectionist in a penny arcade, which Brill operated above a nickelodeon at 700 Broadway.

Shiffman was born December 6, 1891, in New York City and at the age of 13 started to work for Brill in the latter's cloth sponging factory. From this point on Shiffman was identified with Brill until the latter's death in 1931.

He saw William Fox become Brill's partner in 1907 and together the two exhibitors opened three houses in Brooklyn, all nickelodeons. The first was at 900 Broadway, the second at 1,100 Broadway, which was followed a year later by the acquisition of the Comedy. With the latter take-over, Shiffman dropped mechanical work to become attached to the office, handling minor detail work.

About 1910, the partnership between Fox and Brill was ended and the houses sold. Shiffman continued in the employ of Brill when the latter entered business for himself, taking over the Globe, Central and Sumner in Brooklyn. In 1911, Shiffman was made film buyer.

Then followed a partnership between Brill and B. S. Moss and the office was moved to New York. Under this arrangement the Washington theatre on Washington Heights, the Jefferson on 14th Street, and the Hamilton on 146th Street and Broadway were added to the circuit.

In 1914, the Moss-Brill tie was broken and still Shiffman continued with Brill, who then began organizing his own circuit, building the Strand, Far Rockaway, and the Meserole, Brooklyn. Shiffman was then appointed general manager of Brill's theatres. Several years later, Brill built the Inwood on Dykman Street, which was sold to Loew's, but continued operating his other houses until 1928, when Charles Moses and Irwin Johnson, better known as Moses & Johnson, became his partners. A year following, Brill bought out his associates' interest in six Staten Island houses, the Ritz, Stadium, Liberty, Capitol, Strand and New Dorp.

1930 found Brill building his last the suburbans with bringing about the first run conditions they complained of, by refusing to eliminate price cutting, double bills and giveaways and by repeatedly rejecting offers of the affiliated first runs to arrive at a solution.

The complaint in the hands of the clearance and zoning board asking immediate revision of protection takes in Kansas City, Mo.; Kansas City, Kan., and North Kansas City, Mo. The petitioners seek to reopen the entire question with a view to revision all the way in the line of changed competitive prices and policies.

The protest is signed by exhibitors representing 16 theatres, a minority of the subsequent in the area affected.

The Independent Theatre Owners are behind the protest. All complainants are members of the organization.

The checkup is to determine whether or not metropolitan theatres must recognize the service union and negotiate new wage scales with it, and is dependent upon substantiation of the union's claims that it represents a majority of service employees in the larger circuits.

St. Louis Fees Are Set

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—Circuit Judge Henry Hamilton has allowed fees of $6,000 each to Jesse W. Barrett and Walter H. Nohl who served as circuit court receivers for Skouras Brothers Enterprises, Inc., from December 2, 1931, to November 6, 1933. Previously they had received $2,000 each. Harry S. Rooks, who served as attorney for the receivers, was allowed a fee of $10,000 in full payment.

Delay Grievance Session

Because Milt Kusell, New York state district manager for Paramount, does not expect to return from Chicago by Tuesday, the New York grievance board has postponed its next session from May 2 to May 3. Kusell left for Chicago late yesterday to attend the two-day Paramount district managers' meeting which starts tomorrow.

Buffalo Board to Meet

BUFFALO, April 26.—First official meeting of the local zoning and clearance board will be held next Monday. No cases were considered at the grievance board session this week.

house, the St. George, 3,000-seat house on Staten Island. A year later he passed away, making Shiffman executor of his estate in his will. In addition to the seven Staten Island units, the Brill circuit now operates the Oasis, 1,800-seat house in Brooklyn; the Park Lane, Manhattan, 2,000 seats; Strand, 1,500 seats, and the Palace, 1,000 seats, both in Lakewood, N. J.; Strand, 1,400 seats, and Ritz, 700 seats, at Port Jarvis, N. Y. The circuit owns a half interest in the Inwood, Forest Hills, a 3,000-seat house.

Shortly after Brill's death in 1931, Shiffman was made president of the circuit, which still retains its original name. He is not married, but is a member of the Pine Ridge Country Club, N. Y., an Elk of Lodge No. 1, a member of the Jewish Theatrical Guild and a member of the I. T. O. A.

EDWARD N. RUGOFF, independent subsequent run exhibitor, is a native of Whitehaven, Pa., and a graduate of the Whitehaven high school. He started in the film business 18 years ago when he was associated with Harry Rapi in production. He later dropped production ideas to enter exhibition and started by building two theatres in Brooklyn and one in Long Island.

He then formed the Rugoff & Becker circuit and acquired a number of houses until the total reached 11, seven of which are located in the metropolitan area.

LAURENCE S. BOLOGNINO, subsequent run exhibitor, was born in Turin, Italy, in the June of 1883. He is a graduate of the technical institute there and for two years was associated with his father in the restaurant business in his native city.

He came to the United States in 1904 and looked around for about a year before he entered the exhibition business. When his brother Andrew arrived from Italy in the fall of 1905, the Bologninos rented half a store on Second Avenue and 114th Street and turned it into a nickelodeon. Seating capacity was 40. Andrew operated the projector and Laurence acted as manager.

In 1906 the brothers opened the Big Show on Eighth Avenue and 28th Street. From this point on they acquired other theatres on the same avenue. The Apollo on 25th Street was the next house. Then they built the Yorke at 20th Street, then took over the Amsterdam on 22nd Street and the Morningside, following up with two to three acquisitions a year until the group now totals 20.

Until three years ago, the circuit was operated under the trade name of Consolidated Amusements. In 1931 the firm was incorporated with the same name. Laurence is vice-president.

He does not like sports, is single and a member of the M. P. Club. He returned recently from Miami and the west coast, where he recuperated from a minor illness.

ALFRED E. STEERS, impartial member, was born in Brooklyn on April 7. When 23, he was appointed a special policeman in Brooklyn and later became a volunteer fireman in Flatbush. He was later elected a justice of the peace for Flatbush and when Brooklyn annexed it, Steers was named a police judge by the mayor.

"U" Seeks Talent

Hollywood, April 26.—Set on establishing a stock company, Universal is sending Dave Werner, casting director, on a three months' tour of the country. He will visit stock companies, universities and schools in a search for talent. Dan Kelly will sit in his place during his absence.

Shortly after he was made a city magistrate and continued in this post until 1909, when he was elected president of the Borough of Brooklyn.

Steers resigned as Brooklyn borough president after three and a half years to return to the bench, where he served until July, 1933, when he was pensioned by the City of New York.

Grievance Board

MILTON S. KUSELL, distributor with theatre affiliation, was born in Aurora, Ill., Oct. 27, 1892. Chicago was the city of his schooling.

In 1917, he became a salesman for Paramount in the Chicago office and two years later was promoted to sales manager of the same branch. In 1920, Kusell was transferred to New York as special salesman, and in 1922 opened the New Jersey exchange as manager. Three years later he was appointed branch manager of the New York branch. In 1932 he was again elevated, this time to the post of district manager for New York, Brooklyn, Albany, New Jersey, and Buffalo exchanges.

He is a bachelor and resides at Larchmont, N. Y.

HARRY H. THOMAS, distributor without affiliation, hails from Boston, where he was born April 23, 1892. He also was educated in Boston.

Thomas entered the film business in 1907 when he opened the Bushwick Palace in the Williamsburg section, Brooklyn. Six years later he joined the Greater New York Film Co., then shifted to General Film Co., which absorbed Greater New York. Shortly after he joined Fox as special representative.

He organized Alexander Film Co. in 1921 and later associated with I. E. Chadwick, president of Merit Film exchange in New York, as vice-president and general manager. In 1926, he acquired Chadwick's interest in the exchange and organized First Division. Shortly after he acquired the Commonwealth exchange.

The company has expanded ever since and now has branches in Albany, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Washington, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Boston, Louisville and New York. Thomas is president of First Division Exchanges, Inc., which operates the branches.

In association with Arthur A. Lee, Thomas formed First Anglo Corp. to distribute foreign films. He married Etta Gettelson in 1919, has two children, Sydelle, 7, and Jerome, 14. He is a Mason, member of the Fort Green Lodge, A. F. & A. M., No. 922; an active factor in Elks Lodge No. 22 in Brooklyn, a member of the M. P. Club and vice-president in charge of distribution for Monogram.

JOHN J. O'CONNOR, representing affiliated theatres, was born at Annawalk, N. Y., July 10, 1896. He started in the film business 20 years ago when he joined George Kleine, who was then roadshowing "Quo Vadis" and "The Last Days of Pompeii."

Afterward, he became booker of the New York exchange for the Kleine-Edison-Selig & Essanay Co. He later joined the old Pathe Co. in Newark, where he worked during 1919-1920.

In 1921, he became associated with the newly formed Peerless Booking Corp., which was the film buying and booking office for Keith-Proctor & Moss. He is now chief buyer and booker for RKO Film Booking Corp., which is an outgrowth of the Peerless Co.

J. LOUIS GELLER, independent exhibitor, started in the business in 1912 when he was prevailed upon to quit N. Y. U. upon the death of his father and take over the management of the 86th St. Garden in New York. In addition to operating this house, he today has the Palace, Jersey City, and the Park, Newark. He also has interests in a number of theatres leased to exhibitors, including the Star, Brooklyn.

Geller is a graduate of DeWitt Clinton High School, a director of Consolidated Theatres, Ltd., of Canada; chairman of the board of the Royal Industrial Bank of New York; vice-president of the Theatre Owners Chamber of Commerce.

He is married and has three children, two girls and one boy.

GEORGE F. THOMPSON, impartial member, is a native of Saratoga Springs and attended school there and at White Hall, N. Y. At 14, his folks moved to Middleport, Niagara County, where he was made justice of the peace in 1895. He held this assignment for seven years.

He then came to New York City and during 1904 and 1905 was a member of the Assembly. This was at the age of 30. In 1912 he was elected to the Senate from the 47th district of Niagara and Orleans counties. He held this job for eight years and in 1915 returned to New York as chairman of the legislative committee investigating public utilities. He continued at this until 1917.

In 1918, Thompson was interested by Sydney Cohen and Charles L. O'Reilly in a move to institute Sunday shows in New York. In 1919 the bill which provided for referendums in each county and city was passed. Many cities at the time were showing pictures, but those which weren't had an opportunity to start them, providing the public voted favorably. Thompson is for general amusements on Sundays.

Since leaving the Senate, he has operated the Niagara Spraying Co., of which he still is a director. He managed this firm for seven years—from 1921 to 1928. After leaving the company he began practicing law in New York. He has one son, Warner F., 30, who is a junior member in the firm of Thompson, Smith & Thompson. Warner is in charge of the company's Lockport, N. Y., office.

Thompson is a 32nd degree Mason, an Elk, a member of the Odd Fellows, the Athletic Club in Buffalo, the Niagara Club in Niagara Falls, the Tuscarora Club in Lockport, a member of the National Republican Club, the Advertising Club, the Park Golf Club in Buffalo, and the Lockport Town and Country Club.

He lives at the Algonquin.

Ohio ITO Protest Mailed to Johnson

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt and John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Campi, the exhibitor group asserts the allocation of charges is unfair to the small theatre.

The letter asks that assessments on exhibitors "be revised upon the basis of some fundamental factor such as gross earnings or seatage, both of which were undoubtedly entirely ignored in setting up the schedule of charges."

Relief on Protection Sought for Wichita

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 26.—A complaint has been filed with the zoning board here by O. F. Sullivan of the West Theatre, small 15-center of Wichita, Kan., asking immediate relief on protection in that city. Prior run houses and major distributors are cited in the complaint, which petitions the board that something be done about the matter as soon as possible. It is alleged Fox Midwest, with five theatres, controls the situation against six independents.

It is understood St. Joseph, Mo., subsequently are preparing a complaint against first runs there operated by Dubinsky, protesting the 130-day protection for 25-cent houses over 20-cent runs.

Clearance Demands Go Back for Change

The first batch of requests for changes in the local clearance and zoning schedule was returned to a number of exhibitors yesterday by the New York board. At a meeting presided over by Leo Abrams of Universal the members agreed that the complaints were not according to the procedure provided for under the code. The protesting exhibitors have been asked to use the code forms.

All members of the board were present, including Laurence Bolognino, who has been on the coast. The next session will be held May 3 with David Loew as chairman.

Florence Abramson, secretary, also attended.

Roach to Delay on Program Until June

Hal Roach's short subject program for next year will not be definitely decided upon until June, Henry Ginsberg, general manager for Roach studios, stated yesterday. For the current season, Roach's program calls for two features and 42 shorts, most of which have been completed.

Ginsberg returns to the coast next Tuesday. He is now consulting with M-G-M home office executives on general matters, he said.

Studio Report to Flinn

HOLLYWOOD, April 26.—Dick LeStrange reported today to John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Campi, on the failure of the labor and extras' code committees to function, citing cases where they failed to act on complaints. He charged Columbia reclassified workers and Paramount paid extras $3 a day. He held the basis of pay was inequitable.

ger of approximately $7,500,000, is the largest creditor. Paramount will exchange its claims against Saenger for stock in the new company, it was learned, and will continue Richards as operating partner of the circuit.

The plan for issuance of stock in the new corporation, an integral part of the Saenger reorganization, has been submitted to the Federal Trade Commission at Washington for approval. The commission's report is expected within the next week or 10 days and, if favorable, will make possible submission of the reorganization plan to creditors shortly thereafter.

Expect Cravath to Defend Para. Board for Paramount, which seeks to recover up to $12,237,071, said to have been paid for repurchase of stock issued by Paramount for the acquisition of theatres several years ago.

The Cravath firm handled the bulk of the legal affairs of Paramount during the period of its theatre expansion and that of the redemption of the guaranteed stock issues now in question, and, consequently, is regarded as most familiar with the transactions involved in the trustees' suit.

The petition of the trustees, Charles D. Hilles, Eugene W. Leake and Charles E. Richardson, was filed in state supreme court here yesterday. The plenary action will be filed within the next few days. Named as defendants are Adolph Zukor, Sidney R. Kent, Sam Katz, John Hertz, Ralph A. Kohn, Austin C. Keough, Jesse L. Lasky, Jules E. Brulatour, Frank Bailey, William H. English, Daniel Frohman, Felix H. Kahn, Gilbert W. Kahn, Elek J. Ludvigh, Sir William Wiseman and executors for the estates of Casimir I. Stralem and Emil E. Shauer, deceased. The Cravath firm is also counsel for Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Paramount's bankers, several of whose members who served on the Paramount board are made defendants in the trustees' suit.

P-P Claim Hearing Off

Hearing of a claim filed by Paramount Publix against Fox West Coast for alleged damages arising from the leasing by the latter of Paramount California theatres, which was scheduled for today before Referee Henry K. Davis, has been postponed to May 4.

Allied Moves on Monday

Allied of New Jersey moves from its present quarters on West 44th street to the Lincoln hotel next Monday.

Signs Jessica Dragonette

Jessica Dragonette, radio singer, was signed to a long term by Paramount yesterday. She will leave for the coast during the summer.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Thirty Day Princess"

(Schulberg-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 26.—Rarely has the Cinderella formula failed, nor does it in the case of "Thirty Day Princess," in which Sylvia Sydney takes all possible advantage of a light role and kicks in with the best performance in the best picture she has done in many moons.

What goes on here whirls around the flotation of a fifty million dollar loan for one of those tucked away, miniature kingdoms, called Taronia this time. To put on the necessary show, Miss Sydney goes to America, contracts the mumps and almost wrecks the national ballyhoo deemed necessary to stimulate the American public into a bond buying orgy. Her double, also played by Miss Sydney, is dug up from somewhere in the American scene and a pleasant subterfuge is carried on. Complications threaten exposure, and finally love comes to the thirty day princess with Cary Grant at the receiving and delivering end.

Charming treatment aimed at, and successful in striking a high comedy note, plus excellent performances by all hands, place this attraction high on the list of releases just in the offing. The picture is not big in concept, but is wholesome, frothy entertainment of the kind that may not break records, but which will do generally gratifying business up and down the land.

"The Witching Hour," last night's preview at the Paramount, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on April 12.

"Journal of a Crime," last night's preview at the Roxy, was reviewed on Feb. 27.

No Decision Given In St. Louis Case

lar, who want to operate the houses through two new corporations, he has indicated that he is not favorable to the proposal.

On April 23 in a written opinion in rejecting the request of the First Mortgage Bondholders Committee, headed by Thomas N. Dysart, that the court set a date within which non-depositing bondholders would have to come into the plan in order to participate in its benefits, Judge Davis wrote:

"The administration expenses of the consummation of this plan is unreasonable" and added: "The court declines by any act or order to encourage the enforced adoption of the plan by the bondholders."

Judge Davis also rejected the request of Warners and Mrs. F. Geller, et al, for permission to intervene in the original receivership suit brought against the St. Louis Properties Corp., owner of the Ambassador and Missouri theatres and the Grand Central leasehold.

From the outset Warners have opposed the reorganization. Under the plan, the first mortgage bondholders would become, in effect, owners of the properties through an exchange of bonds and common stock for stock in the new corporations.

cinnati June 2 and the third in New York June 29.

Edward Golden, general sales manager, will preside. The Salt Lake City meeting will be attended by the Salt Lake, Portland, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle exchanges. The exchanges represented at the Cincinnati session will be: Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Omaha, Minneapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Charlotte, Atlanta, Tampa, New Orleans, Dallas, Oklahoma City, Little Rock, Detroit and St. Louis.

The New York session will have: New York, Boston, Albany, Philadelphia, New Haven, Washington and Buffalo.

U.S. A. T. & T. Quiz Is Sought in Senate

WASHINGTON, April 26.—An exhaustive investigation by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee into the operations of A. T. & T. and its subsidiaries is sought by Senator Clarence C. Dill of Washington in a resolution introduced in the Senate today. All angles of the telephone company situation will be studied under the proposed legislation, including financial operations and profits, inter-service contracts between the company and Western Electric and other subsidiaries and possible evasion of regulation and taxes.

From the film industry angle, the inquiry is important because of the possible development of relations between the company and Erpi and Western Electric.

whether or not affiliated with any exhibitor organization. If held, the gatherings will take place within the next two weeks in New York, Chicago and on the coast.

"The various sales conventions now being called by the major film companies with the avowed intent of passing the whole NRA costs on to exhibitors in increased film rentals," the letter reads, "make it imperative that the independent theatre men immediately call at least three national film buyers' conventions to take effective measures for protection.

Calls for Action
"Resolutions and speeches must be translated into action if we are to obtain relief against confiscatory rentals. Higher percentages, increased number of percentage pictures, stiff guarantees with overages, preferred playing time, right to interchange, score charges—all of these have created a lopsided and intolerable condition that is fast diminishing our income and causing our theatre investments to dwindle.

"This organization has a very definite plan for relief. We are willing to cooperate mutually—to serve in the ranks—of any effective movement and to contribute our share of activity and financial support towards the common goal of sensible and honest film prices. We recommend the following:

"1. The calling within the next two weeks of three sectional film buyers' conventions—in New York, Chicago and the west coast.

"2. Each organization to be represented by two delegates, equipped with facts and figures regarding their territory, and qualified to speak on behalf of their constituents regarding purchasing power and measures of co-operation each can be counted on from their territory.

"3. Each convention to be strictly non-partisan, non-political, and to be confined solely to devising an effective program against ruinous film prices."

SMPE Men Discuss Laboratory Problem

ATLANTIC CITY, April 26.—Suggestions for improving film laboratory practices were discussed in open forum today by the S.M.P.E. The society concluded its four day spring convention at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall late this afternoon.

Laboratory and general sessions were held this morning and were followed by a symposium on theatre apparatus. Closing sessions in the afternoon were devoted to photography. Properties of the new Agfa 35 mm. film were discussed in a paper by P. Arnold, of the Agfa Ansco Corp. Tips on theatre seating as an aid to correct sight and acoustics featured a paper by P. F. Masucci, of International Seat Corp.

Theatre Men Protest New Tax by City

Intend to Argue Matter Before Aldermen

Minor opposition of metropolitan theatre representatives was voiced yesterday at public hearings at City Hall on Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's new tax bill providing for a levy of one-twentieth of one per cent on gross receipts of New York enterprises over $15,000.

Organized opposition to the measure will be made by the city's theatres when the proposed tax bill comes before the Board of Aldermen for a vote, according to Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the T.O.C.C. Yesterday's hearing was before a Board of Estimate committee. Austin C. Keough of Paramount, Isador

Grievances Go Back for Use Of New Forms

Campi Returning Them to All Parts of Country

All complaints filed by exhibitors and distributors with Code Authority before official forms for registering protests were sent out are being returned to the complainants. Protests must be registered in triplicate on one of three types of forms provided by Campi.

In practically all parts of the country this is holding up hearings before the grievance boards. Campi is insisting on a standard legal procedure for filing protests. All of the complaints filed previous to the sending out of the forms are void under the

Boards in Detroit Open Office May 5

DETROIT, April 27.—Local code board offices will be opened in the Francis Palms (State Theatre) Building on May 5, according to E. S. Kinney, secretary. The suite is now being equipped with furniture. Local boards will not meet again until after that date.

It is expected that the boards will meet on alternate Mondays, the clearance and zoning board one week and the grievance board the next.

Kinney said that only one complaint had been received so far by the local boards, that being one which was sent to New York and forwarded here.

Laboratory Code to Be Reopened May 9

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Modification of the recovery code for the film laboratory industry will be discussed at a hearing to be held at the Hotel Willard May 9, it was announced here today by Deputy Administrator William P. Farnsworth.

The changes which have been proposed, it was said, involve standard costs accounting methods and the lowest reasonable cost of products.

Lew Brown Wants to Produce Films Here

Lew Brown, who recently quit Fox as associate producer, admits he would like to produce independently in the east, but has not made up his mind as yet because of eight offers made to him by major companies. He says he can turn out pictures here cheaper than in the west.

Brown is now considering production of a stage musical comedy, which he plans to do before reentering picture work.

Sale of Stock Lessens Chase Power in Fox

No Closer Gaumont Tie Is Seen by Kent

By RED KANN

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Chase National's sphere of influence in the affairs of Fox Film materially lessens as result of the sale of 200,000 shares of stock to Balfour, Boardman & Co., Ltd., London, with options for the purchase of 400,000 additional shares. At the same time Chase interests, which have invested over $115,000,000 to date in various Fox enterprises, will continue as holders of approximately 1,000,000 Fox shares.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood, April 27

THE history behind "The Sign of the Cross," as expounded by C. B. De Mille before the recent M. P. T. O. A. conclave, set forth that the director, hat in hand, traveled up and down studio row, was laughed out of court and found only Manny Cohen at Paramount who could be interested. Those who are in the know and are certain about it tell a different story. They hurtle their memoirs back to the time in 1931 when Paramount officials journeyed out of the East and the West to meet in Kansas City on a production powwow. Among those present from the East were Adolph Zukor, Sidney R. Kent, Ralph Kohn, Walter Wanger and Cohen. From the West, Jesse L. Lasky and B. P. Schulberg. . . .

Schulberg, goes the account, had virtually made a deal with De Mille for the spectacle backgrounded in Biblical splendor, but, like Lasky, knew his conferees weren't so hot for De Mille. This time, however, the deal was right. De Mille had agreed to slash his salary and the picture was to be made at a set figure under studio control at all times. The proposition, therefore, was sprung at Kansas City, Zukor objected and so did some others, including Cohen. Schulberg argued for it and, in the light of his enthusiasm, Zukor is understood later to have consented to the deal. . . .

A true story typical of the Hollywood manner. It deals with Cary Grant, which is the celluloid moniker for that tall, good-looking player whose name is something else. Clark Gable was going great guns. So, too, Gary Cooper, but he had gone to Italy to fraternize with nobility and to Africa to shoot lions. Paramount figured it was about to lose him. Came some alphabet mixing on the part of a certain agent, something like this: "Clark Gable, Gary Cooper. C. G., G. C., C. G., G. C. We'll call him Cary Grant." The agent did and told the actor, but the first time agent yelled latter's name across the lot, the actor kept on walking. He didn't know he was being paged. . . .

A supervisor, trained in the mercantile field and dropped by lucky chance into an important studio berth here may be backward in learning the intricacies of dramatic construction and production lore, but persistently does he cling to the tenets of his earlier business. Beset by a time problem on a recent picture, he called in the writer. "We've got so much cloth," he said, "and we gotta fit the picture to the pattern." Answered the scribe: "I'll tell you what I'll do. Let me take it in by the belt, and I'll deliver the job to you by Friday." . . .

Radio is understood to have had "Rip Van Winkle" under consideration for next season. The supervisor who had it in hand dillied and also dallied to discover later Paramount had beaten him to the punch. In other words, the wrong man went to sleep. . . . Startling new invention in sound reported on the way. More about it later. . . . A quaint place, this Hollywood. There couldn't be two like it in all of this world's broad acres. . . .

Sale of Stock Lessens Chase Power in Fox

holdings in Fox and will result in final removal of Fox securities from listing on the board of the New York Stock Exchange and their listing on the floor of the stock market in London.

"The deal," said Kent, "does not presage a closer tieup with Gaumont-British. As a matter of fact my understanding is Gaumont-British has had nothing at all to do with it."

Asked if the English deal presaged future Fox financing from British capitalists, Kent replied: "It may mean many things, but all of them are in the future right now."

Confirms FWC Story

Kent confirmed MOTION PICTURE DAILY's story of Wednesday that shortly he will be elected president of Fox West Coast, while Chase will ultimately withdraw from the circuit through a deal to accept Fox Film stock in lieu of its claim of many millions against Wesco, which is the Fox-controlled holding company for F. W. C.

At present discussing production with Winfield Sheehan, Kent stays another week, then goes east.

The Balfour, Boardman deal for Fox stock is regarded in downtown quarters and by film executives as an ordinary investment transaction by the British financing house and having no bearing on the future control of Fox.

Officials within the Chase organization pointed out yesterday that it is required by Federal banking laws to dispose of its common stock holdings in Fox ultimately, and that Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board, has publicly stated the bank's policy is to relinquish such holdings within a reasonable time and to concentrate exclusively on banking activities. It was intimated that under this policy Chase's entire Fox holdings of 1,749,507 shares will eventually be disposed of.

View Given Substantiation

Substantiating this view is the Chase plan to give options to the re-organized General Theatres Equipment Co. to purchase approximately 325,000 shares of Class A stock of Fox Film at $15 a share. If the British investment house exercises its option for the additional 400,000 shares, and the G. T. E. option is also exercised, Chase would, in the two transactions, dispose of more than half its Fox holdings.

The two sales, if they materialize, would produce more than $20,000,000 for Chase, it is estimated, and the bank still would have more than 800,000 shares for sale to other purchasers. The estimate may be compared with the figure at which the total Fox investment is now carried on the Chase books, which is $19,757,866 for the entire block of approximately 1,750,000 shares. According to these estimates, the Fox holdings may be liquidated at twice the amount at which they are carried on the Chase books. This would still be less than half of the Chase's original investment in Fox, which was, according to Aldrich's testimony before the Senate banking committee last November, $89,330,047.

Further indication of a carrying out of the Chase policy of disposing of its common stock holdings in various enterprises was its recent sale in the open market of 130,000 shares of Loew's, Inc., acquired as its equity in defaulted notes of Film Securities Corp.

Fox stock yesterday was fairly active, opening at $17.50 and selling off to $16.75 on a turnover of 12,800 shares.

Gloria Swanson has dropped the Brooklyn Paramount from her list of personal appearances and goes to Detroit Wednesday, following with a date in Chicago and then heads for the coast.

Lupe Velez starts May 4 for a personal in Columbus, following with dates in Loew houses in Baltimore, Pittsburgh and the New York Capitol.

Jimmy Durante leaves for Hollywood next week following a series of appearances in eastern Loew theatres.

Flinn Meets Secretaries

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority, conferred today with secretaries of the Los Angeles, Seattle, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Portland and Denver boards. He outlined details of operation and explained the various reports that must be submitted to him. Flinn will hold similar meetings in Kansas City and Chicago. On Monday he confers with Mrs. Mabel Kinney on the extra situation. He leaves here the next day.

Erpi Petition Granted

In a lengthy opinion handed down in U. S. District Court here yesterday, Judge John Knox granted the petition of Erpi, Western Electric and A. T. & T. for a bill of particulars in the anti-trust suit filed against the electric by Vocafilm Corp. several months ago. The complainant is directed by the court to file answers to the electric's request for additional information in support of the allegations made in the suit.

Brock Term Ends May 26

HOLLYWOOD April 27.—Lou Brock's contract as a producer for Radio expires May 26. Before negotiating for a renewal of the agreement or considering any other deal he will take a vacation in Europe, possibly for three months. H. N. Swanson, a producer at the same studio, denies reports he will leave the organization, saying he has just made a new verbal deal to continue.

Giannini Off Code Body

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Dr. A. H. Giannini's resignation from the extras' code committee has been accepted, with J. P. Normanly chosen to succeed him. No more meetings of the committee will be held until hearing decisions on matters already forwarded to Washington.

The three members of the city censor board will be required to take a 50 per cent cut in salary this month along with other city employees, so the city may end the year with a surplus. This is their third reduction in a year.

Majestic to Retain "Diggers" in Title

Under the terms of a U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision giving Warners use of the title "Gold Diggers," Majestic claims the right to use the title "Gold Diggers of Paris," provided it indicates on its advertising that it has no connection with a Warner picture and is a production of Majestic Pictures Corp based on Avery Hopwood's play.

The court decision reads, according to Majestic, as follows: "In view of the fact that the words 'Gold Diggers' are in themselves terms of general description, it is but to limit use only so far as may be necessary to prevent unfair competition."

ment with the Stanley Co. is understood to have embraced the withdrawal of all litigation now pending against the electric and involving any of the Warner companies as complainants. Such an agreement, if carried through, would end the long standing Vitaphone-Erpi litigation over royalties. In addition, a cash payment for a comparatively small amount, said to be less than $500,000, but sufficient to cover major litigation costs of the Warner companies against the electric during the past few years, is reported to have been involved in the settlement.

High Warner executives are now reported to oppose a settlement on such a basis, with present indications pointing to an agreement, possibly within the next week, which will end the Stanley Co. suit, but leave the Vitaphone litigation in status quo.

Theatre Men Protest New Tax by City

Frey of Loew's, and P. M. Stern, listed as representing independent theatres, put in appearances to register objections to the bill.

Frey contended that the city's theatres are already bearing a heavy tax burden and the new bill "would just about drive the theatre men out of business."

O'Reilly stated that the theatre delegation will point out to the board of aldermen when the bill comes before that body next week that the proposed measure is unfair to theatres which are already paying heavy realty taxes.

"The theatres should be exempted from this measure," O'Reilly said, "because of the high realty taxes they pay. A business firm occupying small office space may do a gross of $1,000,000 annually, pay no realty tax and still pay less than a theatre circuit under the proposed measure."

Labor Muddle Goes On in Kansas City

need for new contracts arises next fall.

Since Dec. 1, last, operators and stage hands at suburban theatres have been working without contracts on the temporary scale effected in the spring of 1933 following the bank holiday. Present indications are the situation will remain undisturbed until early fall.

Of several points in controversy, the most serious difference revolves around labor provisions in the code. Exhibitors feel the code is partial to organized employees, inasmuch as it fixed wage scales in force as of Aug. 23, 1933. The unions so far have successfully defended their interpretation of that clause to mean last year's temporary agreement under which they granted one-man-in-a-booth operation, but with an increase ranging from 20 to 30 per cent for each operator.

Warner Men Shifted In Pittsburgh Area

PITTSBURGH, April 27.—Ted Thomas, until last week manager of Warners' Enright in East Liberty, has been transferred to the Capitol in Wheeling, W. Va. Thomas' successor at the Enright is Harry Kendrick.

Accept Booking Defense

C. C. Pettijohn, general counsel of the M. P. P. D. A., and George Schaefer, Paramount general manager, have accepted invitations to address the Women's Republican Club of Boston, May 16, on the subject of block booking. Opponents of the practice who will also address the meeting will be Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard and Mrs. Florence Bagley, according to present plans.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sadie McKee"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Joan Crawford, who by this time has won some spurs as a dramatic actress, rates far better material than the hackneyed story handed her in "Sadie McKee." She does what she can in the role, but her prowess proves insufficient to make complete amends for that which "Sadie McKee" lacks.

Disappointed in romance, Joan decides to barter herself to the highest bidder and, through much detail not always convincing, marries Edward Arnold, a good-natured, drink-sodden millionaire. It is with Gene Raymond, however, that Joan remains in love. To prove she is regular she saves Arnold from a rum-soaked death and tells him of her love for Raymond. Lurking in the background as a righteous individualist is Franchot Tone, who subsequently gets to know what an upright gal Joan really is. So he falls for her, and the scenario falls over itself in its efforts to eliminate Arnold and Raymond to clear the path for Tone. Arnold is made to go noble and bows out. Raymond is given tuberculosis and dies.

Clarence Brown's direction overstates many sequences in point of footage and emphasis, thereby making editing most essential. Strange, too, for an M-G-M attraction is the mediocre camera work.

Arnold gives Miss Crawford a close run for acting honors, with Jean Dixon not very far behind.

"Sadie McKee" certainly is not a "Dancing Lady," but on the strength of the star's personal draw may prove duck soup for Crawford fans.

K A N N

"The Last Gentleman"

(20th Century-U. A.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Proud of his family, George Arliss, with distinctive artistry, portrays Cabot Barr, last of New England's Barrs, in a memorable manner.

The characterization recalls the epigram that "A gentleman never insults anyone unintentionally." Eccentric, unafraid of death, with a passion for the collection of clocks, Arliss summons the family for a memorial service for a niece, vents his spleen on a sister, Edna May Oliver; her son, Frank Albertson; his daughter, Janet Beecher; her daughter, Charlotte Henry; his son, Donald Meek; his best friend, Ralph Morgan, and his butler, Edward Ellis. The services end up in riotous laughter.

Intrigued by Charlotte Henry, Arliss contrives to bring a romance with Albertson to fruition. He is shocked by his son's intention to establish him as insane and changes his will. After his death Arliss manifests himself via the talking screen, speaking his last testament to the assembled family.

The central idea, by dipping into the unknown, contains an intriguing, fantastic quality packed with interest. Blending Puritanical harshness with unique comedy gives the production a well rounded entertainment value. Story and direction are good, with all performances likewise.

Followers of Arliss will get full satisfaction, though the factor of young folks' attendance may need exploitation. Following "House of Rothschild," it should do real business.

"Many Happy Returns"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—The title of this Burns and Allen feature suggests what the film will do at the box-office.

Slim story values countered by nonsensical dialogue and situations typical of the comedy duo round out 66 minutes of high speed laugh entertainment. Guy Lombardo gets featured billing and is spotted prominently in the musical and visible foreground. Veloz and Yolanda give the customers something new in fancy ballroom dancing.

The skeleton yarn revolves around George Barbier, distressed pater, trying to marry off Gracie, his goofy daughter, and conspiring to prevent his other daughter from marrying and going into pictures. There are plenty of laughs when Gracie turns her dad's store and radio broadcasting station into an aviary.

Barbier hires gangsters to kidnap one couple, but Gracie kidnaps the kidnapers. There is lots of fun in Hollywood when Gracie poses as a masked marvel and George Burns poses as a tenor contest winner.

The picture defies all routine formulae. It is extremely funny, getting by on sheer idiocy. Norman McLeod's swell direction is supported by an able cast, including Joan Marsh, Franklin Pangborn, Egon Brecher, Stanley Fields and John Kelly in addition to the principals.

authority ruling. The cases will be heard in the order in which the new grievances are sent in.

Secretaries are giving special attention to a checkup on exhibitors registering complaints and in a number of instances it has been found that non-assentors are among the complainants. These theatremen are being notified their grievances cannot be accepted.

The three forms are printed on white, blue and pink paper with each type of complaint indicated.

The only grievance case so far heard is the Milwaukee action involving Saxe Amusement, which was awarded 30 Warner features previously contracted by Ashley Theatre Corp. The case comes up on appeal next Friday before Campi in New York.

Code Boards Agree On Local Schedule

Schedules for the New York code boards and the trio of advisory committees of the main clearance and zoning group have been set.

On Mondays the advisory committee on clearance and zoning for Manhattan, Bronx, Staten Island and Westchester meets at 10:30. At 2:30 the same afternoons, the advisory group for New Jersey convenes. On Tuesdays, the grievance board gathers to hear protests and on Wednesday, 2:30 P. M., advisory clearance and zoning members for Brooklyn, Queens and Long Island confer. Thursdays are given over to the main clearance and zoning men to act on recommendations of the three subordinate groups.

No grievances are expected to be heard next Wednesday when the board handling protests congregate. This is due to the fact that original protests are being returned to exhibitors for resubmission on legal forms provided by Campi. The next meeting is being held Wednesday, instead of Tuesday, because Milt Kusell, attending a Paramount district managers' meeting in Chicago, having asked for the delay because he could not return on time for the Tuesday session. Other meetings will be held according to schedule.

Legality of NIRA Act Is Questioned

Court of Appeals of the dispute between the I.T.O.A. and Local 306.

Five questions were brought up for determination by the appeals body. Three of them involved the matter of constitutionality. The other two were as follows:

Does Section 7a of the NIRA forbid the hiring or discharging of an employee by reason of affiliation or non-affiliation with a particular union?

Does the code confer any rights upon individuals to legally enforce the same?

Milton C. Weisman represented the I.T.O.A., while Charles Tuttle appeared for Local 306. A decision is expected soon.

Intend to Argue Matter Before Aldermen

Minor opposition of metropolitan theatre representatives was voiced yesterday at public hearings at City Hall on Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's new tax bill providing for a levy of one-twentieth of one per cent on gross receipts of New York enterprises over $15,000.

Organized opposition to the measure will be made by the city's theatres when the proposed tax bill comes before the Board of Aldermen for a vote, according to Charles L. Lew Brown, who recently quit Fox as associate producer, admits he would like to produce independently in the east, but has not made up his mind as yet because of eight offers made to him by major companies. He says he can turn out pictures here cheaper than in the west.

Brown is now considering production of a stage musical comedy, which he plans to do before reentering picture work.

Sale of Stock Lessens Chase Power in Fox

No Closer Gaumont Tie Is Seen by Kent

By RED KANN

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Chase National's sphere of influence in the affairs of Fox Film materially lessens as result of the sale of 200,000 shares of stock to Balfour, Boardman & Co., Ltd., London, with options for the purchase of 400,000 additional shares. At the same time Chase interests, which have invested over $115,000,000 to date in various Fox enterprises, will continue as holders of approximately 1,000,000 Fox shares.

Sued Over Hitler Film

CHICAGO, April 27.—Suit for $250,000 damages has been filed by Samuel Cummins in U. S. District Court here against Dr. Rolf L. Jaeger, German consul general, charging the latter slandered and libeled "Hitler's Reign of Terror" by attacking its authenticity. Cummins is sponsoring the film. Newspaper copy emphasizes the picture was made in Austria and Germany by Cornelius Vanderbilt "at the risk of his life."

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood, April 27

THE history behind "The Sign of the Cross," as expounded by C. B. De Mille before the recent M. P. T. O. A. conclave, set forth that the director, hat in hand, traveled up and down studio row, was laughed out of court and found only Manny Cohen at Paramount who could be interested. Those who are in the know and are certain about it tell a different story. They hurtle their memoirs back to the time in 1931 when Paramount officials journeyed out of the East and the West to meet in Kansas City on a production powwow. Among those present from the East were Adolph Zukor, Sidney R. Kent, Ralph Kohn, Walter Wanger and Cohen. From the West, Jesse L. Lasky and B. P. Schulberg. . . .

Schulberg, goes the account, had virtually made a deal with De Mille for the spectacle backgrounded in Biblical splendor, but, like Lasky, knew his conferees weren't so hot for De Mille. This time, however, the deal was right. De Mille had agreed to slash his salary and the picture was to be made at a set figure under studio control at all times. The proposition, therefore, was sprung at Kansas City, Zukor objected and so did some others, including Cohen. Schulberg argued for it and, in the light of his enthusiasm, Zukor is understand later to have consented to the deal. . . .

A true story typical of the Hollywood manner. It deals with Cary Grant, which is the celluloid moniker for that tall, good-looking player whose name is something else. Clark Gable was going great guns. So, too, Gary Cooper, but he had gone to Italy to fraternize with nobility and to Africa to shoot lions. Paramount figured it was about to lose him. Came some alphabet mixing on the part of a certain agent, something like this: "Clark Gable, Gary Cooper. C. G., G. C., C. G., G. C. We'll call him Cary Grant." The agent did and told the actor, but the first time agent yelled latter's name across the lot, the actor kept on walking. He didn't know he was being paged. . . .

A supervisor, trained in the mercantile field and dropped by lucky chance into an important studio berth here may be backward in learning the intricacies of dramatic construction and production lore, but persistently does he cling to the tenets of his earlier business. Beset by a time problem on a recent picture, he called in the writer. "We've got so much cloth," he said, "and we gotta fit the picture to the pattern." Answered the scribe: "I'll tell you what I'll do. Let me take it in by the belt, and I'll deliver the job to you by Friday." . . .

Radio is understood to have had "Rip Van Winkle" under consideration for next season. The supervisor who had it in hand dillied and also dallied to discover later Paramount had beaten him to the punch. In other words, the wrong man went to sleep. . . . Startling new invention in sound reported on the way. More about it later. . . . A quaint place, this Hollywood. There couldn't be two like it in all of this world's broad acres. . . .

Sale of Stock Lessens Chase Power in Fox

holdings in Fox and will result in final removal of Fox securities from listing on the board of the New York Stock Exchange and their listing on the floor of the stock market in London.

"The deal," said Kent, "does not presage a closer tieup with Gaumont-British. As a matter of fact my understanding is Gaumont-British has had nothing at all to do with it."

Asked if the English deal presaged future Fox financing from British capitalists, Kent replied: "It may mean many things, but all of them are in the future right now."

Confirms FWC Story

Kent confirmed MOTION PICTURE DAILY's story of Wednesday that shortly he will be elected president of Fox West Coast, while Chase will ultimately withdraw from the circuit through a deal to accept Fox Film stock in lieu of its claim of many millions against Wesco, which is the Fox-controlled holding company for F. W. C.

At present discussing production with Winfield Sheehan, Kent stays another week, then goes east.

The Balfour, Boardman deal for Fox stock is regarded in downtown quarters and by film executives as an ordinary investment transaction by the British financing house and having no bearing on the future control of Fox.

Officials within the Chase organization pointed out yesterday that it is required by Federal banking laws to dispose of its common stock holdings in Fox ultimately, and that Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board, has publicly stated the bank's policy is to relinquish such holdings within a reasonable time and to concentrate exclusively on banking activities. It was intimated that under this policy Chase's entire Fox holdings of 1,749,507 shares will eventually be disposed of.

View Given Substantiation

Substantiating this view is the Chase plan to give options to the reorganized General Theatres Equipment Co. to purchase approximately 325,000 shares of Class A stock of Fox Film at $15 a share. If the British investment house exercises its option for the additional 400,000 shares, and the G. T. E. option is also exercised, Chase would, in the two transactions, dispose of more than half its Fox holdings.

The two sales, if they materialize, would produce more than $20,000,000 for Chase, it is estimated, and the bank still would have more than 800,000 shares for sale to other purchasers. The estimate may be compared with the figure at which the total Fox investment is now carried on the Chase books, which is $19,757,866 for the entire block of approximately 1,750,000 shares. According to these estimates, the Fox holdings may be liquidated at twice the amount at which they are carried on the Chase books. This would still be less than half of the Chase's original investment in Fox, which was, according to Aldrich's testimony before the Senate banking committee last November, $89,330,047.

Further indication of a carrying out of the Chase policy of disposing of its common stock holdings in various enterprises was its recent sale in the open market of 130,000 shares of Loew's, Inc., acquired as its equity in defaulted notes of Film Securities Corp.

Fox stock yesterday was fairly active, opening at $17.50 and selling off to $16.75 on a turnover of 12,800 shares.

Swanson Skips Brooklyn

Gloria Swanson has dropped the Brooklyn Paramount from her list of personal appearances and goes to Detroit Wednesday, following with a date in Chicago and then heads for the coast.

Lupe Velez starts May 4 for a personal in Columbus, following with dates in Loew houses in Baltimore, Pittsburgh and the New York Capitol.

Jimmy Durante leaves for Hollywood next week following a series of appearances in eastern Loew theatres.

Flinn Meets Secretaries

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority, conferred today with secretaries of the Los Angeles, Seattle, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Portland and Denver boards. He outlined details of operation and explained the various reports that must be submitted to him. Flinn will hold similar meetings in Kansas City and Chicago. On Monday he confers with Mrs. Mabel Kinney on the extra situation. He leaves here the next day.

Erpi Petition Granted

In a lengthy opinion handed down in U. S. District Court here yesterday, Judge John Knox granted the petition of Erpi, Western Electric and A. T. & T. for a bill of particulars in the anti-trust suit filed against the electric by Vocafilm Corp. several months ago. The complainant is directed by the court to file answers to the electric's request for additional information in support of the allegations made in the suit.

Brock Term Ends May 26

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Lou Brock's contract as a producer for Radio expires May 26. Before negotiating for a renewal of the agreement or considering any other deal he will take a vacation in Europe, possibly for three months. H. N. Swanson, a producer at the same studio, denies reports he will leave the organization, saying he has just made a new verbal deal to continue.

Giannini Off Code Body

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Dr. A. H. Giannini's resignation from the extras' code committee has been accepted, with J. P. Normanly chosen to succeed him. No more meetings of the committee will be held until hearing decisions on matters already forwarded to Washington.

"Prizefighter" Ban Stays

BERLIN, April 27.—The ban on "The Prizefighter and the Lady" because of Max Baer's being a Jew was upheld by the supreme censor today.

in political circles. His removal is to be part of an impending shakeup at the city hall as a result of a factional fight in the Democratic organization incident to the recent city election.

The three members of the city censor board will be required to take a 50 per cent cut in salary this month along with other city employees, so the city may end the year with a surplus. This is their third reduction in a year.

Majestic to Retain "Diggers" in Title

Under the terms of a U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision giving Warners use of the title "Gold Diggers," Majestic claims the right to use the title "Gold Diggers of Paris," provided it indicates on its advertising that it has no connection with a Warner picture and is a production of Majestic Pictures Corp. based on Avery Hopwood's play.

The court decision reads, according to Majestic, as follows: "In view of the fact that the words 'Gold Diggers' are in themselves terms of general description, it is but to limit use only so far as may be necessary to prevent unfair competition."

Dressler, Meyer Improve

SANTA BARBARA, April 27.—Marie Dressler, seriously ill at a Santa Barbara hospital, was reported today much improved.

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Victor McLaglen was recovering today from a minor operation at the Hollywood Hospital. The condition of Fred S. Meyer was reported better at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital although he has not passed the crisis yet.

Celia Villa Starts Tour

Celia Villa, daughter of the late Pancho, opened yesterday in Philadelphia on the first leg of a series of personal appearances in conjunction with "Viva Villa." She will appear in Baltimore today and on Tuesday in Washington, leaving there that night for Dallas where the Interstate Circuit has signed her for a month's tour in its theatres.

ment with the Stanley Co. is understood to have embraced the withdrawal of all litigation now pending against the electric and involving any of the Warner companies as complainants. Such an agreement, if carried through, would end the long standing Vitaphone-Erpi litigation over royalties. In addition, a cash payment for a comparatively small amount, said to be less than $500,000, but sufficient to cover major litigation costs of the Warner companies against the electric during the past few years, is reported to have been involved in the settlement.

High Warner executives are now reported to oppose a settlement on such a basis, with present indications pointing to an agreement, possibly within the next week, which will end the Stanley Co. suit, but leave the Vitaphone litigation in status quo.

Theatre Men Protest New Tax by City

Frey of Loew's, and P. M. Stern, listed as representing independent theatres, put in appearances to register objections to the bill.

Frey contended that the city's theatres are already bearing a heavy tax burden and the new bill "would just about drive the theatre men out of business."

O'Reilly stated that the theatre delegation will point out to the board of aldermen when the bill comes before that body next week that the proposed measure is unfair to theatres which are already paying heavy realty taxes.

"The theatres should be exempted from this measure," O'Reilly said, "because of the high realty taxes they pay. A business firm occupying small office space may do a gross of $1,000,000 annually, pay no realty tax and still pay less than a theatre circuit under the proposed measure."

Labor Muddle Goes On in Kansas City

need for new contracts arises next fall.

Since Dec. 1, last, operators and stage hands at suburban theatres have been working without contracts on the temporary scale effected in the spring of 1933 following the bank holiday. Present indications are the situation will remain undisturbed until early fall.

Of several points in controversy, the most serious difference revolves around labor provisions in the code. Exhibitors feel the code is partial to organized employees, inasmuch as it fixed wage scales in force as of Aug. 23, 1933. The unions so far have successfully defended their interpretation of that clause to mean last year's temporary agreement under which they granted one-man-in-a-booth operation, but with an increase ranging from 20 to 30 per cent for each operator.

Warner Men Shifted In Pittsburgh Area

PITTSBURGH, April 27.—Ted Thomas, until last week manager of Warners' Enright in East Liberty, has been transferred to the Capitol in Wheeling, W. Va. Thomas' successor at the Enright is Harry Kendrick.

Another shift in the Warner managerial setup sends Sam Gould, manager of the downtown Davis until it closed a week ago, to the Schenley, a neighborhood house in Oakland, to succeed Frank Roberts.

Accept Booking Defense

C. C. Pettijohn, general counsel of the M. P. P. D. A., and George Schaefer, Paramount general manager, have accepted invitations to address the Women's Republican Club of Boston, May 16, on the subject of block booking. Opponents of the practice who will also address the meeting will be Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard and Mrs. Florence Bagley, according to present plans.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sadie McKee"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Joan Crawford, who by this time has won some spurs as a dramatic actress, rates far better material than the hackneyed story handed her in "Sadie McKee." She does what she can in the role, but her prowess proves insufficient to make complete amends for that which "Sadie McKee" lacks.

Disappointed in romance, Joan decides to barter herself to the highest bidder and, through much detail not always convincing, marries Edward Arnold, a good-natured, drink-sodden millionaire. It is with Gene Raymond, however, that Joan remains in love. To prove she is regular she saves Arnold from a rum-soaked death and tells him of her love for Raymond. Lurking in the background as a righteous individualist is Franchot Tone, who subsequently gets to know what an up-right gal Joan really is. So he falls for her, and the scenario falls over itself in its efforts to eliminate Arnold and Raymond to clear the path for Tone. Arnold is made to go noble and bows out. Raymond is given tuberculosis and dies.

Clarence Brown's direction overstresses many sequences in point of footage and emphasis, thereby making editing most essential. Strange, too, for an M-G-M attraction is the mediocre camera work.

Arnold gives Miss Crawford a close run for acting honors, with Jean Dixon not very far behind.

"Sadie McKee" certainly is not a "Dancing Lady," but on the strength of the star's personal draw may prove duck soup for Crawford fans.

K A N N

"The Last Gentleman"

(20th Century-U. A.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Proud of his family, George Arliss, with distinctive artistry, portrays Cabot Barr, last of New England's Barrs, in a memorable manner.

The characterization recalls the epigram that "A gentleman never insults anyone unintentionally." Eccentric, unafraid of death, with a passion for the collection of clocks, Arliss summons the family for a memorial service for a niece, vents his spleen on a sister, Edna May Oliver; her son, Frank Albertson; his daughter, Janet Beecher; her daughter, Charlotte Henry; his son, Donald Meek; his best friend, Ralph Morgan, and his butler, Edward Ellis. The services end up in riotous laughter.

Intrigued by Charlotte Henry, Arliss contrives to bring a romance with Albertson to fruition. He is shocked by his son's intention to establish him as insane and changes his will. After his death Arliss manifests himself via the talking screen, speaking his last testament to the assembled family.

The central idea, by dipping into the unknown, contains an intriguing, fantastic quality packed with interest. Blending Puritanical harshness with unique comedy gives the production a well rounded entertainment value. Story and direction are good, with all performances likewise.

Followers of Arliss will get full satisfaction, though the factor of young folks' attendance may need exploitation. Following "House of Rothschild," it should do real business.

"Many Happy Returns"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—The title of this Burns and Allen feature suggests what the film will do at the box-office.

Slim story values countered by nonsensical dialogue and situations typical of the comedy duo round out 66 minutes of high speed laugh entertainment. Guy Lombardo gets featured billing and is spotted prominently in the musical and visible foreground. Vezel and Yolanda give the customers something new in fancy ballroom dancing.

The skeleton yarn revolves around George Barbier, distressed pater, trying to marry off Gracie, his goofy daughter, and conspiring to prevent his other daughter from marrying and going into pictures. There are plenty of laughs when Gracie turns her dad's store and radio broadcasting station into an aviary.

Barbier hires gangsters to kidnap one couple, but Gracie kidnaps the kidnapers. There is lots of fun in Hollywood when Gracie poses as a masked marvel and George Burns poses as a tenor contest winner.

The picture defies all routine formulae. It is extremely funny, getting by on sheer idiocy. Norman McLeod's swell direction is supported by an able cast, including Joan Marsh, Franklin Pangborn, Egon Brecher, Stanley Fields and John Kelly in addition to the principals.

Grievances Go Back for Use Of New Forms

authority ruling. The cases will be heard in the order in which the new grievances are sent in.

Secretaries are giving special attention to a checkup on exhibitors registering complaints and in a number of instances it has been found that non-assentors are among the complainants. These theatremen are being notified their grievances cannot be accepted.

The three forms are printed on white, blue and pink paper with each type of complaint indicated.

The only grievance case so far heard is the Milwaukee action involving Saxe Amusement, which was awarded 30 Warner features previously contracted by Ashley Theatre Corp. The case comes up on appeal next Friday before Campi in New York.

Code Boards Agree On Local Schedule

Schedules for the New York code boards and the trio of advisory committees of the main clearance and zoning group have been set.

On Mondays the advisory committee on clearance and zoning for Manhattan, Bronx, Staten Island and Westchester meets at 10:30. At 2:30 the same afternoons, the advisory group for New Jersey convenes. On Tuesdays, the grievance board gathers to hear protests and on Wednesday, 2:30 P. M., advisory clearance and zoning members for Brooklyn, Queens and Long Island confer. Thursdays are given over to the main clearance and zoning men to act on recommendations of the three subordinate groups.

No grievances are expected to be heard next Wednesday when the board handling protests congregate. This is due to the fact that original protests are being returned to exhibitors for resubmission on legal forms provided by Campi. The next meeting is being held Wednesday, instead of Tuesday, because Milt Kusell, attending a Paramount district managers' meeting in Chicago, having asked for the delay because he could not return on time for the Tuesday session. Other meetings will be held according to schedule.

Legality of NIRA Act Is Questioned

Court of Appeals of the dispute between the I.T.O.A. and Local 306.

Five questions were brought up for determination by the appeals body. Three of them involved the matter of constitutionality. The other two were as follows:

Does Section 7a of the NIRA forbid the hiring or discharging of an employee by reason of affiliation or non-affiliation with a particular union?

Does the code confer any rights upon individuals to legally enforce the same?

Milton C. Weisman represented the I.T.O.A., while Charles Tuttle appeared for Local 306. A decision is expected soon.

Fox Schedule To Include 50 For Next Year

Kent, Sheehan Whipping Program Into Shape

HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—Fox will release 50 features next season, including four from Gaumont British. The program is being whipped into shape by S. R. Kent and Winfield Sheehan and now breaks down into the following schedules.

Sheehan will oversee all production, but will concentrate on nine. "The World Moves On," clouded with much secrecy around the Fox lot, is finished and probably will play Broadway two-a-day before general release in the fall. "Marie Galante,"

Rowland May Do One Picture of 8 in East

Richard A. Rowland is understood to be planning to make eight pictures a year for Radio as associate producer. At least one of these will be made in the east, it is said.

Rowland is now here looking over material for Radio's new lineup. When he was president of Metro Picture Corp., the company produced at its own studio in the east with the late Maxwell Karger as production head. The studio was on 63rd St., off Central Park West.

M-G-M Now Selling New Trailer Service

Sales of the new trailer service to be instituted by M-G-M with release of the picture set for Jan. 4, 1935, are now under way. Several contracts already have been signed and expectations by company executives are that some territories will be sold 100 per cent before the new selling season starts.

Duals Bedevil 'Frisco Town; Even 1st Runs Go That Way

By RED KANN

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—"Bottoms Up" at 55 cents top seemed enough attraction for Loew's State 485 miles to the South in Los Angeles a week or so ago. "As the Earth Turns," same top money, at the Warner Downtown in the same city also was pretty good.

When the pictures reach this city, they go double at the first run Paramount and the public is asked to part with only 40 cents peak to catch the attractions, paired off on the same bill.

The extent to which double features have caught on in San Francisco and what has followed thereafter mark this big town as one of the most competitive in the United States and, in many ways, give it cutthroat competition of a calibre and an intensity difficult of matching any other place on the domestic map.

The story of what goes on in San Francisco could end here, but some of the whys and wherefores combine to make the tale an intriguing one.

What comes to light here, as elsewhere, depends on who does the talking. There is the opinion which blames it all on the huge Fox Theatre, built when money was easy when William Fox was off on a theatre construction program predicated on how much, not how wise

Para. Will Set Its Policy at Chicago

CHICAGO, April 29.—Paramount's new season stand on double features, minimum admissions, percentage playing and other significant sales policies will be set before the company's two-day district managers' meeting adjourns here today.

George J. Schaefer, Paramount general manager, stated at the close of yesterday's session that he came to the meeting with no specific program of policies prepared in advance; in-

Discuss Merger for Film Relief Funds

A move is under way to consolidate three charity funds in order to avoid duplications of relief. By merging the funds, it is believed from $25,000 to $35,000 can be raised annually.

Under the plan, the Film Daily Relief Fund, the M. P. Charity Fund and the I.T.O.A. fund would be brought together as one relief organization with two members of each of the present groups to sit in as an advisory board and pass on contributions.

The Ampa dinner raised $15,000 for the Film Daily Relief Fund and the M. P. Charity Fund.

Next Campi Confab Delayed to May 11

Because S. R. Kent and Executive Secretary John C. Flinn have been detained in the west, the next Campi meeting has been postponed from May 4 to May 11.

Several important topics will come up, one being the appeal of Ashley Theatre Corp. from the decision rendered by the Milwaukee grievance board ordering 30 Warner pictures turned over to Saxe Amusement Co. When this case is heard, it will mark

Advisory Boards to Suggest Alternates

The three New York advisory committees to the main clearance and zoning board have been asked to recommend alternates for code meetings. The substitutes can sit only in the event of sickness and forced absence of the members as designated by Campi, which will pass on all suggestions.

Alternates for the main clearance and zoning board in addition to the grievance board are provided for in the special manual on rules and regulations of the boards. This stipulates that only members of similar standings on opposite boards can substitute.

Cleveland Exhibitors Protest Protection

CLEVELAND, April 29.—Protest on protection granted to first runs has been made by the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n. in a petition to the local clearance board.

The petition points out that current

License Fee Jump Figured At $208,400

This Is the Total Applied To Circuits Alone

An increase of $208,400 annually for 15 major and independent Greater New York circuits would result from enactment of Alderman Baum's tax bill to step up current license fees. The amendment, now before the General Welfare Committee, will go into effect June 30, if passed.

However, local exhibitors are girding forces to fight the bill at the next public hearing. The figures listed do not include minor circuits which would likewise feel the effects of a boost in license fees.

Loew's would be the hardest hit under the new regulation, if passed, with an increase of $59,250 annually imminent for its group of houses. The Payment of Rent to Reopen Great Lakes

BUFFALO, April 29.—Payment of back rent due on the lease of the Great Lakes theatre by the Chippewa Theatre Corp., subsidiary of Loew's, Inc., has paved the way for resumption of operation by the Shea Theatres Corp. Vincent R. McFaul, vice-president of the Shea company, is in New York to make arrangements for re-opening the house, closed last week.

The showdown was precipitated by an eviction order obtained in Buffalo city court by J. & D. H. Coplon, Inc., owners. Michael M. Cohn, attorney for the Coplons, announced the matter had been settled amicably out of court. The court action, it was asserted, was brought to determine whether the original tenant, Loew's and its subsidiaries, or the sub-tenant, the Shea corporation and its subsidiaries, was liable for the rent.

Patterson to Start Today in Detroit

DETROIT, April 29.—Willard C. Patterson, recently named to succeed Thomas Moule as general manager of the United Detroit (Publix) theatres, is expected to arrive here tomorrow to assume his new duties.

rather than in opposition to its passage, it was learned over the week-end.

Observers here interpret the action of Democratic aldermen in voting with their Fusion colleagues to close the committee hearings on opposition to the measure last Friday as a definite indication that the bill will go through. Consequently, efforts of the theatre representatives will be concentrated on seeking exemption for theatres when the bill is put to a vote some time this week. The stand will be made on the grounds that theatres are already burdened with a Federal admission tax and high city realty taxes.

The measure levies on gross business receipts for 1933, is due and payable Aug. 1, and stands to cost the local industry $400,000 to $500,000, according to estimates.

Duals Bedevil 'Frisco Town, Even 1st Runs

and when Mrs. Fox had much to say about interior decorating.

There is the opinion which holds Fox West Coast and its hold on the Paramount, Warner, M-G-M and Fox product so eager to keep its own nest feathered that its disciples failed to recognize what might follow subsequently to and in its own properties and the millions invested, whether foolishly or otherwise, in the properties of others.

The Fox, no matter how it is approached and who may be right about it all, undoubtedly sprawls importantly through the structural framework of the drama. In the fracas that followed the legal dry cleaning through which Fox West Coast passed when receiverships and bankruptcies entered filmdom's business order, the circuit determined to drop the 5,000-seat gargantuan.

Explaining Fox Angles

The story goes Bill Fox didn't want the house, couldn't help himself when he remembered, or was told, his name was on the lease. The story continues that the new management, by corporate title the Pacific Theatres Corp., made valiant efforts to interest FWC in a product split to the end that admissions might be maintained on a level that would not invite ruin upon the city.

Number three angle has it that the invitation to harmony was rejected, a double feature policy hurried into one of the FWC competitive houses without warning, thereby forcing the Fox into a very embarrassing spot and facing it with the necessity of doing something on the double quick.

To get the pattern makes necessary a digression that has to do with first runs and what pictures they show.

This city's ace house is the Warfield, for years operated by Loew's, but for some years now managed by FWC via a sub-company known as the Combined Theatres Corp. With its 2,657 seats, its 65-cent top—the city's top—and its first call on four major lines of product and with its stage shows, the Warfield stands on hallowed ground insofar as any competitors may be concerned.

Warfield Is Ace House

What the Warfield won't or can't use has a choice of going several ways with FWC calling the turns. Product might go to the 3,000-seat Paramount, as much of it does, on a twin bill, first run policy at 40 cents high. Or it might follow the Warfield by trailing into the 1,400-seat St. Francis on what are described as "extended runs" but which are in reality second runs. Or it might hit the St. Francis on a dual bill second run policy.

There is available, also, as a FWC

"Mr. Morgenthau . . ."

San Francisco, April 29.—One of those Fox "monuments," built in the hey-day here as well as in St. Louis, Atlanta, Detroit and Brooklyn, is, like its brothers, an example of how much gold leaf and paint can be dumped into one house.

Says Henry Goldenberg, managing the theatre for William Fox who got it back when Fox West Coast went for a stroll, about that:

"If they could scrape the leaf and the paint and melt it down, the country could return to the gold standard."

house the California, 2,348 seats strong, which can be, and is, used for second run duals. There is available, to carry this on to its conclusion, the 1,200-seat Embassy for subsequent run duals. On all of these situations, FWC makes and fires the shots, decrees the who, what and when of the attractions it controls and, by a zoning plan to be outlined later, makes the going difficult for all theatres that follow.

Many Other First Runs

In the first run division are other houses as well. San Francisco has plenty. The Golden Gate, operated by Cliff Work, who once was compelled to leave the California he likes so well for a short tenure of office under Nat Holt, then RKO divisional manager in Cincinnati, is RKO's show window here. A 2,900-seat house, geared like practically all other first runs here at 40 cents top, it has first crack at Radio, a split of Universal and Columbia, combines its pictures with a stage show policy, but shortly will give up the single feature ghost for a twin bill idea like most of its neighbors.

Once part and parcel of RKO, the Orpheum no longer is. Currently it is operated by Fanchon and Marco. Depending largely on stage names, such as Duke Ellington, Ted Lewis and Kate Smith, this house, which only the other day was turned over to management of Charles Wuertz as Charles Caballero repaired to the F. and M. headquarters in Los Angeles for another assignment, has to limp along with whatever Radio product the Golden Gate cannot use, plus a split on Universal and whatever is around loose. With the Golden Gate about to swing to duals, the anticipation locally is the Orpheum will find few, if any, Radio releases available. Therefore, its film situation becomes increasingly difficult.

U. A. on Single Bills

Operated by Herman Cohen is the 1,165-seat United Artists, home of the product its name indicates and operating on a single bill. It uses some independent product when U.A. releases fail to come along regularly enough to keep the theatre going.

The Fox, with its 5,000 seats, has been trying to get Columbia cast-offs by the Golden Gate, but has been unable to get very far. With every major line of pictures piece-mealed elsewhere along the line, the house can turn only one way, and that is the way of the independents. The theatre is moving to make up for what it is shy on the screen by bolstering what it hands out on the stage. The struggle admittedly is hectic, arduous and just plain tough.

Records at the Fox demonstrate thousands buy tickets there weekly at 15 cents in the balcony and 25 cents in the orchestra during the day and 25 and 35 cents in the same divisions at nights. Double features are the rule and free parking space thrown in as part of the job to keep ink black and heads above water.

Product Scramble Frenzied

What has resulted as a direct consequence is to turn San Francisco into undoubtedly the sweetest situation in America for independent first runs. So frenzied is the scramble for product, any product, that hardly a picture made by any company below the major producers' class fails to get a break on 'Frisco's Broadway, which is Market St.

The domination exercised by FWC in the first run classification reflects itself in the subsequent run field by virtue of a situation which several national sales managers are understood to have recognized, but about which none has ever taken steps. The situation, complete, is the El Capitan, 2,400-seat neighborhood stand in the Mission district.

Geared at 30 cents, this theatre spots in product 56 days after the close of the first run in the instance of Paramount, Warner, M-G-M and Fox. In other words, 56 days after the Warfield or the Paramount. In the second division is a group of neighborhoods designated as "key houses." They charge 30 cents, like the El Cap, but have to wait 75 days after termination of first runs before product becomes available. Below this second classification are more theatres, likewise geared at 30 cents. FWC first runs are granted 88 days over this type of operation. The neighborhoods tipped at 25 cents have to sit on their so-and-sos for 120 days; the 20-centers, 144 days and the 15-centers, six months.

El Cap Raises a Problem

Much substantial opinion in these parts maintains the El Cap and its peculiar designation as a second run is merely another line of defense cleverly concocted by FWC and gotten away with in a plan, understandable from that circuit's point of view, of setting subsequent runs as far back as possible. If the El Cap were indexed as a neighborhood run, releases then would hit the subsequents in the higher admission brackets on the 56th day after termination of first run, not the 88th. Obviously, this would tend to reduce the protective period for the entire city.

To make the situation additionally complex is the dual situation to which FWC subscribes in its Market Street houses. While it is a fact that many of the subsequents operate on a twin show policy, it is similarly true many of them do not. Those faithful to single bills pose the question:

"How can we get by when downtown doubles the product we ask our public to patronize single, weeks later?"

They do not believe the slight difference in admission prices is enough recompense or sufficient inducement to keep their regulars coming in. With the Golden Gate going duals, the identical condition is expected to apply to Radio product. The fact that the Fox Theatre always duals on independent releases ties the tangle into further knots.

The possibility is strong that a solution to all these shenanigans may emerge through the clearance and zoning schedule slated to be set under the code before the advent of the 1934-35 season. The suggestion made by Morgan Walsh, president of the Independent Theatre Owners' Ass'n of Northern California and one of the two unaffiliated exhibitors representing subsequent runs on the clearance and zoning board, that the base line be calculated on admissions has found welcoming echoes in many quarters.

Classifies First Runs

Walsh argues, and sensibly, too, that first runs break down into three groups. "One," he says, "is the first run showing pictures only on a single bill. Two is the first run which runs pictures, but supplements them either with vaudeville or presentations. Three is the first run which runs doubles. There should be some sort of a price differential among them."

"No one, of course, can fix what a specific theatre should charge, but the price definitely can be influenced through the simple expedient of setting up and setting back protection dependent upon type of theatre and its policy."

Walsh is confirmed in his opinion that the situation can be ironed out if the forthcoming zoning schedule for San Francisco is conceived with these considerations in the forefront of deliberations.

Time was when 'Frisco's first runs kept moving along at a 65-cent level. Where the fault rests for the 25-cent drop to the average 40 cents now current, always excepting the Warfield, which rules the town from its own mountain peak, is largely a matter of opinion. Subject to correction, perhaps, but subscribed to by some, nevertheless, is the opinion that it was the United Artists which started the slide when it ran "The Bowery" and, at the same time, announced a price slash from 65 to 40 cents.

There are many here, including old-timers like Bob McNeill of United California Theatres, Inc., and the most significant factor in the territory after FWC, and Aaron Goldberg, representing unaffiliated exhibitors on the grievance board and operator of a string of six 15-cent houses, who remember well the days when the city in which they evidence so much pride was one of the best

"Rothschild" 3rd Week Top On the Coast

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—"House of Rothschild" demonstrated a third-week pulling power that made some of the downtown first runs look bad. The take at Grauman's Chinese, $21,286, was over normal by $7,286.

Business perked up in two other spots. "Tarzan and His Mate" topped average by $3,500 on a $17,500 gross at Loew's State, and "The Witching Hour," helped by "A Century of Progress" revue, garnered $21,820 at the Paramount.

Business was pretty dull elsewhere. Total first run grosses were $97,656. Average is $95,450.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 25:

"HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD" (U. A.)

"Spitfire" Is Only Draw in Portland

PORTLAND, April 29.—One dollar opera, ninety degree weather and opening additional first runs all kept grosses down for the third week of the month.

"Spitfire," in its second week at Hamrick's Music Box, took in $3,500, or just $500 over average.

Balance of houses were average and under, with the Liberty, showing "Cradle Song" back in the first-run column.

Total first run business was $23,800. Average is $25,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 19:

"THE SHOW OFF" (M-G-M)
BROADWAY—(1,912), 25c-35c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $5,800. (Average, $6,000)

show towns in America. They, and others as well, stand foursquare behind the business philosophy that theatre trade in this section will be far better once prices are jacked up. They lean toward the Walsh idea that the new zoning plan may supply the answer.

City Is Overseated

Like other major cities, San Francisco is overseated. With an approximate population of 700,000, statistics show a theatre seat for approximately every five and one-half persons. There is a constant, unending bid for patronage by night clubs, cafes, prizefights, and horse and dog racing. While this is not peculiar to the Golden Gate city, those familiar with the situation believe the native heath has more of its share than any other of comparable size in the United States. They, for instance, point to the Kezar Stadium with its 50,000 seats in the city proper; to the Stanford University Stadium at Palo Alto nearby, and to the Berkeley Stadium of the University of California, each with 85,000 seats, and the competition they set up during the football season. Cliff House Beach, only a few minutes from the heart of the downtown district, 10 radio broadcasting stations, good roads that persuade the public to go places and more equitable climate in nearby points—these and other conditions are around and the theatres know it.

Three Houses Dark

Because there are too many seats downtown and so many competitive bids for public favor, three Market Street district theatres are more or less consistently dark. They are the President, Tivoli and Capitol. San Francisco, in its other trade aspects, varies nary a bit from what goes on elsewhere. Duals are in the picture with claws buried deeply in the amusement carcass. Clearance and zoning are a problem, as are premiums.

Peculiar, however, is the lineup of circuits. Taylor Street—Number 25—is the street address of the Golden Gate Building. In it is housed 70 per cent of the buying power of the entire, far-flung territory served by local exchanges. In it is, by estimate as well, approximately 98 per cent of the headquarters of the city's exhibition industry. Thus, it becomes a simple process for the seller of film to interest his buyer in the concentrated confines of one office building, and those, not too large. It becomes not so simple, however, from the exchangeman's angle. Warding off quotable remarks like the devil, some private viewpoints maintain the setup reduces rentals to "the irreducible." Exhibitors, in rebuttal, dismiss that by asking what else an exchangeman would say.

Serves 418 Theatres

Four hundred and eighteen houses are served out of this exchange center. In California, not the state but that portion shipped from here, there are 388, seating 314,828; in Nevada, 19, seating 8,577; and in Oregon, 11, seating 5,603. Affiliated theatres, confined to California, total 45, seating 75,104. Evidencing full well the domination exercised by FWC are the figures themselves. That circuit controls 42 of the 45 affiliated houses in towns like Berkeley, Burlingame, Fresno, Oakland, Palo Alto, Porterville, Redwood City, Richmond, Sacramento, San Francisco, San Jose, San Mateo, Stockton, Tracy, Vallejo, Watsonville and, in practically all instances, controls the first run situation as well. The remaining three of the 45 are the Golden Gate (RKO) and United Artists (U.A.) in San Francisco and the Warner, Fresno (Warners).

Unaffiliated circuit theatres, headed by McNeill's company, run to a total of 108 with a combined capacity of 104,694 in California and three, seating 2,977, in Reno, Nev. Of this number, United California Theatres, Inc., parent company for Golden States Theatre and Realty Corp., T. & D. Jr. Enterprises and San Francisco Theatres, Inc., controls 64. Thirty or more are in country towns, solidly controlled by McNeill, et al; the rest in San Francisco and the surrounding bay district.

Mann's Two-Way Operation

George Mann, confirmed San Franciscan now but still talking pleasantly of the days when he was with the Stanley Company of America some thousands of miles removed in Philadelphia, maintains a two-way circuit operation in the unaffiliated division. His Redwood Theatres, Inc., run nine houses in smaller towns such as Eureka, 300 miles to the northwest with its "furthest West street in the United States." His Midland Theatres, Inc., operates six in other towns. These are the companies of which Morgan Walsh is general manager.

Then there are the Nassers with seven theatres and a brother to run each one; Joe Blumenfeld with nine banded together as the circuit bearing his name; the C. E. Peterson string of five; and H. V. Harvey with an identical number.

Of the 418 theatre total, 344 are open and flourishing in variable degrees. In San Francisco itself, the total ends at 76, of which nine houses currently are dark.

Worried by CWA Dismissals

Some concern is evidencing itself at the minute over the rapidity with which the CWA is ridding itself of workers. The realization is widespread that the curtailment in spending power is very apt to reflect itself on theatre business.

On relief rolls are between 50,000 and 65,000 individuals. Radical elements place the figure as high as 100,000, conservatives at 40,000. Nobody dips below the latter.

While the Chamber of Commerce may not like it, the facts are just that, notwithstanding. As additional evidences of a condition not locally confined by any manner of means, newspapers as late as today headlined into San Francisco homes the impending necessity for taxpayers to face levies of from $1,000,000 to $6,000,000 next year by way of relief for the unemployed.

The depression was late in reaching

Henry King directing, will be one of Sheehan's, as will "Servants' Entrance," starring Janet Gaynor, with Frank Lloyd directing.

Jesse L. Lasky will again make eight. He is now preparing a story schedule which includes "Casanova." Al Rockett will have four, Sol Wurtzel 19 at the Western Avenue Studio, Eric Pommer one, and E. W. Butcher, now production manager, two, and perhaps four after his elevation to the associate producer class is announced shortly.

Among the pictures planned by Lasky are "The Red Head," "The Apple Tree" and "The Flight of the Swan," based on the life of Anna Pavlova.

Two for Will Rogers

Will Rogers is already down for two. One is "Judge Priest," from an Irvin Cobb script, and the other is "County Chairman," both by Wurtzel.

Planned as a big one now in work is "Caravan," first American picture by Erik Charell, with Charles Boyer, Loretta Young, Jean Parker and Phillips Holmes. Also in work, is "Music in the Air" with Erich Pommer supervising and directing.

Wurtzel's 19, of which John Stone will make nine, include: "State vs. Elinor Norton," with Helen Twelvetrees; Dante's "Inferno," planned on a large scale; "Wanted," with Hugh Williams; "Love Time," starring Lilian Harvey; "Charlie Chan in London," "Charlie Chan in Paris," "365 Nites in Hollywood," starring Miss Harvey; "24 Hours a Day," with Claire Trevor.

Stone also will make 10 Spanish pictures with Raoul Roulien, Jose Mojica, Rosita Moreno, Catalina Barcena and Conchita Montenegro.

Form Two Film Concerns

DOVER, Del., April 29.—Lowenstein Theatres, Inc., has been chartered here with capital stock of 2,000 shares, no par value. The incorporators are S. L. Mackey, C. O. Layman and H. Kennedy of Wilmington.

Erpi Man Hurt in Fall

PASSAIC, April 29.—D. L. Demarest, Erpi repair man, fell 30 feet while repairing a loud speaker at the Capitol. He was injured about the right thigh and left arm. Demarest, who lives in Oradell, was taken to the hospital by Assistant Manager George Birkner and D. M. Cole, a fellow employee.

this western metropolis. Like worldly facts seeping into Hollywood to the South, the situation apparently had trouble scaling the mountains. However, it arrived some time ago to take up what prayers nightly urge will not become too permanent a residence.

"Rothschild" Hits $23,000 In 5th Week

"House of Rothschild" was still strong in its fifth week at the Astor where it chalked up $23,000. The performance was outstanding in a generally dull week.

"Looking for Trouble" was good for $28,500 at the Rivoli, which was better than the $25,000 chalked up at the Paramount by "Trumpet Blows" and a stage show. "Riptide" fell off to $22,000 in its third week at the Capitol with Paul Whiteman still on the stage.

"This Man Is Mine" took a very mild $63,000 at the RKO Music Hall. Estimated takings:

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Little Miss Marker"

(B. P. Schulberg-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—Chalk up a box-office bullseye for B. P. Schulberg's "Little Miss Marker," adapted from Damon Runyon's story. Packed with human interest, tenderly sentimental, sparkling with topical comedy, capitalizing on dramatic suspense, the production, motivated by colorful dialogue, zooms Shirley Temple to stardom.

The yarn rotates around Runyon, racetrack and Lindy Cafe characters. Adolphe Menjou, sorrowful, gets Miss Temple for a bad I. O. U. The baby knows only King Arthur legends and draws Menjou and Claudia Dell together, upsetting the menacing Charles Bickford romance. A slangy, tough gang is horrified as the child takes on its manners and speech, and masquerades as medieval knights to make her dreams come true. Miss Temple, hurt in a fall from a horse as Bickford busts up a party, is saved from death by his blood transfusion, making the villain a hero and clearing the way for a Menjou-Dell wedding and the child's adoption.

Menjou and Miss Dell are outstanding. Bickford is convincing as the menace to the child. Lyman Overman, Tammany Young, Sam Hardy, Warren Hymer and John Kelly excel in comedy contrast.

It is a natural for first runs. The picture, teeming with personality and production story values, also is a strong family attraction for re-creating children interest. Alexander Hall directed with sympathetic understanding from a screen play by William Lipman, Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman.

"Affairs of a Gentleman"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—"Affairs of a Gentleman," Universal's version of the stage play, "Women in His Life," is program fodder appealing mostly to sophisticates.

It can be catalogued as a murder mystery farce wherein Paul Lukas gives an excellent performance, carrying the load of a none too strong story. A threadbare premise points a finger at more than a dozen persons for murdering novelist Paul Lukas, who back tracks in his life for a solution, revealing his love with more than a half dozen women and disclosing many complications in somewhat amusing situations. As the dialogue sparkles intermittently it is sufficient to sustain a scattered interest.

Dorothy Burgess gives the serious dramatic touch to the story as the original flame, while other fervent and ardent admirers, including Patricia Ellis, Leila Hyams, Lillian Bond, Joyce Compton and Dorothy LeBaire furnish enough action to keep the story moving right along.

Other players, including Onslow Stevens, Philip Reed, Murray Kinnell, Richard Carle, Wilfred Hari, Sara Haden, Charles Wilson and Gregory Gaye, all contribute their abilities under the able direction of Edwin L. Marin. Photography and settings are above par.

Lengthen Film Runout

HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—Upon recommendation of the New York Chapter of the American Projection Society, approved by the projection advisory council, a total of 18 frames of a picture is now included in the runout of a feature, following the final series of changeover dots. This will be in place of the former 12 frames. This will improve projection and contribute toward a smoother show, it is claimed.

Lon Young With Mascot

Mascot has signed Lon Young to handle west coast publicity. He will work in association with Al Sherman, director of advertising and publicity. Young was most recently in charge of publicity on the coast for Columbia.

Walter Obtains Another

NORTH BALTIMORE, O., April 29.—Ernest H. Walter, who operates the Liberty, Toledo, and La France at Swanton, has acquired the Virginia here.

To Sell Liberty Lineup

First Division has closed a deal with Liberty Pictures for distribution of the latter's product in New England, Ohio, Kentucky, western Virginia and western Pennsylvania. Films involved are "Cheaters," "When Strangers Meet," "Take the Stand," "No Ransom," "Strange Honeymoon," "Two Heads on a Pillow," "School for Girls" and "Without Children."

Trans-Lux Files in Md.

BALTIMORE, April 29.—Trans-Lux Corp. has been chartered here to acquire and manage theatres. Capital consists of 500 shares of $100 par value and the incorporators are Edgar Allen Poe, Edgar Allen Poe, Jr., and Robert D. Bartlett, all of this city.

Roach to Reopen May 7

HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—Activity will resume at the Hal Roach studio on May 7, following a five weeks' shutdown, with two Thelma Todd-Patsy Kelly comedies going into production at the same time.

Fox Control Not Involved In Stock Sale

Four Dividends Will Put B Holders on Board

Substantiation of the belief in film and financial circles here that current buying of Fox Film Class A common from Chase National Bank is an investment activity only was given by Fox executives yesterday who pointed out that control of the company will rest with the Class B stock as soon as the company has paid four consecutive quarterly dividends of $1 per share.

At present the A stock controls the company, with nine of its 12 directors being elected by the A shareholders. As soon as the required dividends have been paid, however, the B stockholders can elect seven directors and the A, five.

Loew 28-Week Net Up to $3,973,472

Net profit of Loew's, Inc., for 28 weeks ending March 15, 1934, after the subsidiaries' preferred dividend had been subtracted, was $3,973,472, as compared to last year's $2,013,281. This is equivalent for the period to $2.38 per share on the common stock as compared to $1.04 for the corresponding period of 1933.

Operating profit for this period was $6,680,713, a gain of $2,251,469 over the similar period of last year. Depreciation and taxes were $2,707,241 for the 1934 period, slightly more than 1933's $2,415,963.

U. A. Program Seems Headed For About 20

By RED KANN

HOLLYWOOD, April 30.—It looks like a total of about 20 features next season for United Artists.

Darryl Zanuck, head man at 20th Century, will make eight or 10, as against the 12 which he completed in his first year of operation. Leaving here Wednesday for New York en route to Africa on a big game hunting expedition, Zanuck already has gone over the script of "The Mighty Barnum" in which Wallace Beery will play the title role. Gene Fowler and Bess Meredyth did the writing job. Looming large in his plans as well is "Cardinal Richelieu" with George Arliss starring. Both of these will be made on a large scale as the first two of Zanuck's new production philosophy which boils down into one line: "Every picture a Rothschild."

CHICAGO, April 30.—Warning that the industry must do something to stabilize admission prices in view of the increased costs of production and distribution under the Administration's recovery program and that this must take the form of correction of unfair relations between scales of first runs and subsequents was sounded by George J. Schaefer, general sales manager of Paramount, at the conclusion of the two-day meeting of branch and district managers at the Edgewater Beach hotel last night.

The meeting, which ran the gamut of questions and problems demanding attention for the 1934-35 sales season touched especially upon the matter of percentage sales, admission prices gen-

Grosses Fall, But Seven Features Continue Strong

the St. Francis and "Catherine the Great" had a big $10,000 at the United Artists. "Men in White" was a wow at the Warfield, reaching $23,000, up by $4,000. It was helped by a stage show. "Glamour," "Keep 'em Rolling" and a dual, "Crime of Helen Stanley" and "City Limits," were only fair. "Bottoms Up" and "As the Earth Turns" pulled a par $12,000 at the Paramount.

Chicago went into a slump, with "Tarzan and His Mate" the only better-than-normal attraction at McVickers. The take was $15,000, up by $2,000. Even with a stage show, "We're Not Dressing" failed to reach the Chicago average with $34,000. The other weak ones were: "Looking for Trouble," "Wharf Angel," "Glamour," "Spitfire" and "Men in White."

Three Hits in Detroit

Detroit had three hits, with "Wild Cargo" topping the trio at $24,300 in the Fox, helped by a stage show. "Melody in Spring" was strong at the Michigan with $21,300 and "Men in White" piled up $12,200 at United Artists. Spring and the competition hit "All Men are Enemies" at the Downtown, "You're Telling Me" at the Fisher and a dual, "One Is Guilty" and "Lazy River," at the State.

Pittsburgh went into the throes of a slump, with only two spots beating par and a third equalling it. The draws were "The Quitter," $7,400 at the Pitt, and "Let's Be Ritzy" with "Madame Spy" at the Regent. "Wild Cargo" was normal with $9,000 at the Stanley. Those taking it on the chin were: "Coming Out Party," $2,300, Fulton; "The Trumpet Blows," $17,500, Penn. and "A Very Honorable Guy," $3,900 at the Warner.

A combination of "Mystery of Mr. X" and Dave Apollon and his revue took the only big money in Indianapolis, $9,000 at the Palace. This was 100 per cent over average. "I'll Tell the World" was $1,000 up at $7,000 in the Lyric. "Wild Cargo" had a par $3,500 at the Circle. "Wharf Angel" took $2,500, fair, at the Indiana.

"The Private Life of Henry VIII" was an outstanding Minneapolis hit in the 400-seat World at $4,000. This is double the normal take. St. Paul had a similar sensation, "Catherine the Great," which grabbed $3,000 in the 300-seat World on the other side of the river. The other hits were: "The Cat and the Fiddle," $6,000 at the Minneapolis State, and "The Lost Patrol," $4,500 at the RKO Orpheum. "Jimmy, the Gent," "Tarzan and His Mate" and "I Like It that Way" were just average.

Dual bills failed to stir up much box-office activity in Omaha, the only combination bettering normal being "Melody in Spring" and "Upperworld" at the Orpheum, with $7,000. The average combinations were: "Nana" and "The Show Off," $6,750, Paramount, and "This Man Is Mine" and "The Ninth Guest," $4,250, Brandeis.

Oklahoma City Slips

Oklahoma City slipped back into the doldrums with only one strong attraction, "Let's Fall in Love," which reached $2,500, a normal week's draw, in four days at the Liberty. The others, all pretty weak, were: "Madame Spy," $900 in three days at the Liberty; "Melody in Spring," $3,000 at the Mid-West, and "Tarzan and His Mate," $4,000 at the Criterion.

High gross in Seattle went to "Men in White" at the Fifth Avenue, where the $8,500 take was $1,500 up. The weak links were: "Keep 'em Rolling" and "Upperworld," $3,000, Blue Mouse; "It Happened One Night," $2,750, Liberty; "This Man Is Mine," $3,500, Music Box, and "Death Takes a Holiday," $5,500, Paramount.

"Bottoms Up" was a smash-hit at Warners' Hippodrome, Cleveland, going $4,000 over normal to $9,000. "Catherine the Great" also was strong, getting $3,700 at the Allen. "Mystery of Mr. X" and "Thunder Over Mexico" were good with $4,200 at Loew's Stillman. "Palooka," with a stage show at the RKO Palace, and "Tarzan and His Mate" at Loew's State were both disappointing.

able for Ronald Colman. Fredric March and Constance Bennett and is contemplating starring combinations of various kinds, including Colman and March in one picture. It all depends on story material. Definite, however, is a reduction in numbers of pictures for the new season.

Samuel Goldwyn will make four. One will be "Resurrection" with Anna Sten and March. A second will be the usual annual Eddie Cantor musical and a third will be "Barbary Coast," originally planned for Gloria Swanson with Miss Sten the replacement now.

Edward Small and Reliance now are figured for three.

London Film, headed by Alexander Korda, are regarded as a source of three more.

Schaefer Says Theatres Must Be Stabilized

erally and the double feature situation. What definite conclusions affecting company policy were arrived at on these matters is being reserved for the company's national convention in Los Angeles, June 18-20.

Schaefer admitted, however, that considerable emphasis was placed on competition between first runs and subsequents which play at sharply reduced admission prices. He did not say how it was planned to meet this condition, but declared that inasmuch as major revenue is derived from important accounts the wide differential in admissions charged by later runs creates a harmful effect on first runs. Tearing down the position of first runs hurts the entire industry, he declared.

Paramount's program for 1934-35 calls for 64 features, 100 single-reelers and 24 two-reel subjects, Schaefer said.

Paramount's national convention on the Coast this year will be confined to company executives, district and branch managers and theatre associates, he said.

Attending the Chicago meeting were Neil F. Agnew, Joseph J. Unger, Stanley Waite, G. B. J. Frawley. District managers included M. S. Kussell, New York; Percy A. Bloch, Philadelphia; Ed Fontaine, Cleveland; William Erbb, Boston; Oscar Morgan, Atlanta; Jack Dugger, Dallas; Charles Reagan, Chicago; Ralph L. Beau, Kansas City; Hugh Braly, Denver; Myke Lewis, Los Angeles; Ben Blotcky, Minneapolis; Morris A. Milligan, Toronto, and Alan Usher, Chicago.

Schaefer started east at noon.

Hamrick House Picketed

PORTLAND, April 30.—Although the mechanical staff of Hamrick's Music Box is completely unionized, the house was picketed with the opening of Jay C. Flippen's "World's Fair Follies," because of the non-employment of a union engineer. Picket answered picket when the house put out a banner stating that all employees of the house were union members. Later NRA officials called off the pickets and both sides will arbitrate May 29.

Texas Boards Set Dates

DALLAS, April 30.—The grievance board for Texas will have its first official meeting May 8, and the clearance and zoning board will meet in Dallas May 15.

New York hospital after a brief illness. In addition to his post on the Paramount board, he was a director in Irving Trust Co., Brooklyn Trust Co., Lawyers' County Trust Co. and in a number of industrial concerns, among them the Prudence Co. It was through his association with the latter company, which financed the acquisition and construction of a number of theatres for Paramount, that English was appointed to the Paramount board in 1927.

He was 71 years old and is survived by his widow, a sister and two sons. English was named as a defendant in the action started last week by trustees in bankruptcy for Paramount Public which seeks to recover up to $12,237,071 from members of the 1931-32 board that authorized repurchase of the company's stock which had been issued for the acquisition of theatres.

ing. Following five decisive defeats in the House within a year, the Senate, after hours of debate in an all-night session, has again defeated the measure sitting as a committee of the whole, and again on the floor. The vote in the latter case was 13 for and 15 against, even with the tax reduced to one per cent. Previously it had been three per cent and later it was reduced to two per cent.

The vote by which it was defeated in the Senate was reconsidered, and the bill was sent back to the taxation committee, which insures another vote. However, if it should be brought out of committee and adopted by the Senate, there is considerable doubt that it will be carried by the House. If defeated in either branch, the special session will adjourn.

The admission tax will remain in effect until the end of 1937 unless repealed by enactment of the sales inmost.

Cohen, Keough to Coast inclusion in sales contracts of provisions designed to place a premium on single featuring, such as a cash discount for pictures shown singly, or a penalty on pictures shown on the same program with another feature. A second plan is to seek unanimous agreements among exhibitors in principal territories to ban the policy, and a third is to make a new attempt to have included in the film code a clause prohibiting duals when opposed by a majority of the exhibitors in any territory.

One or all three of the methods may be designated for trial by the executive committee when it meets here, it was stated. The committee was empowered by the M.P.T.O.A. convention to take what action it deemed best. Members of the executive committee are: Ed Kuykendall, Fred Meyer, Sidney Lust, Jack Miller, Charles Williams, Jules Michael and O. C. Lam.

Rich Fills Vacancy On Pittsburgh Board

PITTSBURGH, April 30.—Charles Rich, exchange manager here, has just been appointed to the grievance board. He succeeds Ben Kalmenson.

Kalmenson, named originally to represent the affiliated distributors, vacated the board when he was transferred from the Warner distribution department to theatres in charge of booking operations.

Named in Salt Lake City

SALT LAKE CITY, April 30.—Fredrick Loofbourow, local attorney, has been notified of his appointment as secretary of the Salt Lake grievance and clearance and zoning boards by John C. Flinn, executive secretary of the Code Authority. The territory under Loofbourow's jurisdiction includes Utah, Montana, Idaho, eastern Nevada and western Wyoming. Immediately following his appointment Loofbourow left for the Coast to confer with Flinn.

No Oklahoma Complaints

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 30.—No cases have been filed with the local grievance and zoning boards, but it is believed the boards will find enough to act upon when exhibitors learn that Charles Zears, the newly appointed secretary, is ready for action.

Board Office Ready Soon

Offices of the New York clearance and zoning and grievance boards will be ready for occupancy this week. On Monday of next week the advisory committees of the clearance and zoning board will start discussing protests for new schedules.

Omaha Boards in Office

OMAHA, April 30.—Code boards here have picked offices in the Loyal Hotel, and Miss Regina Molseed, secretary, will move into the quarters this week upon returning from a Chicago conference with John C. Flinn.

Fox Control Not Involved In Stock Sale of the A after its sale of 200,000 shares to British and American investment interests, is also the owner of virtually all of the Class B stock.

Balfour, Boardman & Co., London investment house, was acting for the Fleming group of English investment trusts and the Atlas Corp., American investment concern, in purchasing the 200,000 shares of Fox A from Chase last week. It also holds an option on an additional 400,000 shares from the Chase for the same two accounts. Atlas is also revealed as the owner of $3,000,000 of Warners' convertible debentures and of 18,434 shares of Loew's, Inc. Floyd B. Odum, Atlas president, told stockholders of the company at their recent annual meeting, that the company's policy would be to make a number of investments of a diversified nature in fields ordinarily neglected by investment trusts.

Balfour, Boardman Are Chase Men in England

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, April 30.—Both members of the firm of Balfour, Boardman & Co., purchasers of 200,000 shares of Fox Film A and holders of an option on another 400,000 shares, are the Chase-Fox nominees on the board of Gaumont British. They have been associated previously here with Chase, Harris & Forbes, the security affiliate of the Chase bank.

They refuse to make any statement beyond saying that the purchase is "purely private."

Isidore Ostrer, head of Gaumont British, is abroad and his office says it has no knowledge of the transaction beyond press reports.

Walter Hutchinson, managing director of Fox here, says it is purely a financial deal by Chase to spread the shares and keep the price stable. Holding of the investment here will keep the shares off the market, he says. He declares that Balfour, Boardman are acting independently of Chase.

The opinion prevails here that the shares will be sold gradually to the public.

Possibility that the purchase of Fox Film stock may meet governmental objections because of a possible violation of the Treasury ban on exports of capital was voiced here. The embargo on exports of capital has been in effect since 1931.

Financial circles here regard the transaction as merely meeting an ordinary investment demand.

Mahoney in Labor Post

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Former Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney has been named chairman of the New York Regional Labor Board. Mrs. Eleanore T. Herrick, who has been acting as chairman, will continue as vice-chairman.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Stingaree"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, April 30.—Richard Dix and Irene Dunne, reunited for the first time since "Cimarron," appear in a romance between a bandit and an opera singer.

The time is 1874 and the place Melbourne, Australia. The film parallels the alleged romance of a world-famous singer and is adapted from a story by E. W. Hornung. The bandit, Stingaree (Dix), comes to the house of rich Miss Clarkson (Mary Boland) to rob and discovers Hilda Bouvarie (Miss Dunne), one of the domestic help, singing. They sing together and become enamored. Stingaree urges a Sir Kent (Conway Tearle), a visiting London impresario, to hear Hilda. The police arrive, Stingaree is shot but escapes. Sir Kent, impressed with Hilda's voice, sponsors her continental tour. She goes from triumph to triumph. In London, at the height of her career, Stingaree, as he promised, returns after a concert and sweeps her off. The police follow and they ride together to their destiny.

Dix and Miss Dunne hold the spotlight. The latter's singing of "Tonight Is Mine" is splendid. For comedy Miss Boland stands out, helped by Una O'Connor, that fine character actress, and Andy Devine, who plays Stingaree's aide. Henry Stephenson and George Barrard round out the cast.

The picture is interesting, clean and romantic, with a nice balance of values. It is nothing big, but it is satisfying.

"Handy Andy"

(Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, April 30.—Fast on the heels of the successful "David Harum" comes this new Will Rogers vehicle loaded with down-to-earth, homespun, wholesome qualities which characterize all of the comedian's pictures.

An ambitious wife, played effectively by Peggy Wood, persuades Will on this occasion to sell his drug store to the chain interests. With nothing on his hands but some money, Rogers finds that the hardest job of all is to get rid of time. He makes himself a nuisance around the house and finally is tipped off that the way to cure his wife is to follow her footsteps at the Mardi Gras ball in New Orleans. Rogers goes as Tarzan. What happens thereafter is a howl, and he wins his point. The minor love thread is carried forward principally by Mary Carlisle.

"Handy Andy" is a typical Rogers vehicle, highlighted by the golf episode and the Tarzan sequence, with many laughs in a somewhat minor key throughout. It's a good show.

Looking 'Em Over

"Hitler's Reign of Terror"

(Jewel Productions)

"Hitler's Reign of Terror" probably will bring crowds to the box-office regardless of what its merits as entertainment may be. Besides being timely, the subject is one that has stirred wide discussion. The production will create a varied reaction, depending upon the feeling of each member of an audience toward Hitler and his policies. At a showing at the Mayfair yesterday, for example, there were scenes that brought applause from some and hisses from others. "Hitler's Reign of Terror" is the type of picture to keep an audience in a ferment.

The film is a compilation of newsreel shots and of film taken by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr. It is difficult to say just how much of it has been contributed by Vanderbilt, who is supposed to have made what part of the film he is responsible for "at risk of his life." Some of the scenes poke the camera's "nose" intimately enough into Nazi affairs to have this statement taken as a fact.

Scattered through the film are interviews with many notable German figures. Exciting moments are numberless. Vanderbilt alternates with Edwin C. Hill in providing the production with a running narrative. Michael Mindlin directed. Samuel Cummins is sponsoring the production.

Grievance Board Rules On Several Cases

CLEVELAND, May 1.—The local grievance board has injected itself into the fight to protect admission prices in this city by indicating it intends to deal severely with those found guilty of violations.

The board revealed just what its stand in the matter is yesterday, when it meted out censure to three exhibitors and placed them on six months' probation after finding them guilty of distributing in quantities 10-cent passes in lieu of the minimum contract admission price of 15 cents in direct violation of Article V (E), Part 3, Section 3 of the code. No penalties were inflicted.

The cases were those of L. & F.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood, May 1

JOE SCHNITZER is plotting features with a very major releasing creeping up on him. . . . "Dante's Inferno" is on the Fox list as one of its 1934-35 dreadnaughts. Sol Wurtzel will turn it out at the Western Ave. plant. . . . Distribution talk in Hollywood confines itself to producers who are seeking releases. Some talk afoot that Fox will take on outside pictures if outside pictures belong inside the Fox fold. In other words, it's a case of quality. . . . The air is full of conversation of costume pictures and filmed classics, even in the face of "Queen Christina" and what it failed to do. Watch out! There's danger of a Dickens epidemic. . . .

Sam Goldwyn, time on his hands one day, determined to visit his offspring, same name, and a student at the Black-Foxe Military Academy, where sons of the Wurtzels, the Charlie Rogers, the Paul Sloans, the Buster Keatons, the Nat Levines, the John Stahls and Charlie Chaplin are learning how to protect Hollywood and the Gold Coast—in case. Much excitement attended Goldwyn's visit. The principal escorted the producer to the boys' class where Sam pere found Sam fils in a temporary doghouse. "Why?" queried Goldwyn. "What has he done?" It seems the youngster had interrupted a story with a two-word juvenile classic: "It's lousy." Said Goldwyn: "I can forgive him for that. He's like me. Already he knows a lousy story when he hears one. He'll make a good producer." . . .

How it goes here: "David Ha-rum" kicked around the Fox story department for five years before it was made and started going places theatre-wise. Time after time did the studio turn persuasion loose on Rogers, but where there is a Rogers, there's a will. So Will willed not. The quaint Hollywood custom of hitching horses to a winning star found this star doing exactly that and didn't prevent Rogers from taking bows down the line for "Harum's" success. Or prevent a Southern California exhibitor from figuring it was a harem, sex picture. . . .

Commercial broadcasting is making it tough for several of the major studios. In the first place real stars get plenty, one chap, for a program about to be, grabbing $4,000 for less than an hour's work. There being no secrets in Hollywood, the word is around and already other stars on that lot are refusing to go on unless the original figure is met or topped. The studios find it all a headache, particularly when they want ether time to plug an impending release of their own. Which leads to speculation if that long-pending promise of wedlock between films and radio won't have to come off some day after all. . . .

The well-liked "Doc" Gian-nini, friend of and banker for much of the production colony: "Herman Wobber tells me Winnie Sheehan is the greatest producer of them all. Yesterday I played golf with Sam Goldwyn and he admitted he was. The day before at lunch Jack Warner made the same observation and it was only 24 hours preceding that when Irving Thalberg said the same thing. Now I'm asking who is?" Gian-nini hasn't heard from Harry Cohn yet. . . . K A N N company or the trustees in bankruptcy.

Ralph A. Kohn Resigns Post At Paramount

Kohn's major activities for the past six months have been in association with his post as president of Paramount Theatres Service Corp., the subsidiary charged with home office direction of Paramount theatres. No successor to Kohn in this post will be named for the present, it was learned yesterday. Sam Dembow, Jr., is vice-president of the theatres service company and is expected to take over a part or all of Kohn's work in that department. Y. Frank Freeman, president of Famous Theatres Corp., the company which took over the Publix Enterprises holdings under the bankruptcy reorganization plan for the latter company, may assist.

Reports that S. A. Lynch, chairman of the Paramount trustees' advisory committee, would succeed Kohn were authoritatively learned to be without foundation. Such a succession is not unlikely for the somewhat distant future, it was disclosed, but for the present, at least, Lynch is too vitally involved in reorganization work on a number of large Paramount theatre subsidiaries, and in his advisory capacity to the Paramount trustees, to relinquish that work at this time, it was stated.

Events leading up to Kohn's resignation are said to have been climaxed on Monday during a conference with the Paramount trustees.

Named in Trustees' Suit

Kohn was named a defendant, with other members of the Paramount board of directors of 1931-32, in the action filed by the trustees in bankruptcy last week to recover up to $12,237,071, the amount said to have been expended for repurchase of Paramount stock which had been issued for the acquisition of theatres during 1930-31. Kohn was treasurer of Paramount at the time the stock repurchases were authorized. He had occupied that post since 1927.

Kohn joined Famous Players Film Co. in 1913 from the law offices of Elek J. Ludvigh, who later became a director and general counsel of Paramount and served in those capacities up to the time of his resignation in Jan., 1932. Kohn was made assistant counsel and assistant secretary and later, on the organization of Paramount Famous-Lasky Corp., was made assistant secretary and assistant treasurer. He was elected a director in 1923, and became treasurer four years later. Following the Paramount Publix bankruptcy and decentralization of the company's theatres, Kohn was placed in charge of all home office supervision over theatres.

In commenting on his resignation, Kohn stated: "I cannot leave Paramount without thanking those many men and women of the organization who during the bankruptcy particularly have so wholeheartedly supported the trustees, Mr. Zukor and other executives. I am sure that this spirit will continue so that Paramount can soon be reorganized and again take its place as one of the great companies in the business."

will have 20 days in which to file a reply to his brief, Zirn said, and a decision on allowing his appeal is expected from the Supreme Court about June 4, shortly before the summer recess of the high court. The trustees' counsel said yesterday that they had not been served with papers yet in Zirn's latest move.

Zirn goes to Albany today to file an appeal with the Court of Appeals from an order handed down recently by the Appellate Division denying his petition to bring suit in connection with certain transactions prior to the Paramount bankruptcy.

Chase Wins Review On Interest Denial has not been filed by Chase with Henry K. Davis, referee in bankruptcy for Paramount Publix.

Referee Davis ruled some time ago that the bank was entitled to dividends only on the bonds actually filed, and this ruling was upheld by U. S. District Court Judge John Woolsey after a review. Approximately $1,900,000 of the $20,000,000 issue have not been filed with the referee. Attorneys for the Paramount Publix trustees did not oppose the Chase petition for a review by the higher court.

Paramount to Have New Color Cartoons

Paramount is planning a series of one-reel color cartoons to supplement the "Betty Boop" black and white cartoons next season. Max Fleischer is producing the "Boop" series, but no producer, number of shorts nor trade name has been designated for the new series.

Announcement of the cartoons in color will be made at the annual sales convention in Los Angeles May 18-20.

Paramount Men Told Plan for 60 Stands

Despite reports to the contrary, Paramount will release 60 features for the current season. Division and district managers attending the two-day conference were advised to this effect. The 1933-34 season will end sometime in July, and August will see the first of the new season's releases.

the Paramount Building, upon which the bonds will be a first mortgage lien.

This is regarded as preliminary to the early reorganization of Paramount Publix. Bonds of Paramount Broadway advanced three points yesterday, and both Paramount Publix 5's and Paramount Famous Lasky 6's also had small gains.

Bonds of the present Paramount Broadway Corp. are to be exchanged for bonds of a new company on the basis of a $1,000 bond of the new company for each $1,000 bond of the present company.

To Cut Length of Lease

The present Paramount Publix lease on the building, running for 25 years from Jan. 1, 1926, is to be changed to a 10-year lease, or until the payment of one-half of the bonds of the subsidiary (whichever occurs sooner) with provisions for renewal thereafter. The Paramount theatre lease will continue on a graduated percentage basis until half the bonds are paid.

Under the terms of the agreement arrears of taxes and penalties on the Paramount building amounting to $540,331 have been paid. The funded debt of the Broadway unit, all of the capital stock of which is owned by Paramount Publix, is $8,875,000 first mortgage 5½ per cent 25-year sinking fund gold certificates. Of this $2,681,500 is on deposit with the Chemical Bank and Trust Co.

Paramount Publix, when reorganized, will guarantee the three per cent interest charges on the bonds and will cancel certain claims against Paramount Broadway. Bondholders of the latter will be represented on the board of the reorganized Paramount Publix.

A formal agreement is now being drawn up, according to Grimm. Other members of the protective committee are: Robert Goelet, Harold V. Smith, George McAneny, J. Russell Forgan and Robert E. Dowling.

Portland Paramount Committee Is Named

PORTLAND, May 1.—Financial problems of the Portland Paramount Corp. have resulted in the appointment of a bondholders' protective committee and holders are being asked to deposit their securities with the Title & Trust Co.

The committee includes Amedee M. Smith, Robert H. Strong and Earl C. Bronaugh, Sr.

The Paramount subsidiary controls the block bounded by Broadway, Salmon, Park and Main Streets through a lease from Jensen, VonHerberg. The bonds are a first mortgage on the leasehold. Taxes and ground rentals have been paid, it is said, but interest on the bonds is said to be in arrears.

Lewis Here for Talks

Mike Lewis, western division manager for Paramount, is here for conferences with Neil Agnew, sales manager. Lewis attended the Chicago confab over the week-end, but decided to come east with the home office crowd.

"Stand Up" Is $78,000 Tonic At Music Hall

"Stand Up and Cheer" removed some of the quiet that has prevailed around the RKO Music Hall since "Wild Cargo" departed a month ago. The take, $78,000, was not sensational, but it was an improvement.

"Tarzan and His Mate" also stirred a pickup in box-office activity at the Capitol with $50,000. This is up in a class with "Riptide" and was almost as good as "The Show Off," when Jimmy Durante appeared for a week.

"Wharf Angel" on the Paramount screen and Gloria Swanson on the stage didn't cause a ripple. Only $25,000 was chalked up. "I'll Tell the World" gave the Roxy a good week at $23,000.

"House of Rothschild" ended its sixth week at the Astor still going strong at $19,500.

Dear Ralph:

At least 217,500 people will have seen "Stand Up and Cheer" by the end of its two-week run at Radio City Music Hall, according to a business check-up. Since this is more than 150 per cent of the total population of Des Moines, you have some idea of the tremendous drawing power of the picture. Incidentally, the hold-over week has proven the biggest of the year at Radio City. Watch for big doings when "Stand Up and Cheer" starts playing around the country.

Coast Meet Votes to End Double Bills

asserting they tended to reduce quality of product.

"During the M. P. T. O. A. convention," he said, "we discussed with exhibitors the double bill evil and our attitude toward them was made clear. The picture business is suffering from cheaply made films fostered by independents chiefly to satisfy the demand for pictures. Doubles have been the vogue too long. They are driving the public from the theatres. The public is becoming satiated. It can't stand three and four hour shows. Producers want a single standard throughout the country. It will enable them to make fewer and better pictures. The sooner we get back to single bills the sooner will we get back to a sounder foundation for all branches of the industry."

Louis B. Mayer echoed Kahane's opinion. He said too many cheap pictures were ruining the industry.

Chadwick attacked block booking. The meeting was unanimous in favor of the stand taken by Kahane and Mayer and took a standing vote to do away with duals.

Kuykendall Certain Of Code Reopening

adoption. He declared that, as constituted, the code offers loopholes for evasion and subterfuge not apparent at the time of its formulation, adding it must be tightened in some of the provisions and restrictions incorporated to insure compliance. He pointed out, for example, that producers can very plausibly make poor product with 10 per cent cancellations in mind and the exhibitor will cancel out this inferior product, then be left holding the bag.

According to him, the code will need revision probably constantly because it was the first thing of its kind the industry ever had. He asserted the fact the code will need altering is demonstrated at Code Authority meetings, "where we change rules and procedure as necessity arises."

This afternoon, at the request of leading exhibitors here, Kuykendall attended a meeting of the clearance and zoning board. He discussed Kansas City's price and protection troubles with the board. He upheld the suburbs' contention that where the subsequent's price equals that of the downtown first runs the former should be allowed more advantageous protection.

Tonight. Kuykendall left for his home.

G. T. E. Petition Argued

WILMINGTON, May 1.—Argument on the petition of U. S. Senator Daniel O. Hastings, receiver of General Theatres Equipment, for authority to enter into a compromise agreement with Chase National Bank was heard today in Chancery Court before Chief Justice Daniel J. Layton. Decision was reserved.

Begin Drive on Agents

A drive on Broadway theatrical agents operating without licenses was launched yesterday on orders of License Commissioner Paul Moss. It was explained that the purpose of the drive was primarily to put out of business dishonest agents who hire entertainers and then refuse to pay them. The city acted after it had received complaints from victims. The new license year began yesterday.

Chicago Planning to Start Variety Club

CHICAGO, May 1.—Fifty-six industry representatives at a dinner of the Medinah Club last night voted to organize a local Variety Club. John Harris of Pittsburgh, introduced by Clyde Eckhardt, explained the purposes of the organization. Eckhardt, acting as chairman, will appoint committees and handle details to make the local unit dovetail with similar clubs elsewhere.

Franklin's Bergner Films Going to Fox

Franklin said yesterday on his return from abroad.

Miss Bergner will come here in the fall, Franklin said, for a Broadway engagement of her current London hit, "Escape Me Never," and will start her picture work on the west coast immediately following the run of the play.

Franklin, in conjunction with Arch Selwyn and Gifford Cochrane, will also sponsor and produce on Broadway Noel Coward's "Conversation Piece," with Elaine Printemps, and "Old Folks at Home," with Marie Tempest, English actress. The three plays are set for fall and winter openings, Franklin said.

Grievance Meeting Is Again Postponed

Members of the New York grievance board have postponed today's session until next Tuesday. This is the second time the meeting has been put off. First, Milt Kusell asked for a day's delay because he could not return from the Chicago Paramount district managers' meet in time. The latest delay is due to the fact that grievances sent back to exhibitors because they were not filed in conformity with code provisions have not been returned as yet.

The May session will be held in Bond building quarters.

the plan which will be made public following the two-day convention in Chicago on May 12 and May 13 of directors and regional vice-presidents. Between 12 and 26 pictures are planned, but several units have to approve the idea before it can become effective.

Significant clauses of the code were discussed at the meeting yesterday and it was decided to hold meetings every other Monday instead of every Tuesday at the Lincoln, new headquarters.

Protest on "Narcotic"

KANSAS CITY, May 1.—Protest by the Merchants' Association, the Women's City Club and others resulted in considerable "toning down" of the front of the Publix Royal, small first run house, where "Narcotic" is in its second week. Exploited as a frank exposition of the drug traffic, "for adults only," the independently made picture was granted a certificate by Guy Holmes, city censor, after an extensive "cleaning" and over the protest of Mrs. Eleanore C. Walton, assistant censor and club woman.

Berkeley to Appear In Goldwyn's Suit

HOLLYWOOD, May 1.—Samuel Goldwyn scored a victory yesterday in the opening shot in his court battle for an injunction to restrain Busby Berkeley from working for Warners when Judge Emmett Wilson refused to dismiss the case. Milton Cohen, attorney for Berkeley, was ordered to produce his client and Goldwyn was told to arrange for the dance director's appearance in court by Thursday morning.

The charge is that Warners violated its contract for lending Berkeley to Goldwyn for two pictures a year when it refused to carry through the deal upon the 45 days' notice stipulated. Warners' action, according to Goldwyn, delayed the production of Eddie Cantor's next picture.

Bebe Daniels Has Mumps

The scheduled personal appearance of Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyons at the Paramount next week has been cancelled, due to the illness of Miss Daniels, who is confined to her suite at the Lombardy Hotel with an attack of the mumps. No plans for a future appearance at the same house have been made as yet.

Mack New U.A. Manager

Al Lichtman has appointed William A. V. Mack branch manager of the United Artists exchange in Cincinnati. He succeeds Sam B. Kramer, who resigned. For the past eight years Mack has been connected with Pathe as a sales executive in Philadelphia, Chicago and New York.

Clark to Educational

William J. Clark, former managing director of Paramount in Australia, has been appointed assistant sales manager of Educational, and will take up his new duties after a short tour of Fox exchanges.

Hollywood's publicity gang turned out to greet Red Kann at Al Levy's Tavern. Here they are with Vic Shapiro, Red and John Flinn standing in the center just before the waiters began spilling soup:

In case you don't know the others, they are:

First row standing—Lew Greenspan, Universal; Pete Smith, M-G-M; Shapiro, Kann and Flinn; Lon Young, Mascot; Ham Beall, Grauman's Chinese; Bill Pine, Paramount; Gwenn Kirkpatrick, Loew's State; Joe Reddy, Harold Lloyd Prod.

In the back—Dick Pittinger, Radio; Ray Hoadley, Columbia; Frank Whitbeck, M-G-M; Mike Simmons, Russ Phelps, Edward Small Prod.; Paul Snell, M-G-M; Phil Gersdorf, Samuel Goldwyn Prod.; Barrett Kiesling, M-G-M; Doug Churchill; Bob Smith, Loew's State; Mark Larkin, King Vidor Prod., and Ken Whitmore, Paramount.

Gabe Yorke, Joe Shea and Al Parmenter of Fox, Ed Selzer and Carlisle Jones of Warners, Teete Carle of Paramount, Nate Dyches of 20th Century, Don MacElwain of M-G-M, Dick Creedon of Disney Studios and Dick Hunt of Landy and Hunt also were present, but it wasn't a panoramic camera and Levy's reception rooms were not designed by Cecil B. DeMille.

George Moran Loses Suit

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—George Moran's suit for $34,500 against Mrs. Myrtle Mack, widow of Moran's former partner, for damages sustained in the automobile accident which caused Mack's death several weeks ago ended in an acquittal for Mrs. Mack. The jury decided no negligence on Mrs. Mack's part had been proved.

"Rothschild" Sets Record

CHICAGO, May 1.—"The House of Rothschild" ends its first week here tonight at the United Artists with the year's record in its possession with a gross of $30,000.

Eckman in from England

Sam Eckman arrived yesterday from England to spend several weeks here conferring with M-G-M home office executives on new product.

Rogers a Dramatic Hit

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—Will Rogers opened here last night in Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness" and was acclaimed a success by local dramatic critics. This was Rogers' first appearance as a full-part actor on the legitimate stage.

H. J. Cohen Joins G. B.

Harry J. Cohen, recently with P. A. Powers, has joined Gaumont British in charge of non-theatricals. Cohen for many years was head of the M-G-M foreign department and later joined Columbia in the same capacity.

SMPE at Hotel Penn

S.M.P.E.'s New York headquarters are now located at the Pennsylvania, according to Sylvan Harris, editor-manager. The fall convention will also be held there.

Scales in Portland Continue Downward

PORTLAND, May 1.—Admission prices continue downward, especially in the downtown area. At the Paramount for some months a bargain was offered in 1,000 of their 3,008 seats at 25c any time. Recently this was raised to 1,500 seats, or one-half the capacity for 25c anytime.

Some 30 days ago the Circle reduced from 25c to 15c, but as adjacent houses put on two features for 10c, the price was again reduced to 10c for one feature and plenty of shorts and a newsreel.

Dickinson in Tieup

KANSAS CITY, May 1.—Glen W. Dickinson, head of the circuit of that name, today became affiliated with Consolidated Film Distributors, Inc., state rights exchange, establishing his 20 houses in Kansas and Missouri as outlets for the organization, according to R. C. Borg, Consolidated manager. Dickinson has purchased an interest in the exchange, and will serve in an advisory capacity, probably as vice-president, it is revealed by Borg.

Grainger in Tomorrow

James R. Grainger, general sales manager for Universal, returns from the coast tomorrow. Before leaving Hollywood, Grainger stated the company will complete its entire lineup as scheduled this year.

Loew Returns from Trip

David Loew has returned from a three and a half day automobile tour of Loew theatres in Baltimore, Washington, Virginia and Norfolk.

Cut Rates Hit By Cleveland Code Decision

Theatres, Inc., operating the Liberty vs. Sam Fine, operating the Manhattan; A. E. Ptak, Lyceum vs. Simon Kaplan Amusement Co., operating the Arion, and Gus Danovic, the Corlett Theatre Co. vs. the Slavia Theatre Co., operating the Mount Pleasant. A fourth case, involving A. E. Ptak and the Simon Kaplan Amusement Co.'s Southern Theatre, was dismissed.

Nat Wolf, Warner zone manager, was chairman at the hearing. Frank Drew, M-G-M, substituted for J. E. Fontaine, who was out of town.

These were the first cases heard by the local grievance board.

The Hilma Theatre Co., through Henry Greenberger, has presented to the clearance board for hearing Friday a petition signed by 20 Cleveland exhibitors asking reduction in present first run protection and alleging that since adoption of the current protection plan first runs have reduced admissions and introduced duals at some of their houses.

CHICAGO, May 1.—The local grievance board got its first case today. The complainant is Ben Bartlestein, Annette Theatre, Cicero, and the defendants are the Schoenstadt brothers. The charge is overbuying.

NEW HAVEN, May 1.—No complaints were received at the grievance board meeting here yesterday. The session was devoted to a discussion of code ambiguities and conflicts. The clearance and zoning board met today with no complaints up.

First Grievance Case Decided on the Coast

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—The local grievance board handed down its first decision after a conference late last night with John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority. The complainant was Pacific Theatres, Inc., which charged the National, National City, was indulging in two-for-ones. The board ordered that the practice be ended by the theatre within 48 hours, threatening to cut off its film supply or force it to shut down if it persisted.

Two other cases were aired before the board. One was a leasing case, while the other was a complaint brought by the Garfield Theatre, Alhambra, against Fox West Coast charging the latter with holding out on product. The former case was forwarded to New York for decision, while the other will be subjected to further investigation.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Loudspeaker"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, May 1.—"The Loudspeaker" is a back stage radio story that centers around Ray Walker. Starting as a worker in a small town railroad office, losing his girl and his job, Walker hits Broadway to realize his ambition and become a radio star. Posing as a radio repair man in the office of an advertising agency, Walker records his own voice over a microphone and is hired. He becomes radio's number one personality boy. He falls for Jacquelin Wells, an ex-musical comedy star and arranges an audition for her. Miss Wells refuses his marriage proposal because of his superior conceit, so Walker tries to mix the ether waves and highballs and finds himself on the curb.

Miss Wells, now radio's number one star, uses her influence to reinstate him and Walker buys the marriage license.

Members of the cast all do well, including Walker, Miss Wells, Charles Grapewin, Noel Francis, Wilbur Mack, Spencer Charters and Mary Carr. Music by Roy Turk and Harry Akst is good. Joseph Santley directed.

A fair program picture that should do well in neighborhoods and in small towns.

Looking 'Em Over

"Monte Carlo Nights"

(Monogram)

Story value is light, but the yarn keeps moving and has a couple of attractive youngsters, Mary Brian and John Darrow, to keep the love interest alive.

Mary catches Darrow's eye at a racetrack and the romance is on in spite of her aunt's warning that Darrow is an irresponsible playboy with a dozen women in his life. When Darrow falls off his horse in a steeplechase Mary takes him to a hospital. On the eve of their marriage he takes a final fling at the roulette wheel and happens to be in the gambling house proprietor's office when the gambler is shot from behind.

He is convicted of manslaughter. While he is handcuffed to another prisoner on a train the other prisoner attacks the guard and the two men leap into a river. Darrow is supposed to have been drowned, but he turns up at Monte Carlo about the time a police inspector, Carl Stockdale, arrives looking for the murderer, who turns out to be Robert Frazer.

Stockdale is wounded and Darrow takes over his job of capturing the murderer.

Production values are good, with some nice exterior as well as interior shots. It is better-than-average program entertainment.

trouble and had wired the theatre to that effect. He charges that the ushers were discharged because they were known to be members of the union. Rosenblatt is expected to set a date for arbitration of the dispute within the next few days.

George Jordan, a picket for Local 118, assigned to the Tivoli, Brooklyn, where the service employees have been on strike for several weeks, was arrested yesterday, charged with disorderly conduct. The picket is alleged to have become embroiled in a fight with attaches of the theatre. The case will be heard in Brooklyn city court today.

Buffalo Boards Start

BUFFALO, May 1.—Buffalo code boards, after considerable delay, at last are established on the fifth floor of the Byers building, in which most of the Buffalo exchanges are located. The zoning and clearance board held its organization session today.

Flinn Gets Agency Committee Started

HOLLYWOOD, May 1.—John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority, met yesterday with the agency code committee, outlining its method of operation. Those attending included B. B. Kahane, Winfield Sheehan, Jack L. Warner, Trem Carr and J. J. Gain, representing producers; Berton Churchill, actors; Frank Lloyd, directors; Wells Root and Ernest Pascal, writers; George Frank, agents; J. M. Nickolaus, technicians.

Root acted as temporary chairman. The committee will meet later in the week to elect a permanent chairman.

Flinn held a second meeting today on the extra situation. He flies to Kansas City tonight.

dent exhibitors from all eastern cities to discuss next season's policies.

While the Philadelphia unit is against high rentals, the I. T. O. A. stand hits only percentages and designated week-end playing time. Brandt states the exchange, or distributor, is entitled to as much as he can get for his pictures, but what he objects to is the designation of preferred dates and demands for percentages.

Other protest meetings are planned for Chicago and the coast. No dates have been set on these. George P. Aarons, secretary of the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, was scheduled to attend the meeting at the M. P. Club yesterday, but failed to show up when he received word his mother was seriously ill.

Next Tuesday's session is slated for the M. P. Club with about 25 exhibitor leaders expected.

panding the membership of the planning and coordination committee of the oil code, analogous to code authorities in other industries, so as to give more representation to independent interests, reports were current in Washington today that changes will be made in other code authorities.

The question of independent representation is one of the important matters which have come before the review board during its hearings on a numbers of codes, and members of the board are said to hold the belief that in but few industries are the independent interests adequately represented.

The makeup of the film Code Authority was discussed at length during the motion picture investigation, and it is understood that in its forthcoming report the board may recommend changes in personnel.

Two-for-Ones Banned By Grievance in K. C.

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—Two-for-ones were banned by the grievance board in its first decision handed down here today. The case was that of L. P. Larsen, Civic Theatre, Webb City, vs. J. D. Wineland, Mystic Theatre, same city. Larsen charged price evasion, citing six unfair practices, including two children admissions for five cents on Saturdays. The board issued a cease and desist order effective immediately.

Premiere for Mickey

Hollywood, May 2.—Mickey Mouse had one of those big premieres tonight at the Cathay Circle, with red carpets from the sidewalk to the entrance, bright lights 'n' everything. Jean Harlow, Norma Shearer, Jack Holt, Kay Francis, Mae West and Claudette Colbert helped sell tickets in advance. It was all for the benefit of the California Commission for the Protection of Children and Animals at $5 per.

"Gulliver's Mickey" was the film.

FWC Help Is Assured in Ending Doubles on Coast

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—Cooperation of Fox West Coast with independents in the complete elimination of dual bills by the end of the month is certain, it is believed, as a result of Louis B. Mayer's telephone conversation yesterday with Charles Skouras in New York. He made his announcement to this effect at an exhibitors' mass meeting and a resulting vote to ban duals was largely influenced by this. Skouras is expected back in a fortnight. A committee will be named to confer with him.

This is regarded here as the first definite result of Mayer's decision to tour the country in a fight on duals under the theory that their abolition and price stabilization will benefit the industry at large.

His talk dominated the exhibitors'

Circuit Court Upholds RKO Note Pledges

An agreement with holders of $13,000,000 of RKO first and second liens which extends the maturities on the secured gold notes of the company, thereby avoiding a foreclosure and sale of virtually all RKO assets, was approved yesterday by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here.

An attack on the agreement was made by Walter Reade's Broadway & 47th St. Corp., in the U. S. District Court here last year. The lower court denied Reade's action to have the agreement set aside and Reade, an unsecured RKO creditor, carried his attack to the circuit court in March, alleging that the agreement was in-

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood, May 2

FROM the current bulletin on "Leading Motion Pictures" compiled and broadcast by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, head of the public relations department of the Hays organization:

Worldly Wise

Pictures of fine direction. Some of them have themes and incidents of questionable character. With their virtuosity of production, they are strictly for adults, not within the understanding or interest of children. To many adults they will hold the same interest as books. There will be others who are equally offended by the presentation in pictures or in the printed page. But they have a popularity that cannot be ignored. None is appropriate for young people or children—only for sophisticated adults.

Listed immediately following appears "Finishing School," about which the description reads: "Though delicately treated, the all too familiar use of pregnancy to give dramatic climax gives an unethical flavor quite unnecessary." Yet the picture is recommended because it is a "scorching indictment of selfish, pleasure-loving mothers and snobbish private schools . . . where training in accepted etiquette far outweighs values." Then on "Riptide": . . . "is of a fast type of life, pleasure-seeking and unrestrained." "This Man Is Mine" and "Uncertain Lady" conclude the foursome. Of the first, the bulletin says: ". . . sophisticated society and the professional home breaker . . . really delightful picture." . . . On the latter: "High comedy of the sophisticated type (fooling) . . . home-breaking vamp" . . .

Thus, for the first time this tie-in with women's clubs publicly recognizes that there exists an audience for pictures which ordinarily are considered beyond the pale of family entertainment. The development is interesting, entirely proper and recalls the argument advanced at the M. P. T. O. A. convention when exhibitors aligned themselves not against sex pictures but against any producer-distributor subterfuge which cloaked the facts and so prevented showmen from telling their audiences what they actually were about to see. . . .

Why kid themselves about it? Often cited is the fact, or the claim anyway, that not a single cancellation has been made to date on either of the two Mae West pictures. Louis B. Mayer asserts the same went for "Red-Headed Woman." This column has no hesitancy in predicting ditto for "Riptide," for instance. The practical method of handling the attraction viewed as being on the line or reclining over it is to tell the public what that attraction has to say. The buyer has a habit of deciding whether or not he'll buy. . . .

Blobs of gobs are on the way. The sailor boy is coming into his own again. The fleet's in the roads. In production at Warners: "Hey, Sailor." At Paramount: "Sailor, Beware." At Fox: "She Learned About Sailors." At Universal: "She Loved a Sailor." Having told the recent exhibitor pow-wow he was opposed to double features, now goes Jack Warner doubling on sailor yarns, Warners also hav-for June 5-7 in New York. Home office officials, district managers and exchange managers will attend, with regional meetings to follow in Kansas City, Chicago, San Francisco, Atlanta and New York for salesmen.

Carl Laemmle will attend the New York convention and will then go to Europe.

Twelve of the features will be on a more elaborate scale than the others and three—"Show Boat," "The Magnificent Obsession" and "The Great Ziegfeld"—will be outstanding. Grainger said. This will necessitate an increase in the production budget, but the exact figures still await the approval of Laemmle, he declared. Whether rentals will be hiked is a matter of conjecture at this time, he said, as, in the final analysis, rentals "will depend upon quality."

Conditions generally are on the up-grade, Grainger stated, and small towns are showing an increased demand for westerns. European business is very good and conditions in England are excellent, he declared.

Grainger cut his coast visit short to attend a meeting of Universal directors in New York on Thursday morning.

score charges from current film contracts as of July 1, and elimination of the charge from new season's contracts.

Oscar Hanson, general manager of Allied, urged all Canadian exhibitor organizations to support the Ontario group in its fight against the levy. He estimated that the score charge of $1 per seat represents a cost to exhibitors of $400,000 annually, and, in addition, pointed out that Canadian exhibitors are paying 10 cents per seat to the Canadian Performing Rights Society. These assessments are regarded by the exhibitors as a duplication.

A request to bring about an end of the charges was prepared by the meeting for presentation to Colonel John A. Cooper, president of the M. P. Distributors of Canada. If no results are obtained, it was said, the matter may be turned over to the Canadian government for investigation.

K. C. Board Rushes Protection Schedule

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—The local zoning board is rushing the new zoning protection schedule for Kansas City at a day-and-night session. Nate Platt, B. & K. division manager, of Chicago, supervising the Publix Newman, downtown first run, informed the board he had been instructed by Publix to pledge the Newman would raise its price from 25 to 40 cents and eliminate duals, provided other first runs do likewise and suburbs ban objectionable practices.

ors charging 40 cents to wait 67 days after first run, with a sliding protection scale to 180 days for lesser admissions, thus introducing a general price factor here for the first time. It also requires houses in the territory to charge 40 cents to play on the release date, with a sliding scale of from 14 to 180 days' protection for lower admissions.

"It is obvious that certain members of the board are unduly influenced by others," Lightman said, and though he didn't mention any names, it is understood he referred to Howard Waugh, Warner zone manager, and J. F. Willingham, M-G-M exchange head.

"I will take this up with the zoning board at the meeting next Monday," Lightman also said, and indicated that if not satisfied there he will protest to Code Authority, where he felt that such a situation would not be tolerated since he claims it is objectionable to every theatre in the territory. Lightman went on to say that "it is ridiculous to expect such protection for theatres in which balcony prices bring the average down to less than 35 cents for first run engagements."

Secretaries to Meet Tomorrow in Chicago

CHICAGO, May 2.—John Flinn is due here Friday for a meeting at the Drake Hotel at which he will instruct 14 code secretaries on their duties.

Among those attending will be: Alice Juergens, Cincinnati; Mrs. Georgia Moffett, Cleveland; Don Douglas, Dallas; E. S. Kinney, Detroit; Grace Gannon, Kansas City; Mrs. Alma Walton, Memphis; Ben Koenig, Milwaukee; Mrs. Mabel Dietz, Minneapolis; Charles Zears, Oklahoma City; Regina Molseed, Omaha; Lila B. Schofield, St. Louis; Dallas E. Day, Des Moines, and Emma Abplanalp of this city.

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—John Flinn's last act here was to hold an informal meeting with the extras' code committee. He looked over the records and urged Mrs. Mabel Kinney to continue to clean up complaints as rapidly as possible. He insisted each complaint should carry the complainant's signature. He said drastic action would be taken against any studio attempting to intimidate those with grievances.

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—The meeting which John C. Flinn was to have held with the code secretaries in this city has been canceled due to his having been delayed in getting away from the coast by bad weather.

Executive Secretary John C. Flinn returns Saturday.

sion that the court should fix such expenses.

Judge Davis directed the committee to mail notices to bondholders of the adoption of the plan and the time for depositing bonds was extended to May 20. The court expressly reserved the right to determine the fairness and reasonableness of any reorganization plans, and also made it clear that his orders were not to be construed as approving or disapproving the proposals now before him.

The plan now pending was submitted by Snyder and Harry Koplar. It provides for the organization of a new company, issuance of new securities, transfer of the Skouras brothers' bond guarantee and operation of the houses by F. & M.

Kansas City, Kan., Ends 10-Cent Rates

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—There will be only one theatre charging 10 cents admission in Kansas City, Kan., after the exhibitor agreement goes into effect there May 19 to ban price reductions, double bills and premiums. Under the agreement, that price will be permitted only where it is a long established policy, and all of the city's 13 houses will be affected with the exception of the Kansas, where a dime is the regular price.

Distributors here are lauding the theatre men across the state line for taking the step. R. R. Biechele, spokesman for the Kansas group, says the action should be an incentive to exhibitors in the larger city to follow suit.

Kansas City, Kan., theatres are included in the existing zoning and protection schedule for Greater Kansas City, but are asking the clearance and zoning board to consider their situation separately from Kansas City, Mo. They want the existing protection of 28 days cut in half for first runs charging 25 cents, of which there are two, the Fox Granada and the Electric. They also feel that first runs in Kansas City, Mo., showing double bills should be allowed no protection, merely the right to prior run.

Circuit Court Upholds RKO Note Pledges

jurious to the receivership estate in some particulars. In the opinion handed down yesterday by the higher court, the district court's order sustaining the agreement was affirmed.

The agreement attacked by Reade was made Jan. 26, 1933, the day before RKO went into receivership. Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lombard, attorneys for the RKO receiver, told the circuit court last March that if the Jan. 26 agreement were set aside the noteholders could foreclose and RKO would be put out of existence as a going concern. Virtually all of RKO's assets, including its investments in subsidiaries, are pledged to secure the notes and would be sold under a foreclosure, it was pointed out.

Terms of Jan. 26 Agreement

The Jan. 26 agreement provided for the payment of $2,500,000 by RCA to RKO, to be applied by the latter to maturing gold notes held by the Chemical Bank and Commercial Investment Trust. In consideration for the payment, Chemical and C. I. T. agreed to extend the maturities on the balance of the notes, which aggregated $1,825,000, so that the first of the remaining notes would not mature until July 1 of this year. Maturities thereafter are $30,000 each on the first of each succeeding six months, under the agreement.

RKO gave RCA its note, secured by a completed negative, in return for the $2,500,000 advance. As the pledged negative depreciates in value a new note, secured by a newly completed negative, is delivered to RCA by RKO. Approximately six negatives have been pledged in this manner to date. It was this phase of the agreement that was attacked by Reade as damaging to the interests of general creditors of RKO in his appeal to the higher court.

Attorneys for the RKO receivers pointed out that RKO creditors were benefited and not injured thereby, as the negatives, in the first place, are not properties of RKO but of its subsidiaries.

pany's statement, "has accumulated since the effective date of reorganization of the company, April 1, 1933." The surplus at the close of the final quarter of last year was $1,674,354.

In the first quarter of 1933 the company reported a loss of $557,122. This figure does not offer a good basis of comparison with earnings for the same period of this year because the company was still to be reorganized when last year's statement was issued.

Total income for the first 13 weeks of this year amounted to $9,325,566.61, while expenses were $8,232,881.41. The company's income tax for the period was $125,000.

No New Fox Theatre Setup in Sight Yet

No plans for reorganization of Fox Theatres Corp. are in sight and it will probably be some time before the circuit is brought out of receivership, William E. Atkinson, president and receiver, stated yesterday. He is expected to be continued as receiver at the expiration of the present six-month term on July 22.

While the circuit does not operate any theatres, gross annual rentals for its five units average around $350,000. In addition, rentals are coming in from commercial properties owned in New England and a parcel on Park and Tremont Aves., Bronx. Theatres owned and leased are:

The Academy of Music, leased to Skouras; Audubon in New York and the Fox, Elizabeth, N. J., to Fox Metropolitan Playhouses; Isis, Denver, to Rick Ricketson of Fox Rocky Mountain; Nelson, Springfield, Mass., to Harry C. Arthur.

Atkinson has postponed his trip to Denver until next week because Ricketson is making a tour of his theatres and will not return until then. Atkinson will inspect the Isis and pass on a $10,000 remodeling plan.

Chiefly responsible for the remoteness of a reorganization of Fox are the many claims now pending.

Fox Midwest Heads Have Talk at K. C.

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—A Fox Midwest district managers' meeting brought to Kansas City Lon Cox of St. Louis, Harry A. McClure, Topeka, and Howard E. Jameyson, Wichita. With Elmer C. Rhoden, division manager, and L. J. McCarthy, Kansas City district manager. They discussed summer policies and managers' vacations.

A 13-week drive for business has been completed in which a substantial increase in grosses was shown over a previous period. Managers finishing high in each district were given a 10 per cent increase in salary.

meeting yesterday in spite of the fact that I. E. Chadwick swung into a strong defense of independents and an attack on block booking. Mayer answered this by saying he had 10 producers on the M-G-M lot and would sign more if they could show they had the necessary qualifications.

"I would give a greater welcome to a good two-reeler than a bad seven-reeler," he declared. "Single features with a properly balanced program of shorts will force theatre managers to do more work and apply showmanship ingenuity, but it must be done."

"I am not against independent producers, but if they can't deliver something constructive, let them stay out of the business."

"Exhibitors must feel producers can be told their troubles," he continued. "I am speaking for all major producers and I assure you we will listen to any plaint. We are willing to sit with exhibitors and distributors and see if we can solidify our aims and improve our product."

The agreement among other things provides that the bank is to reduce its claim against G.T.E. from in excess of $20,000,000 by $5,000,000 and that this claim is to be allowed by the receiver. The bank is to aid in reorganization of G.T.E., supply money for expenses, and give the reorganized unit an option on 325,000 shares of Fox A stock at $15 per share.

Opposition to the deal was headed by minority debenture holders and the All Continent Corp. headed by William Fox, which is a general creditor for about $2,000,000.

Warners to Finish Schedule on July 1

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—Warners will complete production of the entire schedule of 60 features for the current season by July 1, it was indicated today by a checkup. Fifty-three pictures on the current schedule have been completed.

Already elected to the committee are E. V. Richards, who becomes an operating partner on the reorganization of Saenger Theatres, and who represents the southern territory; Karl Hoblitzelle of Interstate Circuit, representing southwestern operations; A. H. Blank, Des Moines, representing central western operations, and N. L. Nathanson, Canada. The final two members remain to be elected, one for the mid-west and one for New England.

Sam Dembow, Jr., vice-president of Paramount Theatres Service Corp., of which Kohn was president as well as being vice-president and a director of Paramount Publix and subsidiaries, is taking over, for the time being, at least, that part of Kohn's duties which pertained to theatre operations. HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—Following a brilliant studio farewell and a preview of "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," Darryl Zanuck, William Getz and Harry Wardell are eastbound tonight. They will sail on the Conte di Savoia on May 12.

Cantor Sees Big Turnout

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—Eddie Cantor has promised that more than 500 stars and featured players will take part in the first annual frolic, which will be open to the public at the Gilmore Stadium May 18 to 20.

McLeod Arriving by Air

Norman McLeod, Paramount director, arrives from the coast tonight by plane. He sails Saturday on the Ile de France to join Mrs. McLeod on the Riviera where he'll remain for a month.

Price, Taube in Town

Canadian visitors in town for a few days are Harry Price of Federal Films, Toronto, and Sid Taube, representing a number of independent distributors. Both plan to leave tomorrow or Saturday.

and sails from Villefranche tomorrow on the Conte di Savoia. When he reaches New York he will confer with Eckman, now there, on distribution matters and possibly production. The company does not make its own quota pictures, but "dubs" American product in Italy, France and Spain.

Warners has a subsidiary company making quota pictures and U.A. have a close association with British & Dominion and London Films.

Exhibition activity of M-G-M is confined to the Empire here.

English Seek Curb Upon New Theatres

Kinematograph Renters' Society, with a plan to stop unnecessary building by setting up a combined committee to pass on the advisability of theatres contemplated.

While nothing has yet been decided, the decision of the committee would be final with the major companies. Something in one form or other will be done about over-building and the necessity for a stop measure is now recognized, Eckman says. The companies are willing to cooperate, he states.

For the past few years approximately 100 new theatres have gone up every 12 months. Currently, 50 houses are in process of construction. The reason for the heavy construction is that money is cheap and theatres are being built whether they are required or not, Eckman says. This smacks of the boom theatre construction period in the United States several years ago.

Just before Eckman retired as president of the K.R.S., the M-G-M officials prevailed upon all distributors to put clauses in contracts limiting shows to three hours, regardless of the policy. M-G-M was the first to adopt the plan, he says, and all other companies have followed suit.

Shows used to run anywhere from four to five hours before the practice was stopped. Eckman plans to stay for three weeks and is now awaiting arrival of Arthur Loew from Europe on May 10. He has not yet decided whether he will go to the coast before returning to England.

LONDON, May 2.—The C.E.A. today cabled Sam Eckman a request to talk at the annual convention of the organization at Blackpool on June 13. Eckman has been asked to talk on over-seating in the United States.

Stella Mayhew Passes

Stella Mayhew, veteran vaudeville and musical comedy star, died yesterday in the N. V. A. ward at the French Hospital. Death was caused by blood poisoning. Miss Mayhew was born in Pittsburgh and made her stage debut 50 years ago. Her last appearance here was in "Hit the Deck." She was 55 years old.

Funeral arrangements are being made by the N. V. A.

RCA Interested in British Television

LONDON, May 2.—RCA, through its $12,750,000 interest in Electrical and Musical Industries, Ltd., at current market value, and the Gaumont British Film Corp., is closely concerned in the British post office department's current plans for testing the Electrical and Musical Industries' television system and the J. L. Baird system. The object of the test is to make the better system available to the public through the transmission facilities of the British Broadcasting Corp.

Writers' Guild Will Use Advisory Group

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—To provide for a better understanding of Writers' Guild activities, an advisory council has been formed. It will include not more than 25 members who will meet each week to study writer problems. The council already includes three representatives from major studios, seven from independents and two free lancers. Any resolution passed by this council will receive definite action from the executive committee.

Stop Mexico City Films

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—All film houses were closed here May 1, Mexico's Labor Day, a holiday rigidly observed. Exhibitors are losing in their fight to bring about the opening of their houses on this day, even though legitimate theatres, circuses, etc., are permitted. The legitimate houses all grossed new records Monday because of their monopoly.

Looking 'Em Over

"One Is Guilty"

(Columbia)

This film follows the formula for entertainment of its type quite religiously. It is so much like the average mystery picture that to relate its plot seems unnecessary. The characters may bear different names but the game is the same. They are paraded before the camera and scrambled to the end that the audience may be fooled, something which the film does with but moderate success. By the time the half-way mark is reached, it becomes apparent that Willard Robertson is the guilty one. The picture has no big asset to outweigh this liability.

A prizefighter is found murdered in an apartment in a building that has been vacated after foreclosure. Everyone in sight is under suspicion. Robertson manages to escape suspicion (the suspicion of the police, that is, not that of the audience) until the film is almost ended. His motive had been jealousy. He knew his wife had been having an affair with the fighter, so he had shot him.

Ralph Bellamy is a police inspector. Other players include Shirley Grey, with whom Bellamy forms a romantic attachment; Rita La Roy, Wheeler Oakman, Warren Hymer and J. Carrol Naish. Lambert Hillier directed.

"Orders Is Orders," this morning's opener at the Westminster Cinema, was reviewed on April 11.

"No Greater Glory," tonight's preview at the Roxy, was reviewed on Feb. 27 by wire from Hollywood.

"Manhattan Melodrama," tomorrow's opener at the Capitol, was reviewed on April 20 by wire from Hollywood.

"Double Door," tomorrow morning's opener at the Paramount, was reviewed on April 19 by wire from Hollywood.

Mayer Books "I'll Tell"

Arthur Mayer has booked Fox's "Now I'll Tell" for the Rialto starting May 18.

Catholic Boycott on Sex Films Is Urged

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—Boycotting of pictures glorifying crime or attacking the sanctity of marriage and the home, or condoning sex sins, was recommended to Catholics everywhere through a resolution unanimously passed by more than 1,000 women attending the Catholic Action Week Conferences here. The resolution, as presented by Mrs. Thomas Hearn, reads as follows: "This regional conference of the Catholic Women's Council purposes to oppose by every means in its power the attendance of Catholics to motion pictures which flaunt indecency, glorify crime and criminals, condone sex sins and scoff at the sanctity of marriage and the home.

"Because the most effective way is the withdrawal of patronage, we urge that Catholics remain away from theatres showing such films.

"Parents, in particular, should make certain that films give no offense to morality or the accepted standards of decency and good taste."

Columbia Branches Being Coordinated

Activities of the Columbia home office and the eight English branches are being closely coordinated, Henri Brunet, in charge of the company's exchange system, stated yesterday following his return from a four-month tour of England.

He also said that the outlook abroad is promising and conditions are improving.

Senate Starts Work On Bankruptcy Bill

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The Senate today took up for passage legislation setting up machinery for the reorganization of embarrassed corporations. The bill has already been passed by the House of Representatives.

The bill is intended to provide an alternative to bankruptcy proceedings by the development of plans for reorganization under which the interests of both creditors and stockholders may be pared down to a point where the corporation can continue in business with a good chance of paying off its reduced indebtedness.

Enactment of the proposed amendment to the Federal bankruptcy laws would make the reorganization of Paramount Public "10 times easier," a company executive stated recently in discussing the measure.

Under the provisions of the bill, bankrupt estates may scale down creditors' claims and stockholders' interests to a point where reorganization is possible, providing the reductions have the approval of two-thirds of the creditors and a majority of the stockholders.

Color Pictures to Be Dissolved Soon

Color Pictures, Inc., acquired recently by Technicolor on a cash payment and stock transfer basis, will be dissolved by May 16, after which time holders of Color Pictures stock will be permitted to exchange their shares at the rate of five shares for each two shares of Technicolor. In addition, $134,980 in cash will be distributed among Color Pictures stockholders at the rate of 60 cents for each share of stock, as a dividend in partial liquidation.

Lorillard Spencer, president of Color Pictures, said that any cash or other assets ultimately remaining will be distributed as a final dividend in liquidation "as soon as practicable."

Variety Club Chatter

Albany

ALBANY, May 2.—Sixty barkers and their guests played a part in a very enjoyable luncheon arranged by kings for a day, BILL HASKELL and JACK FITZPATRICK, held in Jack's Cafe.

Entertainment was furnished by the floor show now holding forth in the Kenmore Hotel, through the cooperation of BOB MURPHY, manager. HAPPY STEVENS played his usual role as master of ceremonies and JERRY BLANCKARD did a great taffeeff on Mae West.

Captain BILL DUTTON of the New York State Police was guest of Chief Barker BUCKLEY.

LEO DOODY's name was added to the list of associate members, and he expressed a keen desire to become actively engaged in Variety Club functions. The Albany commissioner of charities is from the old school of press agents and theatre managers, having been associated with Barkers SAYLES and PERRIN 20 years ago during Proctor's hey-day up state.

Buffalo

BUFFALO, May 2.—To give the next kings for the day a chance to catch their breath in an effort to stage a more "colossal" show than the last two, Variety Club will have a closed business session at its next luncheon Monday. There will be no kings for the day, Chief Barker DAVE MILLER announced.

More than 100 barkers and their friends attended the meeting May 1. GEORGE H. MOESER, manager of the Hollywood Pictures exchange, and VINCENT R. McFAUL, general manager of the Shea Theatres Corp., were among those whose duties had prevented them from attending previous luncheons.

They were surprised by the quantity and quality of entertainment provided by the kings for the day, HARRY ALTMAN and MURRAY WHITEMAN. There were two bands and complete floor shows from the Vendome, Alhambra and K. E. P. night clubs.

Mainstreet Scales Cut in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—Apparently because of the presence of hitherto non-existent competition, the RKO Mainstreet cuts its price scale for its last stage show of the season, headlined by Sally Rand, fan dancer, beginning Friday. Prices will be 25 cents until 1 P. M., 35 cents from 1 to 6, and 35 cents for balcony seats and 50 cents lower floor at night. Previous long-established scale for combination shows has been 25c-40c-60c.

Foy Film Opening Is Set

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—Bryan Foy's "Sterilization" will have its world premiere at the Pantages here on May 12. On the same day Jack Proctor will start on a cross-country tour of advance exploitation.

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, May 2.—JOHN H. HARRIS, national president, and "daddy" of the Variety Club idea, accompanied by ROSEY ROSEWELL, also of the mother club at Pittsburgh, stopped off here to look over the local tent while en route to Indianapolis.

The Variety Club dinner-dance has been set for May 19 at the Pavilion Caprice of the Netherland-Plaza. Minimum attendance has been placed at 1,000. Proceeds will be turned over to the NVA. This is the first time an affair of this kind has been held by a Variety Club for the benefit of another organization, as far as is known.

Mayor RUSSELL WILSON now appears on the local roster as an associate member. "Russ" was reviewer on the Times-Star before becoming Hizzoner.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—The following quartet has been welcomed into membership of Tent No. 8: WARD E. SCOTT, Fox; BOB CARNIE, Paramount; LES DURLAND, Midwest Film Distributors; and BARNEY L. ALLIS, head of the company operating the Muehlebach Hotel.

The Kansans will have it all to themselves on May 6, designated as "Kansas City, Kansas, Day." In charge are FRED MEYN, chairman, with PECK BAKER and DICK BIECHELE.

BILL WARNER and GUS DIAMOND of Warners wear the crowns on May 13. TOMMY THOMPSON and the RKO lads have been set back as program sponsors to some time in June.

Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, May 2.—The local Variety Club received its charter officially at the weekly luncheon in the Claypool Hotel. JOHNNY HARRIS, national president, DUKE CLARK, chief barker of the Columbus tent, and GEORGE TYSON, former Indianapolis man and chief barker of the St. Louis tent, were the installing officers.

Shows at St. Louis Hanging in Balance

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—Whether the Ambassador will drop stage shows for the summer and go to duals will depend upon the box-office results of Ed Lowry's engagement as master of ceremonies which starts Friday.

If the Ambassador goes to duals, Loew's State and the Shubert would be the only first run single feature spots in town.

New Color Process Ready for Market

A new color process that will require no change in existing production or projection equipment will soon be put on the American market by the Dufay Co., a newly created American branch of the English Dufay Color Co., Ltd. The branch will be headed by Walter H. Carson, former vice-president of Agfa-Ansco Corp.

Rent Suit Settled On Kansas Theatre

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—Suit of William Wagner against Universal for rent due on the Beldorf, Independence, Kan., has been settled out of court by agreement of Glen W. Dickinson Theatres, Inc., the sub-lessee, to pay $17,000 to Wagner and Mrs. Katherine T. Wagner, his mother, co-plaintiff. The theatre reverts to Wagner, at present manager of the Fox Plaza, Kansas City.

Wagner had obtained a judgment for $18,500 against Universal in the Federal district court, which was appealed to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Wichita. The litigation will be dismissed. The amount of the settlement covers rentals to next October, according to Leland Hazard, Wagner's attorney.

Universal leased the house in 1926 when it was building a circuit in this area and two years later sub-leased it to Dickinson.

Court Grants Stay On Tivoli Pickets

A temporary order restraining Local 118, Service Employees' Union, from picketing the Tivoli, Brooklyn, was issued yesterday in Supreme Court, Brooklyn. A hearing on an application for a permanent injunction against the union has been set for Monday.

George Jordan, union picket at the Tivoli, who was arrested Tuesday, was found guilty of disorderly conduct in magistrate's court, Brooklyn, yesterday, and received a suspended sentence. Counter charges brought by the local against Harry Lewis, manager of the Tivoli, and an assistant, J. R. Robinson, were dismissed.

Loew's State Is Bombed

Sale of tickets at Loew's State was halted for a short while Tuesday night by the breaking of a stench bomb in the rear of the house. The management could give no reason for the act, claiming that the house is having no labor, or any other trouble at the present time.

Bernard Becker, Albert Murtha and Alexander Zimmerman were arraigned before Magistrate Francis J. Erwin in the West Side Court yesterday and charged with malicious mischief after they had been arrested by detectives. Murtha and Zimmerman are being held on the complaint of Herman Reisner, owner of the Manhattan Avenue, while it is alleged Becker bombed the Freeman on Southern Blvd., the Bronx.

Fox Midwest Seeks a New Setup June 1

Deal on Woolf-Shanberg Claim Is Discussed

KANSAS CITY, May 3.—Settlement of the Woolf-Shanberg court actions which are holding up reorganization of Fox Midland and Fox Rocky Mountain Theatre Cos., is now expected by or around June 1. It will take an estimated two or three months after that to declare a creditors' dividend and dispose of various other matters, and those that have reorganization in hand are working toward a windup by Sept. 1.

Even though the Pacific Coast division of Fox West Coast completes reorganization soon, as reported, the

Dubinsky Ordered to Reinstate IATSE Men

KANSAS CITY, May 3.—The St. Louis Regional Labor Board today handed down a decision ordering Dubinsky to reinstate I.A.T.S.E. operators and stage-hands at salaries in force at the time of the employees' asserted lockout at the two Dubinsky houses in St. Joseph last November. The board gave a similar decision some time ago, but Dubinsky appealed to the National Labor Board, which

Crawford-Durante Contracts Extended

HOLLYWOOD, May 3.—M-G-M has exercised options on Joan Crawford's and Jimmy Durante's contracts for another year. Bernard Schubert, Lawrence Eyre and Ethel Borden, writers; Louise Henry and William Henry, players, have been given short-term contracts. Mrs. Patrick Campbell's option for a second picture has not been taken up.

Opera with Film

Opera will make its bow at the Music Hall, May 10, when "Madame Butterfly" in full opens with Fox's "Change of Heart." The opera in which Anna Roselle, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Co., will appear may stay for more than one week. It is considered the greatest stage show for the house since its opening.

Schaefer Appoints Agnew to New Post

Neil F. Agnew yesterday was appointed Paramount general sales manager by George J. Schaefer, general manager of Paramount and subsidiaries. Agnew formerly was assistant sales manager and western division manager. A successor to the latter post will be named within the next few days.

Agnew's promotion was necessitated by the increasing scope of Schaefer's activities, it was stated at Paramount.

Para. Eliminates All Its 2-Reelers

Paramount has eliminated all two-reel subjects from its shorts schedule for next season and has reduced the total schedule by 25 subjects, the 24 two-reelers and one single, Lou Diamond, in charge of the company's shorts, said yesterday.

The total schedule includes 100 one-reelers and 104 issues of the Paramount newsreel. The current season's

Overbuying Is First Protest To N.Y. Board

First complaint to be heard by the New York grievance board at the May 8 session will be that of Sam Rogowsky, operator of the Embassy, Port Chester, against the Skouras Theatres Corp. and all major distributors, except Paramount. Skouras operates the Capitol in Port Chester.

Rogowsky, in his complaint, asks that 50 per cent of the product of the companies involved be turned over to him. He claims that Skouras has overbought by signing for all the product

Streimer Quits Code Advisory Committee

First New York member of the code boards to resign is Moe Streimer, branch manager for United Artists. He was the distributor with theatre affiliation on the Manhattan, Bronx, Staten Island and Westchester advisory committee of the clearance and zoning.

Streimer has not been well for the last few months and recently returned from a three-week vacation, having recovered from a breakdown.

Operation expenses for the two New York boards are figured at approximately $600 a month, of which $100 would go for rent and $400 for salaries of the secretaries.

Discuss Contract Bans Before Going into Sales Sessions

The fate of double featuring is being decided in pre-convention discussions of new season policies, with indications already pointing to contractual restrictions by at least four large companies on the double featuring of their 1934-35 product.

Paramount, Warners, RKO and M-G-M are on record through expressions of ranking executives as opposed to duals. Production executives of Fox and 20th Century are also known to be opposed to the policy. As a result, the impression is definitely registered in distribution circles here that the sales policies of all or most of these companies next season may

K.C. Argument May Return Exclusives

KANSAS CITY, May 3.—Loew's may return exclusive runs to the 4,000-seat Midland here next fall as its answer to the suburban's demand for curtailed first run protection. Informed observers see in that policy a way to continue its present 25-cent price.

The circuit has taken the position that the prices it charges are its own

Des Moines Starts Re-Zoning Confabs

DES MOINES, May 3.—Preliminary plans for the zoning of the Des Moines exchange territory were made this week at a meeting of the zoning board in the new code headquarters, 224 Iowa Building. A. H. Blank presided.

There is little objection to the re-zoning plan, it is believed, as the smaller theatres appear to be quite willing to take advantage of the newspaper publicity given pictures on their first showing, without the attendant charges. The next meeting of the zoning board is set for May 16, when definite action is expected.

RICHMOND, May 3.—This city's newest house, the Carillon, was given a formal opening last night with a large group of prominent citizens among those attending. "Dancing Lady" was the feature. The house seats 500 and is equipped with "Wide Range" sound and a cooling plant.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood, May 3
FANTASTIC story of Fantastiland, known to the post-office as Hollywood and to some in the production colony as Grabland, deals with the modus operandi of one studio which computes five out of every 10 pictures it places before camera and microphone are foreordained to flop. Studio executives point the finger of blame on the release date system and the insistence of the sales department, reflecting exhibitor clamor, that they be met, plus the annual commitment of turning out too many pictures. . . .

The whole system of release dates and its alleged effect on quality production constitute one of the angles to the many-sided, complex Hollywood situation which practically all major producers deplore, but about which they maintain they can do nothing. Regardless, for the moment at least, of where the onus ends, it is an undisputed fact that many films which fall shy of plans made for them on paper could have been built into real attractions if the release date, a general ogre to production minds, had not hung over studios like the well known sword of Damocles. . . .

California fruits have no bounce, say the expatriates. If you want good cuts of meat, look for a meat shoppe or a restaurant that has them shipped in from Kansas City or Chicago, continue the expatriates. "But the most trouble of all is with the hams," chimes in a patriot. . . . New York agent, here on a radio hook-up, runs into a friend, once a Gothamite, but now resident here. "How long are you in for?" asks the latter. "With good behavior, I'll be out in two weeks," rejoins the visitor. . . .

Joe Cunningham, erstwhile combination cartoonist and news gatherer for Jay Emanuel, admits to a thrill when he learned his maison had collected Mae West's former maid. . . . A Hollywoodian, remembering his classical lore, to Dave Selznick on "Viva Villa:" "It is the Iliad and the Odyssey of Mexico." Selznick, asking another what he thought of the picture: "It's Homeric." . . . Diligent research and frantic repertorial effort around Paramount fail to disclose who plays the asp in "Cleopatra. . . .

Gabe Yorke and Joe Shea, boss and assistant, also pals, are turning to riding as part of an organized plan to dodge picture talk where possible when off the lot. So cantering they went over the week-end. "Say, when are they going to make some more westerners at Fox?" asked Gabe's horse. "After all, I'm only hacking for you and waiting for a call from your lot." . . . One of Shea's best, by the way, concerns a Hollywood actor who holds a contract to make two pictures at a major studio and 34 personal appearances at the Brown Derby. K A N N

More Sunday Arrests

RICHMOND, May 3.—Two more arrests in connection with Sunday benefits have been made here. John P. Leary, Loew operator, and Brock Whitlock, head usher, are being held for a hearing next Tuesday as a result of a show last Sunday for the benefit of the Richmond Tuberculosis Ass'n. Similar arrests some months ago were followed by acquittals.

affair and is unwilling to let that factor enter into discussions on clearance revision. Further, it is held to be a long-established fundamental, restated in the code, that the length of protection is in direct ratio to the rental. For almost two years the center of strife because of either policy or price, the Midland now faces a showdown pressed by the suburbans in the clearance and zoning board. Other downtown first runs' policies are also attacked, but the Midland, the largest de luxe in this area and with the pick of M-G-M and United Artists product, is regarded as the key to the whole of policy, price and protection.

Three indicated paths are open to Loew's Midland in the face of the zoning board's expected action: Raise scales to at least 40 cents top; consent to a cut in protection, or go exclusive next season.

Competitive first runs and suburbans favor a higher scale, claiming it would furnish an incentive for other price increases.

The contention that "Hitler's Reign of Terror" comes under the classification of a newsreel and so is outside the jurisdiction of the film division of the State Department of Education, through which licenses must be obtained for all pictures other than reels shown in the State, was argued by counsel for Jewel Productions, the distributors, before Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy yesterday. An injunction is being sought by the plaintiff to keep the film from being ordered off Broadway for failure to obtain a license. Decision was reserved.

Majors Are Settling Dual Policy Now carry the executive viewpoints into practice through contractual clauses restricting in one way or another the exhibition of those companies' pictures on the same program with another feature.

What form the restrictions will take is a matter of conjecture. A clause flatly prohibiting the exhibition of a picture on the same program with another feature has been employed by several companies in the past on outstanding releases. A contract arrangement for a rental rebate on pictures shown singly has also been employed effectively by distributors.

Deciding Factor Seen

With the M.P.T.O.A. on record at its last convention as opposed to duals and the executive committee of the organization scheduled to take action soon on methods of curbing the practice among exhibitors, any further restrictions imposed by a majority of the large distributors is regarded by many as the deciding factor in the fate of duals next season, at least, in those centers where it is most widespread at the present time.

A brochure setting forth the case of double features from the independent producers' and distributors' viewpoint is being sent to exhibitors throughout the country by the Federation of the M. P. Industry.

A highlight of the 12-page booklet is a nine-page section given over to photographs of theatre marquees in all sections of the country, heralding double feature programs and reproductions of newspaper advertisements of dual bills.

Golden Warns Exhibitors

A warning to exhibitors who would eliminate double features is sounded by Edward Golden, Monogram sales manager, who views the policy as the only recourse of the exhibitor in a competitive situation.

"If you do not want to play double features," Golden writes, "due to the fact that you are in a non-competitive situation, do you want to place the exhibitor who is not in the same position that you are, in a position where he cannot play his pictures as he desires? You cannot tell when you will be in the same relative position as the exhibitor who must play double features, so why close your door to what might be your salvation?"

"Independent producers do not ask you to play double features," Golden points out, "they merely ask you not to close the doors to the possibility of playing them if you so desire."

"Beloved," Revue $11,000, Montreal

MONTREAL, May 3.—With the six-day bike race over, with its 92,000 patronage, and baseball not yet begun, Montreal theatres had the field all to themselves last week. "Beloved" and a stage show gave $11,000 to Loew's to lead the town.

The Palace climbed to $10,000 with "Gambling Lady" and "Easy to Love," while the Capitol was around $10,500 because of "Mystery of Mr. X" and "Meet the Baron." The Princess was also higher at $7,000, with "The Lost Patrol" and "This Man is Mine."

Total business was $38,500. Average is $36,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 28:

"MYSTERY OF MR. X" (M-G-M)
"MEET THE BARON" (M-G-M)
CAPITOL—(2,547), 25c-35c-40c-50c-60c, 7 days. Gross: $10,500. (Average, $9,000.)

Roxy Pulls a Big $19,800, Buffalo

BUFFALO, May 3.—Roxy in person sent the Buffalo $4,800 above normal to $19,800 and would have pulled in important money if not hampered by a film that was unanimously panned by local critics. It was "Good Dame."

Closing of the Great Lakes failed to boost other grosses as expected. The weather was cool and some snow fell.

Total first run business was $41,200. Normal is $36,300.

Estimated takings for the week ending April 27:

"GOOD DAME" (Para.)
BUFFALO—(3,500), 30c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Roxy and Gang. Gross: $19,800. (Average, $15,000)

"THE SHOWOFF" (M-G-M)
"BEDSIDE" (F. N.)
CENTURY—(3,000), 25c, 7 days. Gross: $6,000. (Average, $6,000)

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS" (Fox)

"SHANGHAI MADNESS" (Fox)
"MARRIAGE ON APPROVAL" (Freuler)
LAFAYETTE—(3,300), 25c, 7 days. Gross: $6,200. (Average, $6,500)

Warners Curtail on Current Production

HOLLYWOOD, May 3.—Warners are cutting down their production schedule to two pictures a week until the current season's program is finished, necessitating the laying off of 600 day workers. The new program will start the latter part of June. This is in accordance with the request from Washington to keep studios operating throughout the year.

of the companies involved for the Capitol, leaving the Embassy with only half of Paramount's current program. Defendants have been notified to appear next Tuesday. Robert R. Rosan, Port Chester attorney, will represent Rogowsky.

Another case slated to come up at this session is one filed by Howard S. Cullman, receiver for the Roxy, against Walter Reade and the Mayfair. Cullman's grievance has to do with cut rate tickets and unfair advertising. The complainant states the Mayfair has been distributing two-for-one tickets and advertising seats at all times at 25 cents. He says in some instances patrons have had to wait three hours for seats, which is unethical advertising.

Another case of Cullman's, that against the Casino for misrepresentation in advertising, is slated for the calendar of May 15. Cullman will appear in person on his grievances.

Maryland Protests Code Cost Ratios sent to John C. Flinn, executive secretary.

In an accompanying letter Hornig wrote: "This resolution was prompted by an investigation which shows that houses with 3,000 seats running first run pictures and doing business of from $20,000 to $25,000 a week have been allocated under the same expense rate as houses under 300 seats doing $600 a week and are called on to pay the same rate of $36.

"Furthermore, we feel that the men on the committee did not have small houses in mind and we are quite sure that if exhibitors throughout the country were given the opportunity to appear before the committee, that they would have no trouble in convincing them of the unfairness of this allocation."

Buffalo Objects to Plan of Assessment

Campi by Jules H. Michael, chairman of the Western New York zone, M. P. T. O. Michael points out that in this area only two classifications are made, first runs paying $48 a year and all subsequent runs $36 a year. In New York, there are three classifications, first run, second run and subsequents. Many small theatres in the Buffalo section cannot afford to pay what the larger repeat houses can and ought to pay, he declares, requesting upstate classifications on the same basis as in New York.

"Sweethearts" on the Air

Warners' "20 Million Sweethearts" has been chosen as the "Picture of the Week" for the inaugural broadcast of the Schlitz Beer radio program, which begins today over the Columbia network at 10 P. M. The program will be heard weekly.

Looking 'Em Over

"Twentieth Century"

(Columbia)

John Barrymore, expert comedian, with Carole Lombard revealing unsuspected talents, are personality elements added to the strong mass appeal of this Columbia production. Taken from the popular stage play, it preserves all the possible comedy and embellishes it for a big laugh screen show. The comedy runs from slapstick to smart farce and contrasts with dramatic touches in a way that builds explosive suspense.

The story has Miss Lombard, a Broadway headliner, en route from Hollywood to Manhattan and more fame. Entraining at Chicago comes Producer Barrymore, his manager and press agent, with spirits low after their flop.

Aboard the 20th Century Limited exciting laugh sequences develop, as the egomaniacal producer endeavors to sign Miss Lombard to a stage contract. The major action is confined to the train and presents variegated types in intimate yet volcanic entertainment.

The supporting cast is splendid. The leads, Roscoe Karns, Walter Connolly and Etienne Girardot, are outstanding. Howard Hawks' direction takes every advantage of the Hecht-MacArthur screen play.

In big or small towns this looks like a natural big money attraction, and as an all-laugh picture produced with zest and ingenuity it should bring in big returns.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back"

(20th Century-U. A.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 3.—Ronald Colman, in a top hat and with a long swagger, returns to the screen after two years of absence in his favorite character, Bulldog Drummond.

Adventurer, traveler, amateur detective, Drummond comes back from hunting in Africa wishing peace and quiet, but encounters terrific adventure. In a gorgeous burlesque of melodrama he romps through scenes of mystery dripping with laughter, suspense and packed with hilarity and romance cut to fit the Colman pattern.

On the night of the marriage of his aide, Charles Butterworth, to Una Merkel, Colman interrupts their honeymoon by a telephone call that adventure stirs. Having met Loretta Young in a London fog and stumbled into a mystery house where Warner Oland and his henchmen hold forth, he rouses C. Aubrey Smith, Scotland Yard inspector, and during the entire film keeps the groom from his bride and the inspector from his sleep, and solves the blooming, baffling mystery with a romantic flourish. The production, direction, cast and script are all top notch.

Colman's return will be welcomed. Miss Young's charm, with the laugh-provoking antics of Butterworth and Smith, together with the mystery melodrama flavor, and the title should attract all.

"Change of Heart"

(Sheehan-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, May 3.—After nearly two years' soloing, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell reunite for the benefit of youth and romance.

Always rated as one of the biggest box-office combinations, their latest opus should draw mobs for real money.

The story traces four youngsters, Miss Gaynor, Farrell, Jimmy Dunn and Ginger Rogers, after graduating from college, to New York via airplane. Each wills to win Manhattan's favor, Farrell as a lawyer, Miss Gaynor as a writer, Miss Rogers as an actress, and Dunn as a crooner. Their love lives intertwine, with Farrell falling for Miss Rogers, Dunn wanting her, knowing that Miss Gaynor aches for Farrell. The love scene, with Miss Gaynor shaving Farrell, is a distinctive highlight of the picture.

Miss Gaynor and Farrell romance with refreshing charm. Dunn nearly steals the show with his breezy, lighthearted comedy. Miss Rogers is alluring. Beryl Mercer and Gustav von Seyffertitz perform their small parts well.

John Blystone directed with a confident pace for sound entertainment values minus any sirupy sweetness. The photography by Hall Mohr rates bouquets. The story was adapted from Kathleen Norris' yarn by Sonya Levien and Jimmy Gleason, with additional dialogue by Samuel Hoffenstein.

Fox Midwest Seeks a New Setup June 1

companies tied up in bankruptcy here could still remain in their present status, it is pointed out. It had been anticipated that the west coast group would be out of bankruptcy first since they have met no opposition such as offered by M. B. Shanberg and Herbert M. Woolf here.

Those close to the situation say the delay in working out a settlement with the former Midland owners has been occasioned by Chase National Bank's opposition to paying their claim of almost $500,000 out of its resources. Chase National favors a settlement, but is unwilling to do any more financing for Fox West Coast, it is said, and insists on having the Woolf-Shanberg claim paid out of the theatres' current profits. Since the circuit has not been showing a profit, this has not been possible, but a settlement is being worked out.

Chase National is dealing with Woolf-Shanberg because they hold a secured claim. Non-secured creditors will have to bide their time until the sale of the properties for their share of the proceeds.

Says President to Get Report Soon

him and left them in doubt whether the report was still being drafted or, as he said at one point, already completed and signed by five members.

Completion of the report is believed to be Darrow's answer to the opposition of other members of the board, and if it actually has been signed by five of the six members all must have been won over to the chairman's point of view, except John F. Sinclair, who has practically severed his relations with the board and is spending practically all of his time in New York.

Confidence was expressed today in interested circles that the report will be made public within a week or 10 days of its submission, if not by the White House then by some member of Congress, probably Senator Nye of North Dakota, who was largely responsible for the creation of the board. It is rumored Senator Nye has been in close touch with the board during the writing of the report, in which he may personally have taken a hand, and that he is preparing to use it at the first opportunity as the basis for an attack on the NRA.

The "Screen Songs" and "Screen Souvenirs" have been dropped.

Who? What? When?

Who are the secretaries picked to serve code boards throughout the country?

More thumbnail sketches, gathered by MOTION PICTURE DAILY correspondents, furnish the answer:

Cincinnati

MRS. ALICE M. JUERGENS, secretary of the Cincinnati boards, was born in Duluth, Minn., and received her education at the Central High School, Minneapolis. Later she attended business college.

She was for four years assistant to Evelyn McNamee, secretary of the Cincinnati Film Board until that office was abolished. She has been secretary of the Cincinnati Film Board of Trade for the past two and one-half years.

Prior to these connections, she was employed at the Columbia branch in Cincinnati as secretary to the manager.

Mrs. Juergens resides at Stony Brook Place, Woodlawn, Cincinnati. She has no children.

Minneapolis

MRS. MABEL DIETZ, secretary of the Minneapolis boards, has been secretary of the Film Board of Trade since 1927.

She was born in Indianapolis and educated there in the common schools and high school. She studied at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York. She first appeared in pictures in 1916 in Hollywood. She worked with Metro and Universal, making several pictures with King Baggot.

Having married before entering pictures, she left pictures to look after her young daughter. She traveled for the Hays organization in public relations work for some time and was for a time in the non-theatrical department of Fox Film under Courtland Smith.

It was from this work that she finally went to Minneapolis to take up work of board secretary. She lives at 1931 Fremont avenue, Minneapolis.

San Francisco

MISS ROWENA FOLEY, secretary of the San Francisco code boards, was born in Omaha, where she was educated, attending the University of Nebraska. Entering commercial life, she became secretary to Edward Pettis, vice-president of the Omaha Trust Co., Omaha. In 1928 she went to San Francisco as assistant secretary on the Film Board of Trade. In the fall of that year she was appointed secretary of the Portland Film Board of Trade and acquired through these two positions a thorough knowledge of the industry.

In February, 1929, she was summoned back to San Francisco to take over the post of secretary of the San Francisco Film Board. Less than two years later when the industry combined in a vigorous battle against a proposed daylight saving's initiative bill Miss Foley played an important part in the campaign, furnishing much data upon which arguments against the proposed law were based.

She is a member of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority and several local organizations.

Pittsburgh

EMMALINE FINEBERG, secretary for the Pittsburgh boards, is a native Pittsburgher and has been in the film business since embarking upon a career. She was born in 1906 and was educated at the Brushton Public School and Schenley High School. When she graduated from the latter, Miss Fineberg joined the Pittsburgh Film Board of Trade as assistant secretary. That was in 1923. In July, 1928, she went to Albany as Film Board secretary, but stayed there only a short time, going to Winnipeg in a similar capacity. She remained in Winnipeg for 18 months, returning to Pittsburgh in 1930 as secretary to the Film Board of Trade. When that organization disbanded in August, 1931, Miss Fineberg went to the M-G-M exchange as secretary to Herb Jenner, office manager. She has held that post ever since.

Seattle

MRS. ROBERTA B. LYNCH, secretary of the Seattle boards, has been secretary of the Seattle Film Board of Trade since January, 1925, the only affiliation that she has ever had with trade or industry.

When asked for her biography Mrs. Lynch stated that her Film Board of Trade work has constituted her only claim to fame—unless credit might be given for raising three children.

Dubinsky Ordered to Reinstate IATSE Men

returned the matter to the regional body for review. The board cited alleged violations by Dubinsky of the labor provisions in the NRA blanket and industry codes.

The I.A.T.S.E. operators' union had rejected Ed Dubinsky's terms for arbitration on the ground his plan was not according to the code.

Arbitration under the code calls for each side to choose a representative, and these two to name an impartial third party in event of a deadlock. Dubinsky, according to the unions, insisted on a Federal district judge for the third man. One of the Federal judges recently granted Dubinsky an injunction against union crafts in St. Joseph.

Also, Dubinsky demanded that the fight be submitted to the Kansas City Regional Labor Board, while the union favored the St. Louis board.

Charge Against Midwest

KANSAS CITY, May 3.—H. L. Dun-nuck, Madrid Theatre, Atchison, Kan., today filed a complaint with the local grievance board against Fox Midwest charging the circuit entered into an agreement with seven major companies to deprive him of product. He alleges the companies will not sell him second runs after the pictures play the two Fox houses there.

Neighborhoods Fight Memphis Rezoning Plan

Oppose Price as a Factor In Fixing Clearance

MEMPHIS, May 4.—Neighborhood theatre owners, meeting today in M. A. Lightman's office, registered a vigorous protest against the new zoning schedule drafted by the clearance zoning board and announced exclusively in MOTION PICTURE DAILY earlier in the week.

It was declared that for the first time admission price is made the determining factor in zoning. Those present declared they would appeal to Code Authority unless a satisfactory adjustment is made here. It was agreed that a formal objection would

Clearance Changes In 3 Kansas Cities

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4.—The zoning board late today voted a new clearance schedule for Kansas City, Kan.; North Kansas City, Mo., and this city. Although official announcement will not be made until early next week, it is understood on reliable information that the board voted drastic clearance and reduced protection for first runs charging 25 cents

Frisco Board Gets Batch of 15 Cases

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Fifteen complaints have been filed with the grievance board. What order they will be heard in has not been decided as yet.

The boards have moved into new offices in the Golden Gate Building and have outlined a course of procedure. Zoning and clearance meetings will be held Monday and Wednesday and the grievance board will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays. Each board will meet at 1:30 P.M. and adjourn at 5 P. M.

Needs a Month

Asked whether he has filed any complaints with the New York grievance board, Harry C. Arthur states the board will have to set aside the month of June to hear all his grievances.

Sale of Trio in St. Louis May Be Set for Mid-June

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—With Federal Judge Davis approving the reorganization plan of the bondholders for the Missouri, Ambassador and Grand Central, the likelihood appeared today that public sale of the houses may be scheduled for the middle of June, although there was given no definite assurance of this. Knowledge of a possible disposal of the theatres at that time came with the denial of a report that the sale was definitely set for May 25. It was said it would be impossible to hold the sale that early, since four weeks' publication is required by law and no ad has appeared.

The reorganization plan includes Harry C. Arthur's and Harry Koplar's plan of operation under the Fanchon and Marco banner. Arthur would take over the houses the end of July if his bid were successful. F. & M. already operates the Fox and St. Louis. Policy of the new acquisitions may be changed. Allan Snyder is financing F. & M. locally. With acquisition of the trio Skouras would step out of local operation.

Zanuck in Tomorrow On His Way Abroad

Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production for 20th Century, with the company's first-year production schedule completed gets into town from the coast tomorrow morning. He will remain here six days before sailing on a three-month tour of Europe and Africa. While abroad Zanuck will visit United Artists branches in London, Paris, Vienna, Cairo, Capetown and other centers.

Zanuck will be accompanied by Mrs. Zanuck and William Goetz, associate producer for 20th Century.

"Rothschild" Breaks Philadelphia Record

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Its first week ending last night, "The House of Rothschild" decisively broke all records for the 1,300-seat Aldine. There were over 43,000 admissions with a gross of slightly under $23,000. Size of this figure is indicated by the fact that the previous record holder, "Roman Scandals," did $16,000 its first week, with a midnight

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—Paramount will put 23 new pictures into work within the next three months, according to Emanuel Cohen, who arrived here today from New York.

Ads Time Shows

TAMPA, May 4.—An innovation that is making a hit is the publishing of the starting hours of the features in the advertising of the five Sparks theatres here.

Vernon Hunter, district manager, is the daddy of this innovation, which is in accordance with a suggestion made by Martin Quigley in an editorial in Motion Picture Herald of April 21.

"U" Dillinger Reward Holds, But Off Reel

Universal Newsreel's offer of $5,000 for the arrest of John Dillinger stands, but no announcement regarding it is to appear on theatre screens. Exhibitors object.

When Charles E. Ford, newsreel editor, made the first announcement he intended to include the offer as a clip in the reel and expected generally favorable reactions from exhibitors, but objections came in quickly.

Like most citizens, exhibitors would like to see the fugitive captured, Ford

Cleveland Theatre Given Up by Loew

CLEVELAND, May 4.—Loew's has given up the Alhambra, neighborhood house, and one of the first theatres in the Loew circuit. It has reverted to the building owners. This reduces the Loew group to four houses in Cleveland. They are the State, Stillman, Park and Granada. At one time Loew operated 11 local theatres, the State, Allen, Stillman, Cameo and Mall downtown, and the Park, Alhambra, Granada, Doan and Liberty, and Heights in suburban sections.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Legislation to free fight films from interstate and foreign commerce regulations was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Barbour of New Jersey.

Score Charge Fight Spreads Across Canada

Hanson Leads Move for Government Probe

TORONTO, May 4.—A meeting of the M. P. Distributors' Ass'n. has been called for Tuesday to consider the demands of independents for removal of score charges July 1 in new contracts.

In the meantime Oscar Hanson, general manager of Ontario Allied, is sending letters to all theatre organizations and individual exhibitors from coast to coast asking them to press for united action, with the suggestion that the case may be taken before a Federal investigating committee under H. M. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce at Ottawa. William Brady, proprietor of the Madison here, has written the Federal government explaining the position of independents.

The only Canadian exchange not making score charges is Universal.

Independents are also complaining that circuits get first choice on film and they are insisting that something be done about it before new contracts are signed.

Herman Kramer Dead

DETROIT, May 4.—Herman Kramer, Sr., builder of the Kramer and its operator for several years, is dead. He was injured in an auto accident two years ago and has been in ill health since then. He is survived by his son, Walter, who operated the theatre until recently, when it was leased to the Krim brothers, and another son, Herman, Jr.

W. C. Bernower Passes

AKRON, May 4.—William C. Bernower, 62, for many years identified with theatres here, is dead. He was for many years leader of the pit orchestra at the Colonial and also the leader of the band at the Meyers Lake Park Theatre, Canton. He came here 19 years ago from Canton. A daughter, one sister and a brother survive. Burial was in Akron.

Stevens Funeral Today

Funeral services for Harry M. Stevens, caterer to the sports world and intimate of many film men, will be held today at 11 A.M. in the Campbell Funeral Church, with burial at Niles, Ohio. Stevens died Thursday night after a long illness. He was 78 years old.

Friedlander Ends Trip

Having returned yesterday from a three-week tour of First Division exchanges, Al Friedlander plans to leave on a similar trip early next week. In Pittsburgh, First Division has taken over the Majestic franchise and Joseph Skirball has been placed in charge of the office. Skirball replaces Abe Schnitzer in that post. Boston is Friedlander's first stop on his scheduled trip.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood, May 4

THE creative workers are far better business folks than tradition, or outside opinion, credits them. It may be the majesty of the Federal law makes them so, but it is a fact the rising curve in income taxes is rapidly fashioning a trend in production, the manifestations of which may assert themselves more concretely as this year gets older and the next creeps in. It's being talked about, and not behind barricaded doors, either. . . .

What's happening has to do with the attitude of representative stars and directors and, as they see it, the futility of making three or four pictures a year, rolling up a terrific income to give half of it to the Government in tax assessments. They reason, as a consequence, that two annually will be plenty; that they will be able to keep the wolf from the gilded door without difficulty and increase available time for travel and divertissement. . . .

This may be construed as NRA and much flag-waving. If the stars and directors stick to what appears their decision favoring a brace only per annum and if the industry runs along at its present production gait, more key jobs must become available. Somebody has to turn out those pictures, regardless of what the celluloid captures. It's the tax impost that's made some important Hollywoodites patriotic, not the theory of the NRA. . . .

The vertical trust idea, sponsored principally by Hugo Stinnes, German industrialist, has intrigued the Warners, word around town has it. The Stinnes plan called for business, self-contained and complete in itself—raw material, manufacture and consumption. What has this to do with the Warners? Merely this, according to report: The company is figuring on 90 pictures next season, thereby making it unnecessary for Warner theatres to turn to outside producers for film. So several important Hollywood segments figure. Officially, Warners deny any such ambitions for their program. Factually, Warner theatres some weeks ago renewed their deal to play Radio product. . . .

Hal Roach gave a party for visiting Irvin Cobb the other night. As guests arrived, they were handed prisoners' garb provided from remaining costuming used by Metro in "The Big House." They were also photographed and fingerprinted, profile and full face. "Doc" Gianini registered mild and jocose protest. "It's all jolly for you motion picture guys," said he, "but consider the poor banker—me." . . . Out in the sun before Levy's on Vine Street in a wheel-chair sits an oldtimer, dark glasses for specs and presumably blind. Top-sail to the breeze passes a Hollywood cutie. Did he turn his head or was his head turned? . . .

In "Half a Sinner," which is heading for generally pleasing business because it is that kind of an attraction, Eddie Grainger, scion of James R., has turned out one of the lowest cost pictures produced on the Universal lot in some time. Proving it can be done, as some others, aside from Grainger, are demonstrating constantly. . . . "Relatively speaking" is a pat local expression. It has nothing to do with the Einstein theory. . . . HAL WALLIS, associate executive in charge of production for Warners, will be on his way to New York from the coast tonight accompanied by his wife, LOUISE FAZENDA, with whom he sails on May 12 on the Conte di Savoia for Europe on a combined business and pleasure trip. While abroad WALLIS will search for talent and story material. LLOYD BACON is accompanying the couple to New York, where he plans to spend a short vacation.

DAVID SELZNICK, HOWARD ESTABROOK, GEORGE CUKOR, GEORGE RAFT, WILLIAM KOENIG, Warner studio manager, and his bride; NORMAN MCLEOD, director; MONTE BANKS, English comedian, and G. N. CHARINGTON and A. A. ZANCHINO, scenario writers, will be among the outgoing passengers on the Ile de France today.

JOHN POWERS COPLEY's "Fruits of Divorce," an unproduced play, has been acquired by Famous Authors Pictures Corp. The script is now being prepared on the coast and will go before the cameras in August.

LOUIS HYMAN, executive vice-president of Principal, is in town for a few days. He leaves for the coast next week, but will make a number of key city stopovers enroute.

MYKE LEWIS, Paramount western district manager, returned to the coast yesterday after conferences with NEIL AGNEW, general sales manager.

HOWARD S. CULLMAN is in favor of a five-month receivership term for the Roxy, provided he can take a vacation for the extra month.

KRELLBERG and LIVINGSTONE, lawyers with many film clients, are now ensconced in new offices at 535 5th Ave.

LOU IRWIN left town yesterday on the Hotel Owners' Special to attend the Kentucky Derby. He'll be back Monday.

MORT BLUMENSTOCK, advertising director for Warner theatres, left last night for Cleveland on a week's trip.

EDWIN BURKE, writer for Fox, arrives in town today for a month's vacation.

CHARLES L. O'REILLY underwent a minor operation yesterday.

be made to the clearance and zoning board as soon as the proper forms can be secured.

Mrs. Alma Walton, secretary, was in Chicago today for a conference called by John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority. This was the reason the protest forms were not available.

A meeting of the clearance and zoning board is set for Monday, but there is some question as to whether a complaint can be made ready by that time.

M. A. Lightman charged yesterday that certain members of the board had been "unduly influenced" by others, and this was taken to mean that his remarks were directed at Howard Waugh, Warner zone manager, and J. F. Willingham, M-G-M exchange head. It became known today that neither Warners or M-G-M are keen about the new plan.

Clearance Changes In 3 Kansas Cities

from 28 to 49 days down to 14 days, with no restrictions on duals.

The board is understood to have allowed first runs charging 40 cents 42 days' protection. The periods voted are over the first subsequent runs now charging 25 cents. It is understood the board decided that where an exhibitor plays four changes weekly, more than one of which is a dual, all pictures for that week be set back twice.

Boards in Detroit Delay Their Start

DETROIT, May 4.—Opening of the local code board offices, scheduled for last Thursday, has been postponed due to failure of Code Authority to okay purchase of furniture and equipment. Elliott S. Kinney, secretary, went to Chicago today to attend a meeting of secretaries of the boards with John C. Flinn.

Only six cases have been filed, most of them by state exhibitors. This is in contrast to expectations that the boards would be flooded with business during the first few months.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—The local grievance board did not meet yesterday and plans to convene next Thursday to listen to the first batch of complaints under the code. Grievances previously filed with the board have been returned for re-submission with code forms.

O'Hara Suit Up May 21

CHICAGO, May 4.—Suit for $10,000 against Ralph O'Hara, organizer for the operators' union, filed by Mrs. Gladys Oser, widow of Fred Oser, rebel operator who was shot to death last year at union headquarters, will be heard May 21. O'Hara was freed on a directed verdict on grounds of self-defense.

Darrow Report Put Before President

Board's investigation of the film and several other codes.

A supplemental report, covering codes studied following the group covered in the original statement, will be filed toward the end of the month, when the members are expected to return to their homes and the board goes out of existence.

Coincidentally with the submission of the report, it was learned, John F. Sinclair, a member of the board, sent to the White House an envelope in which is believed to be a minority report differing radically from Chairman Darrow's findings. It was also intimated that the envelope contained Sinclair's resignation, which has been rumored for several weeks to be imminent.

It was said at the White House that President Roosevelt will attempt to read the board's report over the weekend and will make it public early next week if of not too violent a nature.

Cleveland Ass'n. to Take Stand on Duals can be no compromise by gradual reduction of the practice. This was the opinion expressed today at a special meeting of the Cleveland M.P. Exhibitors Association. The meeting was called to discuss the future poplcy of Cleveland exhibitors in regard to duals.

President Ernest Schwartz appointed M. B. Horwitz, John Kalafat and Henry Greenberger as a committee to canvass all Cleveland exhibitors, both first and subsequent runs, to ascertain their attitude in the matter.

Para. Men to Hold District Meetings

Shortly following the annual sales convention in Los Angeles May 18-20, Paramount district managers will hold conferences with salesmen in their territories to acquaint them with new product and policies.

President Approves Publicity on Income

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Roosevelt today expressed himself as satisfied with the publicity provisions of the new tax bill, which require that every taxpayer shall file with his return a separate statement showing his name and address, total gross income, total deductions, net income, total credits against net income and the tax payable, to be made available for public examination under regulations to be prescribed by the Treasury Department.

Miss Carroll to Sail

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—Madelene Carroll left tonight on her way to an English vacation.

Patterson Retains His Detroit Aides

DETROIT, May 4.—So far Willard C. Patterson has made no changes in personnel or organizational setup since assuming his duties as general manager of United Detroit (Publix) Theatres.

Howard O. Pierce has been told that he will continue in charge of advertising and publicity. Jack Frost remains as assistant to Patterson.

The State has been closed "pending development of a new policy." Reports are current that Publix will not renew its lease and that Warners will take over the house as a first run outlet.

Charles Curran is rejoining the Warner advertising and publicity department here after four months' service with the United Detroit Theatres.

Big Films Gaining; Others Falling Off

LAWRENCE, Kan., May 4.—A study of box-office performances over a period of weeks at a key house in his circuit showed big pictures are doing one-third more business than last year and inferior product one-third less, according to Glen W. Dickinson, who operates 20 theatres in Kansas and Missouri.

"Only outstanding attractions are drawing extensively in the small cities and towns today, and there is an undersupply of this type of product," he said.

"At this time, when the studios are preparing their new season schedules, they should realize it is to their interest, as well as the exhibitor's, to turn out pictures of improved quality, because only on that basis can we stay in business. Small town audiences are surprisingly discriminating. They buy only when they get their money's worth."

Lightman Building One; Seeks 2 More

MEMPHIS, May 4.—In accordance with his present expansion plans, M. A. Lightman will soon start work on a new theatre at Newport, Ark. The lease he holds on the Newport Theatre, there, expires in December, and he hopes to have the new house ready by then.

Lightman is also negotiating for two houses at Jackson, Tenn.; the Hauber, owned by O. C. Hauber, and the Paramount, which he is now operating with Publix.

On his return from a recent tour of his Arkansas houses, Lightman reported that business was fair, but very good for this time of the year. He also expressed the opinion that the present general improvement would continue and that he was taking advantage of this by spending some $25,000 on remodeling his Strand here. The house will be closed during June for that purpose. Lightman also plans to move his offices from Film Row to the Strand when the renovation is completed.

"Doctor Monica" Stands

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—Warners' "When Tomorrow Comes" has gone back to its original title, "Doctor Monica."

explained, but many of their theatres are in territories where Dillinger is supposed to have disarmed policemen and held up banks and they are not anxious to stir up unnecessary trouble.

As a result, the reel is going out without the announcement, but the offer is still good, Ford says.

Urges Formation of "League of Defense"

DETROIT, May 4.—In a strong attack on films, Bishop Michael J. Gallagher of Detroit is urging formation of a national "League of Defense," composed of local Catholics "whose members are to pledge themselves to avoid scrupulously all moving pictures that offend against decency and Christian morality."

His letter will be read in all churches in the diocese on Sunday. In his letter, the bishop instructs his clergy "to elaborate on this vital subject."

BUFFALO, May 4.—Sodalities from 11 Catholic high schools have joined in a campaign launched by the Rev. William J. Smith, S.J., of Canisius High School, to "make the movies fit to see," as Father Smith expressed it. Members of the League for the Defense of Decency have promised to back the movement launched by The Queen's Work, Catholic publication, Father Smith said.

"Using the picture 'Tarzan and His Mate' as a target, a letter of protest, stating that the Catholics of Buffalo have had enough of such trash is being sent to the producer," he said.

Members of the League for the Defense of Decency have agreed to stay away from any show that is not on the approved list of pictures published in Our Sunday Visitor at regular intervals. Box-office pressure, the group believes, is the only kind that will have any effect on producers.

"Rothschild" Breaks Philadelphia Record

Christmas Eve show and a heavy Christmas Day business.

The final day was bigger than the opening day. Last Saturday was the biggest single day in the theatre's history.

DETROIT, May 4.—"House of Rothschild" set a record at the United Artists here yesterday when it opened its popular price run by taking $3,100 for the day, beating the previous record held by "The Bowery."

Picket Loew's in Akron

AKRON, May 4.—Local 127 of the Building Service Employees' Union is picketing Loew's theatre. Seven ushers who were discharged last January and ordered reinstated by the Regional Labor Board have not yet been returned to their jobs.

"Wild Cargo," "Tarzan" Vie For K.C. Lead

KANSAS CITY, May 4.—"Tarzan and His Mate," at the Midland, pitted against "Wild Cargo" at the Main-street, finished in the money at $9,900, although below par. The Frank Buck film got off to a heavy opening, but slumped later in the week for a take of $6,000, below average by $1,000. Both attractions were billed like a circus, with extra advertising.

"Narcotic," an expose film of the drug traffic, showed surprising strength at the 810-seat Royal. Despite considerable adverse criticism from newspapers and the women's clubs, the picture proved a sensation at $5,000 and was held.

Combination shows at 25 cents at the reopened Tower continued in favor a second week, credited with drawing business away from other box-offices. "Advice to the Lovelorn" plus a stage show garnered $5,000, and the management is optimistic about the future. "As the Earth Turns" on a double bill, with "No More Women" at the Newman was so-so, while "Bottoms Up" gave the Uptown an average take.

Total for the week was $35,000. Average is $33,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending April 25:

"NARCOTIC" (State Rights)
ROYAL—(810), 25c, 7 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $3,000.)

Week Ending April 26:

"WILD CARGO" (Radio)
MAINSTREET—(3,049), 25c-40c, 7 days, plus Saturday late show. Gross: $6,000. (Average, straight films, $7,000.)

"AS THE EARTH TURNS" (Warners)
"NO MORE WOMEN" (Para.)

NEWMAN—(1,800), 25c, 7 days, plus Saturday late show. Gross: $5,500. (Average, $6,000.)

Dowling Will Enter Senate Race in R. I.

PROVIDENCE, May 4.—That Eddie Dowling will try his luck at politics was revealed yesterday by his brother, William F. Goucher, who said the musical comedy star would make the race this year for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator from Rhode Island. Dowling, a friend of President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley, is not expected to have the backing of the State organization.

Fox Musical Holds Up

"Stand Up and Cheer" held up to good business for its second week at the Music Hall, garnering $61,800 for the last seven days. For the first week, the take was $78,000. The Paramount, with "The Witching Hour," finished with a gross of $22,000, while the Roxy, with "Journal of a Crime," took in $19,100. "The House of Rothschild," in its seventh week at the Astor, chalked up $19,600.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Murder at the Vanities"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—Combining a girly-girly show with comedy, songs and murder mystery drama, Earl Carroll's recent Broadway show translated to film should do big business in most spots, and healthy grosses in nearly all.

The production is drenched with luxurious beauty and introduces Carl Brisson, a Danish import, who will stir discussion, and Kitty Carlisle, a stage beauty and a screen bet.

For the first time, a back-stage drama is given a novelty twist, pacing the "show must go on" formula with killings, unravellings and laughter interspersed with music plus fascinating femininity in flimsy fluff.

The story concerns murders committed backstage at a Broadway opening of the "Vanities." Jack Oakie, the manager, and Victor McLaglen, a dumb cop, link the plot with musical divertissements. Their friendly antagonisms supply the major laughs. Gertrude Michaels is the feminine heavy. The finger of guilt points to Brisson and the wardrobe mistress, Jessie Ralph. The denouement affords Dorothy Stickney an opportunity for rare emotional trouping. Toby Wing is an eye-ful.

Duke Ellington's band, with a black and white chorus, render hot tunes and steps. Earl Carroll's draw, dovetailed with the other names, and the satisfying show produced make "Murder at the Vanities" look like a hit in the high bracket class.

Looking 'Em Over

"Success at Any Price"

(Radio)

John Howard Lawson's "Success Story," a Broadway stage tenant last season, has been turned into a talker that pins its hope primarily on acting and production values. In point of entertainment value, it leaves something to be desired.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., does what he can with the lead, but the difficulty in the screen treatment is that the role leans so far to the spurious it has trouble in ringing true.

The title gives the plot away. Fairbanks, thrown into a job with possibilities after the murder of his brother, a gangster, takes a vow to make Mammon his god. Determined to sacrifice everything for the sake of financial success, he steps over everybody in his way. With rapidity, Fairbanks soon finds himself sitting pretty with a firm which makes beauty preparations. He forgets the sweetheart of his less affluent days (Colleen Moore) and ties himself up with the mistress (Genevieve Tobin) of his former boss (Frank Morgan). Happiness misses him in his rise to wealth. When his old sweetheart turns him down in a final stab at happiness, he shoots himself. The girl summons medical aid, and the film closes upon their reunion.

Other players are Edward Everett Horton, Allen Vincent, Nydia Westman and Henry Kolker. J. Walter Ruben directed.

"Blue Steel"

(Monogram)

A lively western for juveniles with John Wayne freely using his fists and always ready with his gun. He is supported by Eleanor Hunt, George Hayes, Ed Peil, Yakima Canutt, Lafe McKee, George Cleveland and George Nash.

The story deals with Peil heading a group of outlaws trying to starve out homesteaders in a small western village. Wayne is called in and incognito investigates the setup. With Hayes, he curbs the activities of the outlaws and as a reward signs up Miss Hunt for life.

"Whirlpool," current at the Casino, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood April 4.

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—Sol Lesser has signed George O'Brien for a series of non-western features, for Fox release. The first will be "When a Man's a Man," starting within the next month.

Operators File Pay Suit

DENVER, May 4.—What is looked upon as a test case by many theatre men has been filed by two operators against the State. They seek $550, alleged to be due under the President's reemployment agreement, which, they claim, provided for a maximum of 35 hours weekly to be worked by men of their class. According to papers filed in the case, the operators worked 91 hours each, which is the number of hours the booth operates.

Erpi Men Meet in K. C.

KANSAS CITY, May 4.—H. M. Wilcox of New York, Erpi vice-president in charge of operations, held a two-day session here with company representatives. Attending were Stanley Hand, Chicago, central division sales manager; Hugh Owen, Dallas district manager, and the following Kansas City men: G. L. Carrington, division operating manager; T. A. Cameron, district superintendent, and M. M. Buchanan, divisional sales representative.

Mexico Divorces a Worry

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—Considerable concern was caused in the film colony today by a ruling of Superior Judge Frank M. Smith's decision holding illegal a divorce decree obtained by Attorney Carl S. Kegley from Mrs. Hazel Kegley. Mexican divorces have been frequent among film folk in recent months.

Fight Brewing On Proposed Rezoning Plan

First Runs, Suburbans Are Both Agitated

KANSAS CITY, May 6.—Nothing that has happened in recent years has stirred up so much excitement here as the forthcoming announcement of the new clearance and zoning schedule this week. Protests are expected from suburbans as well as first runs.

The proposed reduction of clearance on 25-cent first runs from 28 to 49 down to 14 days with no restrictions on duals directly hits Loew's Midland, the Publix Newman, Publix Royal and the Tower, independent house. The only two undisturbed are

All in Family

Denver, May 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lind will both be busy this summer. Each will manage a theatre. They own two houses, one the Chief at Steamboat Springs, and the Grand at Littleton, and Mrs. Lind will spend her time at Steamboat Springs, while her husband will manage the house at Littleton. It's close to Denver, so Fred will handle the bookings for both houses.

Score Charge Loss Claimed in Canada

TORONTO, May 6.—Canadian distributors, replying to a demand by independent exhibitors for removal of score charges, say that every reel released in the Dominion is assessed $75 by producers and the total cost to distributors is $450,000 a year as against $400,000 aggregate cost to exhibitors, according to claims of Allied of Ontario. Therefore, exchanges

Grosses Fall to Levels Reported Last September

Grosses from 22 key cities and 133 theatres are falling down to the level of last September. For the week ending April 27-28 the total was $1,307,764, which is getting back to the lowest figures of Lent and is $263,931 below the high mark chalked up Easter

Early Passage Of Bankruptcy Bill Awaited

Will Speed Revamping of Paramount Affairs

Passage by the U. S. Senate late last week of the Corporation Bankruptcy Bill, permitting readjustment of the debts of bankrupt corporations by consent of creditors in order to facilitate reorganization and refinancing programs, will speed the reorganization of Paramount Publix and may result in the company's ultimate discharge from bankruptcy months sooner than has been anticipated, it was learned over the week-end.

Although Senate amendments to the bankruptcy measure will make it necessary to return the bill for conference with the House, which has already passed it, its approval by the Senate is regarded as making its ultimate enactment a certainty. Under the bill, bankrupt corporations may apply for readjustment of their debts

Cleaners File Suit To Avoid Film Code

American Building Maintenance Co., contractors for theatre cleaning service, has filed suit in U. S. District Court here to restrain the Code Authority from enforcing labor provisions of the film code on the cleaning company's employees.

The company sets forth that it has signed the President's voluntary re-employment agreement, permitting it to maintain a 48-hour week at a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour. Employees of the company work in hospitals and other public buildings in addition to theatres and, therefore, are not subject to the film code, the company's complaint states.

S. R. Kent Back Today

Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox, arrives today from a four weeks' visit at the company's Hollywood studios.

Hollywood

THIS is not only the land of sunshine and previews. Here theatre audiences, like the film colony's favorite description of every picture, are "terrific." They gasp and squirm in sheer delight when the main titles of previews hit the screen. Between their honest pleasure and the frequent, deliberate stacking of the house by the previewing studio, all celluloid comers get a great reception. The consequences are more than apt to be deceptive, if you don't watch out. . . .

Between the Iowans turned Californians and their ideas that previews get them close to the Hollywood inside, the "friends" of the preview who turn out, the studio clique which finds it convenient to think everything is colossal and the preview cards which are an essential cog in this whirligig, the producer more times than not gets a first class misconception of what his product eventually means at the box-office. . . .

The least resistance method is to unleash the adjectives and pass them around freely. Familiar with this Hollywood custom concede this to be the best method of getting along and making friends; they ought to know, for in them is the virtue of practising what they preach. The other night, the latest with an important star was previewed. The next day one of the studio's press agents asked what we thought. "Terrible," seemed to be the appropriately laconic reply. P. A. turned white, phazed and dazed and probably is still all three ways. . . .

However, one test and a variation of the routine remain. If the picture is that bad, the bunch will scam. It's more in keeping with the accepted routine not to be found when the inevitable "How did you like it?" begins to make the rounds. More social breaches, predicated on failure to observe the "I'll see you after the picture," have been committed on the Boulevard than through any other cause, beyond doubt. Social delinquencies hop easily from dislikes to enmities and even beyond. . . .

Highbrow writer recently sent his employing producer a copy of Spengler's "Decline of the West." Producer couldn't determine if it concerned Mae or another attempt by New York to carry production East. . . . Several dailies fell over themselves on yarn narrating how Jack La Rue presumably rescued Vince Barnett, town ribber, from a burning building. Interviewed over the phone on the type of heroics, Barnett said La Rue had pulled him out by the hair. Reporters failed to recall Barnett's pate is bald. . . .

Marion Gering, director, lives in Beverly Hills. Not always, however. He was born in Russia, now seeks naturalization papers and lists his middle handle as Maximilianovitch. . . . Two independents, producers and partners, after filming a gangster film, called upon their advertising man to prepare a page of copy. Ad man, for a rib, used as a catchline: "Indies Produce Undie." . . . K A N N outside of actual bankruptcy proceedings on approval by creditors representing 10 per cent of the total creditors' claims against the company and 25 per cent of the holders of any single class of claims.

The readjustment of debts would also be contingent upon the consent of 10 per cent in amount of the stockholders who would be affected and upon the solvency of the applicant corporation, and would also be subject to Federal court approval. The actual compromise on the debts requires the approval of two-thirds in amount of creditors and a majority of each class of stockholders.

Enactment of the measure is expected soon and, immediately following, Paramount Publix creditors' groups are expected to be invited to confer with the reorganization committee headed by Dr. Julius Klein in an effort to agree on reorganization procedure opened up and simplified by the bill.

Schaefer Gets Kohn's Posts At Paramount

only to that of Adolph Zukor, president.

Schaefer was elected president and a member of the boards of Paramount Theatres Service Corp. and Famous Theatres Corp., both of which are posts formerly held by Kohn.

Paramount Theatres Service Corp. is a comparatively new subsidiary which was organized to handle all phases of theatre administration which remain with the home office under decentralized operations by theatre partnerships in the field. Famous Theatres Corp. is the subsidiary which took over the assets of Publix Enterprises under the bankruptcy reorganization of the latter last December. Famous acquired thereby the Publix interest in approximately 135 theatres throughout the country.

Dembow, Jr., in Same Post

Sam Dembow, Jr., continues as vice-president of Paramount Theatres Service, while Y. Frank Freeman continues as vice-president of Famous. The latter's activities have been confined mostly to the real estate phases of the theatre holdings, while Dembow's relate directly to theatre operations.

Walter B. Cokell, treasurer of Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp., was elected to the board of directors of both Famous Theatres and Paramount Theatres Service Corp. at the same meeting at which Schaefer's elections were made.

In addition to his new post as head of Paramount's theatre administration, Schaefer is vice-president of Paramount Pictures, Paramount International and Paramount Productions, as well as vice-president and general manager of Paramount Distributing. His authority thus extends to all phases of Paramount's domestic and foreign operations. Schaefer recently relinquished his post of general sales manager to Neil F. Agnew, former western division manager. It now appears certain that the move was made to relieve Schaefer of sales duties connected with that post in order to permit his accepting the ranking offices in the Paramount theatre subsidiaries.

Schaefer's elevation is interpreted as settling for the immediate future, at least, recently revived reports that S. A. Lynch, chairman of the Paramount Publix trustees' advisory committee, and N. L. Nathanson, head of Famous Players Canadian Corp., were slated to take over high posts in Paramount.

Hal Roach is expected in New York within the next two weeks for M-G-M conferences. He has not decided on his new program yet and may reduce his schedule next year. The number of two-reelers may be cut down.

Fight Brewing On Proposed Rezoning Plan

the RKO Mainstreet and Fox Uptown, both 40-cent houses.

Alteration of the clearance schedule is regarded as a move to force up downtown first run scales, particularly the Midland, as the Newman is believed to be willing to raise the ante, provided the Midland does so.

Vigorous protests are anticipated from suburbaners, since it is estimated that 60 per cent of the suburbaners are now double billing. This opposition is expected to be based on the contention that the board, in making no restrictions on first run duals, has discriminated against suburbaners.

Opposition is also in prospect on the ground that the code gave the clearance and zoning board no authority to disturb existing clearance this season.

With the protection issue ruled upon, the board plans to take up the laying out of metropolitan areas for this territory. It will take a vote among exhibitors on banning premiums.

Rogowsky Wants 10 Defendants Called

there is no provision in the code for this action, no steps along these lines are being taken. However, all principals have been notified to appear tomorrow when the hearing comes up.

Louis Nizer, executive secretary of the New York Film Board, is slated to act as attorney for the defendants. Robert R. Rosan, Port Chester attorney, will represent Rogowsky.

One of the points involved is whether action can be instituted on contracts signed before the code went into effect. Rogowsky claims Skouras has bought all major product but 50 per cent of Paramount, which he has.

Slated to start the hearings at 10:30 A. M. is Howard C. Cullman's complaint against the Mayfair for distribution of cut rate tickets.

circuits will be required to open negotiations for new wage scales with the union, under the terms of an agreement proposed two weeks ago by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt.

Rosenblatt met with Charles C. Levey, secretary-treasurer of the union, and C. C. Moskowitz of Loew's at T. O. C. C. headquarters Saturday to arbitrate a recent strike called by the union at Loew's Metropolitan, Brooklyn, over the alleged refusal of the latter to reinstate three discharged employees. The strike was called off pending the arbitration.

The argument used by Oscar Hanson, representing the independents, is that American producers do not impose a charge on films to foreign countries and that Canada should not be regarded as a domestic market by these companies. He also states that the score charge should be looked upon as part of production cost.

Clevelanders Seeking Pact Against Duals

Circulating Petition to Make Ban Unanimous

CLEVELAND, May 7.—Exhibitors here are circulating a petition among all houses in the Greater Cleveland district calling for the ending of duals on July 8 and for complete elimination of the policy during the 1934-35 season. It will become effective only if signed by every theatre.

The Greater Cleveland district includes this city, Cleveland Heights, East Cleveland and Lakewood.

So that there can be no argument about what constitutes a feature the petition specifies that it shall be any

Film Board Future Not Set, Pettijohn

CHICAGO, May 7.—Charles C. Pettijohn would make no prediction here today on the future of Film Boards of Trade. He said code boards would have to get under way before this problem could be decided, but a meeting has been called in New York to take up the problem within the next two weeks.

Pettijohn indicated that the need for film boards still exists and gave the impression that the Hays office has no plans for abandonment. The work of the boards is continuing in about eight important spots, he said.

Paramount to Make Two More in East

Paramount is expanding its production plans for the Astoria studio. In addition to the four to be produced by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, Carlos Gardel, well known tango singer, is to do two Spanish productions at the plant for foreign distribution.

Gardel's casts will be drawn from Spanish-speaking countries as well as Hollywood. Paramount holds an option for four additional pictures after these are finished.

Holds Denver 'Bank Nights' Not Lotteries

DENVER, May 7.—An opinion holding that "bank night" stunts are advertising activities and not lotteries and, therefore, are neither violations of law nor of the code, was offered exhibitors of this territory today by Emmett Thurmon, local attorney and secretary and general counsel of the Rocky Mountain T. O. A.

Referring to the "bank night" contract made between local exhibitors and Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., Thurmon's opinion states:

FWC Ordered To Turn Back 20 Features

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—The local grievance board has set a precedent that may have a far-reaching effect on industry relations under the code in an award handed down in favor of the plaintiff in the complaint of the Garfield Theatre, Alhambra, against Fox West Coast, in which the latter was charged with holding out on product. Elliott at the next annual meeting of the international union, slated for June 4-7 at Louisville, Ky. Canavan resigned in 1931 because of ill health and since has been active in the craft in his home town, St. Louis.

The ex-president will make another try at the presidency at the request of numerous members.

Campi Is to Consider Problem at Next Session Here

Exhibitors who have not signed the code may be given another opportunity to qualify, provided the next session of Campi on Friday approves such a move.

Returning from a two-week trip to Hollywood and Chicago, where he met with producers and code board secretaries, Executive Secretary John C. Flinn reports that hundreds of exhibitors who did not comply are anxious to do so if given another chance. He said that at least 2,500 assents would roll in the first week if such a move were approved by Code Authority.

Secretaries from the west and mid-west have asked Flinn about the possibility of getting a reopening of the Approximately 3,500 exhibitors have sent in assessments representing $22,000 for the first six months. This is one-fourth of the amount expected. A second notice for return of assessments is going out this week and failure to pay by May 20 will find exhibitors having film shut off.

The finance committee will get a complete report of the moneys coming in and going out at Friday's session of Campi. In instances where theatres find they are being unfairly taxed they can present their cases to local grievance boards for adjustment.

Kendall Gets Second Penalty in Toronto

TORONTO, May 7.—Lew Kendall, operator, already under sentence to one year in prison following his conviction for bombing the Cumbac Theatre, has been fined $300 and given three months in prison by Judge O'Connell in General Sessions Court on a charge of running a gaming house for horse betting.

Kendall has been in the limelight in connection with trouble between operators and independents. He is still to be tried at the May session of court for attempted perversion of justice because of a claim one witness was paid to swear that he had no connection with the theatre bombing.

"Rothschild" Cincy Hit

CINCINNATI, May 7.—"The House of Rothschild" at the RKO Albee, got into the big money class last week, when it rang up an estimated $16,500. This is particularly outstanding since Arliss has usually drawn more of the carriage trade. The picture moves to the RKO Capitol for a second week.

Another real box-office job was done by "Viva Villa!" which accounted for approximately $14,000 at the RKO Palace. This rates a hold-over.

New Zanuck Plans

extension date for assents and he has promised to put the matter before Campi.

Members of clearance and zoning boards throughout the country are busy, Flinn reported yesterday. He regards these boards as most vital at this time because of the approach of the selling season and the need of new schedules before new sales begin. He stated some of the boards are meeting three times a week in order to clear up local programs.

"All boards are working to 100 per cent satisfactorily," Flinn said, "and they are doing much good for the industry. There are more clearance and zoning cases than grievances," he added.

Having met with secretaries of five cities in Los Angeles and secretaries of 14 cities in Chicago, Flinn next Tuesday will call a meeting in New York of secretaries from Albany, Boston, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, New Haven, Philadelphia, Washington, Charlotte, New Orleans and New York. The Boston grievance board met there yesterday and reported that one of the cases is being appealed and will probably be heard by Campi the meeting after May 11.

O'Connor, Loew Not To Act on One Case

Because John O'Connor and David Loew are connected with companies whose affiliates are defendants in the complaint of Rogowsky Bros. against Skouras and Radio, M-G-M, Fox, Universal, U. A., Columbia and Warners, separate hearings will be held today before the New York grievance board. When the case involving Radio comes up, Loew will sit. Likewise, when the hearing for M-G-M is on tap, O'Connor will sit. Fox and Skouras have a franchise for the Capitol, Port Chester, which is defendant in the complaint of the owners of the Embassy, same city.

Also up for hearing this morning is the complaint of Howard C. Cullman of the Roxy against Walter Reade of the Mayfair for issuing cut rate tickets. If decisions are not carried out within a limited time, offenders will find product shut off, according to the code.

No member of the board can be challenged, because he has been appointed by the government. However, witness and attorneys can be challenged.

For May 15, two cases involving advertising are on schedule. One is the Roxy complaint against the Casino and the other is that of the Little Picture House against the Windsor, 3rd Ave., for advertising pictures as coming attractions simultaneously with the run at the opposition.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood
PET terms in Hollywood, defying definition in any dictionary:

Romance, a thriving industry, draws these:

So-and-so is piloting.

Also, merely romancing.
Marital troubles, likewise a going concern, draw these:

The battle of the century.
Having a change of heart.
On again, off again.

If it's a divorce, favorite appellations include:

Mexico-erced.

Beer parlors are known as stoobs. The theory is this is easier to get off when a fellow is down.

Overlong standees at bars are pegged as bar flies. Party hounds who stay to the last bottle become known as sitter-uppers.

Cocktail parties are never given. They are always thrown or tossed.

A drunk becomes known as a sponge. Or a lush. Or an elbow-bender.

When a chap is on the level and at the head of his particular class, anything he may contemplate thereafter is tops.

One who neglects to recognize a friend is accused of going native.

Apartments are alluded to as camps. Mansions as shacks.

Short and sweet for studio is factory.

Additions to the family: baby-ing.

Vacations are siestas. . .

Interesting among the personalities here is Al Cohn. A veteran typewriter addict, he worked for the President during the campaign as he continued to turn out scripts. Today Cohn is collector of the port of Los Angeles, a Federal job which has nothing at all to do with his scribbling. The combination certainly makes him unique in Hollywood. Also it would make Hollywood unique if it failed to appreciate how Cohn, who is willing when he can, can help. . .

In keeping with his office, Al the other day made it easier for Mervyn Le Roy to clear customs with 75 pieces of assorted baggage collected on his 'round-the-world honeymoon trip with the former Doris Warner. Greeters wanted to help by carrying off a bundle each. Interposed Mrs. Harry M.: "Papa Cohn said he'd take care of all that." For Uncle Jack, Al persuaded the navy department to allow shots of the Macon, never before filmed by any producer. . .

Motion pictures reflect what goes on in the world, although all that goes on in the world is not reflected in motion pictures. Reasonable guess on requirements of a story executive would include a smattering, at least, of outstanding news events. One major studio, however, houses a chap who never heard of the Scottsboro case. . . He's not alone. If this is castigation, then its victims are many. . .

An inter-office communication sent to all directors on the lot removes doubts, if any prevailed, over "Pan" Berman's position at Radio. The memo states Berman is to be notified immediately a picture is finished, after which he is to be called in when the print is first run to discuss editing; that no changes are to be made until they have Berman's O. K. While the memo fails to specifically designate him as head man, ground covered in the text establishes the point. Whether this condition is to prevail only while Merian Cooper continues to bask in Hawaiian sunshine is not clear. . .

"Lesser's Last Stand" is how Sol describes the impending "Peck's Bad Boy" with Jackie Cooper. He is throwing all dice on this one. In between, Lesser is studying comparative literature at U. S. C. . . Universal's irons, complete, are buried in one fire. Its name is "Little Man, What Now?" . . . Louis B. Mayer has hordes of secretaries, but opens all of his mail personally. . .

These provisions, Thurmon's opinion holds, remove "bank nights" from the classification of lotteries.

The same provisions, and particularly those specifying that any person may register for the "bank night" whether he buys an admission ticket or not, are cited by Thurmon as not being in violation of the film code provision governing "bank nights" and other forms of giveaways.

The Code Authority ruling on "bank nights" holds that the practice is in violation of the code if the participants purchase tickets of admission in connection with the prize drawings.

score charges will be held today at the M. P. Club here. Leading exhibitors from all eastern cities are expected to be on hand to discuss policies for the new season.

COLUMBUS, Miss., May 7.—Ed Kuykendall indicated here today the M. P. T. O. A. would take no part in the protest meeting to be held Tuesday in New York by the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware on rentals, percentages and score charges. The reason he gave is that nothing can be gained thereby.

"We knew from bitter experience," he said, "that the film companies would pass NRA costs on to the exhibitors, with the exhibitors passing them on to the public in higher admissions. I doubt alarms will be effective. There have been protests in the past—the idea is not new—but they never get anywhere."

Kuykendall has been ordered by his physicians to take a rest of several weeks, necessitating his absence from the next meeting of Code Authority, scheduled for May 11 in New York.

Sinclair Steps Out Of Review Board

WASHINGTON, May 7.—John F. Sinclair has resigned from the National Recovery Review Board and W. W. Neal of Marion, N. C., has been named vice-chairman, it was learned today. Sinclair's resignation was not unexpected, as he has been at odds with Chairman Clarence Darrow ever since the Board was created and for the past three weeks has spent little or no time in Washington. His differences with the majority of the board are believed to have been explained in the minority report on the film and other codes which he filed with the President last week.

Despite the fact that the board is expected to go out of existence at the end of the month, members are going ahead with preparations for hearings "even after July 1," it was said today.

Weingarten's Plans Call for 6 Features

Lawrence Weingarten will produce a minimum of six for M-G-M's schedule of 50 next season. He is now in New York looking over a number of new plays in addition to "Shining Hour" and "No More Ladies," which he will make for 1934-35.

Weingarten figures Greta Garbo as the type for "Shining Hour." He also has an original in mind for Clark Gable and Jean Harlow. Lucille Watson of the original cast of "No More Ladies" will appear in the picture, possibly with Robert Montgomery. Herbert O. Yardley's stories around the spy system of the World War are being rewritten into one for a feature. The action will not take place on the field of combat as in other stories of this type.

He plans to leave the end of the week for Hollywood.

Execs Testify in Suit

HOLLYWOOD, May 7.—Irving Thalberg, Winfield Sheehan and Lou Brock testified today in the suit brought by Samuel Goldwyn against Warners for an injunction to restrain the latter from using Busby Berkeley's services in alleged violation of a loaning contract. The film executives were called to present testimony on rehearsals. Warners declared the dance director was engaged at the time the loan was negotiated and was unable to release him. Goldwyn takes the stand tomorrow.

Take Over Realart Corp.

HOLLYWOOD, May 7.—A group headed by Ira H. Simmons has acquired control of Realart Pictures Corp. They plan to produce six features during the year, gauging them on an expensive type of independent production. Distribution plans will be announced within the next 30 days.

Zukor Leaving Today

Adolph Zukor leaves today for the coast to take up current and future production problems with Emanuel Cohen. He expects to line up the principal details of next season's schedule while at the studio.

Borzage on Musical

HOLLYWOOD, May 7.—Frank Borzage will make "Flirtation Walk," a Warner musical for which Bobby Connolly will direct the dances.

First Complaint in Cincy on Cut Rates

CINCINNATI, May 7.—First official complaint lodged with the local grievance board is that of the Wingert Co., operating the Grand, Union City, Ind., against Phil Chakeres of the State, Greenville, O., 13 miles from the Grand.

The complaint charges unfair trade practice because of 10-cent admissions. On merchants' nights, upon presentation of tickets distributed by Greenville merchants, the regular advertised admission of 25 cents is automatically brought down to 10 cents, it is claimed.

Other complaints filed so far are being disregarded by the board because the complainants did not sign the code.

Cleveland May Set Back Session Again

CLEVELAND, May 7.—A session of the clearance and zoning board set for Friday may be postponed a second time because of the Allied meeting in Chicago at the end of the week. The first postponement was caused by the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Georgia Moffett, at a Chicago conference called by John C. Flinn.

"Daughter" Dates Set

Exploitation Pictures has sold "Enlighten Thy Daughter" to Lee Goldberg of Big Feature Rights Corp. for the Indiana and Tennessee territory. Arrangements have also been made to have Jack Kaufman, former manager of the Columbia exchange in Indianapolis, to handle the film in Indiana. L. K. Brin has taken the feature for Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Will Discuss Beefsteak

Directors of the Ampa today will discuss the beefsteak planned by the organization at the M. P. Club on May 22. Following the June 21 session, meetings will be discontinued for the summer.

Gaxton in "Afterwards"

HOLLYWOOD, May 7.—William Gaxton has been signed by Radio for a featured spot in "Afterwards," the Slim Summerville-Zasu Pitts comedy. He is now working in "Murder on the Blackboard" at this studio.

First Hungarian Film

DuWorld's "Romance in Budapest," claimed to be the first Hungarian film to have a showing here, opens today at the 55th St. Playhouse.

Firm Name Was Wrong

It's Krellberg & Fitzsimons and not Krellberg & Livingstone who have moved into new offices at 535 5th Ave.

code by allegedly creating a monopoly by buying up the majority of the major product in the town for the 1933-34 program.

The circuit has been ordered to make available to the Garfield, beginning May 17, a total of 20 first run pictures.

Numerous other overbuying complaints are expected to follow on the heels of this decision. F. W. C. is expected to appeal the case to Code Authority.

Check on Theatre Union About Ready

The current checkup of service employees in Loew's and RKO metropolitan houses, being conducted by a representative of the Department of Labor, is scheduled to be completed tomorrow and the results may be made known by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt before the end of the week, it was stated yesterday.

The checkup is to determine the percentage of employees who are members of Local 118, Theatre and Amusement Employees Union. A majority for the union is regarded as tantamount to its recognition by New York circuits.

A settlement of a strike called against Loew's Metropolitan, Brooklyn, by the local last week was satisfactorily arbitrated over the week-end by Rosenblatt. Under the settlement the local agreed not to call a strike against the Metropolitan in the future unless a citywide strike order ensues.

A hearing on a petition for an injunction to restrain the local from picketing the Tivoli, Brooklyn, where a strike has been in progress for several weeks, was postponed to Thursdays, when called in Supreme Court at Brooklyn yesterday.

Goldsmith Expected To Get Labor Post

Doctor Alfred A. Goldsmith, formerly vice-president of RCA and now president of the S.M.P.E., is expected to be named the local labor head of the NRA by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt.

Goldsmith's appointment awaits decision by the Court of Appeals in Albany of the Local 306-I.T.O.A. case involving constitutionality of the NRA. This is expected some time this week. Goldsmith will have charge of setting the local operators' wage scale in addition to other labor matters. He will act as a committee of one.

Kohn in Para. Bldg.

Ralph A. Kohn, who resigned his posts as vice-president and director of Paramount subsidiaries last week, opened offices on the 16th floor of the Paramount building yesterday. While his permanent plans for the future are undecided, it is understood that Kohn may return to the practice of law.

IMPORTANT

to any picture

ANY picture, made on any film, may prove a hit. But the fact remains that the majority of the big motion picture triumphs are being filmed on Eastman Super-sensitive "Pan" Negative with gray backing. In other words, this film seems to be an important factor in any picture's chances of outstanding success. That fact is vitally important to every cameraman and producer. in the list. Pictures in the cutting rooms total 45 features and 17 shorts.

Paramount continues to lead the field with seven features in work, six preparing and four cutting. Radio reports five, two and six; Fox, five, three and five; Warners, four, four and eight; M-G-M, four, one and nine; Columbia, three, two and four; Universal, two, two and one; United Artists, one, two and zero, while the independent group reports a total of six, four and eight.

The short subject group reports Universal with one working, one preparing and one editing; Columbia, one, one and two; Radio, one, zero and two; Roach, zero, three and three; M-G-M, zero, one and four, while the independents report a total of eight, four and five.

M. P. Research Body Incorporated Here

The M. P. Research Council has been formally incorporated. Papers were approved yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler. The incorporators are: Eleanor R. Belmont, Thomas J. Watson, Herbert S. Houston, Alanson B. Houghton, Henry Fairfield Osborn, William H. Short, Henry J. Fisher, and Stephen P. Cabot of Boston. Mrs. August Belmont continues as president.

The incorporation is preliminary to a national membership campaign. Among the objects named in the incorporation papers are: "To undertake a study of problems presented by the motion picture; to stimulate public discussion and evaluation of these findings and to take steps in carrying out such parts of these plans and recommendations as may appear to have social value."

Publix Drops Some In Ohio, Colorado

COLUMBUS, May 7.—Control of houses in two Publix situations in Ohio has recently changed to other hands. The Guernsey Theatre Corp. has acquired the Ohio and Cort at Cambridge from Publix-Shea, and at Marietta, the Publix-Marietta has released the Strand and Auditorium to Washington Theatres, Inc.

Other changes in title include the Stanley, at Sciotoville, which has been taken over by Kenneth Carter from the previous operator, C. D. Rowland. The Virginia, at North Baltimore, now is in control of E. H. Walter, who also operates the Liberty, at Toledo, and the La France, at Swanton.

DENVER, May 7.—Publix has turned back the Rex at Greeley, Col., and the Mesa at Grand Junction, Col., to the Greeley Theatre Co. and the Rex Amusement Co. Both companies are owned by Harry Nolan, Denver theatre man and supply dealer.

Hays Arrives Today

Will H. Hays and wife; Earl Bright, Hays' secretary, and Mr. and Mrs. O. O. McIntyre return today from a week's visit in Hollywood.

Four Features Stand Out As Grosses Start to Sag

Francisco and Cleveland; "I'll Tell the World," which took a remarkable $18,000 in Oklahoma City, and "Stand Up and Cheer," which went over big in Detroit.

"The House of Rothschild" furnished about the only film excitement in Chicago. It went to a smart $30,000 at the United Artists, topping the normal take by $13,000. "Bottoms Up," at the Chicago, was the only other attraction to approach normal. It reached $34,000.

"We're Not Dressing" piled up a fine $6,000 at the Circle, Indianapolis, nearly doubling par. "Glamour" took a normal $6,000 at the Lyric with a stage show, but Indianapolis had nothing else to get excited about. The others: "Three On a Match," Apollo, $2,000; "His Double Life" and "Come On Marines," Indiana, $3,000; "Tarzan and His Mate," Palace, $4,000.

San Francisco had three strong draws, with "We're Not Dressing" leading at $21,000 in the Warfield. Average for the house is $19,000. "The House of Rothschild" was $2,500 up with $10,500 at the Geary, and "Success At Any Price" had a good $10,000 at the Orpheum.

"Not Dressing" Liked

"We're Not Dressing" ran away with top honors in Cleveland, getting $14,000, up by $4,000, at Loew's State. "Jimmy, the Gent" and "Taming the Jungle" took a good $2,800 at Warners' Lake. "Good Dame" and "Thundering Herd" had a par $4,000 at Loew's Stillman. Weak numbers were: "Sorrel and Son," Allen, $2,700; "As the Earth Turns," Warners' Hippodrome, $4,000; "Glamour," RKO Palace, $14,500.

Summer weather cracked down on Pittsburgh first runs, with only two of them showing any strength. "Bottoms Up" reached $6,000 at the Fulton, and "Lost Patrol" took $7,200 at the Warner, both well over par. "Tarzan and His Mate" had a weak $11,500 at the Penn; "Ever Since Eve," even with a stage bill, was dull at $6,000, and "Sisters Under the Skin," also with a stage bill, was under normal at $17,500.

Oklahoma City was "all het up" for two reasons—the summer heat and the $11,000 piled up by "I'll Tell the World" at the Warner at 76 cents top, with a stage show. Nothing like it has happened in a long time. Other houses took it on the chin as a result.

The Twin Cities' two standbys are still going strong. At the Minneapolis World, "The Private Life of Henry VIII" was still 100 per cent over normal at $4,000 and "Catherine the Great" was double the normal take at $3,000 in the St. Paul World. "We're Not Dressing" was strong on both sides of the river. It took $8,000 at the Minnesota and $6,000 at the St. Paul Paramount. "Glamour" was also strong in both spots, getting $6,000 in the Minneapolis Orpheum and $4,500 in the St. Paul Orpheum.

Washington takings continued their downward trend. The Fox, with "Bottoms Up" on the screen and "50 Million Frenchmen" on the stage, was down to $19,800, about $4,000 under last month's average. The Earle, with Ramona and Jack Fulton heading a stage show, and "20 Million Sweethearts" on the screen was strong at $20,900. "Tarzan and His Mate" tumbled to $4,800 in its second week at Loew's Palace. "Men in White," playing a return engagement at Loew's Columbia, had a good $4,000.

"Stand Up and Cheer" was the only thing in Detroit to cheer about. It grabbed $18,400, over par by $3,400, at the Fox, helped by a vaudeville bill. "Men In White" was $200 up at $10,200 in the United Artists.

Infringement Suit Filed on Register

A suit charging the Silent American Ticket Machine Co. with infringement of certain patents has been filed in U. S. District Court by General Register Corp., Percy Phillipson, president of the complaining company, stated yesterday.

The suit names Reuben H. Helsel, Charles J. Wolfe and Fred J. Faust as defendants and alleges that certain of the patents held to have been infringed were assigned to General Register by Helsel while in the employ of the complainant.

Pathe Notifies Exchange

Pathe Exchange, Inc., has notified the Stock Exchange that an option has been granted to Stuart W. Webb, president, to purchase not more than 12,500 shares of common at $2 per share and 3,000 shares of Class A preference stock at $12 per share during the current year. This proposal was approved at the last meeting of the board.

Emerging from the conference, Pettijohn and others declined to reveal the progress made, but indicated it was satisfactory. They said any statement must come from Mayor Kelly.

Schiller Is Dinner Guest of Associates

Loew's and M-G-M executives of many years' standing were hosts at a testimonial dinner to Col. E. A. Schiller at the Warwick last night. Approximately 75 officers and executives of the two companies, led by Nicholas M. Schenck and including David Bernstein, Felix Feist, Leopold Friedman, Isador Frey, Howard Dietz, C. C. Moskowitz and Joe Vogel, were on hand for the affair.

Schiller, recently recovered from a long illness, leaves May 11 for Hawaii, by way of Los Angeles and San Francisco, for a rest.

Robins in Detroit For Second Session

CHICAGO, May 7.—Robert Robins, head of the American Society for the Protection of the M. P. Theatres, leaves here tonight for Detroit where he will conduct a meeting tomorrow. Following this gathering there will be a meeting in Cleveland where Robins will attempt to gather more support for the investigation of A. T. & T., which he charges with monopolistic control of the industry.

Clevelanders Seeking Pact Against Duals

Circulating Petition to Make Ban Unanimous

CLEVELAND, May 7.—Exhibitors here are circulating a petition among all houses in the Greater Cleveland district calling for the ending of duals on July 8 and for complete elimination of the policy during the 1934-35 season. It will become effective only if signed by every theatre.

The Greater Cleveland district includes this city, Cleveland Heights, East Cleveland and Lakewood.

So that there can be no argument about what constitutes a feature the petition specifies that it shall be any

Film Board Future Not Set, Pettijohn

CHICAGO, May 7.—Charles C. Pettijohn would make no prediction here today on the future of Film Boards of Trade. He said code boards would have to get under way before this problem could be decided, but a meeting has been called in New York to take up the problem within the next two weeks.

Pettijohn indicated that the need for film boards still exists and gave the impression that the Hays office has no plans for abandonment. The work of the boards is continuing in about eight important spots, he said.

Paramount to Make Two More in East

Paramount is expanding its production plans for the Astoria studio. In addition to the four to be produced by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, Carlos Gardel, well known tango singer, is to do two Spanish productions at the plant for foreign distribution.

Gardel's casts will be drawn from Spanish-speaking countries as well as Hollywood. Paramount holds an option for four additional pictures after these are finished.

DENVER, May 7.—An opinion holding that "bank night" stunts are advertising activities and not lotteries and, therefore, are neither violations of law nor of the code, was offered exhibitors of this territory today by Emmett Thurmon, local attorney and secretary and general counsel of the Rocky Mountain T. O. A.

Referring to the "bank night" contract made between local exhibitors and Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., Thurmon's opinion states:

FWC Ordered To Turn Back 20 Features

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—The local grievance board has set a precedent that may have a far-reaching effect on industry relations under the code in an award handed down in favor of the plaintiff in the complaint of the Garfield Theatre, Alhambra, against Fox West Coast, in which the latter was charged with holding out on product. The board adjudged the defendant guilty of violating the Canavan resigned in 1931 because of ill health and since has been active in the craft in his home town, St. Louis.

The ex-president will make another try at the presidency at the request of numerous members.

Campi Is to Consider Problem at Next Session Here

Exhibitors who have not signed the code may be given another opportunity to qualify, provided the next session of Campi on Friday approves such a move.

Returning from a two-week trip to Hollywood and Chicago, where he met with producers and code board secretaries, Executive Secretary John C. Flinn reports that hundreds of exhibitors who did not comply are anxious to do so if given another chance. He said that at least 2,500 assents would roll in the first week if such a move were approved by Code Authority.

Secretaries from the west and mid-west have asked Flinn about the possibility of getting a reopening of the

Code Bills Bring in Only $22,000 So Far

Approximately 3,500 exhibitors have sent in assessments representing $22,000 for the first six months. This is one-fourth of the amount expected. A second notice for return of assessments is going out this week and failure to pay by May 20 will find exhibitors having film shut off.

The finance committee will get a complete report of the moneys coming in and going out at Friday's session of Campi. In instances where theatres find they are being unfairly taxed they can present their cases to local grievance boards for adjustment.

Kendall Gets Second Penalty in Toronto

TORONTO, May 7.—Lew Kendall, operator, already under sentence to one year in prison following his conviction for bombing the Cumbac Theatre, has been fined $300 and given three months in prison by Judge O'Connell in General Sessions Court on a charge of running a gaming house for horse betting.

Kendall has been in the limelight in connection with trouble between operators and independents. He is still to be tried at the May session of court for attempted perversion of justice because of a claim one witness was paid to swear that he had no connection with the theatre bombing.

"Rothschild" Cincy Hit

CINCINNATI, May 7.—"The House of Rothschild" at the RKO Albee, got into the big money class last week, when it rang up an estimated $16,500. This is particularly outstanding since Arliss has usually drawn more of the carriage trade. The picture moves to the RKO Capitol for a second week.

Another real box-office job was done by "Viva Villa!" which accounted for approximately $14,000 at the RKO Palace. This rates a hold-over.

New Zanuck Plans

extension date for assents and he has promised to put the matter before Campi.

Members of clearance and zoning boards throughout the country are busy, Flinn reported yesterday. He regards these boards as most vital at this time because of the approach of the selling season and the need of new schedules before new sales begin. He stated some of the boards are meeting three times a week in order to clear up local programs.

"All boards are working to 100 per cent satisfactorily," Flinn said, "and they are doing much good for the industry. There are more clearance and zoning cases than grievances," he added.

Having met with secretaries of five cities in Los Angeles and secretaries of 14 cities in Chicago, Flinn next Tuesday will call a meeting in New York of secretaries from Albany, Boston, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, New Haven, Philadelphia, Washington, Charlotte, New Orleans and New York. The Boston grievance board met there yesterday and reported that one of the cases is being appealed and will probably be heard by Campi the meeting after May 11.

O'Connor, Loew Not To Act on One Case

Because John O'Connor and David Loew are connected with companies whose affiliates are defendants in the complaint of Rogowsky Bros. against Skouras and Radio, M-G-M, Fox, Universal, U. A., Columbia and Warners, separate hearings will be held today before the New York grievance board. When the case involving Radio comes up, Loew will sit. Likewise, when the hearing for M-G-M is on tap, O'Connor will sit. Fox and Skouras have a franchise for the Capitol, Port Chester, which is defendant in the complaint of the owners of the Embassy, same city.

Also up for hearing this morning is the complaint of Howard C. Cullman of the Roxy against Walter Reade of the Mayfair for issuing cut rate tickets. If decisions are not carried out within a limited time, offenders will find product shut off, according to the code.

No member of the board can be challenged, because he has been appointed by the government. However, witness and attorneys can be challenged.

For May 15, two cases involving advertising are on schedule. One is the Roxy complaint against the Casino and the other is that of the Little Picture House against the Windsor, 3rd Ave., for advertising pictures as coming attractions simultaneously with the run at the opposition.

Form Major Productions

DOVER, Del., May 7.—Major Film Prod., Inc., has been chartered here to produce motion pictures, listing capital of $300,000 and 3,000 shares, no par value. The incorporators are M. M. Lucey, H. I. Brown and L. S. Dorsey of Wilmington, Del.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood
PET terms in Hollywood, defying definition in any dictionary:

Romance, a thriving industry, draws these:

So-and-so is getting warm.
pashy.
that-a-way.
dueting around.
going places.
about to merge.
cooing,
panting.
piloting.

Also, merely romancing.
Marital troubles, likewise a going concern, draw these:
The battle of the century.
Having a change of heart.
On again, off again.

If it's a divorce, favorite appellations include:

Reno-vated.
Extricated.
Mexico-erced.

Beer parlors are known as stoobs. The theory is this is easier to get off when a fellow is down.

Overlong standees at bars are pegged as bar flies. Party hounds who stay to the last bottle become known as sitter-uppers.

Cocktail parties are never given. They are always thrown or tossed.

A drunk becomes known as a sponge. Or a lush. Or an elbow-bender.

When a chap is on the level and at the head of his particular class, anything he may contemplate thereafter is tops.

One who neglects to recognize a friend is accused of going native.

Apartments are alluded to as *camp*s. Mansions as shacks.

Short and sweet for studio is factory.

Additions to the family: baby-ing.

Vacations are siestas. . .

Interesting among the personalities here is Al Cohn. A veteran typewriter addict, he worked for the President during the campaign as he continued to turn out scripts. Today Cohn is collector of the port of Los Angeles, a Federal job which has nothing at all to do with his scribbling. The combination certainly makes him unique in Hollywood. Also it would make Hollywood unique if it failed to appreciate how Cohn, who is willing when he can, can help. . .

In keeping with his office, Al the other day made it easier for Mervyn Le Roy to clear customs with 75 pieces of assorted baggage collected on his 'round-the-world honeymoon trip with the former Doris Warner. Greeters wanted to help by carrying off a bundle each. Interposed Mrs. Harry M.: "Papa Cohn said he'd take care of all that." For Uncle Jack, Al persuaded the navy department to allow shots of the Macon, never before filmed by any producer. . .

Motion pictures reflect what goes on in the world, although all that goes on in the world is not reflected in motion pictures. Reasonable guess on requirements of a story executive would include a smattering, at least, of outstanding news events. One major studio, however, houses a chap who never heard of the Scottsboro case. . . He's not alone. If this is castigation, then its victims are many. . .

An inter-office communication sent to all directors on the lot removes doubts, if any prevailed, over "Pan" Berman's position at Radio. The memo states Berman is to be notified immediately a picture is finished, after which he is to be called in when the print is first run to discuss editing; that no changes are to be made until they have Berman's O. K. While the memo fails to specifically designate him as head man, ground covered in the text establishes the point. Whether this condition is to prevail only while Merian Cooper continues to bask in Hawaiian sunshine is not clear. . .

"Lesser's Last Stand" is how Sol describes the impending "Peck's Bad Boy" with Jackie Cooper. He is throwing all dice on this one. In between, Lesser is studying comparative literature at U. S. C. . . Universal's irons, complete, are buried in one fire. Its name is "Little Man, What Now?" . . . Louis B. Mayer has hordes of secretaries, but opens all of his mail personally. . .

designated to stimulate public interest in the motion picture industry and in your theatre. It is not intended to provide a means whereby you can give a prize to your patrons. To participate, any person may register in or near the theatre where the money is to be distributed, whether he buys a ticket or not." These provisions, Thurmon's opinion holds, remove "bank nights" from the classification of lotteries.

The same provisions, and particularly those specifying that any person may register for the "bank night" whether he buys an admission ticket or not, are cited by Thurmon as not being in violation of the film code provision governing "bank nights" and other forms of giveaways.

The Code Authority ruling on "bank nights" holds that the practice is in violation of the code if the participants purchase tickets of admission in connection with the prize drawings.

Rental Protests Up At Gathering Today

score charges will be held today at the M. P. Club here. Leading exhibitors from all eastern cities are expected to be on hand to discuss policies for the new season.

COLUMBUS, Miss., May 7.—Ed Kuykendall indicated here today the M. P. T. O. A. would take no part in the protest meeting to be held Tuesday in New York by the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware on rentals, percentages and score charges. The reason he gave is that nothing can be gained thereby.

"We knew from bitter experience," he said, "that the film companies would pass NRA costs on to the exhibitors, with the exhibitors passing them on to the public in higher admissions. I doubt alarms will be effective. There have been protests in the past—the idea is not new—but they never get anywhere."

Kuykendall has been ordered by his physicians to take a rest of several weeks, necessitating his absence from the next meeting of Code Authority, scheduled for May 11 in New York.

Capital's Schedule Set

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The schedule on which complaints may be filed with the clearance and zoning board was announced by James B. Fitzgerald today.

All complaints must be filed with the secretary within 30 days, on or before June 4.

To expedite and simplify the functions of the board, the present plan of clearance and zoning has been adopted by the board.

Practically all the subsequent runs are double featuring as well as two of the downtown first runs, Warners' Lake and Loew's Stillman.

Sinclair Steps Out Of Review Board

WASHINGTON, May 7.—John F. Sinclair has resigned from the National Recovery Review Board and W. W. Neal of Marion, N. C., has been named vice-chairman, it was learned today. Sinclair's resignation was not unexpected, as he has been at odds with Chairman Clarence Darrow ever since the Board was created and for the past three weeks has spent little or no time in Washington. His differences with the majority of the board are believed to have been explained in the minority report on the film and other codes which he filed with the President last week.

Despite the fact that the board is expected to go out of existence at the end of the month, members are going ahead with preparations for hearings "even after July 1," it was said today.

Weingarten's Plans Call for 6 Features

Lawrence Weingarten will produce a minimum of six for M-G-M's schedule of 50 next season. He is now in New York looking over a number of new plays in addition to "Shining Hour" and "No More Ladies," which he will make for 1934-35.

Weingarten figures Greta Garbo as the type for "Shining Hour." He also has an original in mind for Clark Gable and Jean Harlow. Lucille Watson of the original cast of "No More Ladies" will appear in the picture, possibly with Robert Montgomery. Herbert O. Yardley's stories around the spy system of the World War are being rewritten into one for a feature. The action will not take place on the field of combat as in other stories of this type.

He plans to leave the end of the week for Hollywood.

Execs Testify in Suit

HOLLYWOOD, May 7.—Irving Thalberg, Winfield Sheehan and Lou Brock testified today in the suit brought by Samuel Goldwyn against Warners for an injunction to restrain the latter from using Busby Berkeley's services in alleged violation of a loaning contract. The film executives were called to present testimony on rehearsals. Warners declared the dance director was engaged at the time the loan was negotiated and was unable to release him. Goldwyn takes the stand tomorrow.

Take Over Realart Corp.

HOLLYWOOD, May 7.—A group headed by Ira H. Simmons has acquired control of Realart Pictures Corp. They plan to produce six features during the year, gauging them on an expensive type of independent production. Distribution plans will be announced within the next 30 days.

Zukor Leaving Today

Adolph Zukor leaves today for the coast to take up current and future production problems with Emanuel Cohen. He expects to line up the principal details of next season's schedule while at the studio.

Borzage on Musical

HOLLYWOOD, May 7.—Frank Borzage will make "Flirtation Walk," a Warner musical for which Bobby Connolly will direct the dances.

First Complaint in Cincy on Cut Rates

CINCINNATI, May 7.—First official complaint lodged with the local grievance board is that of the Wingert Co., operating the Grand, Union City, Ind., against Phil Chakeres of the State, Greenville, O., 13 miles from the Grand.

The complaint charges unfair trade practice because of 10-cent admissions. On merchants' nights, upon presentation of tickets distributed by Greenville merchants, the regular advertised admission of 25 cents is automatically brought down to 10 cents, it is claimed.

Other complaints filed so far are being disregarded by the board because the complainants did not sign the code.

Cleveland May Set Back Session Again

CLEVELAND, May 7.—A session of the clearance and zoning board set for Friday may be postponed a second time because of the Allied meeting in Chicago at the end of the week. The first postponement was caused by the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Georgia Moffett, at a Chicago conference called by John C. Flinn.

"Daughter" Dates Set

Exploitation Pictures has sold "Enlighten Thy Daughter" to Lee Goldberg of Big Feature Rights Corp. for the Indiana and Tennessee territory. Arrangements have also been made to have Jack Kaufman, former manager of the Columbia exchange in Indianapolis, to handle the film in Indiana. L. K. Brin has taken the feature for Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Check on Theatre Union About Ready

The current checkup of service employees in Loew's and RKO metropolitan houses, being conducted by a representative of the Department of Labor, is scheduled to be completed tomorrow and the results may be made known by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt before the end of the week, it was stated yesterday.

The checkup is to determine the percentage of employees who are members of Local 118, Theatre and Amusement Employees Union. A majority for the union is regarded as tantamount to its recognition by New York circuits.

A settlement of a strike called against Loew's Metropolitan, Brooklyn, by the local last week was satisfactorily arbitrated over the week-end by Rosenblatt. Under the settlement the local agreed not to call a strike against the Metropolitan in the future unless a citywide strike order ensues.

A hearing on a petition for an injunction to restrain the local from picketing the Tivoli, Brooklyn, where a strike has been in progress for several weeks, was postponed to Thursdays, when called in Supreme Court at Brooklyn yesterday.

Goldsmith Expected To Get Labor Post

Doctor Alfred A. Goldsmith, formerly vice-president of RCA and now president of the S.M.P.E., is expected to be named the local labor head of the NRA by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt.

Goldsmith's appointment awaits decision by the Court of Appeals in Albany of the Local 306-I.T.O.A. case involving constitutionality of the NRA. This is expected some time this week. Goldsmith will have charge of setting the local operators' wage scale in addition to other labor matters. He will act as a committee of one.

Kohn in Para. Bldg.

Ralph A. Kohn, who resigned his posts as vice-president and director of Paramount subsidiaries last week, opened offices on the 16th floor of the Paramount building yesterday. While his permanent plans for the future are undecided, it is understood that Kohn may return to the practice of law.

to any picture

ANY picture, made on any film, may prove a hit. But the fact remains that the majority of the big motion picture triumphs are being filmed on Eastman Super-sensitive "Pan" Negative with gray backing. In other words, this film seems to be an important factor in any picture's chances of outstanding success. That fact is vitally important to every cameraman and producer. Paramount continues to lead the field with seven features in work, six preparing and four cutting. Radio reports five, two and six; Fox, five, three and five; Warners, four, four and eight; M-G-M, four, one and nine; Columbia, three, two and four; Universal, two, two and one; United Artists, one, two and zero, while the independent group reports a total of six, four and eight.

The short subject group reports Universal with one working, one preparing and one editing; Columbia, one, one and two; Radio, one, zero and two; Roach, zero, three and three; M-G-M, zero, one and four, while the independents report a total of eight, four and five.

M. P. Research Body Incorporated Here

The M. P. Research Council has been formally incorporated. Papers were approved yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler. The incorporators are: Eleanor R. Belmont, Thomas J. Watson, Herbert S. Houston, Alanson B. Houghton, Henry Fairfield Osborn, William H. Short, Henry J. Fisher, and Stephen P. Cabot of Boston. Mrs. August Belmont continues as president.

The incorporation is preliminary to a national membership campaign. Among the objects named in the incorporation papers are: "To undertake a study of problems presented by the motion picture; to stimulate public discussion and evaluation of these findings and to take steps in carrying out such parts of these plans and recommendations as may appear to have social value."

Publix Drops Some In Ohio, Colorado

COLUMBUS, May 7.—Control of houses in two Publix situations in Ohio has recently changed to other hands. The Guernsey Theatre Corp. has acquired the Ohio and Cort at Cambridge from Publix-Shea, and at Marietta, the Publix-Marietta has released the Strand and Auditorium to Washington Theatres, Inc.

Other changes in title include the Stanley, at Sciotoville, which has been taken over by Kenneth Carter from the previous operator, C. D. Rowland. The Virginia, at North Baltimore, now is in control of E. H. Walter, who also operates the Liberty, at Toledo, and the La France, at Swanton.

DENVER, May 7.—Publix has turned back the Rex at Greeley, Col., and the Mesa at Grand Junction, Col., to the Greeley Theatre Co. and the Rex Amusement Co. Both companies are owned by Harry Nolan, Denver theatre man and supply dealer.

Four Features Stand Out As Grosses Start to Sag

Francisco and Cleveland; "I'll Tell the World," which took a remarkable $18,000 in Oklahoma City, and "Stand Up and Cheer," which went over big in Detroit.

"The House of Rothschild" furnished about the only film excitement in Chicago. It went to a smart $30,000 at the United Artists, topping the normal take by $13,000. "Bottoms Up," at the Chicago, was the only other attraction to approach normal. It reached $34,000.

"We're Not Dressing" piled up a fine $6,000 at the Circle, Indianapolis, nearly doubling par. "Glamour" took a normal $6,000 at the Lyric with a stage show, but Indianapolis had nothing else to get excited about. The others: "Three On a Match," Apollo, $2,000; "His Double Life" and "Come On Marines," Indiana, $3,000; "Tarzan and His Mate," Palace, $4,000.

San Francisco had three strong draws, with "We're Not Dressing" leading at $21,000 in the Warfield. Average for the house is $19,000. "The House of Rothschild" was $2,500 up with $10,500 at the Geary, and "Success At Any Price" had a good $10,000 at the Orpheum.

"Not Dressing" Liked

"We're Not Dressing" ran away with top honors in Cleveland, getting $14,000, up by $4,000, at Loew's State. "Jimmy, the Gent" and "Taming the Jungle" took a good $2,800 at Warners' Lake. "Good Dame" and "Thundering Herd" had a par $4,000 at Loew's Stillman. Weak numbers were: "Sorrel and Son," Allen, $2,700; "As the Earth Turns," Warners' Hippodrome, $4,000; "Glamour," RKO Palace, $14,500.

Summer weather cracked down on Pittsburgh first runs, with only two of them showing any strength. "Bottoms Up" reached $6,000 at the Fulton, and "Lost Patrol" took $7,200 at the Warner, both well over par. "Tarzan and His Mate" had a weak $11,500 at the Penn; "Ever Since Eve," even with a stage bill, was dull at $6,000, and "Sisters Under the Skin," also with a stage bill, was under normal at $17,500.

Oklahoma City was "all het up" for two reasons—the summer heat and the $11,000 piled up by "I'll Tell the World" at the Warner at 76 cents top, with a stage show. Nothing like it has happened in a long time. Other houses took it on the chin as a result.

The Twin Cities' two standbys are still going strong. At the Minneapolis World, "The Private Life of Henry VIII" was still 100 per cent over normal at $4,000 and "Catherine the Great" was double the normal take at $3,000 in the St. Paul World. "We're Not Dressing" was strong on both sides of the river. It took $8,000 at the Minnesota and $6,000 at the St. Paul Paramount. "Glamour" was also strong in both spots, getting $6,000 in the Minneapolis Orpheum and $4,500 in the St. Paul Orpheum.

Washington takings continued their downward trend. The Fox, with "Bottoms Up" on the screen and "50 Million Frenchmen" on the stage, was down to $19,800, about $4,000 under last month's average. The Earle, with Ramona and Jack Fulton heading a stage show, and "20 Million Sweethearts" on the screen was strong at $20,900. "Tarzan and His Mate" tumbled to $4,800 in its second week at Loew's Palace. "Men in White," playing a return engagement at Loew's Columbia, had a good $4,000.

"Stand Up and Cheer" was the only thing in Detroit to cheer about. It grabbed $18,400, over par by $3,400, at the Fox, helped by a vaudeville bill. "Men in White" was $200 up at $10,200 in the United Artists.

Infringement Suit Filed on Register

A suit charging the Silent American Ticket Machine Co. with infringement of certain patents has been filed in U. S. District Court by General Register Corp., Percy Phillipson, president of the complaining company, stated yesterday.

The suit names Reuben H. Helsel, Charles J. Wolfe and Fred J. Faust as defendants and alleges that certain of the patents held to have been infringed were assigned to General Register by Helsel while in the employ of the complainant.

Pathe Notifies Exchange

Pathe Exchange, Inc., has notified the Stock Exchange that an option has been granted to Stuart W. This proposal was approved at the last meeting of the board.

Schiller Is Dinner Guest of Associates

Loew's and M-G-M executives of many years' standing were hosts at a testimonial dinner to Col. E. A. Schiller at the Warwick last night. Approximately 75 officers and executives of the two companies, led by Nicholas M. Schenck and including David Bernstein, Felix Feist, Leopold Friedman, Isador Frey, Howard Dietz, C. C. Moskowitz and Joe Vogel, were on hand for the affair.

Schiller, recently recovered from a long illness, leaves May 11 for Hawaii, by way of Los Angeles and San Francisco, for a rest.

Review Board Asks NRA Aid in Future

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Repercussions of the Darrow-Sinclair row were seen today in the announcement that the National Recovery Review Board had asked the cooperation of General Johnson's recovery administration in further investigations of complaints against codes.

Failure of the board to call upon the administration for cooperation in its inquiries was one of the major complaints against Chairman Clarence Darrow by John F. Sinclair, whose resignation was made known yesterday.

Meanwhile, it was said at the White House that the President had taken no action on Sinclair's resignation and would not do so until he has read the Darrow report, publication of which is awaited.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—In an effort to encourage the elimination of double featuring here, all Warner neighborhood theatres in the city which have been using the policy on Saturday afternoons will soon abandon it and return to single features exclusively, it was learned today.

The new Warner policy is understood to be in the nature of an experiment and will be effective until Labor Day. The single feature policy will be made permanent at that time if it has tended to encourage other exhibitors to follow suit, it is said.

Kuykendall Is For Contract Ban on Duals

Wants Either Limitation Or Total Elimination

COLUMBUS, Miss., May 8.—Lacking a curb on double billing in the code, Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, is heartily in favor of having contractual restrictions imposed by distributors next season. He is of the opinion the distributors can clamp down on the practice by limitations or outright prohibition. A rental rebate on pictures played singly, which has been effective in the past, also appeals to him. Another method would be to lengthen the features, he said. "We could have written a double bill clause into the code, but the independent producers protested and

K. C. Promulgates New Clearance Plan

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 8.—The local zoning board tonight promulgated a new clearance and zoning schedule for Greater Kansas City, effective June 10 and applicable to all pictures at first runs beginning 14 days later. As MOTION PICTURE DAILY exclusively predicted, the board reduced protection for first run charging 25 cents as well as those double billing. Theatres offering rebates, premiums and the like were also penalized. The board ruled no feature shown singly at first runs shall be

Hollywood
WHILE agents, also known as 10 percenters, only indirectly impinge on exhibitor purse strings, their activities have a direct bearing on production. Agents have been dubbed non-productive fungi. Higher cost of production has been laid to their practice of wangling higher salaries for artists' services, thereby ultimately increasing rentals. . . .

Agents, from time to time, have been accused of splitting their fees with some of those in seats of power. Agents allegedly hijack artists from each other, keeping creative talent in constant ferment. That's one angle. On the other, agents say they render the same type of service as stock brokers, real estate agents, commission merchants or insurance brokers. . . .

Artists, whose agents get them more money, incline toward rating the service as high as their increase minus the 10 per cent. Now that the California State Labor Board has imposed severe regulations on agents' practices, some of the smarter ones are beginning to read the handwriting on the wall, and some read. Instead of merely collecting 10 per cent for landing jobs for talent, one group of agents, for the commission alone, now takes care of income taxes, manages property, budgets the family, gives general business counsel, attends to accounting and bookkeeping, suggests investments and does everything for the artist but supply dental prophylaxis and sharpen skates. . . .

Agents would become employers as well as agents under a new twist which has been cautiously advanced to some writers. The idea calls for a direct personal service contract between writer and agents on whatever terms and options may be agreed upon. The agent, as employer, would, in turn, parcel out writers' services to the employing studio. What the agent, as employer, got would be his business, the writer getting his first under direct contract and worrying neither about the agent's usual 10 per cent or the calibre of his contract with the producer. If this development comes, it might reach beyond writers and include others working in the creative end of production as well. . . .

Inside of the Columbia situation from sources that say they know what goes on is this: The company undoubtedly will stay in the hands of Harry Cohn, although it may embrace in its fold a headline name known or heard pretty much wherever pictures are talked. President Cohn, this source insists, is leaning heavily toward a plan to produce only A pictures with the B and C stuff to develop under a different sort of arrangement. . . . Three reasons for the A idea: "It Happened One Night," "Twentieth Century" and "No Greater Glory." . . .

Interested, first and last, in its own upheavals, one Hollywood segment finds time to keep an optic on European revolutions. World economics, or even disturbed markets for American pictures, has nothing to do with it, but current market quotations on counts, barons and princes have. Socialite filmites are much interested in a rumored stock board which will list the daily rise and fall in title values. . . .

Add royalty notes: In "Now I'll Tell," the widow of the king of the underworld finally marries the king of the underwear world. . . . Paul Sloane's latest, "Down to Their Last Yacht," makes some Hollywood bigwigs wonder if they are. . . . The preview system may move out-of-town, which means anywhere from 30 to 100 miles in these open spaces, provided the conversation to eradicate duals develops beyond the talkie stage.

Genial Tom Baily, chief publicizer on the Paramount lot, memos anent the recent line on the pile of dirt which marks the spot where the building housing his department eventually will rise:

"An unlauded crack," say I. "The structure, which will be a thing of beauty and a joy forever, is being constructed on a sturdy foundation of fact—and it covers the dirt beneath. "I'm surprized atcha."

Two N. Y. Code Cases Require More Evidence

claiming inability to secure first run major product for the Embassy, Port Chester. About 50 attended, including managers of the exchanges involved and a number of exhibitor on-lookers.

An attempt on the part of Skouras and distributors to postpone the Rogowsky case met with failure in the morning when former Senator George F. Thompson, impartial member, insisted that the hearing be held. Louis Weber, attorney for Skouras, stated he had not been prepared and the exchanges claimed their attorney, Louis Nizer, was in the Court of Appeals.

The grievance board, consisting of Harry H. Thomas, chairman, Louis Geller, Thompson, John O'Connor and Milt Kusell, went into executive session and at the insistence of the government representative ruled that the hearing should go on in the afternoon.

Herbert Rogowsky, booker and buyer for the Embassy, upon questioning by his attorney, Robert R. Rosan, tried to prove that since Skouras had taken over the Capitol, Port Chester, defendant exchanges would not sell him product and that when he managed to get pictures from some of the distributors, it was not until after Skouras had rejected them.

Paramount Not Involved

Paramount was not involved in the case, the company having sold 50 per cent of its product to the independent.

Through cross examination of Rogowsky by Nizer and Weber, the defendants attempted to prove that with the changes in policy of the Capitol, Skouras needed the 303 pictures it had purchased from the various companies.

Edward Peskay, buyer for Skouras, stated he had bought 32 from Paramount, 40 from Radio, 28 from Columbia, 28 from Universal, 55 from Warners, 54 from Fox, 18 from U. A. and 48 from M-G-M. He stated that at times five and six features were needed a week, and, allowing for about 75 pictures which are bought and not produced by majors annually, he had just about sufficient product. Rogowsky has not been having trouble trying to get second run product, he admitted, but it was first run he was after.

The board adjourned until tomorrow at 10:30 A. M. when it will hold an executive session to decide whether or not Skouras should produce contracts entered into with major companies. Nizer objected to the contracts being introduced as evidence, but will produce the managers of the exchanges involved for verbal testimony tomorrow. Nizer will then attempt to disprove Rosan's charge of a conspiracy on part of the distributors put Rogowsky Brothers out of business.

Howard Cullman's complaint against Walter Reade for distribution of cut rate tickets by the Mayfair was adjourned until next Tuesday to permit Cullman to produce a witness and Reade to submit a list of 1,800 locations where he distributes the tickets.

Cullman stated to the board that the Nu-Lite Lamp Co. received 25 tickets in the mail. This was denied by Reade and it was requested that Cullman produce the recipient of the tickets. Cullman's main argument centered around the interpretation of the code as to cut-rate tickets, whether advertising courtesies or in any other form.

A decision is expected next Tuesday.

Milwaukee Handles Grievances Rapidly

MILWAUKEE, May 8.—Four complaints were heard by the grievance board at its second meeting. Two of them concerned the La Crosse Theatre Co., La Crosse, against L. J. Burkitt, operator of the Classic, Sparta, and the Vernon Theatre Co., operators of the Vernon, Viroqua.

In the former complaint, in which the Classic was charged with admitting women free on ladies' night, the board issued a cease and desist order, while the latter case, charging the Vernon with issuing two-for-ones, was withdrawn.

The third case, Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc., against George Hannon, operator of the Grand, Green Bay, charging unfair advertising, was certified to Code Authority.

Heinrich Brothers, operators of the Burleigh, Milwaukee, against Saxe Amusement Management, Inc., charging operation of a cooking school at the Garfield and the giving away of a gas stove and prizes was held over for hearing at a later date.

The clearance and zoning board is scheduled to hold its preliminary meeting May 11.

Ben Koenig, secretary, says a clean calendar is being kept and hearings on complaints disposed of promptly.

Six future productions selected are: "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Marie Antoinette," a Marie Dressler "Tish" story, "What Every Woman Knows," "Three Weeks" and "China Seas."

Change Exchange Hours

NEW ORLEANS, May 8.—By concerted action all film exchanges here will change hours from 8 till 4 o'clock for the summer months. This move, inaugurated years ago by one exchange, has gradually been gaining ground, until it is thought all exchanges will work together when the new hours go into effect.

principally of members of the local I. T. O. A. Speakers who addressed the meeting based their talks on an anticipation of generally stiffer sales policies for next season by all large distributors, with particular emphasis being placed on the fear of higher rentals or percentages, more general demand for preferred playing time and contract provisions dictating minimum admissions.

The meeting was a closed affair and those in charge declined to make statements after its adjournment. It was learned, however, that no action was taken by the session, but that several additional local meetings are planned for the near future. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for later meetings. An original proposal to make the protest sessions national in character by encouraging exhibitors in three or four other principal sections to stage similar meetings was tabled here yesterday.

Philadelphia Board Holds First Hearing

by Jay Emanuel, against the Venice theatre, involving alleged discrimination in enforcement of the double feature clause, was continued until May 17. The defendant's lawyer was not present today. The case of Louis Linker against the Stanley, Bridgeton, N. J., was also postponed until the next meeting at the request of both parties.

Emanuel says he has a "gentleman's agreement" with Fox and a contract with United Artists banning exhibition of their product on a dual bill and that, while he is so bound at the Grand Jackson, the Venice in an adjoining zone is permitted to dual. Emanuel is basing his case on the argument the Venice is running features at a reduced admission. He seeks clarification.

Two Cases Pending With Detroit Board and of Bert C. Silver, of the Family, Greenville, asking for relief from provisions of several contracts forcing him to play pictures at a 15-cent minimum.

These are the only actual cases awaiting action, four others having been withdrawn. He said that the case of George Murphy, Iris theatre, Muskegon, charging the Paul Schlossman houses with unfair competition in the matter of admission prices would be filed again later in revised form.

Opening of the local code offices, postponed because of failure of the Authority to approve budgets for furniture and supplies, will take place May 12.

Drop Cleveland Shows

CLEVELAND, May 8.—The RKO Palace has gone into a straight picture policy for the summer. Prices are down to 30c, 35c and 44c. The only act on the program is Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Crawford, at twin organ consoles. Nat Holt, RKO theatre division manager, says the picture policy will be interrupted during the summer with stage attractions.

Kuykendall Is For Contract Ban on Duals

the question was raised whether it would be legal," said Kuykendall.

Kuykendall fears for film quality if the epidemic of dual features continues. He said that unless curbed, double bills would influence producers to pay more attention to quantity at the expense of quality. In this connection, he pointed to the independent companies, which thrive on multiple features.

"They claim their negative costs are as great as some of the major's pictures," he said. "But that is open to question because we all know the type of product they turn out. I know of instances where the independents shoot a picture in four or five days with no rehearsals or preparation, at a cost of $5,000."

While Kuykendall sees no way to prevent passing the added expense caused by the NRA to the exhibitor in the form of higher film rentals, at the same time he cautions exhibitors must "go slow" in considering admission boosts. "In the last five months box-offices have reflected a marked reawakening of the public's desire for entertainment," he declared. "Lost patrons are beginning to look at the posters out front again. We must use all fair means to again inculcate the film habit, and price increases at this time would frighten patrons away. Upward revision of admission scales should wait until improved conditions become more widespread."

Conditions on Upgrade

"To get the public back into the theatre is a greater problem than before, because people have become extremely discriminating, and even in the small towns have acquired the shopping habit. But conditions are definitely on the upgrade and a meritorious picture will gross as much as before the depression."

The M. P. T. O. A. head is a firm believer in the ultimate success of the NRA and holds to the idea that it is here to stay. Exhibitors who blame the NRA for bad business are the type who always complained and would find some other scapegoat if the President's recovery program were not at hand, he said. These exhibitors, he added, always manage to find something on which to lay the blame for their lack of business.

"The code will need revising and tightening," Kuykendall declared. "There is chiseling and evasion on both sides," he said, apparently referring to exhibitors and distributors, "and it must be revised to eliminate opportunities it offers for subterfuge. But the code will succeed."

Touching on labor provisions in the code, Kuykendall said: "I don't know of any instance where it isn't fair to employers and employees. The code does favor labor to some extent and we have to guard against it gaining the upper hand. But, on the whole, the provisions are satisfactory, with the exception where I. A. T. S. E. interprets them to mean that it can set itself up as a measuring rule for all classes and kinds of theatre operation."

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, May 8.—Evoking comparatively mild interest, Joe E. Brown is here seen as an acrobat and the son of an acrobat, who just can't get circus out of his blood.

Strung on a slender story are gags of the pre-roaring days, with one of Clown Brown roaring in competition with Leo, a lion.

Against his dad's wishes, Brown practices acrobatics in his barn. When the circus comes to town he gets a job as prop boy and falls for a girl bare-back rider who turns out to be a man, and becomes the butt of the circus for his good deed toward a drunken brother of an aerial artist whom he loves. He loses his job, goes home but pines for the circus, returns at the psychological moment, and takes the place of the drunken acrobat in the act and wins the girl.

Brown plays the dual roles of himself and his father. His is a sort of a "Boob McNutt" role with appeal to pathos. Others in the cast, Patricia Ellis, Dorothy Burgess, Donald Dillaway, all play to Brown.

The circus atmosphere is authentic, with the final trapeze stuff thrilling. Youngsters should like this one.

"The Party's Over"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, May 8.—Comedy and drama stemmed from the domestic situation of Bread Winner Stuart Erwin leached upon by his entire family.

The story might happen in millions of American homes today. Mother Catharine Doucet is a nut on family trees and is somewhat light-headed. Father Henry Travers is a good-natured slob who makes touches, tipples and flirts with Servant Girl Patsy Kelly. The sister falls for Chick Chandler, erstwhile shipping clerk aspiring to be a crooner with Erwin supporting them. Collegian Brother Billy Bakewell gets a waitress into trouble, marries her and needs money. The only one who doesn't sponge on Erwin is Ann Sothern, his secretary. After shelling out to everybody, Erwin cracks under the strain, confronts each and tells them the party's over.

Walter Lang directed S. K. Lauren's screen play from Daniel Kussell's stage play. This is pleasing family entertainment, not big but good for laughs and relaxation with particular interest to home and fireside folks.

Looking 'Em Over

"Smarty"

(Warners)

A sophisticated comedy in which Joan Blondell and Edward Everett Horton do nice work. Supporting them are Warren William, Frank McHugh, Claire Dodd, Joan Wheeler, Virginia Sale and Leonard Carey. Robert Florey directed with a whimsical touch.

As a spiteful and spoiled wife, Miss Blondell irks her husband to the point where he forgets himself and slaps her in front of guests in their home. The incident leads to divorce, which the kittenish wife has desired all along. This gives her a chance to marry Horton. At the same time it makes her ex-husband, William, feel foolish, for later he is invited to the home of his divorced wife and gets a chance to review the happenings of which he already has been a victim.

Later, Miss Blondell leaves her husband, and goes to William's apartment. There she finds he is entertaining another woman. Her husband follows her to the William apartment and finds her in a bathrobe. A scene follows and when it is all over William and Miss Blondell are left alone and decide to get married all over again. However, the husband promises not to be the meek and coddling kind.

McHugh provides comedy moments.

"L'Agonie des Aigles"

(Tapernoux)

For those who understand French and those groups interested in the art aspects of pictures this is really a remarkable film. Some of the characterizations are striking and the scenes are developed with considerable power. These angles of the production are so well done that

Tax on Sales Is Bothering Houses in N. M.

DENVER, May 8.—Theatres in New Mexico are having a tussle with a 2 per cent sales tax just passed by the Legislature. New Mexico is getting a reputation for passing so-called nuisance legislation that makes the life of a manager or owner in the state anything but monotonous.

The sales tax carries a penalty of a fine up to $150 and six months in jail for any one who fails to pass it along to the public.

This is the second law passed in the past year or two that hits theatres. The other concerned buying of films and was intended to give all theatres in competitive situations equal rights or chances at buying product. The law was declared unconstitutional.

Realizing that numerous kicks would be received, most theatres are printing their entire schedule of prices in their ads, showing the admission prices and the tax on each.

Ohio's Legislature Quits; Tax Unsolved

COLUMBUS, May 8.—After many weeks of parliamentary wrangling, the legislature, which was reconvened to formulate a general sales tax or an equivalent revenue-producing measure, was adjourned by Governor White until Nov. 19 without the objective having been attained.

Although the legislature will reconvene for a brief special session in two weeks to enact building and loan legislation, it is not expected that the sales tax again will come up prior to November. By that time, the Governor reasons, the revenue problems will have become so acute that much of what now is considered controversial will be clearly defined.

Paramount Holds Fields

HOLLYWOOD, May 8.—Paramount has renewed its option on W. C. Fields. The comedian is now starring in "The Old-Fashioned Way."

Paramount also has renewed options on three "search for beauty" winners, Gwenllian Gill, Colin Calpey and Julian Madison.

To Star Shirley Temple

HOLLYWOOD, May 8.—When the contract of Shirley Temple, five-year-old Fox actress, comes up for renewal, she will be made a star. The new ticket is slated to stipulate first billing, but the lettering will be smaller than that of the male stars in the cast.

K. C. Promulgates New Clearance Plan

exhibited by subsequents on dual bills until double the effective clearance over subsequents shall have elapsed.

Theatres have been reclassified according to admission price, with first run scales set as the clearance basis. The board without a dissenting vote reduced protection ranging from 28 to 49 days for first runs charging 25 cents down to 14 days, while for first runs charging over 25 cents protection was cut from 28 to seven days over Kansas City, Kan., first runs equally priced.

Twenty-five cent first runs get only prior protection over suburbs charging 30 cents or more. Protection has been reduced to 21 days over North Kansas City, Mo., 20-centers. First run protection over 10-centers, now ranging from about 70 to 80 days, has been extended to 135 days after the 25-cent first runs and to 233 days following the 60-centers. Suburbs charging 25 cents and 20 cents gain an advantage following 25-cent first runs, while suburbs charging less are set back.

The schedule sets the period of availability to subsequents in accordance with the first run admission price for adults after 6 P.M. The first run price is considered reduced with commensurate lowering of protection if a first run offers premiums of any sort or otherwise reduces prices.

Frisco Board Hands Down First Decision

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—The local grievance board today handed down its first decision in favor of J. McCauley, Cameo Theatre, complainant against George Naify, Victoria Theatre. The former alleged the latter lowered his admission price by allowing patrons to purchase 15-cent tickets and occupy 20-cent seats. The practice was ordered stopped.

The Davies Theatre, of which M. L. Markowitz is manager, has filed a complaint against the Casino, managed by Irving C. Ackerman, alleging lowering of prices through cash prizes.

Canadians Set Back Score Charge Move

TORONTO, May 8.—No meeting of the M. P. Distributors' Ass'n. to consider an application of Ontario associated and affiliated independents for cancellation of score charges starting July 1 was held today, as anticipated, and no date seems to have been set for the session.

In the meantime exhibitors are organizing to press their demand and a promise has been made that if the matter is not dealt with by the association it will be taken up by the Federal government.

N. O. Board Adjourns

NEW ORLEANS, May 8.—The local grievance board adjourned to Monday after a brief meeting today. Some members suggested spectators be allowed to sit in. The secretary was instructed to write to John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Campi, asking what information could be given to managers, exchange men and especially trade papers, and inquiring if spectators could attend meetings.

Looking 'Em Over

it is possible for a persons with practically no knowledge of French to follow the story.

Its faults lie in the fact that it runs for two hours and seven minutes, and the only important feminine role is done by Annie Ducaux, who never relaxes from an almost hysterical tenseness throughout.

The story revolves around a plot of a group of retired Napoleonic soldiers against King Louis XVIII. They want to put Napoleon's son on the throne. They go to their deaths in full uniform in a gripping scene. The story was adapted and directed by Marcel Pagnol. Pierre Renoir, Constand Remy and Annie Ducaux are featured.

"Twin Husbands"

(Chesterfield)

Invincible has turned out in "Twin Husbands" a comedy that stacks up well for neighborhood audiences. It is alive and clever with first-rate acting.

Shirley Grey, intent on keeping her irresponsible husband, from whom she is separated, from going through the remainder of his inheritance, joins with his secretary (Monroe Owsley) in a plot to get hold of $200,000 in bonds belonging to him. The difference is that Owsley's motive is dishonest. They kidnap John Miljan, who is the image of her husband, and arrange to have him receive the bonds from the administrator of the prodigal's estate. The plot takes an ironical twist when Miljan turns out to be a safe-opener. When the bonds are found missing Miljan is suspected, but through cleverness he escapes arrest and reveals the real thief. In the end Miss Grey and Miljan are in each other's arms. This follows upon the discovery that the woman's husband is dead. Frank Strayer directed.

"The Blue Light"

(Gil Boag-Mayfair Associates)

As a demonstration of what can be achieved with the camera in the way of sheer breath-taking beauty this film is in a class by itself. It seems to have been done on panchromatic stock and the cameramen must have waited weeks to secure some of the cloud and light effects on mountain peaks, the sides of cliffs and at the base of a waterfall. The pictorial composition is marvelous.

The film is also interesting from another angle. It shows what can be done in the way of telling a simple story with an absolute minimum of dialogue. Dramatic values are not lacking and a musical score is used freely.

Selling angles for mass audiences are lacking, but for class audiences interested in art values this is a natural.

The picture was produced in the Italian Dolomites. Its story is based on a legend. A beautiful girl, sister of a young shepherd, is the only person who can reach a dizzy peak which shines with a blue light under a full moon. Men who try to follow her disappear. A visiting artist succeeds in doing it and finds a valuable crystal deposit to which he leads the villagers. When the girl returns to her eerie perch she finds it gone and loses her hold on a crag because there is no blue light to guide her. The artist, who has fallen in love with her, finds her body.

The screen story was written, directed and acted by Leni Riefenstahl, who is extremely attractive.

"The Lost Jungle"

(Mascot)

With Clyde Beatty and the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus animals as its chief draw, "The Lost Jungle" has good exploitation values and should attract adults as well as children. It moves at a fast pace and was directed by Armand Schaefer and David Howard with a keen eye towards Beatty's showmanship with his charges.

The story is woven around Beatty as the star of the Maitland circus and his love for Cecelia Parker, daughter of Edward Le Saint, a sea captain. More intent on his charges than on his girl friend, Beatty lets her sail with her father's ship to the South Seas in search of the lost island of Kalmos, the last link between Asia and Africa, and inhabited by the jungle beasts of both continents. The ship is wrecked on the lost island and Beatty joins the dirigible rescue party hoping to capture more animals for his act while recapturing the love of Miss Parker. Demolished by a storm, the airship falls on Kalmos and Beatty rescues those of the original party who have survived the man-eating beasts, finds the lost city and its treasure, captures lions and tigers and wins the girl.

Among other capable members of the cast of this feature, fashioned from the more thrilling episodes of the serial of the same name, are Syd Saylor, Warner Richmond, Harry Holman and Mickey Rooney.

bonds, which were among the liabilities of that company assumed by Paramount when it acquired the circuit in 1930. The mortgage liability, subsequently, was assigned by Paramount to Olympia Theatres. The trustees' reorganization plan provides for a foreclosure on the G. B. mortgage, with title to the G. B. properties being acquired by a new company, to be organized for the purpose, at the foreclosure sale. All of the capital stock in the new company will be retained by the Goldsteins, while the Class B shares will be sold to Lares Theatres Corp., a wholly owned Paramount subsidiary.

Proportioning Officers

The A stock will elect three directors, the president, second vice-president and the assistant treasurer, while the B stock will elect four directors, a treasurer, first vice-president and secretary. Bonds of the new company will be exchanged for those of G. B. in an equal amount and the holders of the new bonds will elect one director in the new company. A loan of $100,000 will be made to the new company, 52 per cent of which will be furnished by the Goldsteins and 48 per cent by Lares.

In addition to the G. B. houses, about 20 in number, Lares will deliver to the new Goldstein company certain Olympia Theatres leaseholds and equipment in return for the cancellation of all claims on G. B. bonds against Olympia, Paramount and G. B.

A 10-year Paramount picture franchise will be delivered to the Goldsteins in connection with the management contract. Paramount Publix is to lend $107,500 to Lares to finance its share of the agreement. Authorization for the deal will be sought of Referee Henry K. Davis on May 17.

Propose $280,000 On Olympia Claims

A proposal for the settlement of $280,000 in claims against Olympia Theatres on the basis of 40 cents on the dollar will be submitted to Referee Henry K. Davis for approval on May 17, in connection with a petition filed by the Paramount Publix trustees yesterday which seeks authorization to expend up to $150,000 on the settlement.

The claims are those filed by "open account" creditors and deemed by the Paramount trustees to be provable. Their petition to Referee Davis states that claims in addition to these may be settled similarly.

The Paramount petition reveals that total creditors' claims filed against Olympia, the company's principal New England theatre subsidiary, now in bankruptcy, aggregate $21,000,000, and that of this amount it is believed that $13,000,000 are not provable. Of the remaining $8,000,000, Paramount's own claims aggregate $5,092,896, and an additional $1,500,000 claim represents an inter-company liability filed

"Certain of our customers insist upon action films and they will get them. The O'Brien series will be sold to those who want them. The group also will be sold to anybody else who may want them on a separate basis and that won't mean buying our regular output in order to get these."

Asked whether the deal indicated Fox was embarking on acquisition of outside product for distribution, Kent stated it did not. The only other outside film is "The Catpaw" which Harold Lloyd finished in Hollywood last week.

with exhibitors in any Warner situation who favored curtailment of the policy. Aside from the Philadelphia situation, however, the company has no definite plans at this time for dropping duals from its own theatres independently of the policies of competing exhibitors.

Bernhard objected to the Saturday policy of Warners' Philadelphia houses being described as a "double feature" one.

Independents Plan Fight to Protect Duals

Intend to Seek Federal Aid Against Majors

Attempts by major companies to force out duals through contract stipulations or otherwise will be battled by independents as a conspiracy in restraint of trade, it has been learned.

Just what form this action will take is not clear yet. Whether it will be an appeal to the courts or a request for an investigation by the Federal Trade Commission has not been decided, according to the Motion Picture Herald.

The Federation of the M. P. Industry intends to lead the fight. Its brochure, issued a few days ago, with

Hollywood

THAT startling sound invention tipped off some columns back has to do with a metal gadget, convenient pocket size, which slips into an electrical contact provided for it and thereafter records all that transpires in conversation. The plan, more or less vaguely reported, is viewed as an essential and a scientifically accurate way of removing all speculation over what actually is or is not said in important conferences. . . .

This drowsy semi-tropical climate has been known to make memories lackadaisical. One producer may not always remember in the afternoon what he told another in a morning conference. It works in reverse gear as well with results not always satisfactory to either party. That explains the need for a method of catching on a sound track, preferably film, what one said to the other. Several refinements already have been suggested for the refinement. . . .

For instance, one individual thinks the film track ought to be on non-flam stock, the better to resist both kinds of temperature, natural and human. Another thinks this is no laboratory job for Consolidated or for any of the studio labs for that matter, but for a non-partisan plant which doesn't give a hoot either way. A third refers to projection and sticks to the conviction the non-partisan idea should prevail in reproduction as it would in the recording. Armed guards for all steps of the operation have been talked about as a final bit piece of production investiture. . . .

Mike Simmons, once a New York press agent but now a writer who works at it, visited the Paramount lot recently with Michael, the Second, in tow. It was a break. Everyone was on deck—Dietrich, Fields, Cooper, West, Arlen, Oakie—and to all the youngster was introduced. The elder Mike thought he had done a pretty good job and had properly impressed the offspring. "Well, wasn't that a thrill?" he asked. "It was all right, but I wanted to see a supervisor," came the reply. . . .

Parking space on the Radio lot is marked off with neat signs reading, among others: Irene Dunne, Richard Dix, Ann Harding, Bert Wheeler and Bob Woolsey. A car drives in and parks, dead center, between space allotted for Wheeler and Woolsey. The driver says, "Say, I've been around. I'm playing no favorites." . . . Darryl Zanuck's contemplated picture on the Dark Continent may include the Stanley (not of Philadelphia) expedition as one of its dramatic highlights. . . .

"Treasure Island" script calls for so many pirates to be bumped off, one of the assistant directors is going slightly screwy keeping a record of those done away with to prevent their accidental reappearance in later sequences. . . . The national humorist, Will Rogers, on production and how it's done: "Bad pictures are not made purposely. They're just accidents. But it happens so often, I guess you think it's an art with us." . . .

Lawmakers in Ky. In Special Session

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 9.—A special session of the Kentucky legislature has been called for tomorrow by Gov. Ruby Laffoon to discuss new revenue measures.

It is understood that no bills affecting the film or theatre industry have been prepared for submission in advance of the session, but industry representatives here view the special meeting with trepidation, convinced that the industry seldom escapes attention when the solons are looking about for new sources of revenue. The general impression here is that anything may happen.

Talk Singles With Circuits on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—The committee consisting of Ben Berinstein, Robert Whitson and H. J. Seiler, organized to work out a standard of single bills, met with executives of Fox West Coast and other major circuits here last night. The latter promised to join in the movement to end duals providing written assurance from 100 per cent of independent exhibitors can be secured. More than 90 per cent of independents have already signified their willingness to drop duals.

Shanberg Says Suit Against FWC Settled

West Coast had agreed to settle for full amount, approximately $488,000, with terms of payment still under discussion. He indicated he will give adequate time to complete payment, which will be in installments.

With this matter out of the way the Fox theatre reorganization will be speeded up, with indications the entire chain will be on a new basis by fall.

Monogram Insures Men

Monogram, through W. Ray Johnston, president, has taken out a group insurance policy upon all its home office and studio employees, as well as the Ritchey Export Co., foreign representatives, and all the 25 exchanges. The deal was handled for Equitable by Stebbins, Leterman and Gates.

Boone Mancall Resigns

Boone Mancall has resigned as advertising and publicity head of Majestic Pictures to reenter the publishing business. Mancall, before he went to Majestic, published a projection monthly. He will not be replaced at the present time.

Act for Early Revamping of Paramount

member of the Paramount board, from membership on the protective committee in order to disassociate himself from any single group of creditors prior to the submission of a reorganization plan, which must be approved by "various classes of creditors."

The committee's letter informs the bond depositors of the withdrawal of the $178,000,000 claim on the Paramount Building, New York which was filed against the bankrupt estate. The claim was the largest single item in the total of more than $282,000,000 of creditors' claims which were filed against Paramount. Withdrawal of the bondholders' claim resulted from the recent agreement worked out with the trustees in bankruptcy for Paramount which involves the issuance of new bonds in the reorganized Paramount for equal exchange with the old.

The committee's letter commends Kuhn, Loeb & Co. for the part it is playing in the Paramount reorganization and relates that $16,000,000 of claims filed against Paramount have been withdrawn or expunged to date, exclusive of the $178,000,000 bondholders' claim.

Differ in K. C. on Protection Changes

other distributors serving these theatres will join in.

W. A. Finney, Columbus, Loew's district manager, expressed resentment at the board's cutting the Midland's clearance in half. He said the house may go exclusive with the new season. He contends protection in existing contracts cannot be disturbed and the whole plan is illegal, adding the board cannot interfere with Loew's as it plays "its own pictures" (meaning M-G-M).

Barney Joffee, Tower manager, said he intends filing an immediate protest. W. D. Fulton, an independent, who had expressed opposition to revision, said its opponents among independent suburbaners are willing to comply for the present and give the schedule a chance to prove it is fair. All concerned profess a desire to see the cut-throat competitive situation cleared up.

All houses must within seven days after the effective date of the new schedule, which is June 10, file their admission scales with the clearance and zoning board. They will be notified of their classifications, according to the prices filed.

First runs with stage shows are to be deemed a dime less than the actual price charged.

Seeks More Clearance

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—Fox West Coast, on behalf of the Warfield here, has filed a protest with the local clearance board against the existing 56-day clearance clause, demanding 90-day clearance because of the double bill crisis involving major second runs.

Patman Bill Target of Attack in MPPDA Brief

bill "are calculated to obstruct rather than serve the object in view."

That the Patman bill would repudiate the NRA insofar as the industry is concerned and would "create a conflict of authority" thereby, is one of the principal objections made to it in the brief. The contention that the federal bill would "prevent the necessity of state censorship" is denied by Pettijohn, who points out that the measure does not abolish any of the six existing state censor boards, nor would it "prevent the creation of 42 additional boards should the remaining states see fit to establish them."

"It trebles censorship by adding federal supervision, both before and after production, to existing state and municipal censorship and establishes a national censorship identical in principle with European political controls which prescribe in advance what news may be printed and what films produced," the brief declares.

Other objections stated are that the measure is "confiscatory" in that it places no limits on the expenditures of the commission which it proposes to establish and the fees stipulated in the bill "would amount to more than $8,000,000 annually," which would have to be borne by the industry in addition to maintenance of Code Authority and existing state and municipal censor boards. The measure is also opposed as "discriminatory," "unenforceable," "impracticable" and "unconstitutional."

Pettijohn states in the brief that permission to file it was granted by Representative Patman, author of the measure, which is regarded as "dead" for this session of Congress, at least.

Darryl F. Zanuck, producing head of 20th Century which made the trio. The pictures will be released for resort dates during the summer and go into general release with the advent of the new season.

Zanuck so declared at a cocktail party given in his honor yesterday by Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists and the producer's partner in 20th Century, at the Stork Club, popular night spot and "speak" before prohibition but now turned restaurant.

The party was one of the most representative held in the industry in New York in many months. Well over 150 attended including the New York columnists, daily newspaper and photoplay editors and critics and trade paper representatives as well as the executive personnel of U. A.

Columbia Wins in Kan. Grievance Case

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 9.—The grievance board today found for Columbia against Charles Stanley's Columbian, Wamego, Kan., handing down a decision under which the former can either force the latter to fulfill his contract or bring suit. It was testified Stanley turned his theatre over to his father-in-law with the alleged intent of breaking his agreement.

Upon Glen Dickinson's explanation that the manager of the Varsity, Lawrence, Kan., disregarded his orders against free admissions, the complaint brought against his circuit by C. A. Schultz of Commonwealth Theatres was dismissed. Schultz was notified of Dickinson's promise that the offense would not be repeated.

DALLAS, May 9.—The case of Frels vs. the Jefferson Amusement Co. was decided today in favor of the former by the grievance board. The defendant will appeal.

Meyer, Nolan Better

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—Fred Meyer and John Nolan are reported rapidly improving at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

Goldstein Is Made Cleveland Manager

Harry H. Goldstein, formerly Paramount branch manager at Pittsburgh, was named Cleveland district manager, succeeding Edward Fontaine, by Neil F. Agnew, Paramount general sales manager, yesterday.

Fontaine, previously, had been made Chicago district manager, succeeding Charles Reagan, Paramount's new western division manager. Dave Kimelman former Pittsburgh salesman has been promoted to branch manager there.

Harold Rodner Returns

Harold Rodner returned yesterday from a nine-day trip to the coast where he set up a Warner club. Temporary officers elected to the studio club are William Koenig, president, and Kenny Wright, vice-president. Permanent officers will be named in June.

Reels Attain Full Freedom From Censors

M. P. P. D. A. general counsel, returned yesterday from a conference with Mayor Edward Kelly of Chicago at which a settlement of the newsreel issue was achieved. The details of the agreement, however, have not been disclosed, by agreement among the conferees.

Other states in which newsreel censorship measures have been repealed are Kansas, New York, Pennsylvania, and Ohio. Newsreel organizations, working quietly, are credited with achieving the elimination of the legislation, no announcement of which was made during the progress of the work.

Authority to Fill Vacancies on Boards

Replacement of the three code board members who have resigned will be made by Campi at its meeting tomorrow. The men who have withdrawn are O. H. Lee of the Minneapolis clearance and zoning board, John Elliott of the Cincinnati grievance board and Moe Streimer of the Manhattan, Staten Island and Westchester clearance and zoning advisory committee.

Next Tuesday Executive Secretary John C. Flinn will meet with 10 code secretaries of eastern boards and go over administration work and explain latest forms issued in connection with the code.

Estimate Board Acts Upon City Tax Bill

Mayor LaGuardia's tax bill designed to impose a levy of one-tenth of one per cent on bond brokers, factors and others doing a percentage business and one-twentieth of one per cent on the income of all other business passed the Board of Estimate branch of the Municipal Assembly yesterday. It is expected to yield $8,000,000 in revenue for the rest of this year.

Theatres are planning to protest on the ground that it discriminates against properties already heavily assessed as real estate when it comes before the Board of Aldermen.

Roach Talking Two From Laurel-Hardy

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—Hal Roach is considering two Laurel and Hardy features for M-G-M's program next season in addition to a series of shorts by the comedians. Roach is now conferring with Henry Ginsberg, who recently returned from New York conferences. Laurel and Hardy are represented with two features on the present schedule.

Atkinson Leaves Sunday

William E. Atkinson, president and receiver for Fox Theatres Corp., leaves for Denver Sunday to confer with Rick Ricketson on remodeling plans for the Isis, under lease to Ricketson. Atkinson returns sometime next week.

Independents Plan Fight to Protect Duals

several pages of photographs of theatre fronts showing the prevalence of duals and the methods used to advertise them was the opening gun in a campaign, it was stated.

The monopoly angle, the Federation says, will center in the fact that the ending of duals would mean the elimination of 200 features and the production of only about 300 yearly.

"If only 300 features are made a year," the Federation's statement goes on, "the cost of these pictures would be prohibitive and that in itself would cause the exhibitor to pay high film rental. The overhead required in the making of pictures when limited to only 300 features a year would be excessive and the cost would naturally have to be added to the picture."

Clearance to Stand As Is in St. Louis

Saturdays and Mondays will be the regular meeting days hereafter.

OMAHA, May 9.—One complaint has been received by the grievance board. It has been filed by T. C. Shipley of the WJMM Radio Theatre, Clay Center, Neb. Shipley charges George Werner has been operating the Orpheum there with merchants' tickets which are in effect cut-rates.

A new clearance schedule is in the air.

BUFFALO, May 9.—First case handled by the Buffalo grievance board resulted in an order to Ben Bordinaro, Olean exhibitor, to cease and desist from issuing two-for-one tickets. The first case scheduled to be handled by the clearance and zoning board involves overbuying.

A new schedule of meeting dates has been arranged. The grievance board will assemble henceforth on the first and third Mondays of each month. The clearance and zoning board will meet on the second and fourth Tuesdays.

CLEVELAND, May 9.—The fifth grievance complaint to come up here will be considered next Monday. Frank Gross charges Sam Barck, Market Square Theatre operator, with maintaining a 10-cent bargain hour from 6:30 P. M. to 7:30 P. M.

Requests for clearance changes are scheduled to come up tomorrow afternoon before the clearance and zoning board.

CINCINNATI, May 9.—Requests for clearance schedules based on admissions, double billing and added attractions are to come before the clearance and zoning board next Monday.

More Pittsburgh Duals

PITTSBURGH, May 9.—The Warner, 2,000-seat house, charging 25c-40c, is going to duals on May 17. The East Liberty will stick to duals, but the other Warner first run site, the Stanley, will continue on a single feature basis.

MPTO Hits at Dual Billing in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, May 9.—The day of double features here has about passed. Members of the M.P.T.O. of St. Louis have gone on record in favor of elimination of duals provided they are assured of the full co-operation of the various first runs.

It is understood the elimination plans are awaiting final consummation of the reorganization of the Ambassador, Grand Central and Missouri theatres. If control of those houses passes to the Snyder-Koplar interests and Fanchon & Marco takes over the management, it is believed they will favor a policy of single features in conjunction with shorts and news reels.

Loew's State has always favored single programs.

With F. & M. controlling the Fox and the St. Louis, which is scheduled to close tomorrow, it is possible that a new single feature deal will come very soon.

The M.P.T.O. has also gone on record as favoring exhibitor representation on the committee in charge of the Municipal Auditorium and Community Center Building. The fact that the auditorium management has been able to book some films in competition with theatres has caused unfavorable reaction in exhibitor circles. The theatre owners feel the municipal project should confine its pictures to technical or educational subjects.

Darrow Report Gets Departmental Study

House last week, together with the minority report written by John F. Sinclair, who resigned this week from the National Recovery Review Board, has been turned over to the attorney general, the Federal Trade Commission and the National Recovery Administration to be digested, it was learned today.

At the White House it was said the President unwrapped the several hundred page report and then decided it was impossible to read it without putting everything else aside for a number of hours. The report, it was indicated, is so complex that it could not be briefed unless two or three persons were put to work on it.

Rosenbaum Here on Cincy Code Problem

Irwins Rosenbaum, impartial member of the Cincinnati grievance board, arrived in New York yesterday for conferences with Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt, who comes from Washington tomorrow. Yesterday, Rosenbaum conferred briefly with Executive Secretary John C. Flinn.

Skip Advisory Meeting

Because no requests for changes in schedules were on file yesterday, the advisory committee for Brooklyn, Queens and Long Island did not meet.

However, several protests are on tap for Monday when the advisory boards for New Jersey and Manhattan, Bronx, Westchester and Staten Island meet.

Over 200 Reported Given Cancellation

throughout the country, it has been found that in several cases exhibitors who signed for only one theatre of a group they operate are sending in assessments for all houses. These checks are being held aside by Campi until it meets tomorrow to act on disposition of them.

According to the code, non-assentors have to pay for the upkeep of the code if they seek any benefits, including the 10 per cent cancellation, but they cannot file grievances or complaints on clearance and zoning. Campi officials are confident the full quota of exhibitor assessments will be on hand before the 30-day period expires on May 20.

Exhibitors who feel they are being taxed excessively can take complaints to grievance boards for adjustment.

Ruling on Cut Rates Is Asked by Cullman

The New York grievance board "Article V, Division E, Part 3, Section 1" dealing with cut rate tickets.

Cullman's letter states: "I do not believe the board is able to interpret intelligently the section described and I think it will be up to Washington to give them the appropriate and necessary ruling, viz: whether the giving out of cut-rate tickets for the placing of so-called advertising in windows is a violation of this section."

"Personally I believe it is entirely a subterfuge, and if this is allowed, we might as well have a free-for-all in the industry and forget the code."

Code Costs Are Hit By Gulf States Men

NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—Code assessments as they apply to smaller houses were hotly criticized at a meeting of the Gulf States Theatre Owners' Ass'n. Protests are to be forwarded to Code Authority.

Protests also were voiced against secret meetings of code boards. Members want the meetings open to recognized theatre owners and representatives of the press, with decisions open for inspection.

Members were urged to contribute toward a fund for legislative expenses.

Attorneys Agree to Delay Rogowsky Case

By agreement between Louis Nizer, defendant attorney, and Robert K. Rosan, counsel for the plaintiff, the adjourned hearing of Rogowsky Brothers' overbuying charges against Skouras and seven major distributors, scheduled for today, has been postponed until next Tuesday. Nizer will be in Washington today on another case.

The Rogowskys claim they have been unable to secure first run product of the defendant distributors for the Embassy, Port Chester.

Krellberg on the Mend

Sam Krellberg is recovering rapidly at the Polyclinic Hospital and expects to be out in two weeks. X-rays revealed he has a broken nose and a fractured shoulder. He was hit by a taxi Tuesday while crossing Eighth Ave.

Hit Bishop's Film Attack; Held Not Fair

give its support to so-called "clean" films which it had been asked to endorse and that the picture public, a large percentage of which is Catholic, would not support "clean" films when shown in local theatres. Both exhibitors and film men were practically unanimous in saying that the attack of the church on films would unfairly deprive them of considerable revenue. One exchange man said:

"We have several subjects that are clearly and unqualifiedly Catholic Church pictures. Various churches showing pictures in the city have refused to play these subjects. They have, likewise, refused to endorse them, so that they would 'draw' well if played in theatres. It is a well-known fact, too, that when the so-called cleaner pictures have been shown in theatres they have proved first-class flops because the public would not support them—the public being to a large extent composed of Catholics."

Another exchangeman said the attack of the church was entirely without justification. "Bishop Gallagher and his priests forget," he said, "that all pictures played in the city are twice censored before they are shown to the public—first by the National Board of Review and then by the local police censors. They cannot possibly be as immoral, degrading and corrupting as they are made to appear by this attack."

While some exhibitors said their business had been slightly affected by the Catholic drive, most of them were of the opinion that it would not affect their business.

Bishop Gallagher's appeal was read in all Catholic churches in the diocese last Sunday.

Women Hit Crime Films

PARIS, May 9.—Denunciation of American crime films was made today at the annual conference here of the Federation of American Women's Clubs. A committee was named to urge Hollywood producers to send abroad films more representative of American life.

No Action in Delaware

DOVER, May 9.—The Delaware Legislature has adjourned without taking action on either the censor or the tax bills aimed at films.

Shapiro Will Go West

William D. Shapiro, vice-president of Majestic and Boston franchise holder, is in New York for a few days and plans to make a trip to the coast shortly.

Allied to Meet May 21

Allied of New Jersey will hold its next meeting May 21 and every other Monday thereafter at new headquarters in the Lincoln hotel.

Fabian Is Seeking Manhattan Houses

Simon Fabian, co-receiver for Fox Metropolitan Playhouses, is negotiating for Manhattan Playhouses, which operates 18 theatres in Manhattan. While no papers have been signed, lawyers for Fabian, as well as Meyer & Schneider, Ben Sherman and Jack Steinman are now checking over details.

Fabian denied yesterday he was negotiating for anyone but himself and his family. He could not give an approximate date when the deal would go through.

Balaban on Board

Barney Balaban, B. & K. head, yesterday was named to Paramount's national theatre advisory council as Chicago district representative by Sam Dembow, Jr., vice-president of Paramount Theatres Service Corp. John Balaban, also of B. & K., was named as alternate.

The council, originally designed to include only six Paramount operating partners, each representing an important theatre division of the company, may be enlarged to include eight or more members, Dembow said yesterday. Already elected to the council in addition to Balaban are: N. L. Nathanson, Karl Hobbeltzelle, E. V. Richards and A. H. Blank.

St. Louis Feels Effect Of Church's Film Drive

ST. LOUIS, May 10.—The national "Crusade of Decency" sponsored by the Catholic Church is assuming serious aspects here.

Under the leadership of the city's Catholics, who make up some 65 per cent of the population, the general sentiment against objectionable pictures has reached the point where intelligent theatremen are beginning to take stock of the situation.

Some observers hold the decline in attendance is attributable only in part

Immoral Show Bill Gets Lehman's Veto

ALBANY, May 10.—The Quinn bill relieving the owner or license holder of a theatre, as well as performers and employees, of responsibility for the presentation of an indecent show has been vetoed by Governor Lehman on the ground the measure "would render ineffective the provisions of the penal law relative to immoral performances."

"It would open the way for comparatively safe violations by irresponsible tenant producers, with immunity to the principal financial beneficiaries of indecent productions," adds the statement accompanying the veto.

Phila. Group Plans Court Test on Duals

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—Independent exhibitors gathered here today decided to raise a fund to start a court test on a contract which includes a ban on dual billing. Conspiracy in restraint of trade will be alleged.

The case which brought the matter up involved duals only indirectly, but has caused considerable agitation. The meeting was not an M. P. T. O. session, but many who attended were M. P. T. O. members.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Any attempt on the part of administration officials to withhold the Clarence Darrow report will result in a demand for a Senate investigation of the NRA, it was threatened today by Senator Nye of North Dakota, who was instrumental in having the National Recovery Review Board established.

M-G-M Set to Make Films in England

M-G-M is definitely set to produce a number of pictures in England next season, Arthur M. Loew, head of the company's foreign activities, stated yesterday upon his return from a two-month tour of Europe.

Rulings of Code Boards Expected to Restrain Circuits' Moves

Numerous complaints filed with grievance boards throughout the country charging overbuying and excessive protection are expected to result in more advantageous buying terms for the individual theatre operator and subsequent run when new season contract deals get under way.

In this particular, the code is seen operating to the benefit of the "little man," even if indirectly, and to a great extent solves a problem that has vexed exhibitor-distributor relations for a long time, sometimes leading to

Warners Sued Over Lease in Sandusky

SANDUSKY, May 10.—Suit has been filed by the Seitz Theatre Co. against Warner for $369,315, claimed to represent an amount due on an unexpired portion of a 15-year lease on the State, which defendants turned back to the owners a short time ago.

In a previous suit, Judge Savord in Common Pleas Court recently awarded judgment to plaintiffs for 29 days' rental to cover the period intervening between the serving of notice to vacate and actual vacation, following abrogation of lease by the defendants.

Walter L. Golden, manager of the Riverside, Jacksonville, is winner of the fourth Quigley award for an exploitation campaign. The award was made for his work on "Nana." Insiders' Outlook

WHILE representatives of major companies cogitate about inclusion in exhibition contracts of a clause prohibiting their films from being doubled with any other feature, the dual billing situation evokes many provocative, as well as humorous slants in Hollywood. Shrewd commentators on business and human nature state that if the majors were seriously intent on eliminating the double feature practice a starting point unbeatable might be their own affiliated theatres. . . .

Many of the show shops operated by majors continue to present double bills, although a halt has been called on triples. In meetings, company operators have expressed willingness to stop dual billing, provided competitors also stop. Individual operators in their meetings have said ditto. Both independents and chain operators defend their own dual billings as a protective measure against the opposition and vice-versa. . . .

One astute showman, who alludes to twin bills as the "bargain basement," suggests independents and chain groups cease and desist duals—at the same time on the same day to bring about the results both desire. According to him, all that is necessary is for an official proclamation to be unfurled naming the day when both sides cease dualing; an armistice declared and from thenceforth, no dual billings. Another showman, not so sanguine about such a plan, although opposed to duals, naively inquired: "Who would blow the whistle to make the day and date official?" . . .

The Disney influence in the field of cartoons in color finds producers, practically one and all, doping series competitive with the Silly Symphonies for the new season. Exactly as there are more cartoons on the market today than the market can successfully emascuate, so goes the outlook in this direction for '34-'35. Word from New York has it some of the sales managers now busy figuring out what to have for '34-'35 are becoming wary. Cartoons in color, they say, might be swell, but (1) prints cost more, (2) they aren't novelties if everybody has them, (3) exhibitors are not inclined to stand rental hikes. . . .

A director, who has his office on the third floor of a studio building, was sending back story after story to the scenario editor for some reason or none. At wits' end, or nit-wits' end, story chief sent the director a note: "May I send, for your perusal, that well-known story, 'The Passing of the Third Floor Buck.'" . . . One definition of Hollywood: "The place where you are a genius if you know a little more than the next guy." . . . Definition of the picture business: "It's made up of a lot of *tsouras and a little of Skouras." . . .

Unaware that Hollywood advertising code applied to catchlines as well as photos, a studio, without having the Hays office pass on them, sent a batch of their catchlines mimeographed to a showman running a chain of theatres. Reading said catchlines, the exhibitor rushed to his typewriter and scorched off a letter to a company official. "If we'd only leave these press agents alone, they'd bring on censorship all by themselves," he said, plus more. . . .

Milwaukee Council O. K.'s But 24 Films

MILWAUKEE, May 10.—Of 85 films reviewed last year by the Milwaukee Better Films council, only 24 were classified as suitable for the whole family, according to a report submitted to the council's annual meeting by Mrs. Harold Smith, chairman of its preview committee.

Fourteen were rated as suitable for adults and young people, 16 for adults and young adults, and nine for adults only. Twenty-three, including Mae West's "She Done Him Wrong," were given no rating.

Mrs. A. A. Laun was elected vice-chairman of the council. The chairman will be appointed by the new president of the Milwaukee County Federation of Women's Clubs in the fall. Other officers elected were Mrs. Cyril Colnik, recording secretary; Mrs. L. B. Porter, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. E. E. Worthing, treasurer.

name in print, refused to go for quotable remarks, but has no objection to having the situation aired in print. This is what he had to say:

"It was about a year ago that Mr. Meehan, as the factor in control of 30,000 shares of the 60,000 KAO preferred shares outstanding, determined the rights of the company were to be more specifically recognized. What had happened prior to that traces itself more to a case of viewpoints than actions. It was more or less natural that RKO officials would approach company matters from the angle of the entire structure. It was just as natural that, with a large investment, the interests holding KAO preferred would insist that more KAO viewpoint prevail.

"That has now been worked out by arranging to give KAO independent officers whose interest rest in the company they represent.

"Insofar as operations are concerned, KAO is now being run as a theatre company should. I suppose in many instances Radio Pictures would prefer that we do certain things its way. In our dealings, however, we are proceeding as an exhibitor and are submitting any deals with Radio Pictures to the same considerations we would, and do, in negotiations with Paramount, Fox and other producing and distributing companies."

Refers to Daily Reports

In stressing Meehan's defined attitude against a sale of his stock, this spokesman, in reply to a question, referred to reports first published in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on March 23:

"Why should Warners or any others be interested in the stock? Control went to Meehan because 10 dividends on the common were passed. If dividends on the common are resumed, control reverts to RKO which owns the common. Where would the owners of the preferred be then?"

He offered no explanation, however, of where Meehan and his stock will be in the same eventuality.

Changes referred to concern Leon Goldberg, formerly of Goldman, Sachs who is now vice-president and treasurer of KAO, and I. E. Lambert, formerly a vice-president and general counsel of RCA Victor, who is now a vice-president, secretary and treasurer of KAO. They replace William Mallard and Herman Zohbel of RKO, the latter being slated for the presidency of all RKO subsidiary companies with the exception of KAO when meetings of the boards of these subsidiaries are held at a so far undetermined date.

Meehan invested in KAO preferred with profits he is reputed to have rolled up through sale of RCA stock. He averaged $108 a share in his KAO buy, places dividends not declared at an accumulated $18 a share and computes his total holdings at $4,000,000.

In some quarters, control of the KAO board is regarded as unsettled with 10 of the 13 members evenly divided between Meehan and RKO and the remaining three classified as

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Thin Man"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Smartly concocted for big audience reactions with a confident tempo and sly, boisterous humor, "The Thin Man" is one of the finer mystery melodramas.

Adapted from Dashiell Hammett's widely publicized novel, the film attains a quality highly prized in murder mysteries, that of nonchalant unfoldment, carefree surface action with volcanic smouldering underneath.

The story deals with the murder of Natalie Moorhead, mistress of an inventor, and the murder of the inventor, Edward Ellis. The suspects are the mistress' boy friend, Edward Brophy; the inventor's estranged wife, Minna Gombell; a stool pigeon, Harold Huber, and variegated others.

William Powell, a detective on a belated honeymoon with his wife, Myrna Loy, against his will is brought into the case and, by erudite deduction crammed with racy lines and crackling action, solves the mystery.

High spots are Detectives Powell and Nat Pendleton comparing clews while out walking with Miss Loy and her dog, the dog playing an important comedy role, and Powell's foregathering the socialite suspects at a banquet.

The love interest is carried by Powell and Miss Loy, and Maureen O'Sullivan and Henry Wadsworth. W. S. Van Dyke's direction is a model of plot movement and laughter. Hunt Stromberg's production is topnotch. All together, it is a swell, satisfying show that should do well.

"Merry Wives of Reno"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—"Merry Wives of Reno" is a farce comedy with a rambling story that is subordinated for gags.

The yarn deals with two wives who, disgusted with their husbands, go to Reno for divorce purposes and whose stricken husbands follow their spouses to Alimony Alley. Here they become involved in a tornado of gold-digging women, a wealthy rancher and his wife, racketeering bellboys and midnight parties all with no rhyme or reason, but with laughs to shake the ribs. Through a ruse by which the husbands contrive to put their wives in an embarrassing spot, the divorces are postponed and all ends joyously.

Everyone in the cast comes through nicely, including Margaret Lindsay, Ruth Donnelly and Glenda Farrell as the wives; Guy Kibbee, Donald Woods and Hugh Herbert as the husbands and also Frank McHugh, a bell boy, and Roscoe Ates, a hick. The direction of H. Bruce Humberstone concentrates on gag situations.

Scissoring out footage and some unnecessarily suggestive lines should make this a satisfactory comedy.

Looking 'Em Over

"Cheaters"

Smoothly worked out crook story, handsomely mounted, but not endowed with much dramatic action. Emotional restraint in the drawing room manner is carried to an extreme, and is relieved only occasionally by William Collier, Sr.'s, comedy touches.

William Boyd and June Collyer get out of prison the same day and meet on the ferry from Oakland to San Francisco. He sends her to a boarding house with a $20 bill and resumes contact with Collier and Dorothy Mackaill, who are cultivating the friendship of a wealthy Englishman, Alan Mowbray, at Santa Barbara.

When Boyd finds a woman confederate has walked out on him, he looks up Miss Collyer and gets her to pose as his sister. The idea is to have Mowbray propose to her, so they can all share in a divorce settlement later. The plan goes wrong when Boyd falls in love with Miss Collyer.

The story is presented on a luxurious background of homes, gardens and polo fields. The eye appeal is splendid, but it leaves the emotions unruffled.

Short Subjects

"Gulliver Mickey"

(Disney-United Artists)

This Walt Disney subject is in the traditionally entertaining Mickey Mouse manner, and sets forth Mickey's version of what happened to him when a shipwreck brought him among the Lilliputians as a mousy Gulliver. Harried by the tiny people's army and navy, they flee from their attack against Mickey at the approach of a giant spider monster, whom Mickey engages in combat. The story is told to an array of Mickey's nephews, one of whom dangles a toy spider in front of him, terrifying Mickey, just as he is about to vanquish the imaginary monster. Good to the last laugh. Running time, 8½ mins.

"Little Feller"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—A one-reeler designed to wring a tear or two from any audience. "Little Feller," produced by Pete Smith, shows Chic Sale, an aged cowboy, giving the pony belonging to his grandchild, long dead, to another cowboy. With little action, the story gains its appeal through the touching dialogue written in rhyme, enacted by Sale. Strong emotionally, "Little Feller" will be remembered long after it is seen. Running time, 8 mins.

Dubinsky Labor Row Remains in Deadlock

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 10.—The Dubinsky labor situation here remained hopelessly deadlocked today after a three-hour session attended by President William Elliott of the I.A.T.S.E.; Clyde Weston, Illinois representative; Frank Dowd, Kansas City business agent, and an I.T.O. committee headed by Jay Means, head of the exhibitor group.

Elliott rejected Ed Dubinsky's demands for reclassification of his two downtown houses on a level with the suburban scale, with a reduction of manpower from seven to five men. Dubinsky agreed to Elliott's proposal for arbitration, but opponents cannot agree on the method of designating an impartial third member of the arbitration board. At an operators' meeting Elliott thrashed out internal matters agitating the Kansas City local.

"neutral." RKO representatives on the board include David Sarnoff, Herbert Bayard Swope, M. H. Aylesworth, J. R. McDonough and Paul M. Mazur. Meehan representatives are Peter J. Maloney, Malcolm Kingsburg, Orrie R. Kelly, Edward J. Flynn and J. E. Eddy. The "neutrals" presumably are W. G. Van Schmus, Frank Altschul and Donald David.

While in a numerical vote, Meehan might be outvoted, this is held to be remote in view of the wedge he occupies in the preferred stock set-up and the reported disinclination on the part of RKO to further sharpen the issue.

Overbuying, Protection Curb Widens

damage suits, anti-trust actions and official investigations.

Those are the views of several distribution executives with no affiliated theatres to consider, who profess a willingness to give the small buyer a break, but have not been in a position to accord him equal treatment with the large circuit buyers because of the latter's ability to dictate the situation.

Where relatively small buyers have felt themselves discriminated against, the distributors' explanation has been that the circuits are entitled to first choice of product, long protection or other preferential treatment because of buying power and because of higher rentals than the small exhibitor has been willing or able to pay.

How Circuits May Be Affected

Now that grievance boards have the authority to delve into contracts, it is argued circuits may find themselves in a less fortuitous spot since investigation may reveal that, generally speaking, the chains are not paying the high bracket rentals commonly supposed.

Reports from the field indicate that in instances circuit heads are already evincing a readiness to grant second runs shorter protection. One specific example is cited wherein an exchange manager called to a circuit head's attention the unreasonableness of six months' protection in favor of a first run, whereupon the latter agreed to cut the clearance in half.

Once circuit contracts are laid before the grievance boards and their terms become a matter of record, it is pointed out there will be more such evidences of voluntary compromise and concession, and in the end this cannot but help the "little man."

Expect Details on Union Check Today

Results of the Department of Labor checkup on the percentage of service employees in Loew's and RKO's metropolitan theatres who are members of Local 118, Theatre & Amusement Employees' Union, are expected to be made known from Washington today.

The checkup was completed Wednesday. If the report shows a majority of the service employees to be members of the union, local exhibitors are expected to recognize the organization and negotiate new wage scales with it. Lack of a majority would be sufficient to continue an "open shop" for service employees.

K. C. Meetings Are Set

KANSAS CITY, May 10.—Local boards have announced their meeting schedule as follows: Clearance and zoning, Tuesdays at 1:30 P.M., whenever there is business to transact. Grievance, Wednesdays at 1:30 P.M. Indications are the grievance board will meet weekly as scheduled, while the zoning board will meet only on call after zoning matters now in hand are disposed of.

Attorneys' Delay Stirs Ire of Grievance Board

Several members of the New York grievance board are disturbed over the agreement arrived at by Louis Nizer and Robert R. Rosan to postpone the adjourned hearing of the Rogowsky Brothers' overbuying complaint against Skouras and seven major distributors without their knowledge.

The grievance was heard Tuesday and put over to yesterday by the board when it found that additional evidence was necessary. Rosan, attorney for the Rogowskys, and Nizer, counsel for the exchanges, on Wednesday got together and postponed the adjourned hearing until next Tuesday because Nizer had to go to Washington yesterday on another case.

Board members were notified by mail yesterday of the agreed upon delay, but some of the appointees claim the right to put off cases from one day to another rests with the board and not the defendants or attorneys.

One of the board members who came from Washington to sit on the case did not receive the mailed notice and went to the grievance quarters prepared to sit on the session when told of the postponement. He was so upset about the delay, he stated:

"Who is running this board? The attorneys or the members?"

In Philadelphia on Tuesday, Charles Stieffel, attorney for the Venice, So. Philadelphia, asked for a postponement of the case brought against a theatre by Jay Emanuel.

The board insisted on hearing the evidence, but later adjourned the hearing. At the same time the board issued a "no-postponement ruling."

A similar situation developed in New York Tuesday when attorneys for Skouras and the seven major exchanges involved in the Rogowsky Brothers' complaint asked for a delay. The board insisted the case be heard, and it was.

Campi Is Expected To Delay Decision

Ashley Amusement Co., from a decision on April 19 of the Milwaukee grievance board. The Milwaukee board has ruled that 30 Warner pictures must be turned over to Saxe Amusement Co.

The board has 15 days in which to hand down a decision after hearing the appeal. Ben Koenig, secretary of the Milwaukee board, has already submitted minutes of the hearing in addition to exhibits. Attorneys for Saxe, Vitagraph and Ashley will submit briefs today, which will take some time to study.

Up for discussion at the morning session today is a report on the Hollywood situation as a result of Executive Secretary John C. Flinn's and S. R. Kent's visits to the coast. A report will be made on all assessments received from exhibitors. Three code board members who resigned recently will be replaced.

Walter Vincent will act as alternate for Ed Kuykendall, Edward Golden for W. Ray Johnston and Neil Agnew for George J. Schaefer. Schaefer, who was in Chicago yesterday, returns today. Leslie E. Thompson will preside.

For the May 18 session, two appeals are scheduled. One is that of Fox West Coast which was ordered to turn over to the Garfield in Alhambra, Cal., 20 pictures. The second is that of a case tried in Boston earlier in the week.

Asks Clarification For Cancellations

BUFFALO, May 10.—Clarification of the cancellation clause is being requested by Jules H. Michael, chairman of the Western New York zone, MPTO. Distributors should be required to notify exhibitors of each release date, he holds, since exhibitors who live outside distribution centers have no way of knowing and thus cannot give notice within the required 14 days.

obtaining a Paramount contract the company failed to deliver. James Coston, Nate Wolf, Irving Mandel and Jack Osserman, acting for Charles Reagan, members of the local grievance board, gave no reasons for their rejection of the case.

Bartlestein also has an overbuying complaint against the Schoenstad Bros. which has been set for a hearing next Tuesday. The board is waiting advice from Campi on this.

There is a possibility that Bartlestein will delay his appeal to the national board pending a decision on the overbuying charge, since the thought prevails here that both cases have dovetail angles, with the overbuying decision possibly clarifying both.

Clearance Case Hits Frisco Second Runs

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—Granting of Fox West Coast's demand for extension of protection from 56 to 90 days over major second runs which are playing duals will affect all second runs, including the Golden Gate and Nasser houses, it is claimed. The case is scheduled to be heard next week.

The clearance and zoning board has already decided that the Modesto at Modesto, operated by Midland Theatres, Inc., shall have seven days' clearance over the Turlock, operated by E. P. Lawes, provided the Modesto theatres commence exhibition within 35 days of the opening day in San Francisco. The complaint was filed by Lawes.

E. W. Stokes, Eastmont Theatre, Oakland, has filed a complaint against Golden States Theatres' Capitol and Granada charging violation of the clause relating to price cuts and premiums.

Lawes is defendant in a complaint filed by Dan R. Nunan of the New Turlock Theatre, Turlock. Nunan claims Lawes is overbuying.

Report Delay Brings Threat To Quiz NRA

Commission and Recovery Administration for digesting because of its length, declaring that it consists of but 6,000 words, according to information given him by Darrow.

Underground gossip at the Capitol today was to the effect that the Darrow report was much stronger even than anticipated and that its publication would give Republicans better ammunition for their attack upon the administration than they have had at any time since President Roosevelt assumed office.

The report is rumored to hold that self-government of industry has been a failure and to recommend much stronger governmental control with equal representation for the government and for large and small business. Even this, it is said, is much less virulent than the original draft of the report but is still too strong for the pleasure of administration officials, and the "digests" which will return from the agencies to which the document has been sent, unless Nye's threat is potent, will gloss over some of the outstanding charges and recommendations of Darrow.

Protests on New K.C. Clearance Indicated

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 10.—Excitement over the new clearance is in high pitch. Inquiries by independents at the code board office today regarding the period allowed to file protests indicated protests from that source will be forthcoming. The I.T.O. at a meeting today briefly discussed the new plan but deferred its opinion because exhibitors are still unfamiliar with all provisions of the new schedule, copies of which were being mailed to them today.

Zoning board members hold the plan is not a new setup, merely a revision of the old clearance. They say they had full authority to make revisions as price changes since the old clearance went into effect constituted revision in themselves. This view is challenged.

Schwartz Asks Rule On Advertising Date

A. H. Schwartz of the Century circuit has submitted a petition to the New York grievance board asking for a general ruling on the number of days required before a subsequent run can advertise a picture. This is expected to be heard next Tuesday in addition to the adjourned grievances of the Roxy against the Mayfair for cut rate ticket distribution and the Rogowsky overbuying complaint against Skouras and seven major distributors.

Zanft Partner of Lesser

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—John Zanft has become a partner of Sol Lesser in the production of the series of six George O'Brien features for Fox release.

Joint Action On Play Dates Is Considered

Eastern exhibitor groups campaigning against next season's unannounced sales policies may consolidate their protest campaign with an Allied-sponsored one which will single out designated play dates as a principal grievance, it was learned yesterday.

The move may materialize at Allied's two-day meeting of directors and regional vice-presidents which opens tomorrow at the Congress Hotel, Chicago. Also to be discussed at the Chicago gathering are methods of financing an independent production deal to be sponsored by Allied. Sidney Samuelson, Allied president, stated yesterday that offers from six independent producers had been received. It is understood that no action will be taken unless the Chicago meeting develops a plan of financing.

Scheme Held Favored

Consolidation of the sales policy protest campaign with Allied activities is understood to be favored by the eastern exhibitor groups as the best means of giving the movement a national aspect. The decision to concentrate protests on designated play dates and percentage terms is reported to have been made with realization of the futility of campaigning against sales policies before distribution companies have formulated and announced them.

Samuelson declined to comment yesterday on the joint protest probabilities, while Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., merely made the admission that several of the exhibitors who attended the initial protest meeting at the M. P. Club earlier this week would also attend the Chicago Allied meeting. A number of Allied representatives from New Jersey and Maryland attended the meeting at the M. P. Club, although the bulk of the attendance was comprised of members of the M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware and the I.T.O.A.

Samuelson, Walter Littlefield, Nathan Yamins, Abram F. Myers, Herman Blum, Edward Ansin and Arthur Price comprise the eastern Allied contingent leaving for Chicago today.

Strike in St. Louis Puts House on Duals

Lowry as master of ceremonies, has resulted in inauguration of dual bills, effective today.

George Tyson says a two-week notice was given to musicians on April 20 when it was planned to drop stage shows May 3. It was found that Lowry could not arrive until the week starting May 4 and a new notice was given on April 26. The musicians wanted to be paid until May 17.

DeMille on Film Jury

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Cecil B. DeMille has been named a member of the jury for the International Film Festival to be held in Vienna from June 16 to July 2. Ernst Lubitsch is president of the jury.

Who? What? When?

Three advisory committees assist the main code boards for New York. One covers Manhattan, Bronx, Staten Island and Westchester. Another covers Brooklyn, Queens and Long Island. The third covers New Jersey. Biographies of members of the latter follow.

JOE LEE, representing affiliated national distributors, made his first contact with the business about 25 years ago touring with the Joe Lee Stock Co. and talking behind screens in picture houses as off-screen voice which accompanied silent films in those days. Later, he spent several years in the independent field, selling and producing.

In 1915, Lee joined Paramount as salesman for New Jersey and continued with the company for nine years before he left to go over to Fox, where he has been for the past 10 years as New Jersey sales manager. He has held the title of sales manager for the New York exchange since 1932. His new post embraces sales for Greater New York.

EDWARD SCHNITZER, representing unaffiliated distributors, started in the industry in 1922, when he was associated with Sam Seidler. He then worked for Commonwealth Pictures Corp. for one year and joined Producers Distributing Corp. for one year. This was followed by a post with Fox, where he remained eight years as branch manager for New York and Brooklyn territories.

In 1932, Schnitzer joined World Wide as New York sales manager and continued until Fox took over distribution. On March 20, 1933, he joined Columbia as head of the New York exchange.

DON JACOBS, representing affiliated first run exhibitors, was born May 2, 1896. He began in exhibition as an all-around man at the Garden, New Haven, where he was usher, bill poster and utility man. From this job he trekked to New York to become poster clerk for General Films. Later he returned to New Haven to join M-G-M as shipping clerk and rewinder. His next position was with Paramount in New Haven as shipper, assistant booker and projectionist. A short time after, he rejoined M-G-M in his home town as booker and office manager.

Jacobs then decided to return to exhibition and lined up with the Hoffman Brothers circuit in New Haven as general booker and assistant general manager, a post he held for five years until Warners purchased Hoffman's interests. On July 4, 1931, he was transferred to Warners home office as booker. He left to become assistant to George Skouras in New York. Shortly after he was sent to the Fox West Coast office in Los Angeles as assistant to Charles Skouras.

He quit Skouras to rejoin Warners, where he was made assistant to B. E. Hoffman, general manager of the New England group the latter had turned over to Warners. On Oct. 14, 1932, he was appointed zone manager for Warners' Newark theatres and holds that job today. He is married and has three children.

HARRY K. HECHT, representing unaffiliated first runs, was born in Galatia, Austria, in 1882. When he came over to this country, he bought a restaurant and continued in this business until 1906 when he added exhibition to his food dispensary. He took over the Nicolette in Paterson as his first house and then became a theatre builder. He erected the Majestic, Paterson, in 1908, with his brother-in-law, Max Gold, and when the outlook became brighter the Hecht & Gold circuit was formed.

In 1914, the company built the Garden, Paterson, now leased to Warners. So much for his experience in Paterson with the exception of the fact that the Plaza, Paterson, also is one of his situations.

The scene now shifts to Passaic where in 1907 he opened the Nicolette, which was followed a year later by completion of the Pleasant Hour. In 1912, he built the City and in the same year the Garden. In addition to these houses, he operates the Rialto and Palace in this city. Hecht owns the Ritz restaurant in Passaic, reputed to be the largest there.

Other theatres owned by Hecht include the Rivoli, Rutherford, which he built in 1920 and leased to RKO in 1930 under a 21 year lease; the Regent, Kearny, which he built in 1916 and in 1930 leased to RKO for 21 years.

He is a director of the People's Bank, one of the largest in Passaic; a member of the National Corp., a holding company in Passaic; he is active in Jewish organization work and local social activities, is a Shriner and an Elk and has three children, Florence, Sidney J., and Harold Lloyd Hecht.

All theatres are under separate corporations of which Hecht is president.

ADOLPH J. RETTIG, representing unaffiliated subsequent runs, attended Seton Hall College in South Orange, N. J., and left there to play professional baseball with Connie Mack's Athletics. A short experience on the diamond and then Rettig became chief of the sales tax division of the U. S. Internal Revenue, Fifth District of New Jersey. He quit this job to take over the management of the Strand, East Orange, N. J., and later dropped the managerial duties to open his own house, the Ormont, on Dec. 1, 1931.

He is a member of Allied of New Jersey and is better known around as "Otto."

LEON ROSENBLATT, second exhibitor representing unaffiliated subsequent runs, dates his start in the picture business as far back as 25 years ago when he acquired the Star on Staten Island. He subsequently acquired the Plaza and Lyceum in Bayonne, N. J.; the Empire, Port Richmond, L. I.; the Orient, Jersey City; Hightstown, Hightstown, N. J.; Maplewood, Maplewood, N. J.; Richmond, Stapleton; Westwood, Westwood, N. J.

All of these houses are operated by him now. He is a graduate of the Vasila Alexandra College in Galatz, Roumania, and has A.B. and B.S. degrees.

He is a member of Allied of New Jersey and the ITOA.

to oversteering. They believe the falling off in receipts is a reflection of a substantial segment of the public's dissatisfaction with the type of pictures being turned out in Hollywood. As proof of this fact they point to the growing sale of tickets at places offering other forms of entertainment, such as the St. Louis Municipal Opera.

The Third Order of St. Francis, Catholic organization, is circularizing its membership to join the "Crusade of Decency." Members are urged to mail their pledges in support of the movement to their local theatres or to the M.P.P.D.A. in New York. One exhibitor is said to have received at least 50 of these cards. The signers not only pledge themselves to stay away from theatres showing undesirable pictures but also to do all in their power to arouse public opinion against their exhibition.

Fred Wehrenberg, president of the M.P.T.O. of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois, said he is personally answering protests as they come in.

Catholic Periodical Bans Five Features

BUFFALO, May 10.—The Queen's Work, Catholic periodical, edited by Father Daniel A. Lord, has black-listed five features and will continue to ban others "until the producers abide by their own moral code signed in 1930." The five listed to date are: "Riptide" (M-G-M); George White's "Scandals" (Fox); "Glamour" (Universal); "Finishing School" (Radio); "The Trumpet Blows" (Paramount).

Others will meet Catholic displeasure nationally each month by students of the Sodality's Spiritual Leadership movement, the Rev. Alfred J. Barrett, S.J., moderator of the Student Sodality Conference of Western New York, states.

Father Barrett also has requested exhibitors, who, he said, are "compelled to exhibit pictures which are railroaded to them through the monopolistic system of block-booking and blind-selling," to send their protests to him under their own letter-heads. Such letters he said will "be added to a file being collected by Father Lord for presentation to President Roosevelt, in an effort to break the producers' selfish monopoly."

Protestants also are taking up the battle against what are termed evil influences in pictures. The Rev. Frederick D. Raymond, pastor of Roland Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church in suburban Lackawanna, declared:

"The time has come when, in spite of the fact that there are many clean, honorable people engaged in the industry, and some clean pictures are being produced and shown, Christian people should determine the question of their patronage of the motion picture house—not upon the quality of a few decent pictures shown at intervals—but upon the probable results of the activity of the industry as a whole upon the youth of our day and nation."

"Rothschild" Strong, But B'way Slips

Broadway grosses sagged all along the line, with "The House of Rothschild" in its seventh week at the Astor the only attraction doing real business. The take was $19,600.

Two holdovers were just fair. "Tarzan and His Mate," with a stage show at the Capitol, went down to $25,482 in its second week and "Stand Up and Cheer" took only $61,800 in its second stanza at the Music Hall. The Paramount was down to $22,000 on "The Witching Hour." This falls under the Rivoli mark, $28,440, with "We're Not Dressing."

"Hitler's Reign of Terror" did a fine $12,500 at the Mayfair and was held.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending April 30:
"WE'RE NOT DRESSING" (U.A.)
RIVOLI—(2,200), 35c-99c, 7 days. Gross: $28,440.

Week Ending May 1:
"HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD" (U.A.)
ASTOR—(1,012), 55c-$2.20, 7th week, 7 days. Gross: $19,600.

Week Ending May 2:
"STAND UP AND CHEER" (Fox)
RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL—(5,945), 35c-1.65, 2nd week, 7 days. Stage show. Gross: $61,800.

"SHE MADE HER BED" (Para.)
RIALTO—(2,300), 25c-65c, 7 days. Gross: $8,000.

Week Ending May 3:
"TARZAN AND HIS MATE" (M-G-M)
CAPITOL—(4,700), 35c-1.65, 2nd week, 7 days. Stage: James Melton, Sisters of the Skillet, Pickens, Sisters, Humbler orchestra and others. Gross: $25,482.
"AS EARTH TURNS" (Warners)—1 day
"TRUMPET BLOWS" (Para.)—6 days
PALACE—(2,500), 25c-75c, 7 days. Stage show. Gross: $10,100.

"WITCHING HOUR" (Para.)
PARAMOUNT—(3,700), 35c-99c, 7 days. Stage: George Jessel, Ethel Merman and others. Gross: $22,000.

"JOURNAL OF A CRIME" (F.N.)
ROXY—(6,200), 25c-65c, 7 days. Stage show. Gross: $19,100.

"TWENTY MILLION SWEETHEARTS" (Warners)
STRAND—(2,000), 25c-1.10, 7 days. Gross: $23,084.

Week Ending May 4:
"LOST PATROL" (Radio)—4 days
"BOTTOMS UP" (Fox)—3 days.
RKO CENTER—(3,700), 25c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $6,200.

Week Ending May 7:
"HITLER'S REIGN OF TERROR" (Jewel)
MAYFAIR—(2,300), 35c-85c, 7 days. Gross: $12,500.

Grosses Tumble in Providence Houses

PROVIDENCE, May 10.—Grosses tumbled here during the week with all the houses taking a licking for some reason or other. Even the Paramount found George Raft's popularity unable to cope with general conditions and "The Trumpet Blows" brought in but $4,000, $2,500 under the par figure.

The best comparative business went to Fay's with "Romance in Trinidad" and a revue, "Harlemania," heading the stage offerings.

Total first run business was $31,000. Average is $41,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending May 3:

"THE TRUMPET BLOWS" (Para.)
"TWIN HUSBANDS" (Chesterfield)
PARAMOUNT—(2,300), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $6,500)

"Rothschild" Gets $10,000, Montreal

MONTREAL, May 10.—Despite the fact that many Montrealeers are engaged in moving to different homes around May 1, the main stem theatres turned in a good week, attractions at two houses being held over for a second week.

The Princess hit a big total of $10,000 with "The House of Rothschild" and "Chance at Heaven," the take being $4,000 above average. The Capitol also registered $11,000 with "Riptide" and "Hold That Girl" and this was well above the line. Loew's was content with $10,000 with "From Headquarters" and vaudeville, while the Palace was able to collect $9,000 with "Wild Cargo" and "Sing and Like It."

Total business was $39,000. Average is $36,500.

LITTLE MAN. WHAT NOW?

"Hans Fallada tells his story with so much tenderness and humor that it becomes amazingly new and almost unbearably touching. Its background is German, but its universal relevance to the deplorable conditions with which so many people are contending today is unmistakable."
—The Forum

LITTLE MAN. WHAT NOW?

"To come to luncheon, and then after I read H. Fallada's 'Little Man, What Now?' we could lay it down before I had finished it, it being an absorbing tale of two pitiable, courageous, loving persons; and wrote with deep and poignant beauty."
New York Herald Tribune.

LITTLE MAN. WHAT NOW?

"The tenderness, the poignance, the tragedy of this beautifully simple story are not less present until the reader finishes the book, lays it down, and asks himself the question in the title—'Little Man, What Now?' Perhaps Herr Fallada wrote this book to express the strong and humane to ask themselves this question. The book seems to answer itself as beautifully things often so oddly are. There is no crude appeal to sympathy and melodrama. The book's impact is far stronger because it is so quiet so simple, so human. The excitement of the book is the clear and gay humor with which it is told. Here Fallada tells how he lived close to some of this book before war came. This is a timely saying, when I mean is that any man can invent sorrow, but Fallada presents him from experience. Perhaps the fundamental virtue of this fine story is its confidence of sympathy; its softening effect upon our hard crust of daily existence."

M-G-M has signed Evelyn Laye, British musical comedy star, who will come to America about Sept. 1.

Hollywood On Parade

By BILL SWIGART

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—MITCHELL and DURANT have worked together since they were boys of 14 and 12. Neither has ever had another partner. . . . ALBERTINA RASCH has an unerring faculty of being able to tell whether a girl can dance by watching her walk across a room. Has only missed on three during her long career. . . . WERA ENGELS, now acting in American pictures, was born in Germany, educated in China, makes official home in Paris and is a British subject.

VINCE BARNETT said he signed a new 30-year contract with 10 minute options. . . . Now that GEORGE BRENT is unmerged from LADY CHATTERTON, he finds himself at liberty to fly, play handball, badminton, etc. . . . LOU GREENSPAN, torch-bearer for Universal, takes credit for discovering the name of the tune Nero played while Rome burned. It was "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes." . . . They say PAUL LUKAS started out to become a publisher and apparently quit when his father asked him to become a book salesman. Imagine how many books Paul could sell today if he started pushing door bells!

JOEL MCCREA is one of the few actors who needs no make-up for the camera, except when he plays society roles, then only a small dash of powder is required. . . . LOUIS FRIEDLANDER, for many years a roustabout around the Universal lot, has established himself as a full-fledged director through direction of "Vanishing Shadow," a serial. His next assignment will be "Tailspin Tommy," another serial centered around aviation of which Louie himself is an authority. . . . Not to be outdone by his contemporaries, CHESTER MORRIS will soon be in New York to fulfill some personal appearance dates before returning to Universal.

ROBERT Z. LEONARD gets "The Green Hat" for M-G-M, starring Constance Bennett. Picture was originally slated for GLORIA SWANSON's comeback until she was loaned to SAM GOLDWYN for the feminine lead opposite GARY COOPER in "Barbary Coast." Now she's out of that, too. . . . MARY BOLAND is planning her 29th trip across the Atlantic. . . . ADOLPHE MENJOU nominates SAM HARDY as Hollywood's worst dressed man. . . . MAE WEST continues to be the most sought after sponsor of this, that and the other thing. In one day's mail she received requests to sponsor a new brand of cigar, playing cards, with her picture on the back, and a new kind of fountain drink.

One more job of buttlng and LEO CARROLL goes on a one-man strike. No sooner had he delivered this ultimatum to M-G-M, the studio assigned him the part of a medico in "The Green Hat."

Publix Unit Renamed

DOVER, May 10.—Publix Virginia, Inc., changed its name in the Delaware State Department here to Lynchburg-Perry Theatres, Inc., New York City. The Corporation Trust Co. was the incorporating company.

The new Lynchburg-Perry Theatres Co. controls the Paramount, Academy and Isis at Lynchburg, Va., which have been operated by Hunter Perry since last September under an agreement with the trustee in bankruptcy for Publix Enterprises which made Perry a managing partner of Paramount for the former Publix Virginia circuit.

Cobb May Do a Feature

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Plans are under way at Hal Roach Studios for Irvin Cobb to do a feature providing the series of eight shorts for which he was signed last week are successful. Cobb will pen his own story, if the deal goes through. The first of the two-reeler series goes into production this week, under the title of "Fisherman's Luck." James Parrott is directing.

Fox Holds Stock Group

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Following their first chance to display their talent before executives in a group of four plays presented at the studio, Fox is planning to retain 34 stock players under contract.

Rosita Moreno Signed

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Fox has signed Rosita Moreno for four Spanish pictures for the new season program.

Radio Seeks Revue Idea

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Radio executives are on the lookout for an original idea for their "RKO-NBC Review," which was announced for their program several weeks ago. Staff writers have been mulling the idea over for some time with no definite results. Story ideas will be welcomed from employees or free lance writers.

Jungle Troupe at Para

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—M-G-M's "Jungle Red Man" unit, consisting of George Seitz, Harold H. Noice and Joe Cook, have arrived at Para at the mouth of the Amazon. Here they will assemble equipment for the 1,000-mile trek up the river to Manaos, thence to Yarawate, 700 miles inland.

Miriam Hopkins Better

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Miriam Hopkins, fully recovered from a broken ankle, returns to Paramount this week after a three-week absence that has delayed production on "She Loves Me Not."

E. I. Sponable on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—E. I. Sponable, chief sound engineer for Fox in New York, is here. He will stay one week to confer with studio executives and inspect equipment.

Dorothy Reid Returns

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Dorothy Reid, absent from independent production for the past two years, has resumed with Monogram and will appear in Vera Brown's story, "The Red Head."

Allow Cornwell Claims

ST. LOUIS, May 10.—Claims totalling $410,748 have been allowed against the estate of Frederick L. Cornwell, real estate operator, attorney and former exhibitor, who died in February, 1933. Claimants were bondholders on the 15-story hotel and theatre property he constructed in Moline, Ill.

Gordon Hoeys Dead

DENVER, May 10.—Gordon Hoeys, 46, for four years auditor for RKO exchange, is dead. Death was caused by pneumonia. Hoeys resigned from the company two years ago. He had just returned from a trip around the world and was visiting in Denver while planning a trip to Mexico. His home was in Los Angeles.

Todd, Kelly Winding Up

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Thelma Todd and Patsy Kelly will make two comedies in a row for Hal Roach, which winds up their contract with the studio. The first, "I'll Be Suin' You," went into work Monday. As yet there has been no talk of a new ticket for the comedienettes.

Miss Barnes Misses Boat

Binnie Barnes, under contract to Universal to appear in "There's Always Tomorrow," missed a boat in Southampton on Wednesday, according to word received at the "U" home office, but will sail on the Aquitania tomorrow.

Carroll Coming East

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Earl Carroll, accompanied by Bill Pine, Cecil Carle and Tom Rooney, leaves Sunday night on a three-day airplane trip in connection with Paramount's "Murder at the Vanities." They will visit 10 key cities. The trip will end in Boston.

Sloman Rejoins "U"

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Edward Sloman resumes his career as a director after an absence of more than a year with Universal where he will direct "There's Always Tomorrow," his own original.

Maris, Campillo East

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Paramount is sending Mona Maris and Anita Campillo to Astoria for Ben Hecht's "Crime Without Passion."

"UNDERWORLD"

BEN HECHT and CHARLES MacARTHUR writers and producers

Hecht and MacArthur are two of the day's most gifted and successful writers of stage and screen plays. Ben Hecht has authored such hits as "Viva Villa", "Underworld", "Scarface", "Topaze", "Design for Living". Charles MacArthur has written such film successes as "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford", "Paid", "Sin of Madelon Claudet", "Rasputin". Together they have written such stage and screen smashes as "Front Page" and "Twentieth Century".

Arthur Rosson and Albert Johnson, famed scenic designer.

Madison Kids Like Action, Fun, Cartoons

MADISON, Wis., May 10.—According to a film survey conducted among 1-100 school children by the Madison Council of Parents and Teachers, westerns, comedies and cartoons, and mystery and murder pictures are preferred by the majority of fifth, sixth and eighth grade pupils.

"Little Women" headed the list in all three grades, with "Spitfire" and "Roman Scandals" rating second and third. "Alice in Wonderland" was mentioned by only seven per cent of the sixth graders among the pictures they had seen recently.

Parents' advice plays a small part in the selection of films, according to the survey. In the eighth grade, this advice ranked with trailers and stills outside the theatres, with four per cent. Sixth graders ranked parents' advice third, with eight per cent, and fifth graders second, with 14 per cent.

The percentage of children mentioning various types of pictures in the various grades follows:

Fifth grade, westerns, 57; comedies and cartoons, 53; mystery and murder, 36; sixth grade, comedies and cartoons, 52; western, 51; mystery and murder, 36; eighth grade, mystery and murder, 45; comedies and cartoons, 40; westerns, 35.

Among other films mentioned by all three groups were "Duck Soup," "George White's Scandals," "Take a Chance," and "Hips, Hips Hooray." "The Ninth Guest" was mentioned among the first 10 of one group.

Albany

ALBANY, May 10.—Kings for a Day TONY RYAN and RALPH PIELOW were in charge of a large gathering of barkers and their guests at the weekly luncheon Monday at the De Witt Clinton Hotel.

The May issue of the Barker was distributed among members.

Judge E. G. ROGAN, surrogate of Albany County, was guest of honor. He enumerated in jocular fashion many of his experiences while presiding as judge in the local police court. Judge ROGAN, who was given the honor of associate member, is also exalted ruler of the Albany Elks.

MIKE KALLET of Oneida, who was scheduled to serve with TONY RYAN as king for a day, was unable to put in his appearance, and RALPH PIELOW, first assistant barker, pinch-hit very capably. PIELOW proved his ability as a monologist. These luncheons are disclosing hidden talent.

Entertainment was provided by JEAN BEDINI and his performers, who are appearing at the Capitol this week. The show was arranged with the cooperation of Barker W. W. FARLEY.

ALEX SAYLES, chairman of the house committee, reports progress on the headquarters in the Harmanus Bleecker Hall, and definite housewarming date has been set for May 26. Plans for a swanky affair are now in the making, which will be climaxed by the presence of Gover-

Want 8 P. M. Curfew

MEXICO CITY, May 10.—The government is considering a petition by the Mexican Actors' Union that film shows after 8 o'clock be banned so that legitimate theatres will get a break. Two more legitimate theatres are considering going to a film policy. Stage shows are exempt from municipal taxes, but film houses are taxed.

"Gordon of Ghost City," serial, "David Harum," "Tarzan," "Flying Down to Rio," "Return of Casey Jones," and "Dancing Lady," were among the first 10 in one of the three groups.

Types of scenes, according to the frequency with which they were mentioned, were: Exciting but not gruesome, 32 to 42 per cent; amusing and entertaining, 19 to 30 per cent; morbid or gruesome, 14 to 20 per cent; highly emotional (sad), 15 to 16 per cent; musical (singing and dancing), six to nine per cent; romance and sex, four to eight per cent; sports or hunting, five to nine per cent.

About 40 per cent of the children reported they attended once a week, and 11 to 15 per cent, twice a week. The great majority, according to the survey, go with their friends, with 28 per cent of the fifth graders going with their parents and only 14 per cent of the eighth graders going with their parents. Most of them go during the afternoon.

Takes Cleveland Theatre

AKRON, May 10.—H. L. Malone, Akron exhibitor, has leased the Penn Square, Cleveland.

Decides Kentucky's Shows Up to Towns

LOUISVILLE, May 10.—Fourth class cities may, by ordinance, "license, tax, regulate or suppress" film shows either on Sundays or during the week, Assistant Attorney General H. Hamilton Rice has ruled.

This was a ruling on the new state law doing away with that part of the old Blue Laws which prohibits Sunday pictures. At the time of passage of the act the legislature was unwilling to accept amendments which would permit town authorities to prohibit Sunday shows.

Theatres Shift in Iowa

DES MOINES, May 10.—Theatre changes throughout the state continue to be numerous with few closings. Carter & Lambert have taken over the Monte at Monticello. J. Langley is the new manager of the Iowa at Dow City. The Nashua at State Center has reopened under the management of C. G. Hein. Mrs. Lillian G. Hein has opened the Monroe at Monroe, Ia. The Orpheum at Fairfield, Iowa, has changed ownership. L. G. Gaines is the new proprietor.

Two closings reported are the Farmington at Farmington, Iowa, and the Cincinnati opera house at Cincinnati, Iowa, the latter temporarily.

Fined for Sunday Show

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 10.—The manager and six employees of Warner's State were fined a total of $56 when arraigned here for operating on Sundays.

Change Robinson Title

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Warners have changed the title of Edward G. Robinson's next from "The Mysterious Mr. X" to "The Man With Two Faces."

Instigating of Censors Is Hit By Kuykendall

COLUMBUS, Miss., May 10.—Censor-baiters, both exhibitors and publicity men, who exploit sensationally and stir up, sometimes deliberately, the churches, reform elements and club women, are severely condemned by Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president.

Recently, he says, a campaign on a nudist picture in a middle western key city was based chiefly upon the opposition from reform elements, and, as a result, exhibitors are now forced to combat a campaign for city and state censorship.

The public relations department of the M.P.T.O.A., said Kuykendall, has been a great factor in promoting good will and combating outside dangers and will continue to come to the aid of the industry.

Alex Gets Third Post

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., May 10.—A Alex, for some time treasurer of the American and State, has been named manager of the American, in addition to his treasurer duties at the two local houses. George S. Ellis continues as city manager of the two theatres, controlled by A. G. Constant of Steubenville.

Krims Get Detroit Spot

DETROIT, May 10.—The Krim brothers have leased the Vendome, dark for some time, and will reopen it after improvements have been completed. They will call it the Sun.

Variety Club Chatter

nor LEHMAN. Chief Barker BUCKLEY is now making arrangements to import "name" talent from New York.

Barker JACK SWARTOUT, who has been designated as one of the kings for a day for May 14, has fully recovered from a recent illness. He will be assisted by Ed DORWALDT.

Plans are being discussed to hold a golf tournament the latter part of July.

Buffalo

BUFFALO, May 10.—Meetings of the Variety Club have been held in abeyance by the absence of Dave Miller, chief barker and manager of the Universal exchange, whose mother is critically ill in Cleveland.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, May 10.—Ed KUYKENDALL, M.P.T.O.A. president, honored Ten No. 8 with an unexpected visit. After a short talk at the weekly luncheon, he was invested by Chief Barker Frank Hensler with the title "first honorary member" and presented Card No. 13 (for luck) and the barker pin. Following the initiation, DICK BIECHELE made sure the national prexy got well acquainted with the club rooms the two days he was in town.

COL. RUBY GARRETT, member of the City Council and Chamber of Commerce attorney, reminisced about the World War, and other features made the weekly luncheon interesting, thanks to Kings SAM ABEND and EARL JAMESON of Exhibitors' Film Delivery.

More than the usual quota of visitors at the meeting included: H. M. WILCOX, Erpi vice-president, New York; HUGH OWEN, Dallas, and STANLEY HAND, Chicago, Erpi sales executives; LOUIS HYMAN, Principal Pictures, New York; C. B. SAVAGE, Los Angeles; BYRON SPENCER, former City Councilman and Fox theatres trustee attorney; E. VAN HYNING, Iola, Kan., exhibitor.

Chief Barker FRANK HENSLER called a business meeting for Monday night in the club rooms, followed by a social get-together.

The following names have been posted as accepted for membership: NAT HECHTMAN, Hollywood Advertising; SAM BROWN STOLL, M-G-M;

BEN ADAMS, Warner; FRED GREENBERG, Warner; PAUL HANNON, Paramount; JACK RENFRO, RKO; JOSEPH STARK, Paramount; J. ROY YOUNG, Paramount.

HARVEY B. DAY, field representative for Educational's "Terry Toons," was a club visitor and host to a party of friends, including WARD E. SCOTT, Fox district manager, at dinner in the Muehlebach grill.
